Local consuls shall acquire and give any information as to roads, hotels and other matters of interest in their localities to members of the League calling upon them in person or by letter; keep State officers informed from time to time by reports; perform such duties as the latter may require of them, and use all efforts to promote the interests of the League and bicycle riders in their vicinity. Consuls' term of office shall expire January 1, each year, but the office not to be declared vacant until a successor is appointed; they may be removed by vote of board of officers, for cause.

Original Article IV. shall read Article VII., and shall omit all of that which pertains to the duties of secretary-treasurer which is provided for in Article IV., as per these amendments.

ARTICLE VII.

The chief consul shall make a report at annual meeting of division and upon his retirement a supplemental report covering the official acts of his term of office.

Article VIII. shall read as follows: —

ARTICLE VIII.

The expenditure of the funds of the division shall be subject to the direction of the board of officers, provided that the chief consul and secretary-treasurer shall be authorized to draw upon said funds of the division for the expenses of their offices; an itemized account of such expenditures to be made at each annual meeting.

Original Article V. shall be Article IX., and shall omit the words "three members each, and shall be appointed by the chief consul," and have the following inserted in their place: "as many members as the chief consul may see fit to appoint." The month "September" shall be changed to "January."

ARTICLE IX.

The standing committees shall consist of as many members as the chief consul may see fit to appoint. They shall hold office for one year from the 1st of January, and until their successors are appointed. The committees shall be Rights and Privileges, Highway Improvement, Railroad Transportation and Division Racing Board.

Article X. shall read: —

ARTICLE X.

The chief consul, vice consul and secretary-treasurer shall constitute the executive committee of the division.

Article XI. shall read: —

ARTICLE XI.

At the meeting of the board of officers, two-thirds of the members shall constitute a quorum.

Article XII. shall read: —

ARTICLE XII.

The chief consul may call special meetings of the board of officers, and shall do so upon the written request of not less than three members of the board. At these meetings no business can be transacted except such as is specified on the call.

Original Article VI. shall be Article XIII., and in place of the word "secretary" on the 13th line shall insert "special committee on nominations." This article shall cease with the words "declared the nominees" and the remaining part shall constitute Article XIV.

ARTICLE XIII.

An annual meeting of the division shall be called by the chief consul during the months of June, July or August, to be held for the transaction of division business, as a State meet of wheelmen, race or road meet, and for the discussion of matters pertaining to bicycling; such annual meet to be decided by majority vote of division board of officers. Sixty days previous to this meeting each member of the division shall be supplied with a blank for nominating officers, which members, not expecting to be present at meeting, will fill out and mail to special committee on nominations, sealed and marked on cover "Nominations," same to be recalled if member is present at meeting. This ballot will be counted together with votes of members present, and the two names for each office having the largest number of votes shall be declared the nominees.

Article XIV. shall be changed to read as follows: —

ARTICLE XIV.

The nomination of officers made at the annual meeting, shall be published in the official BULLETIN, four weeks before election, and a committee appointed by the chief consul, shall send to each member not later than the 15th day of October, a blank ballot containing the names of all the candidates. The ballots shall be received up to the 15th day of November, 12 M., noon, and immediately thereafter be counted by the committee appointed.

Original Article VIII. shall be Article XV., and shall be changed to read as follows: —

ARTICLE XV.

Any wheeling club in this State that shall have in its By-Laws a provision requiring three-fourths of its active members to be members of the League of American Wheelmen, and that shall file annually with the secretary of the L. A. W. a certificate thereof, shall become a League Club and entitled to all the privileges accorded to League clubs under the L. A. W. Constitution. League club representatives shall be elected by such clubs at the first meeting in October of each year, the membership on the first day of October to be the basis of representation, and any club failing to renew its membership on or before the first day of July of each year, shall cease to be a League club and its representatives on the board of officers shall thereupon cease and determine.

Original Article VII. shall be Article XVI., and shall read as follows: —

The order of business at regular summer meeting shall be:

1. Minutes of previous regular or special meetings.
2. Report of chief consul.
3. Report of secretary-treasurer.
4. Reports of committees.
   - (a) Rights and Privileges.

WISCONSIN DIVISION BOARD MEETING.

At the board of officers' meeting of the Wisconsin divison L. A. W., the reports of the retiring chief consul and present secretary-treasurer were rendered as follows:

Retiring Chief Consul's Report.

It is fitting that the chief consul of the Wisconsin division, should, at the close of his administration render an account of his stewardship and express his indebtedness to his brother officers, for their earnest and effective co-operation during his administration.

When, in the year 1893, the division did me the honor to intrust the conduct of its affairs to my hands, it was at the close of the most successful year in the League's history. My predecessors had raised the membership to five hundred and four, the highest point then attained, and behind them was a record of success, which left further advancement scarcely to be anticipated. At the close of the first year, in spite of every endeavor, but owing partially to the financial condition of the country, the membership in Wisconsin declined to about four hundred and fifty, and when the division, in the face of this decline, stood unanimously for the re-election of the, then, board of officers, it was an expression of confidence which was to complimentary and generous to ever be forgotten.

Efforts were renewed, and at the 1894 meeting of the board of officers, a resolution was passed permitting the chief consul to organize a Good Roads League for the State, under the anspices of the Wisconsin division League of American Wheelmen.

On Jan. 22, a banquet was held at the Hotel Pfister which was an unqualified success, and the League found the good roads organization so active and so thoroughly alive to its duties, that the League is to be congratulated most heartily upon the success of the movement made possible by them.

The immense publicity and the broad policy followed by the League in this matter, redounded to its advantage, drawing to it the very best class of our citizens, and building up the membership from four hundred and fifty to nearly one thousand one hundred, an advance unparalleled in its history, and of such a substantial character, that it should be a matter of great satisfaction to all. The advance in membership gave to the division a successful influence with other wheelmen, and through them a power in legislation before unknown. For a year an effort was made by the Milwaukee board of aldermen to pass an ordinance against wheelmen, and never was a bill more energetically pushed by its originators. In spite of this, however, the League of American Wheelmen succeeded in holding it in check for a time, and finally wholly preventing its passage; a triumph of which establishes the prestige of wheelmen, not only in Milwaukee, but gives us much power throughout the State.

Two movements have been made which will redound to the advantage of the League hereafter; one being of the census, which indicates a wheeling population in the State of upwards twenty-six thousand, and which gives us a means of communication at all times with wheelmen in all sections; and the preliminary work on the road map which will probably appear during 1896, a task in a State of the magnitude of Wisconsin which is little appreciated by those unfamiliar with its immensity. Thousands of miles of roads have been ridden and recorded, and the data now in the possession of the League lays a solid foundation from which the whole map can be completed.

The racing circuits in the State have been so creditably conducted, that much enthusiasm exists for this side of the League's work, and gives promise, owing to the constantly increasing interest of the general public, of being even more effective the coming year.

A debt of gratitude is due from the chief consul to the Secretary-Treasurer Martin Rotier, to whose tireless, persistent and energetic efforts, to whose hearty co-operation and to whose good advice much of the phenomenal success of the League during these two years must be attributed.

The Wisconsin division was most ably represented at the national assembly in New York, and the State was honored by the selection of your chief consul for the second vice-presidency of the League, which gives you representation on the executive committee of three, in whom centres the control of the League of American Wheelmen throughout the nation.

To the board of officers and chairman of the various committees, the appreciative acknowledgements of the chief consul, is not only due, but most gratefully extended, and for the unanimous assistance of the local consuls throughout the State, it must be said that never was a more sturdy co-operation evinced for any organization than has characterized them.

To the new chief consul, Mr. Brown, to the secretary-treasurer, Mr. Rotier, to their efficient assistants, the board of officers, and to the committees, permit me now to intrust the affairs of the Wisconsin division, League of American Wheelmen, and to congratulate the organization upon the unquestioned qualifications of these gentlemen for the responsibility. They have my implicit confidence, and I share with the organization the pleasure of anticipating their able administration.

Very truly yours,

A. CRESSY MORRISON.

Secretary's Report.

The report which I had the pleasure of submitting at the annual meeting of members last August, so fully covered the doings of the Wisconsin division during the past year, that I feel it scarcely necessary to render another so extensive, as it would be but a repetition of the other.

The great increase in membership need scarcely be commented upon. It is an evidence of the lively interest wheel riders take in the organization, and the good work which has been done by the officers, committees and local consuls.

President Willison set the total membership mark at 40,000 when the season opened up last spring, and we now have less than 2,000 to get, to reach it. Your secretary, in the official columns of the first BULLETIN published last spring, said: "The Wisconsin division enters the new League year with a resolute determination to reach the 1,000 mark in its membership this season." This resolution immediately became contagious, and local consuls everywhere helped to bring to a realization even a higher mark in membership than we dared look to. A year ago this month we had 424 members, while to-day we have 1,095. Our total membership this year is made up as follows: 356 renewals of old members, 2 renewals of lapsed memberships, 6 transfers from other divisions, and 732 new members, from which one is deducted for a transfer to another division. The New York division is the only one that passed our mark of 275 per cent increase over last year's membership. The fact that at the last national assembly a ruling was made that a membership in the League should run for a year from the date of his renewal or application for membership, has shown a large comparative increase in new members during this fall, and we can look forward to a time when our membership will never show a marked decrease at any period of the year, because expirations will become uniformly distributed, instead of at one period of the year as heretofore.

I should like to have the board discuss and decide to-day the advisability of renewing our offer when the renewal season opens up next April, of paying out of the division funds a renewal fee to every member who brings in two new applicants for membership with his own renewal blank. This offer cost our division last spring $61, and brought in one hundred and thirty-three new members, bringing back to our treasury $200 90. On the face of it this certainly looks like a good investment and a profitable offer, and I will favor its adoption again unless a discussion on this subject may prove it to be unwise for other reasons.

Our list of lady members was considerably increased when Appleton came in last month with eighty-two new members. Among them were seven ladies, which now gives us a total of sixteen.

Your secretary has been preparing a revised list of League hotels in the State, and only those who fill out and return a special form of a blank which is sent them, will be listed with the rates to wheelmen.

By the aid of local consuls your secretary is also compiling a list of desirable touring routes which will be published if this board will appropriate money for it, or appoint a committee to solicit advertisements to pay for the expense of issuing.

DEC. 20, 1895.

MARYLAND DIVISION.

The regular meeting of the board of officers of the Maryland Division, L. A. W., assembled at the Maryland Bicycle Club House at 8.30 P. M. with Messrs. Sams, Mott, Applegarth, Zimmerman, Linton, Brooks, Gwynn, Sharratts, Niles and Carr present, and with Chief Consul Sams in the chair.

The minutes of last meeting were read by Secretary Carr and approved.

The report of ex-Chief Consul Arnold was read and accepted.

The report of the secretary-treasurer, showing the total receipts, $547.08, and total disbursements, $446.50, leaving a balance on hand of $100.58, was read and approved.

Mr. Rufus W. Applegarth, chairman of the rights and privileges committee, reports that all of this division's members who have sustained accidents by reason of the neglect of others, submitted to him by the chief consul, have had their cases considered, and a number of them have been compromised to their satisfaction, and all that have been tried, have resulted in judgments and recovery, excepting the case of Louis P. Hapel against George Bauernschmidt, which was tried Dec. 20, 1895. In this case the defendant obtained judgment for the reason that the plaintiff's witnesses were out sworn. In the case of John M. Ramming against Bankert, judgment was obtained for the plaintiff of $21 on May 14, 1895, and the case of Charles H. C. Foard is still pending. The report was ordered by the board to be published.

A committee was appointed for the purpose of auditing the accounts of the treasurer for the past year, consisting of Messrs. Applegarth, Gwynn and Arnold.

Mr. Albert Mott, ex-chairman of the racing board, made an oral report.

Mr. Albert Mott was elected delegate to the National Assembly.

The following resolution, offered by Mr. Rufus W. Applegarth, was unanimously adopted.

Resolved: That the delegation from the Maryland Division, L. A. W., be instructed to use all honorable means and efforts upon their part to re-elect Mr. A. C. Willison for president of the L. A. W., in view of his valuable and successful administration of the office for the past year.

Mr. Albert Mott then offered the following resolutions which were unanimously adopted.

First. Resolved, By the board of officers of the Maryland Division, L. A. W., that the committee on highway improvement be requested to investigate the charters of all turnpike companies in the State of Maryland, which charge toll on bicycles, with a view to ascertain the special authority of each so to do, and to report the result together with the conditions of the roads and their surfaces, and whether there is anything in the charters of each where means can be legally undertaken to have such charging roads put into a more serviceable condition for vehicles of all classes.

Second. Whereas, Certain lines of transportation have decided to make a charge for bicycles carried as baggage when accompanied by owners with first-class passage tickets.

Be it resolved, By the board of officers of the Maryland Division, League of American Wheelmen, that all cyclists are strongly recommended, as a matter of self protection, to patronize with their business of freighting and travel (whether for business or pleasure, and whether accompanied by bicycles or otherwise), the Baltimore & Ohio R. R., the Western Maryland R. R., the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic R. R. and such other transportation lines in the State of Maryland, as make a practice of carrying bicycles free of charge, under the conditions named in the preamble, and wheelmen are also specially recommended to patronize the United States Express Company for that class of business. And be it further

Resolved: That the bicycle dealers and manufacturers of the State, and all contributing trades, are specially urged to co-operation by ordering their supplies of goods by the common carriers mentioned, and to ship goods by the same.

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be published in the L. A. W. BULLETIN AND GOOD ROADS, and in the newspapers of the State of Maryland.

Third. Resolved, By the board of officers of the Maryland Division, L. A. W., that the chief consul be authorized to offer on behalf of the Division as a prize, to the local consul, who, by the first day of September, 1896, sends to him the greatest number of eligible applicants for membership (not renewals) in the division, one first-class bicycle of a standard make, having an established retail value of $100; to the local consul who sends him the second greatest number by the same date, one bicycle of an established retail market price of not less than $75; and to the one sending the third greatest, under the same conditions, one bicycle of an established retail market price of not less than $60. Provided, no prize shall be awarded for less than twenty applications.

Upon motion the secretary was directed to send copies of the three preceding resolutions to the papers in Baltimore City and to the L. A. W. BULLETIN AND GOOD ROADS for publication.

A draft of new constitution for this division was presented by Mr. Mott, and the same was referred to a committee, consisting of Messrs. Sams, Mott and Brooks, with instructions to report at next meeting.

Motion that the chairman of the rights and privileges committee be requested to prepare his report for publication was carried.

Meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock.

DEC. 21, 1895.

NEBRASKA.

I hereby announce the following appointments of local consuls for the Nebraska Division:

H. B. Peters, Grand Island, Neb.; C. B. Coffin, Ord, Neb.; A. R. Miller, Columbus, Neb. Yours fraternally,

A. R. EDMISTON, Chief Consul.

LINCOLN, NEB., Jan. 2, 1896.

LOCAL CONSULS.

Kansas Division.

It is very essential that you comply with my request in circular letter of Dec. 18, 1895, regarding the selection of a League hotel in your city, for this State is going to have a racing circuit in the fall of '96, and the hotels that are fortunate in securing the League contracts will be largely patronized.

Send me the name of the hotel, the reduced rates that will be made to members, and I will forward contract.

By complying with the above request you will greatly oblige,

Yours resp't'y,

W. W. WEBB, Chief Consul.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to Monday preceding this date, and published in accordance with Article III of the constitution.

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published and to report errors and omissions to the secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at noon on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

QUERIES AND ANSWERS

J. N. Brown, Milwaukee, Wis., asks:

Which are the better kept cities, those in Europe or America?

Ans. We should like to be patriotic but feel that it is best to be truthful. American cities are not models of neatness. Paris is said to be the cleanest city in the world. Every morning 2,000 male and 600 female scavengers, divided into 149 brigades, turn out to perform the toilet of the capital. The men work from four o'clock in the morning to four o'clock in the evening, less two hours off for meals, or ten hours a day. The women are engaged in the morning only.

C. M. King, New York:

It is said the electric lamp for bicycles, referred to by our correspondent will be placed on the market and advertised soon. Bicycle tapers were advertised in the [illegible] of Dec. 13, 1895.

Willie and His Wheel.

BY J. A. KOONS.

We have a fine new cycle, home,
It is our Willie's pride,
And when the weather's clear and dry
He takes it out to ride.
He starts off at a humming rate
Along the city streets,
Before he goes so very far
An obstacle he meets.
The curb stands still but he goes on
And takes what's called a header.
And when they picked him up
They thought he was a "deader."

Time swings his scythe, and night and day
He reaps his victims by the score.
Death still pursues his gory way,
And shall till Time shall be no mower.

My Friend the Forty-Niner.

BY OMIKRON P. ROE.

I love the man whose silver speech
In measured English accents flows,
And oh I believe me, he's a "peach"
Whose vocal organ is his nose.
I love that tongue, the Teuton's boast,
Whose very accent sounds like pain;
But the talk I like to hear the most
Is the picturesque profane.

PROSPECTIVE BLISS.

Oh, I'm jes' a little niggah,
But, I'm gittin' little biggah,
An' I'm gwine to work foh wages bimeby;
An' I tell you, now, mah honey,
I'se a-gwine to save mah money
An' buy a wheel an' make her fly.

I do chores foh Dr. Rogers,
He's one ob dem mean old codgers
'At links a niggah don' cut any ice;
But sometimes he's gone a minnit
An I take his wheel an' spin it,
An' you bet yo life I tink hit's nice.

When I get mah wheel I'll ride it
Like de debbie is astride it,
An' I'll do de other scorchers all up brown,
An' I'll ride with mah Miss Phœbe,
An' oh, sakes alive! won't she be
De gladdes' little callud gal in town.

Borrowed Greatness.

On a journey the wheel is a very for-Tunate thing to have, and yet there
Is no denying it has to bor-
Row legs when it wishes to get there.

BRAKES AND BLOOMERS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I am an old Star, 45x24, and safety rider and weigh 200 pounds. I have never seen or used a perfectly satisfactory brake except the toe of my shoe between the forks. I coast every hill. I have toured through the northern part of Pennsylvania with 35 pounds of baggage, a 30-pound wheel; total weight, 270 pounds, and never had any trouble in controlling my wheel, but have run my front tire over 8000 miles and it looks nearly as good as new and shows no sign of wear from foot braking. It only requires a little judgment in applying your foot.

I should like to add a word in favor of the bloomer costume. I have been on several century runs where ladies have ridden, some in skirts, some in bloomers, and the bloomer girls always finished and in much better condition than their skirted sisters.

It is by far the most sensible costume for ladies for all-round riding. If they wish to leave the wheel they can carry a skirt on the handle bar as my friends do. A lady is a lady no matter how she may dress.

REGARDING PUNCTURES.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

If I am correctly informed, front-wheel tires are least likely to puncture, which is no doubt due to less load. If such is the case there are two ways to protect the rear with its heavier load. One, by thicker tires at a cost of diminished resiliency, and the other by larger diameter of tire or wheel, or better, both.

As increased diameter of wheel and tire gives a greater surface of ground contact, the pressure per square inch is less, and the less the pressure the less the likelihood of puncture.

I note that No. 73,345 has ridden five years on pneumatics without a puncture. Would it not be interesting to have an article from him stating distance ridden and sizes of wheels and tires?

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I notice what "Excelsior" has to say in your last issue regarding lamps. It occurs to me that the new gas, acetylene, might solve this problem. THOSE AWFUL NEW YORKERS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

My career on the wheel began with the old bone shaker, twenty-seven years ago, and I have ridden pretty well every kind of wheel up to date. The best part of my riding has been done in crowded cities, principally London and New York; and I can safely say that my brake has saved me many a time. I am now riding a safety, in New York, without a brake, and miss it very much. This brings me to a subject that I think might be ventilated with advantage in your valuable columns, viz., the non-observance of any of the courtesies of the road by drivers in New York.

Anybody, who is accustomed to wheeling through London, cannot fail to be struck with the difference. No driver in London ever thinks of stopping or making a sharp turn without a signal, so that the drivers behind him may know what he is about to do, and accidents are avoided. The absence of these signals in New York makes wheeling very much more dangerous than it need be, especially if one rides without a brake.

I have on more than one occasion nearly been upset by a driver suddenly turning down a side street, without any warning, just as I was about to pass him.

It surely seems a very small thing to ask that drivers should give notice of their intentions, as at present they do not in many cases even look around to see if the way is clear.

THE BICYCLE TAX.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I desire to say a few words on the question of taxing bicycles. In the first place most owners of bicycles return the same for taxes and thus pay their share toward maintaining the roads. In the second place if you tax bicycles, you would necessarily have to tax all vehicles, and those who now want the former taxed would object very loudly. This city had a vehicle-license law a few years ago, which was but short lived, as it was knocked out in the courts. Therefore I don't think a bicycle tax, which is a vehicle tax, would hold in law.

THE CHICAGO CYCLE SHOW.

WHEN Mr. Shakespere of Avon, England, startled his little neighborhood by stating that "the play's the thing," of course he had not seen the modern cycle show.

Although Chicago had, last week, several "plays," the real attraction was at Tattersalls, the same being a large livery stable on Sixteenth street.

Never was the horse more conspicuously displaced by the bicycle than on this occasion.

Tattersalls was a building quite similar to Madison Square Garden in New York, except that it is a comparatively cheap affair and located in a very unlovely part of Chicago, but the hustling business man of that town never lets himself get off the track for trifles, and so what was lacking in location and elegance was promptly made up in printer's ink (which we may be permitted to remark is the ink that rules the world).

To be sure, there were bicycles and all that belongs to them in the greatest profusion, but the real sight was the crowds of people who turned out to see.

Imagine seven regiments of soldiers turned loose and moving at random in a single building already more than half filled with exhibits.

Now imagine, say four thousand of these clothed in the time-honored petticoat and all going in every direction, each intent on capturing the elusive "souvenir" and you have a faint idea of the scene at Tattersalls on every evening of last week.

Freaks.

The great rivalry among cycle makers has led to many unusual efforts in the advertising line.

One firm had a tall negro, six feet eleven, whose height was emphasized by the addition of a "plug" hat and a "Prince Albert" uniform. Two others had "fat boys" dressed in bicycle costume. There was some rivalry as to which was the larger, but so long as they both weigh over a thousand pounds we will simply remember them as "great." We were informed that the two exhibitors wanted to "shake" to see which would have both the "boys," but the management wouldn't permit them to get together on account of the floor.

Two other exhibitors showed dwarfs whose duty it was to hand out literature to the admiring visitor.

Another freak was a "sure enough" Indian chief, whose warlike buckskin and feathers attracted no little attention. He was a very good-natured looking old fellow, but his warwhoop was something terrible, and as he fondled his tomahawk the writer confesses to a feeling that wasn't entirely comfortable. A large dog which had saved somebody's life was another attraction.

Bloomer Girls.

A half dozen young women wearing the now famous "bloomers" were distributed about the place as employees of various exhibitors.

As everybody who saw them seemed to have an opinion of their own we refrain from expressing ours.

Exhibits.

Those of our readers who want the details of construction of the numerous machines will, no doubt, send for the catalogues which we are mentioning weekly in the L. A. W. BULLETIN. Many of these contain more pages than a copy of the L. A. W. BULLETIN does, hence we could not attempt to give details here.

Few Radical Novelties.

The bicycle show of a few years back contained much that was of a revolutionary character. The recent Chicago exhibit was notable for not having in it a great amount of the problematical.

The man who thinks he can juggle with God's laws and get something for nothing is by no means extinct, but he isn't appearing at the cycle show so numerously as of yore.

It is true that the Chicago show had at least one exception to this hopeful tendency, but experience seems to be the only effective school, and people who are lame in their philosophy are not apt to be thankful for adverse criticism.

Two-Speed Gears.

There are several of these which look to be practical and there will, no doubt, be a considerable demand for them.

Cranks.

There is one which is curved and straightens as the pressure is applied, thus making it longer and giving an increased leverage for hill climbing. Another has an elbow joint that straightens and gives additional leverage in the same manner except to a greatly increased degree.

Wooden Handle Bars.

Several firms exhibit these and it will be entirely consistent with a belief which the writer has held and talked for many years to say that they ought to become more or less popular. They have been several times tried and abandoned, but now the call is for short handle bars of large diameter, so that the yielding nature of the timber will not be so objectionable.

The wooden handlebar is elastic, and should be popular with those who "live" on the wheel.

Wooden Frames.

The quality in wood which makes it desirable for rims, guards, and handle bars is its sole objection when considered as a material for frames.

There were several wooden frames shown, the most notable of which was hollow, and was made up of a series of thin strips of wood glued together. It was very stiff for a wooden frame.

Speed Indicators.

There are two devices now on the market (there have been several), which indicate to the rider the speed at which he is going at any given moment.

One of these keeps a little bell ringing while the speed is kept up to a certain point which may be predetermined. The other shows constantly the speed which is being traveled, anywhere between one and three minutes to the mile.

Tires.

A pneumatic tire "which cannot be cut open with an ax" was much looked at. It has a skeleton made of steel wire which offers enough support so that it may be ridden even when full of punctures.

Tire Repairs.

With the many plans for repairing tires, the tires which don't need repairs if they are punctured, and the tires which cannot be punctured, it would seem that the pneumatic trouble was nearly at an end. In addition to the many means of repairing ordinary punctures there is now a device by which a quick repair may be made on the road, even though the tire were cut entirely off.

In this line much is being done in the attempt to get a saddle which will suit everybody. We dare not at this stage of the game predict the result, but should anyone fully succeed in such an attempt, we may next expect dentists to supply ready-made sets of teeth.

More from New York.

NEW YORK CYCLE SHOW.

At Madison Square Garden on Jan. 18, will open an exhibition of bicycles and accessories such as has never been seen in this country.

We say this with full knowledge of the great success of the Chicago show just closed.

One of the "straws" of interest in this connection is the fact that two of the leading cycling journals of Europe have sent expert writers to "do" the show in the interest of their respective papers.

The L. A. W. BULLETIN will give a general account of the show and its more novel features.

To those who want all the details of construction of the different machines we advise sending for the makers' catologues which are mentioned in this paper from time to time.

A LOST OPPORTUNITY.

One of the exhibitors at the Chicago show employed a young woman to stand on a table and show up a costume which consisted of a skirt having cords by which it could be elevated.

Every minute or two she would pull the strings, and up would go the skirt, thus exposing a well-filled pair of golf stockings.

Of course this exhibit was frequented mostly by people who are not probable buyers. Finally one of the spectators accidentally glanced at the exhibitor's face. and noticing that she was chewing gum, remarked to a companion, "Say! there is a lost opportunity, some chewing gum manufacturer would have paid good money for a placard announcing that his was the chosen chew." But the other man gazed thoughtfully into the faces of the crowd and replied: "I am inclined to doubt the value of such an advertisement as you propose, for I don't think one in ten of the people are likely to notice that she is chewing anything."

THE LOCOMOTIVE AND THE WHEEL.

There are two sides to every question: our side and the other side, which, of course, is always the wrong side.

The railroad officials who seem to be so willing to charge excess baggage rates, for transporting bicycles, may never have thought of it in this light.

Waverley BICYCLES.

Are the Best Known in the World.

Every dealer has realized the difference between trying to sell an unknown wheel and one that is known. The most uninterested individual will say when you mention the Waverley: — "Oh, yes! I have heard of that wheel." They are the acknowledged best known and most popular in the world. The name is a household word, and coupled with the fact that they are the Highest of All High Grades, makes them the most profitable and satisfactory wheels a dealer can handle.

INDIANA BICYCLE CO.

Send for '96 Catalogue and Terms. INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

A great many fairly clear thinkers believe that the bicycle does much to increase the passenger traffic of the railroads during the wheeling season. Notwithstanding the fact that wheelmen do much traveling by means of the bicycle, they very frequently make one-way trips by train, which they would not make, if they did not own wheels. This is clearly understood by all wheelmen.

It is, no doubt, true that the railroads may lose something in the way of suburban traffic, because of the wheel, but the amount is trifling when compared with the increase in passenger traffic in other directions.

And then there is still another side to the question.

The bicycle has been and is the good road maker of this century. It is the revolutionizer of public highways. To it belongs the credit of inaugurating and pushing to an active, practical consummation the now widespread movement for securing better highways.

Good roads increase traffic of all kinds and are a direct benefit to railroads.

The Indianapolis Journal of a recent date said:

The train records show that in the week ending December 28, there were received and forwarded at Indianapolis 3,331 fewer loaded cars than in the week ending December 21, but 2,955 more than in the corresponding week of 1894; but, going back to the corresponding week of 1893, 14 more loaded cars were handled than this year. A holiday in which no local freights were run, and but few through freight trains will account for probably 33 per cent. of the decrease shown, and the other 67 per cent. is largely due to the fact that the recent heavy rains in this State and in Illinois have made many country roads impassable with loaded wagons on account of the depth of the mud. Until a good freeze comes to make the roads solid, shipments of grain must come from the elevators and storehouses, many of which are now depleted of their holdings.

The locomotive and the bicycle are brothers or, leastwise, second-cousins. There should be no quarrel between them. And there won't when the people have adjusted themselves to the new condition of affaits.

In the meantime it seems too bad for the big, overgrown locomotive to be jumping on its little brother, the bicycle, who is really doing all he can to make everyone healthy, wealthy and wise.

THE BRAKE QUESTION.

From about two bushels of correspondence recently received, relating to the brake question, we glean the following conclusions, which we trust will be of interest and benefit to the many who are trying to settle the vexed question, "brakes or no brakes?"

Every wheel should have a hand brake.
Brakes are utterly useless.
No one but an idiot would ride without a brake.
Only a lunatic would ride with a brake.
Braking with the toe of the shoe between the front forks is the only safe way. It does not injure the tire.

The Wheelman's Complaint; or, the Story of a Sensible New Year's Resolution.

Under a spreading chestnut tree,
The maddened cyclist stands;
His wheel is bent and out of shape,
And bloody are his hands.

He started, sunrise, for a spin,
On a cycle made to sell;
A ten mile spin on a level road,
And the wheel and rider fell.

Just simply fell to the smooth, hard earth —
Fell like a tree that 's hewn;
And the road, for many yards around,
with skin and wheel was strewn.

We said he stood neath the chestnut tree,
We told the simple truth;
He stood and looked at the ruins grim,
And then exclaimed "Forsooth!

"A penny saved is a penny earned,"
My copy book mentioned at school;
But precepts, like doctors, gooften astray
And make a man act like a fool.

I thought I was saving my honest dough
When I put twenty-five of it back;
I'll add three times more, and my lot deplore,
If I can't get a CRACKAJACK.

Braking with the shoe is suicidal and means quick death to to the rider. It ruins a wheel in thirty minutes.

Brakes are not needed in cities.

No one should try to ride in a thickly crowded city with no brake on his wheel.

Brakes are wholly unnecessary for country touring.

In country riding brakes are especially desirable as they make coasting a joy.

Those who have tried brakes have since discarded them.

Those who formerly rode without brakes now insist on having them.

Manufacturers should put them on.
Makers should keep them off.
They are necessary.
They are useless.
And there you are.

THE WHEEL AND THE HORSE.

BY DAVID E. BURNS.

THE perusal of recent numbers of the L.A.W. BULLETIN AND GOOD ROADS has caused me to become more and more interested in the question of improved highways. I believe the BULLETIN is doing much good in calling out thoughts from the conservative men of our country. But there is one feature of the question of good roads, as relating to the annihilation of horses in their use as a conveyer, to which I wish to enter my most ardent protest. It seems to me certainly ill-advised and short-sighted for members and friends of the good road movement, to array one class of citizens against another, when there is common ground on which they can stand.

There has already manifested itself in local circles, a disposition on the part of the horsemen to feel jealous of the wheelmen because of the articles written and the language used by men who undoubtedly mean well enough, but who are so short-sighted as to claim that the use of the whee will drive the horse from the roads. This I believe to be untrue for the reason that in those countries which have the best roads, we find the most and best roadsters and also the most wheelmen. In America we have the fastest, the largest and the smallest horses of the world, but we also have the poorest roads and the fewest good roadsters; in England, in France and in Germany, a horse that is kept for road purposes, that cannot travel at the rate of ten miles an hour, is considered worthless; while in this country the horse that is able to travel that, over our roads, for any considerable distance, or for any considerable length of time, is considered a phenomenon.

It seems to me that horsemen and wheelmen should strive together for the betterment of our highways. Better roads means better wheels and better wheelmen. It also means better horses and more of them.

There is no greater pleasure than to ride upon a smooth road with a good wheel, or to drive a good horse under similar conditions. I am the owner of the best wheel I can find and could I afford it, I would own the best driving horse I could buy. There is pleasure in the possession of both of these, under favorable conditions; neither of which is any pleasure when accompanied with the surroundings that usually mar our country roads. Imagine the beauties of hiring a livery horse and driving away twenty-five or thirty miles. The first four or five miles of the distance passes off very pleasantly, the balance of the distance you are not only compelled to ride but to work your way at the butt of a whip; and I maintain that any horse that has to be whipped in order to obtain a reasonable degree of speed, is unfit for the road.

The same is true of riding a wheel. What pleasure there is in riding a smooth road! Then what woe to strike sand four or five miles in extent and experience the beauties of wallowing through it and leading your obedient wheel. It seems to me that while the conditions that surround both wheelmen and horsemen are so similar, it is folly on our part or on the part of those who are interested in the building of good roads, intentionally or unintentionally by thought, word or act, to array one class against the other.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

THIRTEEN has always been considered an unlucky number. It is said that the whole yearly cost of transportation by public roads in this country is $946,414,665, which allows a cost of $13 for every man, woman and child in the United States. It is further estimated that two-thirds of the total outlay in transportation is money wasted, which amount comes out of the pockets of the farmers.

Too Much to Expect.

No wonder when a woman works
So long to get her hat on straight,
And gives it half a hundred quirks
To make it look quite up to date,
That when she's seated at the play
She lets the men behind her scoff:
She didn't work a half a day
To hurry there and take it off.

WINTER OUTINGS IN THE SOUTH.

BY GLEN DAY.

NOWHERE should roads be better than in the south, where the clemency of the weather makes it possible to enjoy outings all the year round. Here the joys of carriage and bicycle riding need suffer no prolonged interruption by the coming of the season of snows.

It is here the wheelmen of the north will come in increasing numbers as bicycling becomes more popular. A winter outing in a land that will permit of bicycle riding is an inducement that invites more than a passing thought.

The people of the north are beginning to realize that winter vacations are very desirable and very beneficial. In the summer when the days are spent outdoors and pure air is abundant everywhere, the northerner enjoys all the benefits of a southern climate. Open doors and windows ensure him pure air, and fields and forests invite him to their sun and shade.

But in the winter the conditions are vastly different. The weather, as a rule, is bleak and disagreeable. Home and office are sealed up tight to keep out the fingers of the frost, Pure, fresh air is a rarity indoors, and that out of doors is so much keener than the furnace-heated atmosphere of the living rooms, that the sudden changes from one to the other are anything but beneficial. I

The south offers a great field for the L. A. W. and good roads committees to work in. There is much that should be done very soon.

ATLANTA GA.

A Great Take-Off.

Some say that women lack the sense
Of humor; that within their minds
There is no pleasurable propense,
Such as one in man's make-up finds.
And we believe the charge is so,
For at the theatre they might
Get off a pleasing thing, but oh!
They keep their hats on good and tight.

SOME FIRST PRINCIPLES.

It is reported that Mr. Lincoln once said to a man who suggested a doubtful proposition to him, "I should think that to anyone wanting something of that kind, that something of that kind would be about what he would want."

It is the same way with bloomers. Those who admire them, admire them. Those who don't, don't. See?

There are a large number of communications, relating to bloomers, now in this office, yearning to get into type, and with its multitudinous tongues shriek their approval or disapproval. The question is not dead.

The bloomer question is one that is not to be settled by a magazine article. There are some fundamental truths that all may agree upon.

Men who insist that a series of skirts are not cumbersome and that they do not retard and tire the rider would, no doubt, simply collapse if they were compelled to wear them.

It seems reasonable that bloomers have some advantages along the lines of comfort and convenience. It isn't presumed that women care to be scorchers. They do like to ride with comfort.

The foes of the bloomer costume are opposed to it solely on the ground of "the looks of the thing."

They should be honest enough to confess this, for no one will say that bloomers make cycling any more difficult, physically.

Granting there is a physical gain in wearing bloomers, is there a moral loss? Not necessarily. A lady's real nature ought not to be changed by a change of dress.

For ages men have been yelling "dress reform" at the other sex. The wise, bewhiskered lords of creation have insisted that trailing skirts and tight lacing were dragging our sisters, wives and mothers to premature graves.

Now these same men are afraid dress reform is actually coming. The new bicycle woman, if she wears what is termed the "ideal" costume, has neither trailing skirts nor deadly corset stays.

Oh! it's too awful to think that some of these women are so immodest as to dress about like men. And they may become as strong and healthy, too. Isn't it a shame?

A great many say it is. And many say it isn't.

And so, until further notice, ladies are advised to dress as their own sense of propriety dictates.

No matter what they wear, the heavens won't fall.

My parents both said,
With a shake of the head,
O, he'll marry, and soon settle down.

WHAT WE NEED.

BY C. S. HOPPER.

In one of the previous issues of the BULLETIN I was surprised to discover that the L. A. W. has an official color, and upon questioning a few of my fellow members, I found that they were as ignorant as myself. This, surely, is a serious mistake. A member should know all of the workings of the order to which he belongs.

When a person joins the League he should receive, with his ticket, a copy of the national constitution and State constitution, a pamphlet of information giving entire history, membership at the end of each year, financial reports and all other information pertaining to the League. A person could then see what they were joining, and would take more interest in the organization, and would explain its objects to others, and they in turn would become interested, and undoubtedly our membership would increase.

Soon after I joined I was asked different questions in regard to the value, working and object of the L. A. W., but owing to not having received any official information, I was able to give only vague information, but since then I have received, by writing for it, the constitution, and by reading the BULLETIN, nearly all the information I need, and since then I have been explaining it to my friends, and they have become interested. Some have joined, and others have promised to do the same.

Now, friends, is the time to talk. We want railroads to carry wheels free, to have good roads all over our great land, to have toll taken off the roads, and power to maintain our rights. How shall we get this? Simply by getting members. We are doing it, but not fast enough.

Wheelmen are plenty. Get them in. We need them. Put your shoulder to the wheel, and we can turn the whole United States to our ideas. We want members, — that means power. Let the good work go on, and may the next year see a greater increase in membership, and greater power for our great organization.

"BICYCLE FEET" is a new term applied to swift sprinters.

"THE VALLEY TURNPIKE" IN VIRGINIA.

BY SAM'L M. BARTON.

Jos. R. Anderson (afterwards Gen. Jos. R. Anderson of the C. S. A.), was the chief engineer in constructing this pike.

"Generally speaking, the task of location over the gently undulating country was easy. Wherever possible the line followed the old road." The work of grading and macadamizing was done by contract. The first nine miles from Winchester was let to contract on Sept. 26, 1838. The entire road seems to have been opened to traffic in 1841, possibly a little earlier.

The length of road is 92 1-3 miles; entire width is 40 feet; width of graded portion, 24 feet; width of macadam, 18 feet. The broken rock, 10 inches deep, seems to have been laid on the earth surface, which had been "bedded up," presumably higher in the middle than on edges.

Only in wet or flat places was the bed of broken rock underlaid with larger rock. There were open drains on either side, and where needed, cross box culverts. The larger bridges were constructed with long spans on the lattice plan, and proved entirely inadequate.

The legal grade was 3½ degrees.

As to the cost of construction, the accounts are very conflicting. State Engineer Crozet, in his report, puts the cost of the road proper at $3,853 per mile; Chief Engineer Anderson puts it at $3,637.85, while President Patterson gives

$3,777.66 as the cost per mile, this last doubtless from the books of the company. These figures include small bridges and culverts. It is hard to get at the exact cost of the larger bridges, some eight in number, and the estimate we give below for these probably includes the cost of rebuilding some that failed. After a careful examination of all available data, the following statement is probably not far from correct:—

Surveying and location,	$5,855.13
Construction ($3,777.66 per mile),	348,863 94
Large bridges,	51,158.84
Total,	$405,817.91
Land damages,	18,455.67
Entire cost,	$424,273.58

Crozet, in his report of 1839, criticized the location of the road somewhat severely, stating that in this, like all other similar roads, too much attention has been given to the wishes of private parties living along the road, a policy which he very properly condemns as injurious to the public welfare. Among other things he criticizes the construction of the bridges, and, apparently, justly so. A few years traffic seriously impaired many of them, and the bridge over the Shenandoah river, which cost more than $7,000, gave way entirely in 1840, having broken in the middle after various efforts to support it with trestles. It was replaced by an arch bridge, in 1843, at a cost of $4,510.

Repairs.

From the report of the Valley Turnpike Co., for the year ending Sept. 30, 1871, which report was made as required by law to the State board of public works, it appears that the expenses for repairing for the first thirty years of the life of the road amounted to $284,751.89, which is at the rate of $9,491.73 per year, or $102.80 per mile, yearly. This may include the renewal of some of the bridges.

President B. G. Patterson informs me that the average annual cost of repairs for a number of years is about $6,500, which is $70,40 per mile. In this connection, Mr. Patterson says: "It costs more now to keep the road in repair than it did before the war, or even than it did fifteen years ago, because the road is older, bridges giving way, material more scarce, and labor is higher." But less money is put on it than formerly. Judging from this and the appearance of the road itself, we are safe in saying that the road is not kept up in that superb condition that it once was. A superintendent has charge of repairs, collections of tolls, etc. The rock is all broken by hand. A rock-crusher was tried but did not give satisfaction. Mr. Patterson writes: "Our company tried the rock crusher three or four years. We found it more expensive than putting on with hand broken, nor did the crushed rock wear near as well, — the crusher splinters the rock too much, many of them too fine (and of flat shape) to wear well."

As to the average yearly receipts and expenditures, during the last nine years, Mr. Patterson gives the following statement.

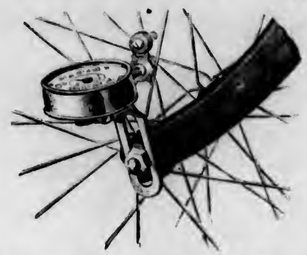
Average toll receipts		$9,400
Average repairs,	$6,500
Gate-keepers' saleries	1,760
President's salary	400
Treasurer's	100
Secretary	75
General Superintendent	600
	$9,435	$9,400

"Some years we fall short as much as $1,000. This is only the case when we lose a bridge or suffer some other heavy loss from a flood. When we have no bad luck we may run over as far as $400 to $1,000. In short, one year with another, it requires good management to make ends meet. * * * We make the toll as light as possible, only aiming to get enough to keep up the road."

Tolls and Dividends.

The receipts from tolls increased rapidly from 1840 to 1853, then seemed to fall off towards 1860, evidently on account of railroad competition. Then, again, after the completion of the railroad from Winchester to Strasburg, about 1870, and the construction of the railroad from Harrisonburg to Staunton, there was a still further decrease in the toll receipts, which have averaged during the last decade not more than half what they amounted to in 1860. In 1853 the toll receipts reached the maximum of $25,840.59.

By the report of 1871, the total toll receipts up to that time amounted to $495,077.30. Taking $9,400 as the yearly average since 1871, we can probably safely say that the toll receipts from 1841 to 1895 have amounted to about $720,677.30.



No dividend has been declared since 1857. In that year one-half of one per cent. was ordered to be paid upon the capital stock. The report of 1871 gives the following figures:

Dividends to individuals,	$11,631.34
Dividends to Commonwealth,	22,352.92
Total dividends	$33,984.26

In 1841, Simeon Hillman and his wife Charlotte Hillman, moved to the gate house, No. 1. After the death of her husband, Mrs. Hillman was the gatekeeper until her death in 1892 at the age of 89. With the exception of the four years of the war, when no tolls were collected, she had been at her post for 51 years. Her daughter, Mrs. Harmon, the present keeper, has in her possession nearly all the monthly toll receipts since 1841, and other interesting papers.

As shown above, by President Patterson's figures, all the receipts are expended in repairs and in paying a few small salaries. As far as our ob

CORRECTING ROAD BOOKS.

EDITOR L. A. W BULLETIN:

With reference to W. W. Randall's objection to my proposition to offer rewards for corrections in the road book, I would say that the objection of disputed claims and inaccurate statements which he urges with so much force, can be easily obviated by leaving the decision to the nearest local consul.

Whatever may be decided about that, however, I cannot too strongly urge the importance of bringing owners of real estate to recognize the benefit that their land and land values would get from good roads, and thereby securing their help.

If we are willing to do the work and afterwards to pay them in increased rent for the whole benefit of it, landlords should certainly be willing to put in the little funds required at present.

Yours very truly, BOLTON HALL.

A LEAP YEAR REFUSAL.

NIXON WATERMAN.

She sat before the keyboard over which her fingers oft
Had fluttered like a butterfly, her fingers white and soft;
Her face a winsome picture crowned with dreamy, fluffy hair
That drooped to kiss her pretty brow that bore no trace of care.

And as she idly waited for some further work to come
She laid aside her novel and her bit of chewing gum,
And toward her typewriter she turned her fascinating eyes
And smiled at it the while I heard her thus soliloquize:

"And Jack would have me leave you and become his cherished wife!
He doesn't know that you and I are wedded now for life;
He promises the world to me, but oh! his vows are rash,
While you, my dear old comrade, oh! you grant the ready cash!

"He says I am too rare a soul to toil and slave for bread,
That I must part with you, old friend, and dwell with him, instead;
And while he with the boys goes out the club's delights to seek I'll keep the house and mend his clothes for forty cents a week."

"When one has steady work it seems one shouldn't let it go
To win a husband guaranteed for just a year or so.
I think I'm far too wise to trade—though Jack suggests the plan—
A fifty dollar job to win a twenty dollar man.

"If we should wed and times grew dull, as oft they do, why then
I'd do as other girls have done, I'd go to work again,
But with a husband on my hands I'd find it rather hard
To get a place, for care-worn wives are very often barred.

"I know I'm sadly practical, but when I look about
At what my married friends have done it fills my heart with doubt.
I scarce believe I care to be a sad, neglected wife
And have a cheap, poor-paying 'boss' dictate to me for life."

And so, my dear old comrade, we'll be friends for aye and aye!
You may be void of sentiment and all that, but you pay!
And all the talk of fickle love and kindred topics—bah
I'll stick to writing notes while Jack can skip the tra-la-la."

Oh, sorry, wretched age! Alas, what is a man to do?
For girls are independent now and oh! they know it, too;
For though we talk to them of love, and coo and scheme and plan,
It's difficult to get a wife unless a man's a man!

THE SUNNY SOUTH.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

The wheelmen of the far south are, no doubt, pleased to be recognized and encouraged by your recent article in the BULLETIN, and a word from you occasionally would do much to encourage this excellent exercise and interest the common councils of our Southern States to the extent of building better roads, which are needed very badly.

The winter resorts will be obliged sooner or later to recognize the fact that unless good roads are given to the visitors, this floating population will seek other climes.

The town of Thomasville in south-western Georgia seems to have awakened to this fact, for during the last year an excellent bicycle track has been made in Paradise Park, and though only five-eighths of a mile long it is appreciated by the many northern visitors who are flocking to this favorite resort.

We have also the privilege of riding on the sidewalks and the government of the wheel is left to the good sense of the rider, with no arbitrary rules to fear. No. 74,833.

THOMASVILLE, GA., Jan. 2, 1896.

Now that Henry George has joined the L. A. W. he will no doubt be opposed to even the single tacks in his bicycle path.

SEVERAL TOPICS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

To take off a tight crank I use a little thin bicycle oil so that it will work around between the shaft and crank. Then I drive off with a hammer, using a piece of hard wood to strike on, so as not to mar the crank,

To cement tires on steel rims I use two cents worth of benzine and fire it, while turning wheel slowly. True up the tire and ride off. When the tire is first put on use lots of cement, then when you have a puncture you only have to use the benzine. This method heats the rim where the cement is not on the inside, as with lamps, and it takes only two or three minutes,

With wood rims I do not fire the benzine, but let it cut the cement.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

It isn't so very far across the Atlantic, but some of the news from America gets awfully tangled up while on the way over. Here's something that appeared in the London Truth some time ago, that is a fair illustration of what can be done in the way of giving misinformation concerning us:

Chicago society — that is to say, the cycling portion of it — has received an unexpected and somewhat unnecessary rebuke at the hands of its municipal authorities. Apparently the controversial knickerbockers have so worked upon the feelings of the city fathers that they have determined to put them out of evidence altogether. To this end the edict has gone forth that in future all cyclists must adopt a costume "baggy from the ankles up, and with the jacket portion reaching high up to the throat." The exposure or stockings on the part of either men or women is strictly forbidden, and an opportunity is thus afforded to the artists of Chicago to devise some pretty effects for male and female costumes out of the "baggy" garment aforesaid. After all, the frequenters of Battersea Park may congratulate themselves that they are not denizens of a "free" country, nor under the sartorial supervision of a hypersensitive county council.

MAN VS. WHEEL.

BY S. RAYMOND KITCHIN.

A limited work must ev'ry man do,
For he's sure to get tired at the last;
When body or mind are feeling fatigued
The time for labor is past.

The tired man's work holds not equal place,
With one who brings mind fresh and clear;
It's like running machines without any oil
For they're certain to get out of gear.

This the comparison which I would draw,
More tired a man the less smart;
Of a bicycle just the reverse is the truth,
For a wheel must be tired to start.

NEW JERSEY is no longer a synonym for mosquitoes, but rather for good roads. Its splendid system of highways is attracting thousands of wheelmen and others every year who are not only discovering that the "Jersey Sketer" is a myth, but that its good roads fame is a happy, substantial fact. The good advertising that the State is receiving, on account of the enterprise it has shown in making its highways a subject of profit and delight is enviable.

THE Denver cycle show will be held February 4 to 8, inclusive. Active preparations are being made, and no efforts will be neglected to make it most a successful exhibition.

Only a dago arrested for selling bananas on Sunday;
Only a dago — of course they will try him and fine him on Monday.
It may be five dollars and costs — it is not worth a line in the papers,
For nobody cares to be told of a poor dago's trivial capers.

Only a dago — perchance he may love with an ardent devotion
One who is waiting for him on the furthermost side of the ocean.
One who will come to him when the star of his fortune shines clearer;
Each hard-earned dollar he saves brings his love nearer and nearer.

Scarcely a sale for a week on account of unfavorable weather;
Sunday, and fair; will he seek to bring their hearts nearer together?
Only five dollars and costs — coldly the words will be spoken,
What though weeks farther apart — laws were not made to broken.

IT MAKES SUCH A DIFFERENCE.

A Linn Grove girl found a package of love letters that had been written to her mother by her father before they were married, says the Sioux Rapids Republican. The daughter saw that she could have a little sport, and read them to her mother, substituting her own name for that of her mother and a fine young man for that of her father. The mother jumped up and down in her chair, shifted her feet, seemed terribly disgusted, and forbade her daughter having anything to do with a young man who would write such sickening and nonsensical stuff to a girl. When the young lady handed the letters to her mother to read the house became so still that one could hear the grass growing in the back yard.

THE VALLEY TURNPIKE.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I read with much interest the short sketch on "The Valley Turnpike" in Virginia, but notice that writer uses as an illustration the hauling of locomotives and freight cars over this pike during the late war. The illustration is correct as a fact in history, but if the writer wants to use this as an illustration of the first-class condition of the road mentioned above, it would be no more than right for him to make his distance instead of ninety-two miles from Winchester, Va., to Staunton, Va., it should be one hundred and fourteen from Martinsburg, W. Va., to Staunton, Va., twenty-two miles of which pike isn't part of the Valley Turnpike, but is a separate pike known in this locality as the Winchester Pike.

One half of this pike is in the State of West Virginia, and it was over this same pike that the locomotives and cars were hauled.

I am not finding fault with the article, because in the main it is correct, but I just want to see our old Winchester Pike get her dues, which, if anything, is better than the Valley Pike, both of which I have ridden. F. E. S.

PREPARING FOR NATIONAL ASSEMBLY.

Arrangements are under way, it is understood, for holding a large banquet on the evening of the day of the meeting which will usher in the annual congress of the League of American Wheelmen here in Baltimore. The idea originated with Chief Consul Potter of New York, who is now in correspondence with Chief Consul Sams and Albert Mott. Prominent speakers will attend to discuss the new road movement. The dinner will be served either at the Rennert or in the large banqueting hall of the Maryland bicycle club. The good roads meeting will convene on Feb. 10, at the Y. M. C. A. hall, while the national assembly will meet Dec. 11, in the Royal Arcanum hall. This will be the first year that the League will devote a whole day to the discussion of good roads matter. It is needed here, as a bill will be introduced in the present legislature to effect some improvement in the roads. Some new points might be brought out that can well be incorporated in the proposed bill.—Baltimore World.

A SUGGESTION.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Wouldn't it be a good plan for the road book committee to publish in the BULLETIN, a list of the corrections to be made in last year's road book? Let these corrections be printed so that they could be cut out and pasted in the old book, thus bringing it up to date. This plan would do away with the necessity of printing such a large number of new books; only enough for new members and outside sales would need to be issued.

Yours truly,
WEBSTER WAGNER.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.

A PROBLEM SOLVED.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

The question referred to on page 45 of the BULLETIN seems very simple. If a bicyclist pays ferriage at the same rate as a foot passenger, he is a foot passenger, and must walk on board the ferryboat. If he pays more than a foot passenger, then the ferry company regards his bicycle as a vehicle, and he may ride it to the boat.

POPE CO.'S POLICY.

Although the exclusive policy of the Pope Manufacturing Company has been the subject of a good deal of adverse criticism, yet when rightly analyzed it proves to be a business-like contract intended for the mutual protection and advantage of the company and its representatives, both being equally bound, and experience has already shown wisdom in this course. Anything which will prevent wildcat methods is beneficial to the trade.

GOOD ROADS ASSOCIATIONS.

The wishes of wheelmen and the aims of the Good Roads Associations are nearly identical, and they should mutually assist each other wherever it can be done.

The pleasure of wheel riding depends so much on the condition of the road that the latter is as much of a consideration as the wheel itself.

The condition of the road has been and will be to quite a degree what the presence of the bicycle has and will make it. The wheel is the great highway inspector and incidentally its improver.

The road owes much to the bicycle. The bicycle owes more to the road.

The road improvement branch of the L. A. W. is one of its very important features and as such its worth should be appreciated by the League and the public, and its work supplemented in every way possible.

For without roads we couldn't get in touch with the earth, and until we get wings, it is quite essential that we do so.

GOOD CLAY ROAD.

How to make a good country road is a problem of widespread interest. In large areas of the country, common, earth roads will have to answer all purposes for some time to come. In a recent number of the Pittsburg Dispatch, Mr. John M. Burn describes a plan he has followed for several years with entire satisfaction, as follows:—

"Cut the ditches down three or four feet lower than the roadway, use a two horse scraper to curve the surface, and the natural forces set in operation will do all the rest. The water drains out of the body of the roadway, the mud surface dries and toughens as it dries, the scraper fills all ruts and cuts away all vegetation, the sun and air dry a hornhard surface; rainstorms simply wash it off clean and in an hour or so after the rain it is as hard as before. I present it as the most effective solution of the problem of making good country roads with little expense.

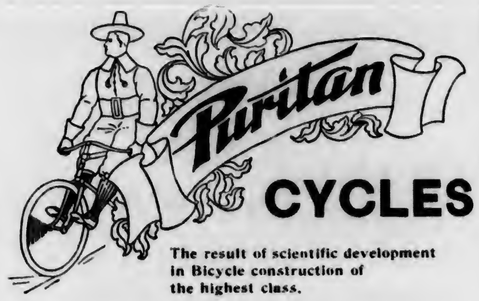
The greater portion of clay roads (probably 90 per cent) are in front of farms and owned or rented by people who do not have the money necessary to macadamize (stone) them. They really cannot afford to do so, and it is really to their assistance I desire to direct these thoughts. This is such a simple matter and so thoroughly effective that I desire you to consider the analysis. The existence of the open ditch with clean bottom gives water a chance to drain out of the body of the roadway and run away. The tough mud worked up by hoofs and wheels becomes tougher and more compact as it drains from below and dries from above.

The scraper drawn by two slow draft horses attacks the surface when sufficiently dry, all loose stones are moved into the wheel tracks, everything is moved towards the middle of the roadway, no vegetation remains between the wheelways and the ditches, travel compacts the still damp material in its new position. A rain may soften some of it again. So much the better The scraper trims it smooth again, and about the thirdtime the road is smooth, hard compact and dry. It sheds the water of a storm, because of its curve, and especially because of solid, impenetratable surface of tough, dry material. Thus it remains and acts until frost sets in. If the freeze-up is rapid, the road is all right and remains so. If alternate freezing and thawing take place it will roughen up somewhat, but the ditches are at work and very little water can remain in the roadway and the road don't get bad enough to speak of.

It takes water and clay to make mud. Get the water out as soon as possible. The ditches do that and it is no longer in the roadway, therefore not much mud. It has been a very interesting study to me and I have watched it in all its varying phases for many years."

CLOSED ON ACCOUNT OF MUD.

No one who has given the question careful study can doubt the close affinity between good roads and good morals.



Mud and meanness go hand in hand. A good, clear, hard road and a clear conscience are also closely related.

A correspondent of the Girard (O.) Grit, says:

On account of bad weather and roads, our Sunday school decided to close during this quarter. Will organize again April 5.

When the Sunday schools of the land are compelled to close up on account of bad roads, it is not to be wondered at that the preachers have begun spreading the gospel of good roads.

This same mud, above referred to, interferes with public schools, business and pleasure. It is a blight on the community. There are thousands of communities similarly affected.

THE CARE OF STREETS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I beg to urge upon the members of the League the importance of securing in all cities and towns, by the united efforts of wheelmen, if necessary, the placing of proper persons in immediate charge of the construction and maintenance of streets and highways. I find that many such persons now in charge, are seldom engineers, and often men of no training for the position, and not in sympathy with wheelmen, but look upon wheelmen as their worst enemies. Now, to me, this condition of affairs, wherever it exists, seems to me exceedingly unfortunate. It is hardly to be expected that all persons filling the position mentioned, will be engineers of experience, but much would be gained if they had some valuable experience and were active wheelmen.

The point of view is everything, and how quickly a wheelman in such a position would appreciate the requirements of wheelmen, that are largely in his power to furnish.

How easy to see the slight expense of small, necessary repairs to street surfaces, all holes kept promptly and properly repaired, loose stones removed, rough places made smooth, etc. How often do we see crosswalks, manholes, etc., that are constantly above or below the adjoining surface of the street, and that constitute anything but pleasant things for wheelmen to get over, remain for years untouched, when the party in charge would, with a proper appreciation of wheelmen's requirements, and a little money, quickly repair or remove these things.

Wheels are now so numerous in all populous centres, used for business purposes as well as pleasure, that good pavements, well maintained in these centres of population, are of much importance.

I note with pleasure the movement in Lynn, Mass., for more intelligent care of pavements.

HENRY N. FRANCIS.

WORTHY OF EMULATION.

The Cincinnati Bicycle Club has set an example that should be followed by every other organization that is working directly or indirectly for the improvement of the public highways. At a recent meeting it

"Resolved, That the secretary be and is hereby instructed to write, in the name of the Cincinnati Bicycle Club, to our representatives in congress, urging them to try to get an increase in the appropriation for the Office of Road Inquiry of the Department of Agriculture, to enable that office to work more effectively in behalf of the movement for good roads."

PROF. JOHN HAMILTON, in a recent address on good roads before a Buck's County (Pa.) farmers' institute, urged that in many townships where lack of money prevented telfording the roads, a seven-foot stone ballasted track in the middle of the road would answer the purpose and give a passable road in muddy times. He further said: "The requisites of a good road are that it shall be dry, solid, easy graded and smooth. The first condition may be secured by making the road convex in the middle instead of concave. Solid roads cannot be made by placing large stones upon them and covering with earth. A stone crusher is absolutely essential, and no stones larger than a walnut should be put on the roads."

IT is estimated that the farmers of this country might save $630,000,000, in the cost of getting their produce to market, by building good roads. These are forceful figures.

EVERY bicycle rider is a road inspector. Every farmer who buys a bicycle will make the road easier and better for his horses.

A COUNTRY road should be something more than a weedy strip of land between two farms.

IT is lots easier to make a good road than it is to use a poor one.

NATIONAL COMMITTEES.

The executive committee urgently request all chairmen and members of the various national committees to send bills for their expense accounts during the year, if any are outstanding.

It is desired that the supplemental report of the auditing committee shall show the exact financial standing of the League. ARCHIBALD C. WILLISON, President.

TO CHIEF CONSULS AND MEMBERS.

Only one short month remains of the fiscal year of the League and of the present administration. The work of the various divisions during the year has been most excellent and has resulted in unparalleled prosperity and members. We now lack only about 1500 names to make our membership reach the good round nnmber of 40,000.

That number was the maximum estimate of the years work and a final effort should be made to fill the number.

I would urgently request that all divisions endeavor during the present month to send in their quota of the required number. Let February 10th find us forty thousand strong.

ARCHIBALD C. WILLISON, President.

SEND YOUR BILLS.

All national officers and committee men of the League are urgently requested to send in at once any accounts which they may have against the L. A. W. The executive committee wish to present a complete financial report to the Assembly.

ARCHIBALD C. WILLISON, President.

RHODE ISLAND DIVISION, L. A. W.

Report of Chief Consul for the year 1895.

I take pleasure in announcing the material progress of this division in two important particulars.

Our membership has shown a healthy increase. At the close of the last L. A. W. year, March 31, 1895, we numbered 490. We now number 603, a gain of 113. Of new members we have 204, 399 old members renewed, a percentage of .81+, which, I deem myself safe in stating, was not equalled by any other division of 500 or more members.

Still more gratifying to us as a division, as it is what we have bent our best energies to for several years past, has been the passage of two excellent Good Road bills by the General Assembly of this State, and the proposal of a Wide Tire bill, that is still before that body, and will come up for further action at the coming session of that body. How our former foremost opponent in this matter became the sponsor of and worker for these bills, and what their effect has been and will be, together with the progress of road reform, and the tremendous influence of the L. A. W. upon this movement, inaugurated and unceasingly urged on by our organization, is set forth in the report of the active and efficient chairman of the Highway Improvement Committee, Mr. G. Richmond Parsons.

In the line of rights and privileges, as I am the chairman of that committee, I have to report but one act of commission that has engaged our attention. It happened last spring on Benevolent street, in Providence, Mr. S——, a member of this division, was wheeling up the street on the right hand side, when the driver of a parcel delivery wagon, approaching him from behind, with a recklessness amounting almost to deliberation, came within an ace of running over him. Mr. S—— reported the matter to me, I interviewed the owner of the delivery, who thanked me for informing him, expressed much regret at the occurrence, and suspended the fresh young driver for a week without pay. Mr. S—— when notified of this result, wrote me a letter, stating that he considered this one thing accomplished, as worth more to him than all the dues he had paid into the League treasury, and he has been a member for several years.

The principal business of this committee has been to keep strict watch upon the action of Town and City Councils, so as to prevent the passage of ordinances inimicable to the rights of wheelmen, the average councilman thinks that the body to which he belongs has a right to make any law upon any subject, regardless of constitutional or statutory limits of its powers; and so we find many ordinances in the various municipalities, which, so far as their legality is concerned, are not worth the paper they are printed on. If they are attempted to be enforced against any member of this division, the division will defend such member through all the courts. The most flagrant of these illegal measures are the so called speed ordinances, which is regulated by statute, and which municipalities cannot meddle with. It is a question whether lantern ordinances are legal as applied to cycles, since it savors of class legislation; but it has not been deemed expedient, under present circumstances, to press the question to a decision. We have endeavored to prevent the passage of such an ordinance when proposed, and we have, within the last two years, twice defeated attempts to place such a law in the ordinances of the City of Providence. It is a fact beyond question or cavil, and one that every member of this division should constantly bear in mind and use as an argument for the existence and beneficial importance of this organization, that to the active efforts of this division, through its officer, it is alone due that the City Council of Providence did not recently enact an ordinance compelling the multitude of wheelmen here to carry lighted lanterns upon their wheels during the hours of darkness every night of the year.

A new committee was formed this year, viz., the Recruiting Committee, its object being to increase the membership of this division. Owing to the long illness of the chief consul during the riding season, the committee was unable to map out its work in proper form, and so as a body did not accomplish all that it desired. But certain members thereof have individually accomplished much in gaining recruits; and special praise is due to the very successful efforts of Representative Charles A. Champlin, of Westerly, and Mr. Thomas Twigg, of Newport. The chairman of the committee, Mr. Percy A. Harden, presents his report at this meeting, and attention is called to the suggestions incorporated therein, and which will be brought before the Executive Board for its consideration. Each member of the division must not forget, however, that it is his right and duty to strive to get other wheelmen to join the League and that the entire membership is a general recruiting committee as well.

A number of matters will be brought before the Executive Board for its action. A small hand-book is needed, so is a new edition of the road map, which is now exhausted. Suggestions will come up as to a law to be presented to the Legislature, whereby suitable penalties shall be imposed upon those who, negligently or maliciously, place tacks, glass, and the like, in the highways, in order to check this growing menace to wheelmen's rights. The advisability may be discussed of having a general law passed, similar to that in Massachusetts, governing the use of cycles, so as to remedy the present divergence of ordinances thereon in the different towns and cities. Then the matter of taking a census of all wheelmen in the State has been talked of; and if any member of the division has any hints to offer as to its affairs and business, the Board will, if it be presented in writing to the secretary-treasurer, give it due consideration.

The League of American Wheelmen, at the last meeting of the National Assembly, seemed indeed in perilous shape. Its membership had fallen off terribly, it was in debt, it had no official organ. To-day it boasts of the largest membership since its organization. It has paid off its indebtedness and has money in the treasury. It furnishes each member with the best newspaper it has ever had. It has taken a new lease of life that promises to be vigorous and lasting. Its principal officers have been careful, discreet, and successful in its management. Its Assembly, on the whole, deliberates wisely and well. If a mistake is made, they seek to remedy and correct it, not to obscure and perpetuate it. When events require a change in its policy, the change is usually tried; if successful, it remains permanent; if not, the old way is restored, or a new and better one is adopted. But whatever the change in policy, the twofold purpose and reason of the League's being is unalterably held to and sustained; and so, whether or not in the future it shall be decided to abandon control of cycle racing as is now seriously debated, the League of American Wheelmen will, so long as it exists, zealously guard and maintain the rights and privileges of wheelmen in every respect, and never cease to encourage and promote the cause of highway improvement, until the thoroughfares of our country are worthy of the name and in touch with the spirit of true civilization.

L. H. SWEET, Sec.-Treas.

NEW YORK STATE DIVISION.

ROAD BOOK COMMITTEE. Lieutenant G. W. Stevens of Fort Hamilton, New York, is hereby appointed a member of the road book committee of 1896.

TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE STATE DIVISION. The work of prepraing new road books is now progressing under the direction of Chairman G. A. Roullier, of Flushing, N. Y. All members having knowledge of popular roads and routes in any part of the State, and who are willing to contribute their efforts to make new road books accurate and valuable, are earnestly requested to write to Chairman Roullier at the address given above, and to give him what information they may have at hand.

MAPS. We should like to receive a county map of every county in the State. These county maps are of great value in aiding the preparation of our road books as they show main roads drawn to a comparatively large and accurate scale. If members are able to contribute any of these maps to aid Chairman Roullier's work, it would be greatly appreciated.

ISAAC B. POTTER, Chief Consul.

NEW YORK DIVISION.

ROAD BOOK COMMITTEE:

The following appointments are made members of the Road Book Committee for 1896 in addition to those already announced: Dr. Robert L. Dickinson, 145 Clinton street, Brooklyn; Chas. T. Raymond, Lockport, N. Y.; G. H. Whitney, Mechanicsville; C. B. Lockwood, Yonkers; Wm. B. Phipps, 106 So. Hawk street, Albany; Will C. Greene, Watertown; W. B. Haeffner, Auburn; Dr. D. E. Walker, Ilion; R. W. Whipple, Binghamton; Jas. G. Budd, Glens Falls; H. S. Rivenburgh, Hudson; Francis G. Williams, Corning.

I. B. POTTER, Chief Consul.

RHODE ISLAND DIVISION.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Officers held Friday evening, Jan. 3, 1896, it was voted

To amend Article VI, Section 2 of the By-Laws by striking out the words "of not to exceed seven" and insert "of such number as the chief consul shall deem expedient."

That a committee of three consisting of chief consul, vice consul and secretary-treasurer be appointed to attend to the issuing of Hand Books for the coming year.

That the matter of issuing new road maps be referred to the chief consul and secretary-treasurer.

To send the chairman of the Highway Improvement Committee to the National Assembly at Baltimore, on Roads Improvement Day.

Messrs. Walter P. Pierce, E. Chas. Law and Geo. C. Barton were elected Finance Committee.

Mr. H. L. Perkins, of Providence, was elected delegate.

The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the Rights and Privileges Committee be instructed to apply to the Legislature for the passage of an Act for imposing penalties for the placing on the public highways any tacks or other substances injurious to the tires of vehicles or feet of persons or animals.

INDIANA ROAD BOOK.

We are hard at work on a road book for this state. It has been a long felt need in this division, and a need which we expect to supply in the next three months. Our road book will be just as complete as time, work, and money can make it. The first edition is to be out April 1st, and a copy of it will be mailed free to each member of this division. While there has been a vast amount of information and data collected so far concerning the location of roads, condition of same, distance, etc., we still have considerable more to obtain. If you receive any blanks to be used in reporting matter pertaining to this work please do so carefully, quickly and return such reports at as early a date as possible.

Sincerely yours,

MARO R. THOMPSON, Chief Consul.

INDIANA ROAD BOOK NOTICE.

To Those of Whom Information has been Requested.

In sending us information, whether it be in writing or an outline of some certain road or roads, let it be just as accurate as you can possibly make it. Remember that the work you do in this line is going to stand for some little time, and it will be referred to frequently by a large number of road users, not wheelmen alone, but the travelling public. Your county surveyor can be of invaluable assistance to you, prominent farmers will post you about any particular road you wish to know about, so can livery men, stock dealers, and country pedlers or hucksters. Of course when it comes to sizing up a road from a wheelmen's point of view, your own ideas and those of other men who do a great deal of country riding should carry great weight. A sandy stretch or a bad set of hills is not soon forgotten, neither is a well kept pike or gravelled road. In conclusion let me impress upon you the importance of being thorough, that is what counts.

Sincerely yours,

MARO R. THOMPSON, Chief Consul.

KANSAS DIVISION.

The board of officers of the Kansas division L. A. W. met in the Copeland hotel, Topeka, at 8 P.M., Dec. 30, 1895.

Present: Chief consul, W. W. Webb; vice consul, E. M. Geis; secretary-treasurer, W. C. F. Reichenbach; Representative, R. C. Manley; club representative, H. G. Lescher. Minutes of annual meeting August 17, read.

Secretary-treasurer made an oral report as to status of division, numerically and financially.

Moved and seconded. That a prize of a local consul's badge or L. A. W. pin, equal in value, be given to every member who secures five (5) new members for the division, and a prize of a L. A. W. medal to cost not to exceed twenty-five (25) dollars to be given to the member securing the greatest number of members before the annual State meet at Salina, this to take effect after publication of this action in the L. A. W. BULLETIN.

All applications for membership, accompanied by fees, to be sent to the secretary-treasurer for proper credit. Carried.

Moved and seconded. That it is the sense of this board that the purchase of helping hand signs at this time is considered inexpedient. Carried.

Moved and seconded. In pursuance of the report of the secretary-treasurer: "That the prize offered at the State meet for greatest number of new members had been won by Vice Consul E. M. Geis, he having forty-one (41) applications to his credit."

That the secretary-treasurer purchase the L. A. W. badge prize won by Mr. E. M. Geis, and forward same to him. Carried.

Moved and seconded. That the sum of ten (10) dollars be set apart in favor of I. B. Potter, chairman national highway road improvement committee for recruiting purposes as set forth in his circular.

(Circular at ached.)

Moved and seconded. That the secretary-treasurer, W. C. F. Reichenbach, be chosen as the delegate of this division to the national assembly L. A. W. to be held in Baltimore, Md., Feb. 10, 1896. Carried.

Moved and seconded. That the hotel expenses incurred by representatives in attendance at this board meeting be paid by the division. Carried.

Moved and seconded. That Section 2, Article II. of the constitution of this division be amended to read as follows: Insert after the word "events" the words "one quarter mile, one-half mile, one mile, two miles and five miles for safety bicycles."

The annual State meet to be entitled to only two of these events, the choice thereof to be determined by the promoter of such State meet, the other three to be run under the direction of the chairman of the State racing board at such time and place as he shall designate.

The design, etc. of these medals shall be the same as those furnished at the ninth annual meet, Topeka, held August 16 and 17, 1895, a copy of which is in possession of the chairman of the racing board. Carried.

Moved and seconded. That Article III, Section 2, of the by-laws of this division be amended by adding after the word "rules" the words "and the constitution of this division." Carried.

Moved and seconded. Amend Article III of the by-laws by adding a new section, as follows: "Section 4. There shall be a transportation committee, consisting of three members whose duty it shall be to arrange and secure special rates and agreements for the carriage of members of the League and their wheels, shall have power to represent the division in negotiation with transportation lines and fix the routes for League travel, and also to arrange for the recovery of stolen wheels." Carried.

Adjourned.

Attest. W. C. REICHENBACH, Sec.-Treas.

WISCONSIN BOARD MEETING.

The annual meeting of the board of officers of the Wisconsin division held in Marinette, Dec. 20, 1895, was called to order by Chief Consul W. A. Brown at 3 P. M., in the K. of P. parlors.

In his opening remarks Chief Consul Brown spoke as follows: "Before proceeding to our regular order of business, there are a few points to which I wish to call your attention. We have been called together here to-day to administer and conduct the affairs of the Wisconsin division of the League of American Wheelmen.

The progressive policy of our division during the past few years has caused us to stand among other divisions as one possessed of officers especially proficient in their work, and we cannot give too much credit to our late Chief Consul, A. Cressy Morrison of Milwaukee, and his efficient helpers.

The interests of the division have been greatly promoted during the past year by the excellent work done by the members of the Good Roads department, and for which our friend Dorner, who is with us to-day, is also deserving of much credit for the earnest work which he has done to promote this cause.

The year before us is one of many bright prospects. The recent administration has given us a sound basis upon which to stand, consisting of 1,095 members and about $400 cash in the treasury to begin with. Our plans must be to outline our work for the coming year, and for the good we can do to the wheeling interests of the country in general, and our State in particular, and to discuss means to increase our membership, for in members in this organization, especially, lies our strength.

The plan which took effect shortly after the meeting of the national assembly last February in making a membership run for an entire year from the date of application will eventually keep our number of members quite uniform throughout the year. But as it now stands more than one-half of the memberships expire in April which makes it apparent that if we do not exert every means in our power between now and then, and during the renewal season of the old members, we are liable to again drop below the 1000 mark.

I would urgently recommend that a liberal appropriation be made for the issuance of a State road map as it has been demonstrated in other divisions that such maps are great agents in increasing the membership.

There are other things of which I would like to speak, but as our time is short, we will now proceed to our regular order of business."

The following members of the board responded to the roll call: W. A. Brown, chief consul, Marinette: Ben W. Park, vice-consul, Madison; M. C. Rotier, secretary-treasurer.

STATE REPRESENTATIVES: H. P. Andrae, Milwaukee; Sam J. Ryan, Appleton; Geo. K. Mead, Sheboygan; N. E. Lindquist, Marinette.

LEAGUE CLUB REPRESENTATIVES: C. M. Fairchild and Jas. McGillan of the Marinette Cycling Club; C. H. Ellsworth of the Ripon Cycling Club; Rev. John Fayille and Jas. W. McGiveran of the Appleton Cycling Club; S. D. Baird of the Neenah Cycling Club.

The proxy of F. E. Spring, now of West Superior, was held by M. C. Rotier, and the proxies of James W. Walker and Willibald Ott of the La Crosse county wheelmen were held by Sam J. Ryan of Appleton.

The minutes of the previous board and summer meetings were read and adopted. Then followed the reports of the retiring chief consul, the secretary-treasurer and the road improvement committee, all of which were accepted. Under the head of new business M. C. Rotier offered a complete list of amendments and additions to the division by-laws, which were favorably acted upon with instructions that they be published in the official BULLETIN, according to the conditions of the present by-laws.

Chief Consul Brown announced the appointment of the following committees:—

RACING BOARD: F. J. Schroeder, chairman, Milwaukee; Louis Pierron, Milwaukee; L. A. Hodges, Monroe; J. R. Jones, Jr., Racine; H. E. Pomeroy, Appleton.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENT COMMITTEE: A. C. Runkel, chairman, Milwaukee; Otto Dorner, Milwaukee; C. A. Alderman, Eau Claire; Dr. D. S. McArthur, La Crosse; S. C. Newman, Kenosha.

RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES COMMITTEE: Frank Wootton, chairman, Madison; Fred W. Huennekens, Milwaukee; W. M. Foster, Port Washington; Wilbert Irwin, La Crosse; James McGillan, Marinette.

The appointment of members on the transportation committee was deferred owing to the importance of enlisting the services of suitable men for this committee. Chief Consul Brown took this matter under advisement.

It was moved by H. P. Andrae of Milwaukee, that an appropriation of $150 be made for the road improvement committee. It was seconded by B. W. Park of Madison, but finally amended to an allowance of $100. Upon motion by C. M. Fairchild of Marinette, it was passed that the executive committee be authorized to appropriate as much money as they deemed necessary for the issuance of a State road map.

B. W. Park of Madison, moved that this division again make the special renewal offer of a year's membership in the L. A. W. to every member who shall bring in two new members during the time allowed for his renewal. Motion was seconded and passed.

The question of recommending the appointment of an official handicapper for this district was brought up, and the name of W. A. Bremer, Milwaukee, was recommended by a petition from Appleton.

Gerhard Aussen of Milwaukee was brought into nomination by A. P Andrae on behalf of the association of cycling clubs of Milwaukee. A. M. Patitz was the last to be recommended, and was done by the newly appointed chairman of the racing board, F. J. Schroeder. After some discussion it was moved by James McGillan of Marinette that Mr. Patitz be recommended to the National Racing Board to the position of official handicapper for this district.

N. E. Lindquist of Marinette and S. J. Ryan of Appleton were elected delegates to the national assembly. Upon motion by Mr. Faville of Appleton, $100 was appropriated for the expense of delegates to the assembly. The meeting was then adjourned and recalled at 7 P. M. It was moved by N. E. Lindquist and seconded by S J. Ryan that the $100 appropriated for attending the national assembly should first apply to the expenses of sending the executive committee, and if there remains a surplus, it shal. be used by the two delegates elected. The motion was passed.

The following resolution was offered by James McGillan of Marinette, which was endorsed by the members: "Resolved, That it is the sentiment of the board of officers of the Wisconsin division, L. A. W. that the League should continue its control of bicycle racing as heretofore, and that it would be a mistake and to the detriment of its interests to abandon the same. Resolved, That the delegates of this division to the national assembly be instructed to use every honorable means to prevent such abandonment"

Another resolution offered by S. D. Baird of Neenah was passed upon and read as follows: "Resolved, That the board of officers of the Wisconsin division L. A. W., assembled at Marinette this 20th day of December, 1895, recognizing the faithful and efficient services of its late Chief Consul, Mr. A. C. Morrison, and its present Secretary-Treasurer, M. C. Rotier, express their appreciation of these gentlemen in bringing the division to its present membership, high standing and prestige, and their gratefulness for the unselfish services rendered."

Another resolution by S. J. Ryan, of Appleton was offered and read as follows: "Resolved: that the Board of Officers of the Wisconsin Division assembled at their annual meeting, Dec. 20, 1895, do hereby recommend to the Racing Board a change in the racing rules which will reduce the charge for handicapping from twenty-five cents to fifteen cents each, and for class racing from ten cents to five cents each. There was considerable discussion about the advisability of making this recommendation, but it was finally passed by a small majority.

The selection of the State Meet for 1896 elicited a ively discussion and many arguments by Appleton and Milwaukee delegates. S. J. Ryan, Rev. John Faville and James McGiveran championed the city of Appleton, while H. P. Andrae and Otto Dorner spoke for Milwaukee. On the informal ballot Appleton secured eight votes, Milwaukee four and Madison one. It was then moved by Mr. Andrae that the informal vote be declared formal and that the selection of Appleton for the 1896 meet should be made unanimous.

George K. Mead, of Sheboygan, moved that a hearty vote of thanks be extended to the K. of P. lodge for the use of rooms for the meeting. The motion was passed and adjournment followed at 8 P. M.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to Monday preceding this date, and published in accordance with Article III of the constitution.

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published and to report errors and omissions to the secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at noon on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

QUERIES AND ANSWERS

No. 77,768, New York City, writes:

Will you kindly inform me if the L. A. W. will protect a member who shoots a savage dog that is pursuing him while riding a wheel and also if any difference as to State in which he may be riding at the time.

Ans. We think any man in the same place would say you did right in shooting the dog. We should advise any one, under the circumstances, to first shoot the dog, and then ask the League's support later on. Geography would have little to do with the case.

Wheelman, Utley, Wis., asks:

If a wheelman should come in contact with a road-hog who would break his wheel by not allowing the wheelman his half of the road, or his rights, what can the wheelman do to such a person if said person hasn't anything more than the law allows him in this State, or if he should not be worth one cent?

Ans. In Massachusetts there is a law which terms the careless driving of a horse against a person or his property a criminal assault, and the wrongdoer is punished under the laws of the criminal code. There are other ways of "getting even," sometimes employed in Cheyenne, but they are not considered gentlemanly this far east.

New York Wheelmen:

Write to your chief consul regarding the condition of the Nelson Hill road near Peekskill, and the sandy stretch near Rochester. If these are the only bicycle obstacles on the great through route between New York and Buffalo, they can, and no doubt will, be overcome. What the New York officials can't do can't be done.

JNO. P. HONEYCUTT, Chicago, asks:

Is the bicycle being used by the U. S. signal corps?

Ans. It is. The latest annual report of the chief signal officer, General Greeley, speaks of the advantages derived from the use of the bicycle in repairing the telegraph lines. In one case a break on the line was located two miles from the station in twenty minutes, less time than would have been consumed in obtaining a mount. At another station, Taylor's Ranch, Utah, the bicycle has resulted in a single year in a greater saving to the government than the cost of the machines. The question of reeling out and recovering wire and outpost cable by bicycle automatically has been concluded, and this corps now has a bicycle equipped with an automatic reel for the purpose, that works perfectly. Each section of the field train will eventually be supplied with bicycles.

No. 68,792:

We cannot give you detailed and explicit directions for going from Buffalo, N. Y., to Los Angeles, Cal., by wheel, at this season of the year. St. Louis wheelmen can, no doubt, tell you best route from there. The Southern Pacific or Santa Fe railroad might be the best general route to follow.

H. C. K., Baltimore:

Your views on the subject of employing criminals and the punishment of wrongdoers are forceful and somewhat original. We like to be bold and brave and all that sort of a thing but we think it best to not publish your letter.

C. Francis Jenkins:

Local clubs receive no part of the money paid to the League. It all goes to the national and State division officers, for general use. Quite a number of the State divisions give each member ot the League road books, maps, reduced hotel rates, and many other advantages.

A MARRIED WHEELMAN'S CRY.

Composed after midnight.— Ther. 3 below zero.

S. RAYMOND KITCHIN.

All praise unto the noble man
Whose love for men so fires
His brain that some device he'll give,
To keep the wind in tires.

But greater glory to the man
Who hears our pleadings wild,
And finds some scheme to keep the wind
From the stomach of our child.

THE United States is behind the European nations in using the wheel for military purposes, but the active endeavors of the new organization of United States Military Wheelmen is likely to push this country rapidly to the front in military bicycling. Organization and preliminary drilling is now going on and much practical extended work will be commenced in the spring.

THE New Rochelle (N. Y.) Wheelmen celebrated the new year by taking possession of new and elegant quarters where the club is enjoying the long, winter evenings with gymnastics, games and appurtenances of an up-to-date club house. The club's membership is growing rapidly.

M. A. ATHERTON, a bicycle dealer, in Momence, Ill., prints the L. A. W. application for membership on the reverse side of his business card. This is the sort of a spirit that "cuts ice," and pushes the League's work along.

Mr. Sterling Elliott,
Publisher L. A. W. Bulletin,
12 Pearl St., Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:--

We want to say a word in commendation of the L. A. W. Bulletin, and to express our entire satisfaction with its returns to us as an advertising medium. The measure of that satisfaction is the continuance of our contract with you, which will be extended into the future indefinitely - as long, in fact, as the investment continues to pay as handsomely as at present.

We gauge the average sentiment as to the attractiveness of the Bulletin by our own opinion - which is altogether flattering to its editor. It is one of the few of the many trade journals received at this office which is read through. Its editorials are bright, original without an affectation of originality, forceful and convincing; its poetry is worthy of the more purely literary magazines; and its tone is in tune with the best spirit of the times. We congratulate the L. A. W. on its official organ, and we congratulate ourselves that we were induced to advertise in it.

Yours truly,

CORRESPONDENCE

TWENTY-SIX INCH WHEELS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I would be very glad to see some discussion of the use of 26-inch wheels on bicycles for men of medium and short stature. I am 5 ft. 6 in., and believe that a 26-inch wheel would bring me nearer the ground, and save in weight without reducing the strength, and would be satisfactory in all respects; but I have seen nothing said upon the subject in any of the papers. I would be glad to receive any information as to the relative value of 26-inch wheels. JAS. R. BETTIS.

SOME CORRECTIONS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

In my article on the subject of a cycle tax for cycle paths, in the issue of the BULLETIN for Jan. 10, it appears that I was misinformed in regard to the amount subscribed by the Wallingford wheelmen and by the Pope Manufacturing Company toward the construction of the Meriden-North Haven cycle path. In justice to the Wallingford wheelmen and the Pope Manufacturing Company, I wish to state that the amount turned over to the subscription committee by Mr. Badger, who was appointed to secure subscriptions in Wallingford, was $72.50, instead of $18.26; also that the amount subscribed for by the Pope Manufacturing Company was $50 instead of $25 as was stated.

If you will kindly make the above correction, you will greatly oblige. W. F. COOPER.

THOSE CRUEL FATHERS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Will you kindly permit me to say a word in answer to the article entitled "A Kind-hearted Man," which appeared in your issue of Jan. 10. The woman's view of a subject so near to a mother's heart when the protection and safety of the "wee tots" are involved, may turn the attention of the "Fool Killer" in another direction, and thus save the heads of those who as onlookers see the danger to the little ones strapped on handlebars, and wisely endeavor to arrest it.

The president of the San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children was, in my opinion, quite right, when last October he protested so vigorously against the strapping of little children to the handlebars of bicycles, and I am not alone in this opinion. Throughout the breadth

(Same as No. 1, only "more so.")

The wheelman who carries this perfect No. 2 "Standard" Cyclometer (which registers 10,000 miles, and costs $1.50) pays one-and-a-half tenths of a cent for the accurate recording of each of the first ten thousand miles he travels — and nothing at all for its subsequent work.

It doesn't seem much to pay for ten thousand miles of supreme delight!

If he injures the cyclometer in an accident to the bicycle, he doesn't lose a penny — for if he returns the injured one to us by mail, we will send him another immediately, without charge, without question, without a scowl! That is the "Standard" sort of guaranty — that is our way of backing up our products.

The New York Standard Watch Co.

of the land there is a feeling among women — and entertained also by sensible fathers — that there is imminent danger to the child so carried, and this feeling is unhappily justified by the accidents that have occurred in this way. It is not fair to the child placed in such a dangerous position by a thoughtless, ignorant, or vain-glorious father, whose desire to exhibit his child and himself gets the better of his judgment and parental affection, and it is not fair to the bicycle which gets the blame and forthwith is condemned as a sort of juggernaut by those who do not ride, while all wheelmen solicitous for the interests and good name of this admirable vehicle, pronounce such fathers idiots in running their child and their wheel into—it would almost seem premeditated—danger.

The practice can not be too heartily condemned. It is injudicious to take the risk on country roads, and is absolutely criminal to take it in the crowded thoroughfares of the city. Anyone with a modicum of sense must know that the wheel is overbalanced, the weight with a child on the handlebar is not where it is intended to be, and the machine becomes difficult to manage — much harder to control. In case of collision, or slipping in mud, or breaking of any part of the bicycle — while the wheelman may jump and save himself, the child has absolutely no means of escape. Fastened to the carrier it becomes a part of the thing itself, and must take the "smash-up" with the rest of the vehicle, and be helpless to avoid it. The case that occurred not long since at Broad and Chestnut streets of this city, is one in point where the child was much injured, while the wheelman, father or not, unscaped unhurt. You may say that none but a "fool" would allow his child to get hurt — it is just so — and it is these "fools" that the "Killer" should be after with his club. But better still, use the ounce of prevention by a law forbidding the carrying of helpless children on handlebars. There is another danger to the child so carried, danger from the strong draught on the delicate organism of the little one which gets the full blast, running the risk of pneumonia or other lung troubles, which has been a point with physicians, who condemn the practice as highly censurable. We hope the prevention of cruelty to children societies over the whole country will take the matter in hand, also all lovers of the bicycle — one of the greatest inventions of the age — to prevent the slaughter of the innocents and the disgrace of the wheel.

THE CYCLE SHOW.

To the wheelman who was "in the game" ten years ago, the cycle show of to-day is little less than marvelous.

Then, the man who had the customary number of fingers could enumerate on them all the exhibitors who could be gotten out to help the "show," while the number of visitors who could be induced to pay at the gate was meagre enough to keep the manager on the anxious seat.

All that is changed now, and there is no building in America large enough to furnish space sufficient for the three hundred and sixty odd makers who would like to exhibit and the attendance is such that the question becomes also one of room in the building.

Our New York correspondent writes that he has so far been unable to make any report on the show owing to the jam of humanity which crowds every available yard of space in Madison Square Garden. It is to be hoped that he may get near enough to some of the exhibits to tell us about them next week.

A Misfit.

The man who never rides a wheel
About the busy mart
Is not the proper one, we feel,
To drive a sprinkling cart.

A FLEXIBLE HORSE SHOE WANTED.

An English horseman has said that "it isn't the 'oppin of the 'igh 'edges that 'urts the 'orses 'oofs, but the 'ammer, 'ammer, 'ammer on the 'ard 'iway." It is true that a soft dirt road is better for the horses feet than is the harder pavement. This fact is so well known among trotting and running horsemen that all horse tracks are covered with a few inches of loam, but in the ordinary use of the road the resistance to the wheels of the vehicle, which resistance the horse must use his force to overcome, is of much greater importance; and beside, the horse is not usually driven at a rate of speed which makes the "'ammer, 'ammer, 'ammer," of so much consequence in ordinary traffic.

On the race track the problem is for the horse to get himself over the ground; on the road, especially with loaded teams, the surface which offers least resistance to the rolling wheels is best, and is least wearing on the horse when we consider the horse as an entirety. The ideal road, perhaps, would be the one having a yielding surface for the horse and a steel rail for the wheels.

One of the principal objections to the rail is that teams must travel at many different speeds, constantly passing and repassing each other, thus using the entire width of the road.

We belive that a very much needed improvement is a practical flexible horseshoe, which will enable the horse to carry his soft road with him over the hard pavements.

A Direct Appeal.

You may pray with all the strength you've got
To save a poor, cold sinner,
But it will not touch the vital spot
As would a good, warm dinner.

AN IMPRESSIVE LESSON.

The death of W. S. Nesbit, a member of the Alleghany county (Pa.) bar, from an attack of spinal meningitis, which occurred last week, has attracted some newspaper comment which in a measure is unwarranted.

It is said that his doctor told him several weeks ago, when he was attacked, it was the result of too much cycling, against which Mr. Nesbit has been frequently warned. He paid no attention to the warning and continued "scorching" with his back bent over the handlebar.

More than one physician told him he would contract a disease of the spine. Had Mr. Nesbit not bent over his machine when riding, it is asserted, he would not have contracted the disease.

On frequent occasions the L. A. W. BULLETIN has said things intended to discourage scorching and the "bent over" style of bicycling. It is the general impression that the scorching position is inelegant and injurious.

One of the unfortunate results of a happening of this nature is that it is made to reflect on bicycle riding in general, and all sorts of troubles are attributed to it.

A great many cases of spinal meningitis proved fatal long before the bicycle was invented. It is believed that it has since cured many more cases than it has caused. People will have bodily ailments sooner or later, wheel or no wheel. It is an established fact that if they will ride the bicycle properly, they will, in most cases, live longer and happier.

We may even assert that there are thousands of "scorchers" who are comparatively happy, healthy men. But the scorcher burns the candle at both ends.

A DISEASED liver has often given a man the reputation of being pious.

THE WIDTH OF TREAD.

The universal tendency to make narrower treads, leads to the interesting question of how narrow is narrow enough.

Knowing that the L. A. W. BULLETIN would naturally be expected to settle it, we have taken the following pains:

We measured a number of skeletons and found them to be from 7 to 7½ inches wide, measuring from centre to centre of the hip joints. Our mechanical instinct makes it look reasonable that the thrust of the leg should be as nearly as possible in a direct line from its fulcrum. As the bended leg straightens, it acts as a "toggle joint," pressing downwardly upon the pedal and upwardly upon the hip joint.

The point on the foot which seems to be central so far as strength of muscles is concerned, is not exactly in the middle, but is nearer to the inner or "great toe" side. So it is safe to consider that the central bearing point of the average foot is from 1¼ to 1½ inches from the inside of the great toe joint.

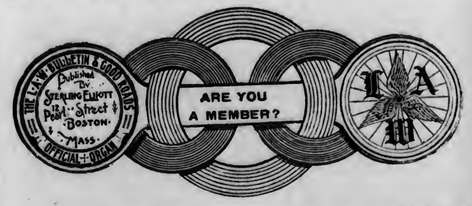
This means that theoretically the insides of the feet as they rest on the pedals should be about 4½ to 5 inches apart. The only element which tends to alter this calculation is the saddle, and this would call for more or less variation, according to the physical construction of the rider.

Practice as well as theory tends to prove that the tread should be as narrow as possible, consistent with mechanical fitness. We do not believe, however, that the gain by an extremely narrow tread is sufficient to warrant the sacrifice that must be made to obtain it.

TANDEM CRANKS AGAIN.

We are criticised for our explanation of why the cranks on a tandem are set so as to have the same dead center, and the locomotive is again cited.

The power of steam and the power exerted by the human or any other animal muscles, are two decidedly different propositions. The force of steam is not spent by exerting a pressure of many tons against the end of the boiler, so long as the part pressed against does not yield to the pressure. while it will tire the human leg just as much, possibly more, to push against a stationary pedal as to push the same amount on one that is moving;



It is only necessary to disconnect the forward chain of any tandem and the pedals may be set "quartering," then the riders will be in a position to discount any amount of theory.

ADVICE TO THE NOVICE.

A page of the Flower City Cycles catalogue, issued by Hamilton & Matthews, Rochester, N. Y., is devoted to the following pertinent lines: —

The proper care of a wheel is more than repaid in the better service obtained, and when rightly adjusted and kept so, will save its owner money.

None of the nuts or fastenings should be allowed to work loose. Bearings too loose are as bad as bearings too tight, and a "happy medium" on chain tension is better than either extreme.

All bearings should be so adjusted that but very little side play can be detected, and at the same time have enough play to run perfectly free. A few drops of oil frequently in the bearings is far better than a lot of oil occasionally. Don't oil the chain excepting possibly the joints, and these not more than once a month. Lubricants specially prepared are much better to use where the chain comes in contact with the sprockets.

Keep tires well inflated, a soft tire punctures easier and propels harder than one that is hard.

A general rule for the height of saddle, is to adjust it so that when pedal is at the lowest point, a low heel will rest on it without having to bend the knee. The handle bar should be low enough in the different positions (upright, semi-racing and racing) to allow the arms being nearly straight when hands are on the grips. A clean, bright wheel is observed of all men. A muddy and dusty wheel is a discredit to its possessor.

Cranks are moving things the world over, but a positive crank and one yet readily detached is widely appreciated.

Bicycle cranks, like Uncle Sam's dollars, require to be on a thoroughly solid basis. We have used the simple crank pin for years — every cyclist knows it on sight. It is a good thing, the best to date. We have respect for good things, and retain them.

BICYCLING IN FLORIDA.

H. P. KITTREDGE.

PERMIT me to give to the wheelmen coming to Florida from distant points the fact that there are good roads in Florida. I speak now of the east coast of Florida. The sea coast furnishes a good route, a distance of seven hundred miles of smooth, hard sand, hard as a floor. This is very popular.

The sandy roads have been improved and made good for the wheel on the east coast, by the local and visiting wheelmen.

In this country are found large mounds or hills of sea shells, some fifty to seventy-five feet high. They consist of oyster, conch and clam shells. History tells us they have been here for ages, placed by mound builders or Indians, but never theless now is the time for use, for when trod they make a good, hard roadbed.

During the past week the local and visiting cyclists made the connecting link of a distance of three miles of road, connecting the towns of New Smyrna and Hawks Park, Fla. When finished no less than twelve wheels made a run of seventy-five miles over this shell roadbed.

Wheels are popular in this vicinity. The winter tourists and visitors are bringing their wheels with them this winter and find plenty of opportunities for use.

A PENNSYLVANIA ROAD.

The illustration published herewith was sent to the L. A. W. BULLETIN as "an example of the good (?) roads of Luzerne Co., Pa. This picture was taken in the spring of 1895. The road is traveled ordinarily by four hundred or five hundred teams daily, and is in the condition as shown, for two or three weeks every spring, notwithstanding the fact that three men and a one-horse team are at work on a four mile stretch for about eight months of the year."

The words of this correspondent as given would indicate that the Keystone State division of the L. A. W. has plenty of work yet to perform.

PASSING THOUGHTS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Why are the words passing and meeting used synonomously? or at least many say "passing a person" when they mean meeting a person. If the words are used ambiguously the directions, "how to turn out," become confusing instead of helpful.

If the directions say "turn to the right when passing," using the word passing as many do, the instructions are dead wrong. If it is said "the right when meeting," i. e., coming to the same point from opposite directions, or "to the left when passing," i. e., going in the same direction, no one need "lose their head," or collide, unless they never went to school, or are riding too fast.

EXPENSE OF A CANADIAN TOUR.

DR. WHEELER K. DOTY.

IN response to the question propounded by No. 81,219, regarding expense attending the Canadian Tour described in issue of Nov. 22, 1895, would say that it cost us a trifle over three dollars per day. The trip could be made sort of on the camping-out plan for two dollars, and a grand success can be made of any tour on five dollars per day, and not be very extravagant either.

Some of the members of our club (The New York Tourist Wheelmen) have made an especial study of American tours, routes, hotels, etc. We have garnered our information from any and every source and like "Little Oliver" we want more, at the same time, what we have is freely "on tap" to all members of the L. A. W.

We feel that while the wheel is a grand institution around home, it is only when one strikes out for a tour of say one, two, three or more weeks that the real value of the machine becomes appreciated. The greater part of humanity are by nature members of a nomadic tribe, and how can so full an expression be given to this enjoyment as a tour a-wheel—like the gypsies, or the circus; "here to-day, gone tomorrow." Then when you return, if your tour has been well planned, and the weather favorable, strange as it may appear, your little two weeks will seem at least four. When you think of all the grand bits of nature you have gazed upon, of the strange faces, peculiar customs, mannerisms of speech, and funny incidents that you have been brought in contact with, of how "Bobbie" beat the queen on her own ground; of how "Tom" wrestled with the canal mule and the wet result; of how "Dick" took the never-to-be-forgotten header landing at the feet of his "best girl"; of that squabble between "Harry" and the Frenchman over the dog, neither knowing what they were saying; and lots more with six or seven hundred miles easily rolled off, you can but ask yourself if all could have happened in so short a time.

I know I am giving a very long answer to a very simple question, but I am wound up now, and want to say a word on L. A. W. hotels.

Now and then some "recent addition" gets funny about "cut rates for wheelmen" but I suppose they don't know that all we ever got, or expect to get are regular commercial rates which are no especial favors to wheelmen as a class. Then as to the "hungry crowd" that's just what we are, and proud of it too, and I know that it costs not as much to care for the wants of a hungry, healthy cycler, as it does to satisfy the dyspeptic, crochety old crank who eats ten cents worth, wastes ten dollars worth and makes one hundred dollars' worth of trouble.

All hotels should be proud to be designated by the L. A. W. We may have some black sheep in our large membership but the greater part are of "the salt of the earth"; not with "money to burn" exactly, but with enough to pay for what they order.

Along the Hudson River Valley are a number of hotels whose proprietors are politic enough to hang out a good, plain sign with the mystic letters prominent therein, but the great majority throughout the country have nothing upon their outer walls to direct the wayfarer. In the city of Hudson are two "up-to-date" houses "The Worth" and "The Lincoln" and I say to the tourist, don't miss stopping at one of them on your way through that town. You will have a "swelled head" immediately and imagine from the attention you receive that the proprietor thinks you are at least the president of the League or some other "big man," but sit by the window a moment and see them meet the next dusty traveller,—the same care and attention; does it pay? Well, I guess yes—for every man who stops there once goes miles out of his way to repeat the operation.

The members of the N. Y. T. W. are always ready to "give and take" all possible information regarding domestic or foreign tours a-wheel, so, as our "count" says, "Smoke up."

THE BICYCLE IN COURT.

BY MALCOMB TAYLOR.

So recent has been the introduction of the modern bicycle that in the Century Dictionary a bicycle is still defined as a two-wheeled machine, one wheel of which is of great size, and propelled by pedals attached to the axle of the large wheel — a definition which would hardly be acceptable to a believer in the modern "safety."

But whatever its shape, the bicycle has presented to the courts some new questions, which, however, have been solved without difficulty, and with a unanimity rather unusual in the early decisions on a new and novel question.

When the bicycle was first brought to the notice of the courts they were inclined to regard it as a toy or scientific plaything, and not of sufficient importance to be considered when its use interfered with the general public convenience. Thus restrictions as to its use were upheld on the ground that a bicycle was often a public nuisance. But as the bicycle passed into the sphere of general use, it could no longer be regarded as a nuisance, and the former positions of the courts were abandoned, and the rights of the bicycle rider recognized and enforced; and at the same time his liability under statutes and ordinances passed before the introduction of the bicycle clearly defined.

There have as yet been but few decisions in the higher courts on the rights and liabilities of bicyclists, but several important principles have been laid down.

Is a Bicycle a Carriage?— The courts have been frequently confronted with the question as to whether a bicycle or tricycle can be considered a carriage, so as to come within the statutory provisions regarding the use and management of vehicles. The officials of the Treasury Department at Washington have not hesitated to subject bicycles to the duties imposed on carriages, and have held that bicycles cannot be considered as personal effects.

The earliest case is that of Taylor v. Goodwin, where the question arose under a statute forbidding fast driving on a highway. The defendant had been indicted for riding his bicycle on the road in question at a very rapid rate, but the objection was made that he did not come within the provisions of the statute. It was contended that a bicycle is not a carriage, and cannot be driven in the ordinary sense of the term. Bicycles were unknown when the act was passed, and it was argued that the mere fact of a bicycle having wheels did not make such a machine a carriage. The court in affirming the judgment of conviction said: "I think the word 'carriage' is large enough to include a machine such as a bicycle, which carries the person who gets upon it; and I think that such a person may be said to drive it. He guides as well as propels it, and may be said to drive it as an engineer may be said to drive an engine. The furious driving of a bicycle is clearly within the meaning of the statute, and it seems to me within the meaning of the words, giving them a reasonable construction."

But the doctrine here laid down was somewhat modified in the case of Williams v. Ellis. A turnpike act imposed a toll on certain kinds of carriages — enumerating them — and on "every carriage of whatever description and for whatever purpose, which shall be drawn or impelled, or set or kept in motion by steam or other power or agency." The toll was held illegal on the ground that "the carriages here referred to must be carriages ejusdem generis with the carriages previously specified. The learned judge considered the purpose of the turnpike act, and distinguished it from the purpose of the act in Taylor v. Goodwin, thus reconciling the cases.

Parkyns v. Preish does not bear directly on the question under discussion, but it was there held that a bicycle with a small steam motor by which it could be propelled, but which did not emit any steam or smoke, came within the provisions subjecting to certain regulations "every locomotive propelled by steam, or any other than animal power on any turnpike road or public highway." It was so held, although the act was passed before the invention of bicycles.

In State v. Collins, in an action for damages resulting from a collision between a bicycle and a wagon, by reason of the failure of the latter to turn seasonably to the right, as required by statute, the court held a bicycle to be a vehicle, and entitled to the rights of a carriage or wagon. "The word vehicle," said the Judge, "is certainly broad enough to include any machine which is used and driven on the travelled part of the highway for the purpose of conveyance upon the highway."

Again, in Mercer v. Corbin, decided in 1888, a bicycle was held to be a vehicle within the scope of a statute forbidding riding or driving on sidewalks.

A late case is that of Thompson v. Dodge (October, 1894), where it was held in very emphatic language that a bicycle was a vehicle, and the riding or driving of one upon a public highway was not unlawful, and, in the language of the learned judge, "they cannot be banished because they were not ancient vehicles, and used in the Garden of Eden by Adam and Eve."

In Commonwealth v. Forrest (Pa.) it is held that under a statute providing that any person who shall wilfully "ride or drive any horse or any other animal" on certain sidewalks, taken in connection with another act providing that bicyclists shall be subject to the same restrictions as are imposed on persons using carriages drawn by horses, a person riding a bicycle on such sidewalks is guilty of a violation of the act. A driver of a carriage and a rider of a bicycle have the same rights and are subject to the same restrictions and penalties.

How Far May the Use of Bicycles be Restricted?— It has been held that reasonable restrictions may be put upon the indiscriminate use of bicycles in public places.

In State v. Topp, a statute forbidding anyone "to use upon the road of" a particular turnpike company "a bicycle or tricycle, or other non-horse vehicle, without the express permission of the superintendent" of the road, was upheld. The defendant, in an indictment against him, contended that such statute deprived him of the use of his property, when such use was not injurious to others. The court held, however, that he was not deprived of the use of his property; that he might have gone another way, or at another time, with the permission of the superintendent; and that, in any case, he had no right to use his bicycle at the peril of other people. As the decision in this case was based primarily on the ground that "no man has a right to use his property so as to produce a nuisance, or to have property which is a nuisance, where it may be situate," the case would now have but little weight, unless a bicycle were held to be a nuisance, which, in the face of its general use, is scarcely probable.

In Tinlley v. Perkins it was adjudged that a rule forbidding persons to ride bicycles across a bridge was authorized under a statute giving commissioners power to make rules and regulations for the use of such bridge. The rider was not deprived of the use of his property, as he might dismount while crossing the bridge, and such a regulation is not unreasonable.

The case of Mercer v. Corbin, which is a leading one on bicycle law, is authority for a dictum, to the effect that an ordinance forbidding the use of a road by bicyclists, is void as depriving citizens of the use of a public highway by a new but now ordinary mode of travelling. This case also decides that a defendant is liable for riding his bicycle on a sidewalk under an ordinance forbidding riding and driving on sidewalks.

The New York Park Commissioners who have authority to provide for the direction and management of the parks in the city, have power to pass an ordinance that no bicycle or tricycle shall be used therein, and such an ordinance has been upheld in a bicycle case.

The case of Swift v. City of Topeka was decided upon a side issue in the interpretation of an ordinance. The learned judge, however, in his opinion remarks, that if the ordinance meant to forbid the use of a roadway — in distinction from footway — over a bridge by bicycles, it was void, as depriving citizens of the use of a public highway, when they were following one of the new but now ordinary modes of travel.

Liability for Frightening Horses.— It may be regarded as a settled principle that the rider of a bicycle is not liable for injury caused by horses becoming frightened while passing him upon the road.

In Holland v. Bartch the learned judge remarked that the use of a bicycle is no more unlawful because it tends to frighten horses than that of a locomotive for the same reason, and that no recovery could be had under such circumstances. In this case the court further held that the rider of a bicycle and the driver of a carriage have equal rights upon a highway, and that allegations that the defendant rode a bicycle in the centre of the road, at the rate of fifteen miles an hour, up to within twenty-five feet of the faces of the plaintiff's horses, whereby they became frightened and ran away, and injured the plaintiff, did not state a sufficient cause of action.

In Thompson v. Dodge (October, 1894) it was held that a person riding or driving a horse upon a highway has no right superior to those of a person riding a bicycle; and, further, that it is not the duty of a party lawfully travelling upon a public highway with a bicycle, when he sees a horse and carriage approaching, to anticipate that such horse will become frightened and turn out of the road.

Liability to Pay Toll.—The leading, and in fact the only, case in the higher courts upon the liability of bicyclists to pay toll, is that of Geiger v. President, etc., of P. & R. Turnpike Road, (April, 1895). It was here held that turnpike companies incorporated before the invention of bicycles, and authorized to maintain a public highway and collect tolls from those who travelled thereon with horses, cattle and certain named carriages, "or other carriages of burthen or pleasure, and every other carriage, under whatever name it may go," might collect toll from a bicyclist who used its road, notwithstanding its charter, which authorized the tolls to be computed only by "wheels and horses." And further that a toll charged upon bicyclists for using such road, which did not exceed the toll lawfully charged drivers of two-wheeled carriages, was lawful and proper.— Virginia Law Register.

WHEELS CARRIED FREE.

Assemblyman Fred A. Robbins, of Allegany County, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, has introduced a bill to compel the railroads of N. Y. State to carry bicycles as baggage without extra compensation, and without conditions such as signing a release from all claims for damage in case of injury to the machine. He says he sees no reason why bicycles cannot be carried as easily and without extra charge as a baby carriage. They are no more liable to injury and take no more space in a car.

A bill to allow bicycles the free use of the Brooklyn carriage way has also been introduced in both Houses of the Legislature.

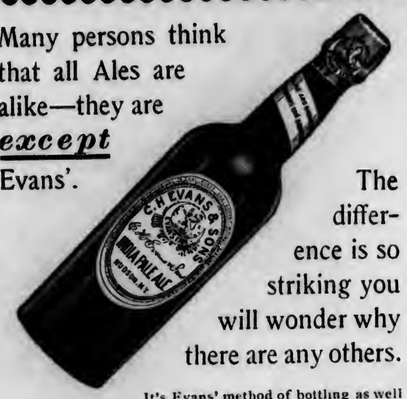
WORDS TO WHEELMEN.

The following hints to the cyclist on the care of his machine are to be found in the catalogue sent out by the Warwick Cycle Company, of Springfield, Mass.

Keep it clean. This is most important of all. It does not require skill, but exercise of a little energy, perseverance and application of elbow grease.



Keep the bearings perfectly adjusted, but do not attempt any mechanical work that you do not understand. Take it to your repairer. Don't experiment with it.

The bearings need thorough lubrication, but it is not necessary to oil them for every ride. It is a good plan to have your repair man occasionally open the bearings, clean them and fill with vaseline.

Keep the chain thoroughly free from dirt and well covered with graphite.

See that every nut and screw is tight.

Many persons think that all Ales are alike—they are except Evans'.

The difference is so striking you will wonder why there are any others.

It's Evans' method of bottling as well as brewing that makes the distinction.

Do not leave your bicycle out over night, nor in a damp place. Keep it where neither moths nor rust do corrupt, nor thieves break through and steal.

Do not lend it.

Keep the tires well filled with air; neither flabby, nor as hard as possible to pump them. If the tires are cut by the edges of the rim or by sharp objects on the road, the dealer will not sympathize with your claim for free repairs.

If your tire punctures, have it thoroughly repaired; if you cannot do it well yourself, take it to the repairer. A bad job never fails to make the tire porous.

If you unconsciously or accidentally ride into a stone wall, curbing, or any other obstacle which causes you to suddenly part company with your bicycle, it is well to have it taken apart by an expert repairer and thoroughly examined; otherwise you may sooner or later come to grief on the proverbially smooth road.

Have the handle bars and saddle post adjusted to fit you.

ADAM and Eve must have dwelt in Paradise, for they had no servants nor no neighbors.

THE bicycle needs care while in the shed as well as while on the road. See that it is being properly wintered.

THE CRANK BICYCLE PUMP.

ONE of the lightest in weight in the market. It is as powerful as a foot pump, and at the same time so small that it can be carried without inconvenience in the vest pocket, the tool bag, or attached to the clamps (which are left permanently on the front and rear forks of the wheel). So simple in its mechanism that it is not liable to get out of order. There is practically no friction in its operation, therefore no wear-out to the parts. The leverage obtained by use of the crank is such that five pounds of physical effort will produce eighty pounds of air pressure in the tire. Ask your dealer for it.

A NEEDED REPAIR.

S. B. MURRAY.

Pennsylvania wheelmen and all others, especially the L. A. W. members of the Keystone State as well as other States, who are interested in good roads, are kindly requested to assist us in any way they can in the repair of road and route No. 118 in Pennsylvania road book.

This road or route through what is known as the Narrows that connects Lewistown and Mifflintown as well as the eastern and western parts of our State, is now and in fact always has been in an impassable condition, and unridable for wheelmen as well as other conveyances or ways of travel. And since our big flood in 1889 ruined the last resort, the towpath of Pennsylvania canal, we have at last concluded to repair some with whatever influence and contributions we may receive from the friends of the good roads cause.

All names of contributors and amounts will be properly acknowledged in one of our county papers, from time to time as the work proceeds. This is a good and worthy cause, as any wheelmen or travellers that have had occasion to use this road

"I TOLD YOU SO."

NIXON WATERMAN.

We one and all have met the man
Who, ever since the world began,
The gods with knowledge have supplied
Which to the rest has been denied.
But who to a benighted world
His fund of wisdom has unfurled,
For naught can come of weal or woe
But he declares "I told you so!"

Religion, politics and all,
On any subject great or small,
It doesn't matter what or where,
You cannot take him unaware.
He nothing new or startling hears;
He's "been expecting it for years,"
And marvels that you did not know
'Twould happen, since he "told you so."

He'll cherish his peculiar trait
While life his form shall animate,
And show us with his parting breath,
The "ruling passion strong in death."
And when his doctor shall have said
To mourning kindred, "He is dead!"
'Tis certain he will not forego
The chance to say "I told you so!"

BICYCLE campaign clubs will be a novel feature in this year's political struggle.

THE bloomer habit is one not easily shaken off.

THE year can now be divided into two seasons—icicles and bicycles.

LOTS of men keep from telling bare-faced lies by wearing whiskers.

THE Elwell European bicycle tour starts from New York June 20. For full particulars address F. A. Elwell, Portland, Me.

MR. CHANNING ELLERY of 228 W. 38th street, New York, will organize a small party for a bicycle tour abroad during the coming summer.

THE Continental Cycle Co have secured the services of Mr. A. L. Collins, who has had long experience in the bicycle business, and who will represent them in the east. The headquarters of this company during the New York show will be at the Hotel Imperial, at which place Mr. Collins will hold forth from the 18th to the 27th inst., with samples of the "Rialto," where he will be pleased to welcome all callers.

Hard and Soft.

Oh, rocks are hard and so is gravel,
And yet we sadly find, full oft,
About the hardest road to travel
Is one that's very, very soft.

RAILROADS AND WAGON ROADS.

MANY of the railroad companies of the land have expressed their friendly interest in the good roads movement by offering to transport materials and machinery, for the improvement of highways, at reduced rates.

We should always give the devil his due, and, furthermore, we should not look a gift horse in the mouth. As a rule, railroad corporations are not often troubled with big-heartedness.

This seeming liberality of the railroad companies is merely a display of good sense and good business. But the incentive for their acts, like "the flowers that bloom in the spring, have nothing to do with the case," except it is a hopeful sign that business, and not sympathy, prompts them to do as they are.

It is a well understood fact that the distance to market should be measured largely by the dynamometer rather than by the surveyor's chain. Hence the better the roads, the larger the area from which a railroad will derive patronage, and the less likelihood of competing, or other lines being asked for and constructed.

Produce that cannot be hauled to the railroad, with profit to the farmer, is so much business lost to the railroads.

On ordinary roads the cost of hauling produce to the local railway station, is several times as much as the railroad charges for conveying it to the metropolis or sea board.

It is clear that bad roads may make the marketing of much produce unprofitable and unwise, whereas, good roads would make it worth transporting, and thus they would greatly increase the railroad's income, and at the same time benefit the farmers.

Under present conditions, railroad traffic in many sections of the country depends on every change of the weather that may effect the wagon roads. In very muddy times, no produce is marketed, and a sudden freeze-up may precipitate a rush, which proves inconvenient to the railroad company. Good weather-proof roads would insure a more regular shipment of farm products and a more even market for the same.

All in all a thorough system of good roads would benefit the railroads very greatly. Every wagon road is a feeder to a railroad. The better and more extended the former, the more business will be done by the latter.

It is simply good business for the railroad companies to do all they can to encourage and materially aid in the improvement of highways.

GOOD ROADS.

The issue of the New York Independent for Feb. 6 will contain a symposium on good roads. The Independent has given a great deal of space to this subject, and it now proposes to present its readers with a series of communications from some of the ablest and best-posted writers in the country upon it; among others the following:

"Massachusetts Road System," Prof. N. S. Shaler, chief of Massachusetts road commission: "Good Roads and Forestry," Prof. P. E. Fernow, chief U. S. bureau of forestry; "Farmers and Good Roads," ex-Governor Roswell P. Flower: "An Instance of Good Roads," Maurice Thompson, poet, literateur and geologist; "The Development of American Roads," George E. Walsh, agriculturist writer; "American Wheelmen," Isaac B. Potter, chief consul New York Division League American Wheelmen: "The Use of Asphalt For Roads," James W. Howard, civil engineer; "How Roads Should Be Made," G. A. Roullier, civil engineer: "Old Roman Roads," Prof. J. R. S. Sterrett, explorer in Asia Minor; "Village Improvement Societies," Helen E. Smith, author; "What Bicycles Have Done for Good Roads," Col. Albert A. Pope.

Every farmer, every owner of a horse and vehicle, every bicycle rider, every producer, and—more important than any or all of the above—every consumer, is deeply interested in the subject of good roads, there being no doubt that they tend to lower the prices of all articles consumed.

ALLEGHANY county, Pa., has levied a $400,000 tax for the improvement of the county roads.

NOW is the time to get ready to get a good start at road-making in the spring.

ILLINOIS DIVISION.

Annual Meeting, Board of Officers, L. A. W.

The annual meeting of the board of officers of the Illinois division, League of American Wheelmen, was called to order at three o'clock, Saturday afternoon, December 28th, in the Great Northern hotel, Chicago, with Chief Consul Jaquish in the chair. The roll-call showed the following members present: Chief Consul L. C. Jaquish; Vice Consul John L. Misner; Secretary-Treasurer George D. Locke; Representatives C. L. Steen, H. P. Walden, A. J. Marrett, E. J. Porter, W. A. Davis, Fred Gerlach, W. A. Connelly, A. G. Woodbury, T. R. Bunting, J. R. Brown, M. X. Chuse, H. C. Morse, C. F. Vail, A. A. Billingsley, C. H. Robinson, J. F. O'Loughlin, F. R. Gadd, H. K. Allen.

Chief Consul Jaquish made his annual report.

Chief Consul's Report.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE ILLINOIS DIVISION, L. A. W.:

I deem it proper to make a brief report of the affairs of the division for the year 1895. While the increase in membership of the division during the year has not been satisfactory, I believe that a statement of the conditions under which the division labored will offer a satisfactory explanation for not having brought about more satisfactory results. In common with the league at large, Illinois division began the year 1895 suffering from the effects of the virtual discontinuance of the BULLETIN in the year 1894.

It is not necessary to go into the conditions which brought about these disastrous results, as I believe they are familiar to every well informed League member. Suffice it to say that with the stoppage of the BULLETIN, there was a marked decrease in interest in League matters on the part of its members, and a falling off of at least fifty per cent. of the membership.

Under these conditions we began the year 1895, with $70.39 in the treasury, with 1612 members on the books. In 1893 the division officers borrowed $500, and in 1894 they borrowed $400 to carry them over to the time when they would receive their remittance from the secretary of the League. This plan was thoroughly discussed at a meeting of the division officers and others interested in the matter in April of the present year. Various plans of raising the money were discussed, and it was finally decided to get along the best way we could without borrowing money, and did so.

In addition to other difficulties we inherited a legacy debts, amounting to $363.61, all of which we have paid during the present year. We have expended about $300 in the printing work, and have taker in 595 new members; of the old membership of 1612, 975 renewed, the balance dropping out for reasons best known to themselves, though renewal blanks were sent to every member by the secretary-treasurer, a surprisingly large number of which were returned unclaimed at he will show in his report.

It will thus be seen that during the year we have lost 637 members by failure to renew. It is believed that a large percentage of the loss of membership is due to the fact that not half of the members received their BULLETIN during the year of 1894; therefore, had no incentive to report their change of address to headquarters when they moved, also due to loss of interest in League matters by failure to receive the BULLETIN, and perhaps the balance is due to both, because of a lack of work among the members on the part of the local consuls, whose duty it is to inspire wheelmen generally and League members in particular with a live interest in League work.

How to remedy the existing state of things is the chief problem of the hour. My experience teaches me that when the question of good roads is properly and forcibly presented to wheelmen, they at once become interested in the League, and wish to join it. If you convince a wheelman that the League of American Wheelmen is the largest and strongest organization in existence today, which is working for the building of permanent highways, you will awaken his interest and he is ready to join hands with you.

On the other hand, wheelmen are like the balance of humanity, selfish, and they raise the old question, "What do I get for my dollar?" It seldom occurs to them that the proper question is, "How much good can I do with my dollar?" If this question were asked by every wheelman, the answer would be, "Give it to the League to be expended in the cause of good roads;" and every wheelman would join the League, but not long in this direction would wheelmen be benefited by belonging to the League. If every cyclist in the United States were to join the League, that body would exert an influence, which it would not be possible to resist. They could virtually control legislation, and compel the enactment of laws in every state for the building of permanent roads, and could secure without difficulty such other proper legislation as might be desired.

It would also make it possible for each division to place guide boards at every prominent road crossing for the guidance not only of wheelmen alone, but every traveller on the public highway. The influence of the League would be so strong that the railroads could not carry into effect the plan of charging for carrying bicycles on their trains. Better arrangements than now obtained could be made at hotels throughout the country for the accomodation of League members. In short, it is not possible, in a report the length of this to enumerate all the benefits that would accrue to wheelmen if they should join the League in a body.

It is not possible for the division officers to reach all the wheelmen in a division personally, and present to them in the proper light arguments and reasons for joining the League, and for always remaining in it when they once have joined it. A large portion of this work must be delegated to others, as it is well known that far more can be done by personal effort than can possibly be done through circulars, letters, and other mediums of that kind. We must look to the local consuls to perform this personal work in their respective localities, and to that end it is desirable that only live, energetic members of the League should be appointed local consuls, those who take principal interest in League work, and who will whenever the occasion presents itself, say something that will induce wheelmen to become members.

It has been my policy in the past year, as it will be in the coming, to appoint as local consuls only men who will work for the interests of the League, believing it to be better to leave the office vacant rather than have it filled with dead timber. For this reason not half the local consuls have been appointed that should have been. Whenever I have discovered a man who was sending applications for membership, and showing an interest in League members, I have him appointed local consul, and shall continue to do so. Also I have acted on every recommendation that I have received, making such appointments that I believe in the main those positions are occupied by fairly good men, but it will be my endeavor the coming year to make better appointments than those of the past year, if possible.

I shall briefly outline the work for the coming year. First, last and all the time, every member of this division is requested to talk good roads, and to ask every wheelman of his acquaintance to become a member of the League. If this is done, substantial results can be shown. Wheelmen from every part of the state are requested to make recommendations for the appointment of local consuls, and only to recommend the names of live, energetic wheelmen. Local consuls are requested to confer with the best hotels in their locality, with a view of making concessions to League members, and to report the results of their efforts to me.

It is extremely necessary that our hand book should be revised this year, bringing it down to date, making it as brief as possible and at the same time omitting nothing of importance. This should be attended to at the earliest possible moment. It is also desirable, as soon as the condition of the treasury will warrant it, to revise our old road book and republish the same at an early date. Our road books are all sold, and we have frequent calls for them. I would not advise taking this step, however, until we have money enough to enable us to publish the book without distressing ourselves financially.

Chief consul's report accepted.

Report of Secretary-Treasurer Marrett.

THE CHIEF CONSUL AND REPRESENTATIVES OF THE DIVISION:

Gentlemen:—During the year that has just ended the League in Illinois has not made the progress that we looked for in the earlier months of the year. The membership, now 1,570, has slightly decreased. We did very well with new applications, but the loss by members failing to renew was very great, the number of letters returned marked gone away was a great surprise. On consideration, this is explainable, in a great measure, owing to the fact that members last year had no incentive to report their change of address. The majority had not subscribed to the BULLETIN, and had practically no communication with the League, consequently no track could be kept of their movements. After the last assembly meeting, we knew that the proportion to be received by the division would be less than previous years, consequently we had to keep in mind the expenditure. We have conducted the business of the division on as economical basis as possible, every branch except the recruiting has been carried on at a less expense than the previous year. We have also paid a considerable sum left over from that year.

There has not been anything startling in the division during the year. The chief consul in his report deals with most of the work done by us. We have kept out of law. Several times it looked as though we should have some experience in that line, proposals to tax cycles being suggested in various places, but always died out. The chief consul, division attorney, and myself watched the matter and were prepared to take the matter up in the interest of cycling generally.

We discontinued the plan of paying cash bonuses for obtaining members, offering, instead, prizes in other forms, a tandem for the greatest number during the League year, a cycle for any one bringing in 100 or more, books for smaller numbers. Several members stated their intention of competing, but to up the present time no one has sent in sufficient names to obtain the reward.

In my successor you have elected a man who has the interest of the League at heart, and is a thorough enthusiast in cycling matters, and I am sure will fill the office much better than I have been able to. I have to thank all members with whom I have come in contact for their kindness, and trust next year we may see more interest taken in the League. There is certainly a lack of it at present. Cyclists do not realize that they receive any direct benefits by joining beyond receiving a weekly newspaper, and many, perhaps the majority, do not care for a cycling paper. They ride just for the pleasure of exercise, or business purposes, or economy, never going beyond the boulevard or city streets. Good or bad roads in the country have little interest for them. If the farmer wants better roads he is the man to look after it. They take no interest in racing. So long as they possess a good wheel, or think they do, and can ride without much discomfort, they are perfectly satisfied. How are this class to be induced to join us?

We have received during the year:
Balance on hand,	$ 70 39
595 Applications,	767 05
975 Renewals,	341 25
Fines and Transfers,	1 34
Road Books and Miscellaneous Receipts,	162 90
		$1,362 93
And expended as follows:
Chief Consul,	$ 80 05
Secretary-Treasurer,	418 00
Recruiting,	293 00
Annual Meet	147 20
(This amount was left over from last year, owing Quincy).
Board of Officers,	110 75
Road Improvement,	93 95
($50 of which was last year).
Reward,	25 00
Election,	36 75
National Assembly,	113 17
Balance on hand,	45 25
		$1,362 93

You will see that the disbursements during the year amounted to $1,317.67 against $1,889 12 (leaving out the loan which was paid back) for 1894. We did not borrow any money this year, being out of pocket until the remittances were received from Boston.

Motion that a vote of thanks be extended to the officers of the past year for the faithful performance of their duties. Motion carried.

Report of A. C. Woodbury, Chairman of the Road Improvement Committee.

TO THE CHIEF CONSUL, OFFICERS, AND MEMBERS OF THE ILLINOIS DIVISION, L. A. W.:

Gentlemen,—Your committee regret to report so little accomplished. At the last meeting of the division board in this city so much gratification was expressed about the information gathered as to road taxes of Illinois that your committee hoped to use it to good purpose. The first idea advanced was that a pamphlet should be issued for general distribution, containing this road data. The treasury being unable to bear the expense, it was suggested that advertising among cycling, vehicle, and road-making implement people be secured. Later this was dropped, because the book was to be principally for farmers, and it was agreed that advertising of such a character would injure the cause. As the time was passing, a condensation was made and kindly issued by the Chicago Herald. This article was plate matter used more or less in Illinois papers. Two hundred copies of this paper were bought and mailed to various people. Later two hundred more were purchased, a number yet being on hand. The article called "Conditions" was also published in the last number of Good Roads Magazine. This was an excellent place to preserve figures, and if previous notice had been given, a number could have been contracted for, as only forty were secured.

At the December meeting a year ago a road bill was presented which was drawn by the division attorney. It was endorsed by the members present, and its passage by the legislature urged. Early in January a conference was held of three interested parties in this question. Mr. C. F. Kimball of Chicago represented the carriage builders; Mr. A. C. Baldwin of La Salle county, as a farmer and a county supervisor, took part in a lengthy letter, giving his views; and the wheelmen present were L. C. Jaquish, T. F. Sheridan, and the chairman of this committee. It was there decided to hold back the prepared bill, and await the action of the State meeting of the supervisors on the 17th of January. Mr. Baldwin was placed on the road committee at that convention, but failed to secure favorable action. Further delay was occasioned by the opinion of interested parties that our bill would not receive favorable action, and Chief Consul Jaquish said he would try and have Division Attorney Arthur prepare a bill on other lines, and after a short delay this was abandoned, and the original was introduced by Hon. William Bines of Vermillion county, himself a member of the road and bridge committee, as House Bill, No. 253, Feb. 7. The division, represented on the ground by Mr. Billingsley of the legislative committee, had had several conferences with Mr. Bines. When the bill came before the committee, Mr. Billingsley was given a hearing, but he reports no assistance excepting from Mr. Bines, the majority of the members giving little attention to it, and it failed to carry, being killed in the committee room. Previous to this, early in the session, a detailed road law, House Bill, No. 77, was introduced by Representative Ely of Grundy county. It covered twenty-two pages and showed much care and study. He is an advanced farmer; and would there were more like him. The striking difference in the bills was that where ours left the matter to townships, his left it to counties. Although himself a member of the road and bridge committee, he could not get his fellow members to report favorably (see Tribune report). This bill, fathered by a farmer, getting such a defeat showed us what we might expect our bill to come to. We saw no hope of immediate success, but concluded to keep up with the agitation, and at the urging of Mr. Billingsley and with the consent of Chief Consul Jaquish, the chairman of this committee went to Springfield. He found that eighteen of the twenty-one members of the road and bridge committee were farmers; three, and possibly four, were all that could be called good road advocates. After a personal interview with several members this committee was given up for the time being. And after a talk with the president of the senate, Charles Bogardus of Ford county, it was decided to bring a new bill before the senate. Following vexatious delays it was introduced as Senate Bill No. 488, May 9. The bill is not an ideal one. It is for a county system of hard roads, whereas the Massachusetts plan of State supervision is probably preferable, but it was prepared to meet the case and had a good reception. On May 27 Senator Bogardus wrote that the bill was reported out by the committee with the recommendation that it be passed. The chairman of the senate committee was hardly in favor of it. Mr. C. F. Kimball wrote May 24, "It seems to me, under the circumstances, this covers the ground well. I have written to the people from Cooke county urging action." Representative Fletcher said, "It meets my hearty approval." On June 6 Bogardus again wrote, "It is so late in the session. If I had the bill a month earlier I have no doubt I could have passed it." These comments show that we should certainly keep trying. Whenever we get a chance to vote, let us try for more men like Bines, Ely, and Bogardus. Aside from the three different mentioned bills, there were no others of a general nature introduced. The legislators were afraid to touch a road bill, especially one forming a State board of commission, as that meant more money, and the State was already so far short in the treasury that it was certainly not an opportune session for a road bill. May 16 two hundred circular letters were sent to various parties over the State, asking them to write their representatives to assist the bill, but, as Mr. Bagby Hall replied, "It will be equivalent to pounding my head against a stone wall." And, as Mr. O. W. Moore of Monticello wrote, "Our representatives being farmers are dead against any legislation." A little favorable legislation did get through. See House Bill, No. 705. Also the bill dividing each township into three parts. Hereafter each highway commissioner will be elected from, and look after, his division. A bill introduced by Senator Dunlap of Champaign to decrease country roads to forty feet failed to pass. And as Chief Consul Billingsley well says, "If Illinois L. A. W. shows less results, it is because our soil is harder to build roads over, our farmers more prejudiced, and all the factors against us are greater here. It is a fact that there are thousands and thousands of farmers who have never seen a hard road, who have lived on the prairie since their birth, and cannot comprehend the value and luxury that macadam affords. How are you to appeal to such men? They are not all illiterate men either. A good roads movement presents greater difficulties in this division than in any other." This committee concludes that he is correct. Since the adjournment of the legislature very little has been done. As our division is now on solid financial ground, definite work should be outlined by our successors. And right here let it be said that more active work must be done by each wheelman. Each depends too much on the enthusiasm of the other fellow. Only those acquainted can believe the neglect of some prominent cyclists in answering inquiries about roads and taxes. Other States are securing road laws. So should we. Connecticut has just passed one, not so good as Massachusetts has, but it will lead to a better one. It was the good fortune of the chairman to call on State Highway Commissioner Perkins in Boston. From him it was learned that the first spirit of antagonism on the part of the farmer has vanished. They have on file applications for road service through 230 towns out of the 234 in the State. It is catching. Nothing like an example for any and all of us. What we need is skill and experienced supervision. Take the money we now use, with a small annual draw on posterity, expended properly, we would soon have roads and good ones. We allow too many experimenters; do not forget to provide the road machinery after the road is built. The day of the motor vehicle is on. The good road has got to come, the road which rain will not effect, the road which can be travelled every day and every month in the year.

Report of chairman of road improvement committee accepted.

Legislative committee by its chairman, Mr. Billingsley, made a brief report. Report of the rules and regulation committee. Motion to defer the action on amendments to by-laws to be taken up under new business, was carried. The bill of Galesburg Cycle Club, $89.50, for championship medals at the State meet, one of George D. Locke, of Jerseyville, for expenses, $26.15, and one of A. G. Woodbury, of Danville, $34.51, were presented. On motion bills were referred to executive and finance committee, with power to act. Election of delegates to the national assembly. The following were placed in nomination: Fred Gerlach, A. G. Woodbury, F. R. Gadd, E. J. Porter, C. H. Robinson, and W. A. Connelly. The following named gentlemen were declared elected; Fred Gerlach, E. J. Porter, and F. R. Gadd. On motion those holding proxies were allowed to vote them, J. H. Dunn's proxy in favor of F. R. Gadd, and F. E. Sparks, in favor of C. L. Steen. Also to dispense with order of business, and take up report of rules and regulation committee was carried. Motion that Mr. Gerlach's amendment to Article Sect. 1 of the constitution, by striking out "three" and inserting "or more," be adopted, and was carried. Motion that Mr. Gerlach's amendment to Article IV., Sect. 8, by cancelling Sect., Article IV., and substituting therefor the following: "Racing boards shall consist of a chairman and two or more members of the division, and shall have charge of all division championship racing, shall allot time, place, and conditions for running the same, and may at any time alter the number and distance of the same. It shall have the management of all other matters for promoting the interest of cycle racing in this division," be adopted. Motion carried. Motion that a nominating committee to select standing committees for the ensuing year be appointed by the chief consul, consisting of himself and two other members. Motion carried. Chief consul appointed J. L. Misner and W. A. Connelly on this committee. Nominating committee reported the following appointments for the ensuing year: Executive and Finance Committee, L. C. Jaquish, chairman, Chicago: J. L. Misner, Peoria; W. A. Davis, Chicago. Rules and Regulation Committee, A. A. Billingsley, chairman, Springfield; A. D. Black, Jacksonville; W. J. Matern, Bloomington. Recruiting Committee, George D. Locke, chairman, Jerseyville; 1st district, E. M. Newman, Chicago; 2d, M. R. Brock, Highland Park; 3d, Frank Henrich, Danville; 4th, H. K. Allen, Galesburg; 5th, John A. Bush, Peoria; 6th, Charles H. Robinson, Springfield; 7th, Loren C. Cox, Quincy; 8th, O. W. Moore, Monticello; 9th. Dr. L. F. Schussler, Alton. Road Improvement Committee, A. G. Woodbury, chairman, Danville; F. R. Gadd, Galesburg; W. A. Connelly, Danville; and the other members to be selected by the chairman. Racing Board, J. L. Misner, chairman, Peoria; T. R. Bunting, Quincy; Bert Custer, Danville. Handbook Committee, C. L. Steen, chairman, Chicago; chairman to select the other two members.

Motion that report of nominating committee be adopted, and that chairman of the racing board have power to add to his committee if necessary. Motion carried.

Applications for the state meet. Peoria Bicycle Club, Peoria, Ill., presented its application. Motion that the state meet be held in Peoria in 1896 at such time before July as shall be decided by the State Racing Board and and the Peoria Bicycle Club. Motion carried.

Motion that all past chief consuls shall be members of the board of officers, and entitled to all the privileges thereof, but no ex-chief consul be allowed to be represented by proxy, and that the same be referred to the rules and regulation committee for their consideration. Motion lost. Motion that this board refer to the rules and regulation committee that all ex-chief consuls of the division be given the privilege of the floor, and not entitled to a vote. Motion carried. Also that the Illinois delegation be instructed to take such steps as will enable us in the next National Assembly to amend Section IV, Article 3, of the National Constitution, "That all secretary-treasurers of division be authorized to retain from the initiation fee and dues received by them that part of the amount which belongs to the division." Motion carried.

Motion that the delegation of this division be instructed to vote at the National Assembly that the League of American Wheelmen retain control of racing. Motion was lost, Resolved, it is the present sense of this body that the League of American Wheelmen continue the control of racing. Which was adopted.

On motion, meeting adjourned at 8 P. M.

PHOENIX, ARIZ., Jan. 15, 1896.

IOWA DIVISION.

Board meeting of the Iowa division. L. A. W., held at Marshalltown, Iowa, Dec. 18, 1895, in the parlors of the Tremont hotel. Meeting called to order by chief consul E. Kostomlatsky, of Oskaloosa, Iowa.

Those present were: E. Kostomlatsky, chief consul, Oskaloosa; A. C. Miller, secretary-treasurer, Des Moines; Dr. A. C. Whelply, Cedar Rapids, R. S. Phillips, Sioux City, W. W. Anderson, Jefferson, representatives at large; J. F. Rall, representing Cedar Rapids L. A. W. club; J. B. Green, representing Capital City L. A. W. club of Des Moines; J. A. Gallaher, representing the Jefferson L. A. W. club; H. B. McCreary, representing the Centreville L. A. W. club; and by proxy, F. B. Thrall, vice consul and Joe Beeson, representing the Oskaloosa L. A. W. club.

Minutes of former meeting read, and on motion approved. We then listened to the report of the retiring secretary, which was as follows:—

Report of Secretary-Treasurer.

TO THE BOARD OF OFFICERS IOWA DIVISION L. A. W.:—

Gentlemen:—I herewith submit my report of the condition of the Iowa division.

In some respects our condition at the present time is very encouraging but there are plenty of places for improvement.

At this time last year our membership was 548, at present it is 734, a gain for the year of 186, and a gain in membership means a gain financially.

We have a balance on hand of $387.52 as against $228.75 a year ago.

Our gain in membership is very encouraging, though small, as we have lost over 200 of our members who have failed to renew.

I mailed notice after notice to local consuls and to individual members where we had no local consuls urging them to renew, and right here I wish to thank Mr. Fred Beach, our worthy chief consul, for valuable assistance given at this time when the secretary of a division is in the height of his misery.

Our present method of having an applicant's membership run a full year, will distribute the work of the secretary so the hard work of drumming up renewals will not all come in sixty short days. One, and the main cause why our membership dropped so during the renewal season, I attribute to the fact that the BULLETIN was stopped the first of February, and we had no official paper just the two months we needed it the most to reach our members, and compelling us to fall back on circular letters, an expensive and very unsatisfactory method of dealing with members.

I believe in personal solicitation, both for recruiting new and renewing old membership and think that the local consul method a good one and would favor the appointing of a local consul in every town in the State, no matter how small, and in the larger places two or three.

I would suggest the giving of a premium, such as a badge or button, for each person securing five or ten new members.

Each year the interest in our annual meet increases and as you all know, it is one of the most recruiting opportunities we have.

I would favor some plan by which we would oblige each place wishing to secure the meet, to first secure a stated number of League members, and then to make it strictly a League affair, and allow privileges to only a League member, even to an entry to the races.

Then to see that all prize lists are as advertised, and you will not lack interest or entries.

It has been several years since we have issued a hand book, and think in our present condition we can afford to issue another, something good.

Another matter for your consideration.

At the last meeting of the Iowa assembly, the Iowa division L.A W. was represented by Thos. F. Cooke, our chairman of the committee on improvement of highways.

Although he had a hard job before him, his report will show that he did the division good work, and I would suggest, if we have any money to spend, we can find no better way to use it than to work for good roads at the next meeting of the assembly. Now that we have started the movement, it is best to keep at it so as not to lose the ground we have already gained.

Statement of finances: Receipts, $887.42. Expenditures, $499.90. Balance on hand, $387 52.

Thanking you for your attention I am,

Fraternally,
E. KOSTOMLATSKY, Sec.-Treas.

OSKALOOSA, IOWA, Dec. 1, 1895.

On motion the report was accepted and placed on file. The retiring chief consul, Fred Beach of Muscatine, Iowa, being present, then presented his report, which was read by the secretary, and is as follows:

TO THE BOARD OF OFFICERS IOWA DIVISION L. A. W.:—

Gentlemen:—In making my last report as chief consul of the Iowa division, it is a pleasure to state that the affairs of the division are in an exceedingly prosperous condition.

The membership now is 734, being 113 more than the highest mark reached heretofore according to the secretary-treasurer's report of the past year.

It would be well to note the splendid success attending the annual meet at Jefferson. Our hearty thanks are certainly due the Jefferson cycling club for the splendid entertainment we received.

The reward of $30.00 offered for the return of stolen wheels belonging to members has not been claimed in a single instance.

I would suggest, if possible, it be made to include a provision for the payment of the amount of the reward to the owner of the wheel, if the wheel be not returned in six months, thus making a partial insurance.

It has been the aim of the chief consul to economize in the matter of expenditures as much as possible the past year in order to have funds sufficient to begin the work of a new road book.

The board should make a liberal appropriation for the commencement of the work at once, as it should be completed, if possible, next year.

Some complaint has been made regarding new by-laws, and particularly in regard to the method of holding election. While I am of the opinion that the system of electors is a just and sensible one, and would be a saving to the division in voting expenses by the mail vote, yet it might be well to return to the old method.

If the League is to continue in control of the racing interests of the country, every member should be informed on the rules, and a copy of the racing rules together with a copy of the constitution and by-laws, should be mailed to each member at the same time as the membership ticket.

If you see fit to send representatives to the national assembly, this is one thing that they should be instructed to bring before that body.

In closing my report, I wish to thank all who have assisted me in the work for the past four years. The help I have received and the many friendships offered, have made the work one of great pleasure, and I wish to pledge the Iowa division my hearty support in the future.

Respectfully submitted,
FRED BEACH, Chief Consul.

MUSCATINE, IOWA, Dec. 1, 1895.

Expenses of the chief consul, $36.30. Balance on hand, $13.70.

On motion the report was received, approved and ordered placed on file.

A report was then read from F. B. Thrall, chairman of the racing board, which was as follows:

TO THE CHIEF CONSUL AND BOARD OF OFFICERS IOWA DIVISION L. A. W.:

In making my report as chairman of the racing board, I wish to extend thanks to the officers, local consuls, racing men and race promoters, for the interest and courtesy shown me in applying for information during the past year.

There has been a large increase in racing in Iowa in 1895, and a more general interest taken by the public in racing, and racing men, and race promoters are giving their support to, and observing the rules of the L. A. W. racing board more than in former years.

There were a few race meets held in Iowa this year where the L. A. W. racing rules were not observed, but not as many as in former years.

I would like to suggest that when the chief consul issues his instructions to local consuls, to instruct them to report all race meets held in their districts to the chairman of the racing board.

Following are the track records for Iowa.

F. B. THRALL,
Chairman of the Racing Board, Iowa Division.

On motion the report was received and ordered placed on file. A motion was then made by J. F. Rall, of Cedar Rapids, that we proceed to ballot for a location for next year's meet and that vote be by written ballot, which motion carried.

Before voting, however, an opportunity was extended to outsiders to appear and present to us the inducements and advantages of the different locations represented by them, and that were desiring to secure the meet for 1896.

We listened to some very entertaining speeches from the delegation from Cedar Rapids, which was headed by their very worthy city official, Mayor Lincoln, who put before us quite eloquently the many advantages of their location geographically, new athletic grounds, etc., offering as a special inducement that the Iowa division should not be at any expense whatever for the attendance of the officers of the division in attending the meet.

Mr. Green and Mr. Tones of Des Moines presented the advantage of Des Moines as the first city of Iowa; its central location, two good tracks, and railroad facilities for reaching all parts of the State. Including the "roof garden."

These two cities proved finally to be the only applicants to come before the meeting for the meet. Outsiders were then requested to retire, and we proceeded to ballot.

First informal ballot resulted, six for Cedar Rapids, six for Des Moines. First formal ballot, Cedar Rapids, six, Des Moines six. Second formal ballot, Cedar Rapids, seven, Des Moines, five.

J. B. Green of Des Moines then moved that the vote be made unanimous for Cedar Rapids, which was carried.

On motion of J. B. Green, the secretary was instructed to report the result of the doings of the meeting to the Interstate Cycler of Des Moines for publication.

A letter was then read from Thomas F. Cooke, secretary of the highway improvement committee, which was ordered referred to the highway committee.

J. A. Gallagher then offered the following resolution, which was adopted unanimously.

Resolved, by the officers of this division that the League of American Wheelmen should continue its control over racing.

George E. Tones moved that all L. A. W. members be asked to express their views on the control of racing by the League, by voting the blank in the BULLETIN. Carried.

On motion of J. F. Rall, Article II. of the by-laws was changed to read as follows:

ARTICLE II.

Sect. 1. The annual election of officers shall be held between the fifteenth day of October and the fifteenth day of November, as provided for in the constitution, and shall be by mail vote. Voting blanks shall be mailed to each member of the division by the secretary-treasurer, and ballot once handed or mailed to the secretary or treasurer can not be recalled.

Sect. 3. Nominations for the board of officers, consisting of the chief consul, vice-consul, secretary, treasurer, and representatives at large, shall be made at the regular annual meeting of the division, provided that additional candidates for office may be nominated in writing to the secretary-treasurer by at least twenty members; no member can sign for more than one candidate for each office. Carried.

J. B. Green moved to amend Article XIV. of the by-laws, by striking out the word "Railroad" in Article XIV., and inserting the words "Necessary expenses."

On motion the following was added to the first paragraph of Article XII. "Provide that no proxy shall be voted at meeting of the board of officers."

A letter was then read by the secretary from Isaac B. Potter, New York division, which on motion was referred to the highway committee.

Article VIII. was then amended by striking out the words, "from each of five districts of the division."

J. F. Rall moved that the division stands ready, and hereby pledges the amount of $——, towards the expenses of carrying up to the supreme court the case of Allen Cook vs. J. E Fogarty, the same to be expended under the direction of the chief consul, and whatever amount advanced to be refunded to the division, if suit ends successfully for the plaintiff. Carried unanimously.

J. A. Gallagher moved that the chief consul and secretary or treasurer be authorized to offer and pay a reward of $30 for the recovery of stolen wheels, and arrest and conviction of the thief, and further provide that in case the wheel be not returned after sixty days, that upon proper showing to the executive committee, that the member has not been careless in leaving his wheel exposed, and has kept the tag furnished him by the secretary-treasurer upon his wheel, showing that he was a member, then the secretary-treasurer be authorized to pay said member $25, to be refunded in case his wheel is recovered within a reasonable time. Motion carried.

A vote of thanks was unanimously and enthusiastically tendered Mr. Fred Beach, the retiring chief consul, for his long continued service and good work done for the League, and expressing the hope that in the future he would prosper and flourish "like a green bay tree."

Chief consul then announced the following committees:

Rights and Privileges. Chairman, 1, J. A. Gallagher, Jefferson; 2, W. G. Harvison, Des Moines; 3, A. A. Herring, Sioux City.

Improvement of Highways. Chairman, 1, Thomas F. Cooke, Algona; 2, W. G. Harvison, Des Moines; 3, Frank V. Friend, Montezuma.

Rules and Regulations. Chairman, 1, J. H. Kostman, Red Oak; 2, Geo. W. Prugh, Burlington; 3, Ed. Johnston, Sigourney.

Transportation. Chairman, 1, D. S. Crane, Atlantic; 2, J. T. Found, Newton; 3, Earle Barrows, Centreville.

Racing. Chairman, 1, F. B. Thrall, Ottumwa; 2, Ben. E. Miller, Cedar Rapids; 3, H. C. Hattenhauer, Council Bluffs.

On motion we adjourned.

A. C. MILLER, Secy.-Treas.

NORTH CALIFORNIA DIVISION.

The North California Division, League of American Wheelmen, is at present enjoying a boom and new members are seeking to gain admittance, for we are possessed of a very capable set of hustlers.

During the past few weeks we have been making the rounds of the various local clubs, and explaining the good of belonging to our League, with the very good result that our numbers are greatly advanced.

At the next monthly meeting of the board of officers the League meet will be awarded, and already several towns are fighting hard to possess it, and the division is benefited by their good work, as each have forwarded many applications.

As a starter for the new year, I would say that two new League Clubs are the result, namely the Petaluma Wheelmen of Petaluma, and the Terminal City Wheelmen of Stockton, and the chances are that the San Francisco Road Club and the Olympic Cyclers will soon put in their applications.

During the month the board will visit the California Cycling Club, Olympic Club Wheelmen, Olympic Cyclers, Liberty Cycling Club, and Imperial Cycling Club, and expect to gain many members from each club.

The secretaries of each club have aided us considerable, by sending out special notices, and from past visits the attendance at these meetings has been very flattering, so the seed once sown is bound to reap some fruit.

We have on hand some seven hundred road books, and members of this division can secure them by writing to the secretary-treasurer, whose address can be found in the official directory. Fraternally yours,

STANLEY G. SCOVERN, Secretary-Treasurer

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Jan. 13, 1896.

NEW YORK STATE DIVISION.

Road-Book Committee.

APPOINTMENT. I have appointed Mr. Arthur P. Stanley-Hyde, 32 East 84th street, New York, N. Y., a member of the road-book committee of this division.

ISAAC B. POTTER, Chief Consul.

Vanderbilt Building, NEW YORK, N. Y.

HEADQUARTERS NEW YORK DIVISION.

The office of the New York state division has been removed to room 811, Vanderbilt building, (corner of Nassau and Beekman streets, New York City). All matters relating to the business of the New York State division will be attended to at that office, where the secretary-treasurer is in constant attendance, and where chief consul Potter may be seen at 5 o'clock, P. M., daily. (Saturdays at 4 o'clock.)

W. S. BULL, Sec.-Treas.

KENTUCKY BOARD MEETING.

The regular meeting of the board of officers of Kentucky division was held at the home of the secretary-treasurer on Dec. 8, 1895, with the chief consul, Mr. J. W. Clendening, in the chair, and all the members present except the vice-consul, Mr. J. M. Cromwell.

The financial report to Dec. 1, 1895, being the same that was published in BULLETIN of Dec. 13, 1895, was read and accepted.

After discussing the necessity for revising the constitution and by-laws, the secretary moved the appointment of a committee to carry out the work. The motion was carried, and the chief consul selected Mr. W. W. Watts for the duty.

Mr. Croninger moved that a committee consisting of the chief consul, vice-consul, and representatives be appointed to revise and enlarge the road book and publish the same. Seconded by Mr. Dewhurst, and carried.

The chief consul announced standing committees as follows:

Road improvement, the secretary-treasurer.

Recruiting, the chief consul and secretary-treasurer.

Racing board, M. J. Fleck, of Louisville; C. O. Updike, of Lexington; J. W. Conn, of Covington.

Upon nomination by Mr. Dewhurst, Mr. Ed. H. Croninger was elected a delegate to the national assembly.

No other business being presented, the board adjourned.

OWEN LAWSON, Sec.-Treas.

CONNECTICUT DIVISION.

I must again call upon the members of the division for recommendations for the position of local consul, and as in many cases the consul has shown that he takes but little interest in the work of the division, it is necessary that the chief consul be informed of better men for the position. I will be glad to receive communications on this subject from any member of the division, and will consider them confidential.

Will also be glad to have names of members familiar with the roads in their sections who can be depended on for accurate information, and are willing to give a little time to the correction of maps and furnishing of data for our new road book.

A circular is being prepared, asking for information on the subject of League hotels, consuls, ordinances, etc., and I beg of every member or the division to do his best to reply to it, as there is no other way in which this information can be had, and without the aid of individual members, the chief consul must acknowledge that he is helpless to improve our conditions. Critics there are who say, why does not the division do this or that, when the conditions are absolutely unknown to the proper authorities, and who but you who know of these things are to blame for their existence?

Hoping that this will lead to a substantial increase in my mail, I remain, PHILIP W. WESTLAKE, Chief Consul.

IOWA.

Fred Beach of Muscatine is elected delegate to the national assembly from this division.

Fraternally,

A. C. MILLER, Sec.-Treas.

INDIANA APPOINTMENTS.

The following have been appointed local consuls at their respective points: Mr. H. R. Pickard, Fort Wayne; Mr. Charles M. Miller, Terre Haute; Mr. John W. Robertson, Summitville, and Mr. Elmer C. Pierce, Brazil.

ARIZONA.

I have this day made the following appointments as Consuls in this division; Geo. A. Bonelli, Kingman; P. B. Yates, Nogales; W. L. Van Horn, Tempe; Geo. A. Mauk, Arizola; K. L. Hart, Tucson; H. A. Thompson, Peoria; J. S. Griffin, Phoenix; L. L. Ferrall, Williams; S. A. Belinge, Willcox; Wm. C. Livingston, Whipple; John H. Gannon, Prescott.

Fraternally,

W. L. PINNEY, Chief Consul.

PHOENIX, ARIZ., Jan. 9, 1896.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

I have this day appointed Mr. C. E. Wood, 1325 14th st., N. W., secretary-treasurer of this division.

Fraternally,

WM. T. ROBERTSON, Chief Consul.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to Monday preceding this date, and published in accordance with Article III of the constitution.

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published and to report errors and omissions to the secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at noon on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

QUERIES AND ANSWERS

L. A. W., No. 91,699:

Consult your State road book and inquire of local consuls for information regarding best roads between Utica and Watertown, N. Y.

J. M., Greenville, Pa., asks:

Will an 80 gear with 7½-inch cranks run harder than a 68 gear with 6½-inch cranks, other conditions being equal.

Ans. An 80 gear would represent the resistance at the long end of a lever of 40 inches, which is to be moved by pressure upon the short end or crank, which would be 7½ inches. The 68-inch gear would present the same problem with one end of the lever 34 inches and the other 6½. In the latter case the rider would have a slightly greater leverage than in the former.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Inform your questioner, whom you address as "New York Wheelman," that a strong movement is now being made towards doing entirely away with Nelson Hill road and using a valley to westward. This will give a nearly level road.

IN THE DARK NIGHT.

The mother's heart with grief was torn,
Her reason seemed to rack,
As far away her babe was borne
Upon an eagle's back.

Far, far above the sleeping town,
The eagle soared on high,
And to that mother floated down
Her helpless baby's cry.

Then from her lips, so strangely dumb,
There rose a startled scream,
That woke the sleeping mother from
A most peculiar dream.

Oh, fragile ship of dreams! Thy charms
Are sometimes in thy wreck!
She found her baby's chubby arms
Were close about her neck.

CORRESPONDENCE

THIS ONE DOESN'T OBJECT.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Your way of printing "L. A. W. BULLETIN" in nonpareil type reminds me of what Burdette wrote when asked for his autograph by a local publisher, i. e.

If you have a friend and love him well,
Let my advice in your friendship glimmer;
Print all his faults in NONPAREIL,
But publish his virtues in BIG LONG PRIMER.

In your case, at first sight, one would think that you wish to belittle your publication, until you stop to think of the meaning of nonpareil.

BUT THIS ONE DOES.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Of all infernal things to scratch out one's eyes (next to the bramble bush) the L. A. W. BULLETIN is the worst. I read along smoothly the text of your paper, and abruptly run into — what is it? A word or words badly printed — tops cut off, or what? Take it away! Please take it away!

ENDORSES A SUGGESTION.

EDITOR GOOD ROADS:

So many good and new ideas are advanced about good roads, how to make and preserve them, that it looks like Solomon was a little conceited when he said "there is no new thing under the sun."

The L. A. W. has published lots of new things on that line, but we don't remember to have seen mention of one plan of preserving roads, which is not new, but good as rare, viz: having four-wheeled vehicles out of track, so the tires cover twice their width.

Every wagon becomes a road roller by this method which should be compulsory.

A CORRECTION.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

In my article on "The Valley Turnpike," in speaking of the hauling of the locomotives and freight cars from Martinsburg, W. Va., to Strasburg, Va., during the war, it would have been more strictly accurate if I had said that eighteen miles (nearly nineteen) of the "forty miles" was on the "Valley Pike" proper, that is from Winchester to Strasburg. I thank your correspondent "F. E. S." for calling attention to this in your issue of January 17. I have ridden over both

It is, first of all, an accurate register; it is cunningly little and light; its lines are graceful and it is exquisitely finished, and the price is only $1.75. But also this: its accuracy and beauty and daintiness are backed by the unique guaranty which is behind all the products of the New York Standard Watch Company—if it is injured in a mishap to the wheel, or has any real or imagined fault, mail it to us and another will be sent in exchange immediately, without a whimper and without a penny's charge.

DODGING NELSON HILL.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I am very glad to inform the New York Wheelmen who have been enquiring about the Nelson Hill near Peekskill, that a movement was started in October last to improve this piece of road and a new road has been surveyed that will run around this hill and will be comparatively level. This improvement is being done by subscriptions given by the driving and wheeling element of the population of that part of Putnam County in which the road lies.

It looks now as if this work would begin in a month or six weeks as only land damages have to be attended to before work can be commenced.

HOTELS—RACING—MAPS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

There is an evident inclination on the part of some of your correspondents to decry the League hotel system. For my part, having saved on hotel bills during a three month's tour in California between forty and fifty dollars through League membership, I trust that that feature of the League will be further perfected and improved rather than allowed to die. To all intents and purposes I have in three months saved enough to pay my membership dues for the rest of my life. I would advocate a quarterly list of the League hotels in the BULLETIN as an inducement to the best houses in the country to receive a place therein.

And friend Elliott, you are a believer in advertising—don't let the only means of keeping the League constantly before the public, its racing control, be snowed under. In this connection let me say that I have not even spurting proclivities, and have never yet witnessed a cycle race of any description, and have absolutely no personal interest in that feature of cycling.

In regard to the many interests of the League I would like to suggest that a committee be appointed at the coming League meet to formulate a uniform method of division road maps. I believe that the present methods can be simplified and improved to such an extent that the routes or tours may be entirely omitted, being incorporated into the maps, and the latter made in a convenient form for reference even in a stiff breeze.

PLENTY OF ROOM ON THE TOP.

This was true of Madison Square Garden last week, but on the inside it was crowded.

No better evidence of the substantial character of the bicycle business is needed, than the widely known facts in the matter of the two great shows which have just "held the boards."

It is pretty generally admitted by manufacturers that these shows are an unwarranted burden upon them and a strong effort will be made to prevent future exhibitions of this kind.

Whether such an effort succeeds is doubtful, so long as the manager of a bicycle show can fill the largest building with people at fifty "cents per."

The New York show which closed last Saturday night was fully equal in every way to the Chicago event.

The number of exhibitors was three hundred and sixty, arranged on the main floor and in two galleries. The larger portion of these exhibits consisted of finished bicycles and parts in various stages of manufacture.

No doubt some of these machines were better than others, but all looked so well that many of the visitors must have gone home with a headache, and whoever could look over the endless array of catalogues and souvenirs and decide which wheel to buy must be fit for a high place.

Large tubing, narrow tread, and adjustable (i. e. swinging) handle bars are almost universal.

Paper Rims.

The wood rim has long since superseded metal, even the few makers who still list metal rims admit that the demand is small and growing smaller; now comes the paper rim to contest with the wood. To those who are skeptical about the paper rim we would say that it is well worth looking into.

"Bicycle Woodwork."

One concern mentions the above as one of its lines of manufacture. This would have been considered heresy a few years back, but now the rims, wheel guards and chain guards are all wood, with a strong chance that handle bars will be universally made of that material by the end of another season.

A New Pump

which works with a crank and gives a high pressure with moderate exertion; a ten thousand mile cyclometer which is only about the size of your thumb; a folding bicycle stand; an automatic bicycle steerer, and a locking bicycle support were among the novelties.

Two bicycles having triangular frames, i.e. having the stearing head running directly to the saddle, were being used on the street around the building; one of these had the handle bar behind the saddle and the rider sat erect with hands at his side, at least that part was commendable.

One bicycle was driven by connecting rods like a locomotive, instead of using a chain.

Saddles to Order.

One firm makes a specialty of building saddles "to measure." Such a plan should be hailed with joy by many people who cannot be suited by any of the ready-made saddles on the market.

Bicycles Without Brazing.

A new system of joining the parts of tubular frames was shown, which, if it proves to be what is claimed, will be a boon to manufacturers. The inner side of the connection is "knurled" or made rough, the tube is inserted and "expanded" by much the same process that has been employed for years in attaching boiler tubes to the head plates.

Freaks.

Though the number was less than had been previously shown they were still in evidence, and we will reserve them for a separate chapter.

IT is a polite person who listens with interest to things he knows all about when they are being told by a person who knows nothing about them.

THE LAND OF THE LONG AGO.

NIXON WATERMAN.

There's a dear old home in the Far Away,
A soft, snug nest where the children play,
A realm of rest where the old folks stay,
In the Land of the Long Ago.
There's a dear old home where the roses twine
And the fruit hangs ripe on the tree and vine;
Where the Fates were good to me and mine
In the Land of the Long Ago.

Oh, never a map shall point that place;
Nor ever the drift of time erase,
But the hungering heart the lines shall trace
Of the Land of the Long Ago.
And ever the tide of my life's swift stream
Rolls back to the bay of a blissful dream,
And I live and laugh in the glint and gleam
Of the Land of the Long Ago.

On the north and south are the joy and rest
Of a sister's smile and a mother's breast;
And a father's love to the east and west
Of the Land of the Long Ago.
We shall all come back from the desert, "Sigh,"
We shall all come home to the "Soul's Reply,"
We shall all return in the "By and By"
To the Land of the Long Ago.

EVERY wheel should have a felloe and every fellow a girl and every girl a wheel.

A MAN'S self-conceit is the measure of what he doesn't know.

THE WORTH OF THE WHEEL.

"God made the country, and man made the town." And now man has made the bicycle so the people in town can get out into the country.

Do you realize the full worth of the bicycle?

Think of the coming of spring with all its charms of field and forest, and think how lonesome all the shady lanes and bloomy highways would be if the tens of thousands of bicyclists were deprived of their means of getting about.

The bicycle is the wizard's wand that changes the noise-shattered, soot-streaked, sewer-gassed city into a dappled vista of sun and shade, where every breeze comes cooled with fragrance and every breath brings joy.

The songs of birds, the babble of brooks, the breath of the pine hills, the mystic whisper of the forests, the glint and glory of river and lake, and the charm and color of the eternal hills are brought by the gracious wheel to the hungry hearts of men, as dew to the thirsting flowers.

Would life be as joyous without the wheel? Would the world be so happy?

"One impulse from the vernal wood
May teach you more of man,
Of moral evil and of good,
Than all the sages can."

"WHERE ARE WE AT?" AND WHERE ARE WE GOING?

An Open Letter to the Members of the League and all Interested Outsiders.

IDA TRAFFORD BELL.

Brothers of the League:— We are only some fifteen hundred of your forty thousand membership. Only about two-and-a-half of us to your every thousand; but, as our one-half is always your "better half," as "a little leaven leaveneth the whole loaf," and as we are always with you from babyhood to youth, and ever ready to make life's journey by your side "for better or for worse," so we are with you in the League, and while smarting under the sporty stigma that was stamped upon your name by the force of circumstances surrounding your earliest youth, we would fain be the "little leaven" that shall help to eliminate it therefrom, and remove the only reason why our organization should not be raised to its proper place in the estimation of the great public, which is, upon the high plane with the strongest, best, most beneficial and influential organizations in our land.

While for the best of reasons we were not as early in the field, or upon the field as you, we have gradually come to know and appreciate the worth and beneficence of the wheel, have joined and worked in your ranks, and ridden by your sides in comparative silence until now, feeling (with a "woman's intuition," which is said to be "better than a man's judgment") that you have reached a critical time, we cannot but sound the warning that you have met a tide in your affairs that should be "taken at its flood;" that you have come to a point where two roads meet, and must take your choice. The one properly worked will lead you to the heights of prosperity and united power for public good and influence, in reaching which the people will be with and of you. The other leading to the race track where the great interests of a great organization are best served by racing, dining, wining and betting, while the people pay their money to see the show, and smile or scowl as they comment upon the success with which you sustain the early reputation accredited to you of being a band of sports.

"Racing is the backbone of the League," has been said in the past, and was repeated only a week or two since by a high official of that body, in one of our great dailies. In the League of the past it undoubtedly was, but if it is now, and must continue to be in the future, he must be blind who has witnessed the great bicycle exhibition in New York this week, who has not realized that such a "backbone" can be only the backbone of a dwarf and weakling; for it hardly seems possible that any intelligent, thoughtful person can have looked upon the solid stream of the thousand upon thousands of the intelligence, enterprise and wealth of our land as it swept and surged through the aisles, galleries and every available floor space of the great Madison Square Garden, without seeing and feeling that the bicycle is no longer a sportman's tool and that the day of cycling leadership by the bent-backed rider and his backers or patrons is over.

That the wheel is no longer a fad, but is and will be the pride, pleasure and household necessity of every person of family in the land. That the manufacturers, in prompt obedience to the people's will have already relegated the "racing machine" to the rear, and brought to the front the light-running, heavier weight wheel; that they are abandoning their racing teams and are giving up their policy of catering to the "scorcher," and are moving on with the tide of progress and development.

And that the League of American Wheelmen will miss its opportunity and mission unless it rises to the occasion and assumes the responsibilities and duties of the hour and becomes as it well may, one of the greatest protective and development agencies of the day, and successfully continues the great work it began by catering to the now popular demand for good roads, the economical value of which, when completed, will be as inestimable as the necessity is vital to the riders of wheels of the present, and of motor-cycles and horseless carriages of the near future which are assured evolutions.

The L. A. W. BULLETIN has opened its pages to free discussion from all interested, and the writer begs that every woman belonging to the League or interested in cycling will communicate her views upon this subject and any other bearing upon the wheeling questions of the day, and particularly what shall be done to prevent repetitions of the recent shocking exhibition of a lot of women clothed as racers, struggling, straining and fighting for a paltry sum of money, the butt and by-word of the mob?

A TOO EFFICIENT GEAR.

Among the novelties at the New York show was a complication of gearing for which much was claimed.

The enthusiastic attendant was describing this wonderful device to an interested old man as follows: "You see this machine gives greatly increased speed with a much less outlay of force, for instance, with the same exertion, same number of revolutions, this will go twelve miles and a quarter where another machine would go but ten miles."

"Why," said the old man, "the place where I go is only ten miles, and I don't care to walk back two miles and a quarter every time."

THE reason why so few women stutter is because they have so much to say they haven't time.

Pneumatic Wisdom . .

Experience, as tern, harsh teacher of facts, speaks in no uncertain voice on the tire question. . .

Listen,—a bag of imprisoned atmosphere can only be valued by the financial standing of the manufacturer and the liberality of his guarantee.

Mr. Agent, we pin our faith to the tire with the "red stem" and our justification lies in the teachings of experience. It is a good tire applied to a good bicycle and vouched for by reliable people.

"Their guarantee is good as Gold."

CATALOGUES.

We shall take pleasure in making mention in this column of any bicycle catalogue which may be sent us. If our readers who send for any of the catalogues mentioned will kindly say that the notice was seen in the L. A. W. BULLETIN it will be appreciated by us as well as by the manufacturer.

Sterling.

The 32 three-color pages of the catalogue issued by the Sterling Cycle Works, Chicago, are among the handsomest of the season, and the cover pages are the acme of good taste and good printing. Inside and out the book is a "tickle and a tonic" to the lovers of the wheel. The page devoted to the L. A. W. is of interest to the well-wishers of the cause of bicycling. It is in order here to add that the hanger-poster issued by the Sterling people is also a pleasing work of art.

Emblem.

W. G. Schack, Buffalo, N. Y., has issued a neat, 32-page catalogue relating to "Emblem" cycles. The front cover page bears a reproduction in colors of the national emblem and seal. Two pages are devoted to the L. A. W. and means for increasing its membership.

Patee.

The Peoria Rubber and Manufacturing Co., Peoria, Ill., has issued an advanced catalogue of 16 pages, treating of the "Patee" bicycles and the Peoria single-tube tire.

Small but Good.

The A. F. Shapleigh Hardware Co., St. Louis, have issued a little 8-page booklet relating to "The Life of a Bicycle, and How to Care For It."

THE ROAD TO SUCCESS.

"Laugh and the world laughs with you;
Weep and you weep alone;"
For the crowd that stays while the organ plays,
When the hat is passed, has flown.
Think out some business purpose,
And then, if you are wise,
You'll spread that "think," with printer's ink,
Before a million eyes.

But mark ye how you do it,
For there are ways, alack!
You can waste your "mon" by the golden ton
And never a cent comes back.
If you to ample fortune
Would climb through thick and thin
Your purpose tell by an ad. in the L.
A. W. BULLETIN.

CLASS B men, many of them, are League members, but they are not amateurs. At present ours is an amateur organization. Which move shall we make?

MANY think that all racing men who compete under L. A. W. rules should be L. A. W. members. What do you think?

Combination Detachable Pneumatic Tire 49

Patented Jan. 30, 1894.

Is attached to the Rim by a small string, cord or wire.

Simplest, Best and Fastest Tire.

No Pneumatic Tire has ever yet been made which will not puncture.

The riders of our Detachable Tires has a decided advantage over those who use other forms of tires, because he can open his tire and extract the inner tube, and make a permanent and perfect repair in a few minutes. For further information, address . . .

WISCONSIN HIGHWAYS.

BY E. Z. RHODES.

While there are many stretches of highway in Wisconsin that are anything but idealistic, there are many others that are a joy to every wheelman and horseman.

Main Street, Lancaster, Wis.

This state abounds in beautiful natural scenery. Its diversity of woodland and meadow is most charming, and presents to view a landscape not so quiet as to be monotonous, nor so rugged as to be tiresome.

Mr. Otto Dorner, of Milwaukee, Secretary of the Wisconsin League for Good Roads, and the other officers of the League, are doing much to call attention to the highways of the State, and to improve their condition, and the wheelmen of the State feel very kindly toward them.

Milwaukee is a delightful place for cycling, its many boulevards and parks, and numerous outlying resorts affording the best opportunities for pleasant outings. Waukesha, Oconomowoc, Madison, Neenah, Menasha, Appleton and scores of other cities are reached by pleasant rides through numerous shady country towns and pretty highways. The natural beauty of the State is such that wheeling will certainly be very popular here and the present year will no doubt add largely to the L. A. W. membership.

HOW TO CURE THAT NUMB FEELING IN THE HANDS.

BY L. B. T. K.

Whenever you come to a good piece of road:
Sit up.
Take your hands off the handle bars.
Put them in your pockets.
Or on your back.
Or let them hang by your side.
And ride with your feet.
This will also straighten out that kink in your back.

A SORRY MISFIT.

'Tis sad to get the marble heart
From one we meant to wed,
And from her presence rare, depart
With a double cross instead.

But life is full of sorry things,
For everywhere we go
We see its cruel thorns and stings
And signs of grief and woe.

Yet of earth's sorry sights, we feel,
'Mongst all that we recall,
A crape-draped widow on a wheel
Is the saddest thing of all.

She's out of place, we don't know why,
But it would seem no worse,
If Cupid, happy boy, should try
To make love on a hearse.

A TIMELY BOOK.

BICYCLE REPAIRING: A Manual Compiled from Articles in The Iron Age, by S. D. V. Burr, is a book of 166 pages, illustrated, that will prove indispensable to wheel repairers. It is a very thorough treatise on how to fit up and conduct a repair shop and with its aid even a careful novice could cure many of the ills a wheel is heir to. Published by David Williams, 96 Reade Street, N. Y., and sold for a dollar.

AN IMPORTANT R. R. FAVORS WHEELMEN.

The "stiffest" railroad with which the Massachusetts wheelmen have had to contend is the Boston & Albany. We are very pleased to note that this road has made reductions in the cost of carrying bicycles, which are very interesting to Massachusetts riders. We are pleased to receive in his own hand, the following from A. S. Hanson, General Passenger Agent of that road.

MR. STERLING ELLIOTT,
Publisher L. A. W. BULLETIN,
12 Pearl St., Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir,—I am in receipt of your favor of Jan. 16, and beg to advise you that the change in charge for bicycles is a reduction in the minimum rate. Our charge heretofore has been ½ cent per mile, with a minimum of 25 cents. We now carry them at the excess baggage rate, the minimum being 15 cents. For instance, the old rate from Boston to Albany was $1.00. The new rate is 75 cents. Where the ticket rate was less than $1.13, the old rate was 25 cents for a bicycle. Now the rate is 15 cents where the ticket is less than 40 cents, 20 cents where the ticket rate is from 40 cents to 74 cents, and 25 cents where the ticket rate is 75 cents to 99 cents.

Yours truly,
A. S. HANSON, G. P. A.

MISSIONARY TRACTS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I saw in an issue of the BULLETIN where the suggestion was made to have old BULLETINS around railroad stations to interest the public at large. Now the best use I have found for old BULLETINS was to distribute them among the farmers. Not long ago a farmer called at my office and was condemning the cycle on account of the low price of oats. A friend of mine in the office and myself talked to him awhile, and finally I gave him a supply of old BULLETINS and asked him to read them. Last week he came again and asked if I had any more of those books. After I gave him what I had he told me that all the farmers in his neighborhood were asking for them, and wanted to know if I would keep them for him. Then he commenced telling what an advantage it would be to the farmers to have such roads as the BULLETIN told about, as well as to cyclists; also how much it would save their wagons, and how much more they could haul to market, etc. I felt when he got through talking as if I could have sold him a cycle in ten minutes if I had had one to sell. These are the people to get interested and as soon as they are brought to see the advantage it is to them alone, regardless of the wheel so much despised by them, the sooner we will have good roads. I think that many times the cyclist is as much at fault by not treating the farmer with the same respect as he expects to receive from him, as the farmer—so often called the road hog. The weapon that always carries a man safest through this world is a civil tongue. Boys, don't always think that because you have a right to half the road, you must have it. If there is plenty of room to turn out, why, do so, and I have found from experience that you drive another tack in the farmer's coffin of objection to wheelmen every time. Give your old BULLETINS to the farmers.

THE committee having in charge the arrangement for the horseless carriage race in France has decided that the race shall take place in June next, the course selected being from Paris to Marseilles and return. Among the conditions laid down are that the contestants are to proceed only during the daytime. The race is to be divided into two series, the first open to automobiles having from two to four places, and the second series for machines having greater accommodations.

The Wheelman of Sydney, Australia says: In sections of the country where thorns and cactus points cause trouble, it is suggested that instead of extracting the thorn it is better to snap it off flush with the tire. In this way the air will be retained and the tire will be more likely to carry the rider home safely.

CONVICT LABOR ON ROADS.

BY E. A. P. MILLER.

We hear a great deal about using convicts to build our roads, and to many this seems a panacea for the prison and road problems. A slight acquaintance with political economy warns us against panaceas. They are generally a snare and a delusion.

That convict labor is such a very serious factor in competition we have reasons to doubt; demagogues are always making it a bugbear. Convict labor has often been found unprofitable to employers. Convicts must be employed, and their work should be profitable to employers. I grant that road building would be very profitable to the State, and would compete the least with any of the regular callings of labor, there being now no recognized class of road makers, but there are reasons in practice as well as sentiment why convicts should not be placed at work on the public roads.

The sight of convicts is not one for children to see commonly. It might become too common, and pity might make their positions appear unfortunate rather than merited. Convicts should not be surrounded with luxury, but they are entitled to considerations of justice and humanity. The true principle of prison science to-day is the reformation, if possible, of the criminal, and his adjustment to normal life. A course in stone-breaking on the public road, with loaded rifle in the hands of an idle guard menacing him all the time, exposed to the frowns and undertoned remarks of passers-by, shunned by the children, far from reforming a man would make him an anarchist thirsting for revenge.

Prisoners assembled in prisons are fed and guarded at less expense than on the highways. Escapes are less frequent; nothing hurts a prison system so much as escapes. Prisoners are not classified as they should be, so that young criminals, young in crime, would be thrown in contact with hardened criminals, evidently to the younger ones' detriment. Rock breaking would prepare a man to earn an honest living less than many things done in prisons where the division of labor is carried to its fullest extent.

The sight to honest, unemployed men of convicts well fed and kept, would breed revolutionary feelings. Poverty is jealous.

However, convicts might be employed in preparing the material, the cost of the labor and transportation being borne by the State, and the county using the material.

The "bums" who commit petty crimes to secure a winter home in county jails should have a dose of rock breaking. It would certainly be a deterrent to that kind of vagabondage. Our roads need improvement, but let the road itself be built by free men, even if, perchance, there be a few uncaught knaves among them.

SHRINKING A SWEATER.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

In a recent issue I noticed an article pertaining to F. D. Dusterdrich's sweater. It seems to be afflicted with a sort of obesity, as it were, and I would suggest that he soak it in lemon juice or vinegar.

Why is it that we don't hear more from some of the older boys? The "young blood" of our fraternity seem to ask the most questions, offer the most suggestions, and have the upper hand generally.

No. 74,193's suggestion as to disposing of old copies of the BULLETIN is good, and at the present rate of 38,688 paid circulation it would have 200,000 readers at least.

THE BICYCLE BRAKE PROBLEM.

The proposition of the board of aldermen to require that all bicycles be equipped with brakes suggests the terrible thought that the honorable city fathers may be so fat that they cannot enjoy cycling themselves, and that they are therefore trying to handicap others in having pleasure. Among wheelmen the opinion prevails that a brake is no more necessary than five wheels to a wagon. It simply adds that much weight, not great in itself, of course; but every little makes riding more difficnlt, and if the aldermen get it into their heads that their chief duty is to oversee cycling, they may pass ordinances requiring the use of mud guards and cowcatchers such as are used on locomotives.

It is this possibility of further aldermanic interference that makes action imperative against the first encroachment on the liberties of wheelmen. If brakes were required to insure safety, they would be used without an ordinance compelling their adoption; but as only amateurs find them necessary, the city fathers should take up some other problem with which to wrestle. Cable cars are more in keeping with aldermanic bulk than such a graceful machine as the bicycle; so it might not be a bad idea for the municipal legislators to turn their attention to fenders.

—N. Y. Journal.

REV. J. A. RONDTHALER, pastor of the Tabernacle Presbyterian Church, of Indianapolis, and a leading minister, has peremptorily tendered his resignation. The trouble dates back to the early summer, when Dr. Rondthaler became a devotee of the bicycle, and indulged in long rides. This gave offense to the conservatives of his congregation, and their criticisms caused a breach which gradually widened until Dr. Rondthaler determined upon the action taken. He is the founder of the church, and has served as pastor for many years.

"PAP" RUFF'S BEQUEST.

The bequest of $1,000 to Kentucky division League of American wheelmen, made in the will of Mr. A. D. Ruff, who died a week ago at Owingsville, was a noble act on the part of that lovable old man and was thoroughly characteristic. Mr. Ruff has been a member of the League nearly ten years, and never missed a meet of Kentucky division. He always took a great interest in the business proceedings of the division, and frequently gave good advice to the board of officers. He was greatly interested in the steamboat excursion to Owensboro in 1894, and, while he enjoyed this trip thoroughly, he regretted its financial failure, and "chipped in" liberally to help make up the deficit.

His idea of this enjoyment was to tour on his wheel. He made a trip to Yellowstone Park, and rode nearly 5,000 awheel. Since then he had devoted most of his time to riding about Kentucky, thinking nothing of doing seventy or eighty miles a day.

When he began riding, he was the oldest wheelman in the United States, and when he died he was probably the hardiest of his age.

The money given by Mr. Ruff is in the hands of M. J. J. Nesbitt, of Owingsville, the executor of the estate, who will at the proper time pay it over to the accredited officers of Kentucky division.—Louisville Courier Journal.

MEN who know nothing usually tell it.

A NEW BRAKE.

A very modest member of the L. A. W., who resides at 218 So. 3d Street, Hamilton, O., has invented a brake and in the goodness of his heart gives the world the benefit through the medium of the L. A. W. BULLETIN.

He proposes to have the front wheel axle revolve and attach to its end a crank which will be connected to a piston working in an air cylinder. The rider would simply operate a valve which would close more or less the ends of the cylinder, and the air resistance would do the rest.

BICYCLE LAW.

There is no State law discriminating between bicycles and other vehicles. A bicycle, being a vehicle, is subject to the "law of the road," precisely as any other vehicle. There is nothing in the road laws forbidding vehicles to traverse sidewalks, though a fine is sanctioned for damaging them. In cities and villages, however, laws are generally made forbidding vehicles to traverse sidewalks. Townships might properly enact such laws, and to such a law bicycles would be subject unless specially excepted. But a fine imposed on the propeller of a vehicle where there is no law to sanction it would be, of course, illegal. — Chicago Legal Adviser.

BICYCLES AS BAGGACE.

Assemblyman Wm. W. Armstrong of Rochester, New York, has introduced the bicycle-baggage bill, which is to be supported by Chief Consul Potter and the 10,150 members of the L. A. W. It covers the ground more completely than the Robbins bill, and will take its place. The bill is Assembly Bill No. 372; it amends the railroad law and its essential feature reads: "Bicycles are hereby declared to be and be deemed baggage for the purposes of this article, and shall be transported as baggage for passengers by railroad corporations and subject to the same liabilities, and no such passenger shall be required to crate, cover or otherwise protect any such bicycle.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately."

L. A. W. membership runs a year from the date of joining; all do not seem to understand it.

HIGH GEARS.

One of the cycle fashions of the fast approaching season of 1896 will undoubtedly be machines geared higher than any ever ridden by the ordinary cyclist before. Every indication points to the use of uncommonly high gears. Riders who have been content to push a 64 or 68-inch gear have determined to raise the figures to about 72 and in many instances to 80. This is due in great measure to the ease of running of the present day high-grade machine and partly in imitation of our racing men. The racing men of France were the first to adopt high gears.

When George Banker first went over to France he was surprised to see the riders there going around on machines geared as high as 80 and 90, but this last season he encountered some that rode gears high enough to take one's breath away. Two of the fast riders that boast of France as their home and the land in which they have the partially insane idea that they can vanquish any rider that hails from another heath ride around the tracks on wheels geared above 110. Vasseur, one of the foremost riders of the French class, rides a wheel that is geared to 120, and his side partner, Foussier, makes things hum on one geared to 112.—Chicago Times-Herald.

WE could control racing better if we didn't control it so much.

The Cream

of the trade is yours if you handle the wheel that will command it. The WAVERLEY is such a wheel. It is ridden by the best judges of proper cycle construction; by the riders who take a pride in the choice of their mounts, and by experienced riders who have learned to appreciate and know the bicycle which never goes back on its owner.

EARLY MOTOCYCLES.

It is a curious circumstance that the horseless carriage is one of the most ancient of ideas. Homer tells us how, when Thetis went to Vulcan with her prayer for a shield for Achilles, she found the lame architect hard at work, bathed in sweat from the heat of his forges:

"That day no common task his labor claimed,
Full twenty tripods for his hall he framed,
That placed on living wheels of massy gold
(Wondrous to tell) instinct with spirit rolled
From place to place, around the bless'd abodes,
Self-moved, obedient to the beck of gods."

Milton speaks of:

" . . . . the barren plains
Of Sericana, where Chineses drive
With sails and wind their canny wagons light."

The Earl of Worcester, among his "century of inventions"— inventions which, like Keely's motor, always lacked the one prime element of practical success — may have had an automobile carriage. But if he had, it was in the same uncompleted state as the tripods of Vulcan. It never "went." It is certain, however, that in 1759 Dr. Robinson called the attention of Watt to the possibility of constructing a carriage to be driven by a steam-engine, and ten years later Cugnot, a French army officer, rigged up a gun-carriage and a big copper boiler so that it was driven by its own power. There was too much danger of the passengers being scalded to death to make the machine at all popular, and being convicted of an aggravated assault upon a stone wall, it went with other crude experiments

"Into a limbo large and broad, since called The Paradise of fools."

Watt patented a road engine in 1784, and about the same time Murdoch, his assistant, completed and made a trial of a model locomotive driven by a "grasshopper engine." This is said to have run six to eight miles an hour. The earliest patent for road engines in America was that secured by Oliver Evans who obtained in 1786, from the Maryland legislature, a monopoly for his system of applying steam to the propelling of wagons on land. In 1804 he completed a flat-bottomed boat for dredging the Philadelphia docks, and, mounting it on wheels, drove it by its own steam-engine to the river bank. Launching the craft, he propelled it down the river, using the engine to drive the paddle-wheels. Thus Evan's "Ornkton Amphibolus," as he named his machine, was the first auto-mobile wagon and the first steam paddle-wheel boat in America. A reproduction of the "Ornkton Amphibolus," and of the Cugnot wagon also, may be seen at the Field-Columbian Museum in Chicago. Alongside of these curious relics of the past, in the splendid museum building of the future upon the Lake Front Park, now being constructed in the lake, another vehicle will be shown — a carriage with graceful quadrupeds attached; and the little ones of the next century will shout with astonishment and glee: "See, a wagon with horses on it!"

OUGHT TO RIDE A WHEEL.

The mayor of Somerville, Mass., in his recent address to the city council, said: "The advent of the bicycle was the harbinger of better highways. A man may drive a dumb beast day after day over the worst roads, and scarcely give a thought to their defects; but when his own muscles become the propelling power his voice is instantly raised in protest. The wheelman is first to detect rough places in the street, and to insist upon their repair. The bicycle has become something more than a toy, or a mere means of recreation. It is now almost universally recognized as an instrument of utility, and its usefulness would be greatly enhanced by the building of better roads. The day laborer, the artisan, the clerk, the merchant, the professional man and woman, find in the silent steed the best form of rapid transit, as well as a dispenser of health and happiness. I believe I am justified, in view of the present extended use of the bicycle by all classes and by both sexes, in urging upon your attention the claims of the wheelmen and wheelwomen for better roads in Somerville. I have sometimes thought it would be a good preliminary discipline for a superintendent of streets in our city to give him a bicycle, and compel him to ride about twenty miles each day along our principal thoroughfares."

In his retiring address to the legislature Gov. Werts suggests that it would be well for New Jersey, as she did in stone roads, to also take the lead in inaugurating a system of state street roads, and thus ascertain by actual experience whether it is the most efficient and economical highway. By steel roads is to be understood the use of steel rails laid along the highways and used for all purposes of transportation and carriage as ordinary highways are now.

A WORD TO THE WORD COINERS.

Word coiners in England and America have been racking their brains to find a name for the motor vehicle. Classic dictionaries have been searched and strange compounds triumphantly unearthed, and offered to the public as jewels of speech that should be eagerly seized and added to our store. In England we have such heathenish abominations as "autocar," "automotor," and "petrocar," while in America "motocycle" and "autocycle" have been set up to compete for popularity with terms already in vogue, such as "horseless carriage," "motor wagon," etc. These hasty inventions have been adopted by many editors and have attained considerable currency, but on analysis they are all found to be objectionable for one reason or another.

Making the fullest allowance for difference in usage between England and the United States, it seems incomprehensible that the word car can have the same meaning there as the word vehicle does here, and the prefix "auto" is not a synonym of motor, for it conveys the idea that the vehicle runs without human aid. Motor car would be properly employed with reference to some imposing vehicle used for processional or similar purposes, but as a general term for the new vehicle it is a misnomer. The other two verbal candidates for favor in England are still more inadequate. "Petrocar" might, from its etymological root, mean a car made of stone or used for hauling stone, or, if the first element of the compound be associated with petroleum, which was undoubtedly the idea present in the inventor's mind, the term is seen to be altogether too narrow, for motor vehicles are not all of the petroleum class. Automotor would seem to mean an automatic motor which requires no guidance or attention, and this term must therefore be excluded.

The American inventions are not more promising than the English. "Motocycle" is a specific and not a generic term. The word "cycle" is already in common use as an abbreviation for bicycle, hence in common parlance a motocycle is a mere euphemism for motor cycle, with little excuse for being, because the "r" in motor cycle is a connecting consonant which assimilates readily with the sounds preceding and following it, i. e., it is easily pronounced. Who would think of calling a motor coal wagon, truck or omnibus, a motocycle?

Such sorties into classical realms are not unprecedented. They have marked the introduction of other great modern improvements, but in few in-

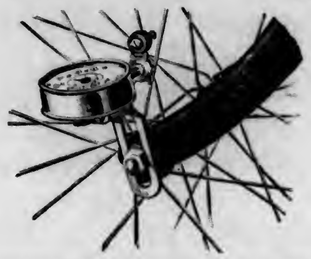
BICYCLES AS BAGGAGE.

The devotees of the silent steed are likely to figure largely in the debates if not in the legislation of the present session. Already a number of bicycle bills have been introduced with the prospect of more to follow.

One of the chief objects of attack will be the rule of the railroads to require the release of liability and a fee for the transportation of bicycles. At present the fee charged is one-fifth of the amount of the railroad fare between the points covered. Mr. Armstrong, of Rochester, has introduced a bill giving the owner of a bicycle the option of signing a release or paying a fee equivalent of one-tenth of his railway fare. He believes that it is not just to require both the release and the fee. Another bill has been introduced declaring bicycles to be baggage and placing them upon the same basis in regard to railway transportation. Mr. Armstrong understands from Chief Consul Potter that the League of American wheelmen will urge legislation against release or fee either one, and that 75,000 signatures will be attached to petitions urging such legislation. It is said to be the opinion of wheelmen that Governor Morton, in view of his presidential aspirations, will not this year decline to sign such a bill.



Meantime what of the baby carriage? That useful everyday vehicle of the younger generation is also subject to fee and the signing of a release, but no bill looking to its exemption has been introduced. Assemblyman Armstrong laughingly says he has a bicycle but no baby carriage. Where is the member of assembly or senator who has a baby carriage but no bicycle? Has not the Ancient and Honorable Order of Night Floor Walkers as much title to consideration as the League of American wheelmen?

And this at the hands of a legislative majority representing the party traditionally pledged to the protection of infant industries! — Albany Argus.

THE wheelmen of Brockton, Mass., are expecting much of the new mayor and the '96 committee on highways. They are already giving their attention to the making of permanent roads. In 1895 $33,000 was expended in the street department solely for repairing; $7,000 was expended for permanent improvements such as curbings and the like.

SOME BLUE GRASS ROADS.

BY W. A. LEWIS.

One of the centres of good roads in this country is the Blue Grass region of Kentucky. But little attention has been given to this fact by those papers and magazines which have been discussing road improvement in the various sections, probably because in this part of the country they are not a novelty, and but little outside notice has been called to them of late years.

Long before the war the system was well developed. In fact, although the total number of miles in operation at that time was not, of course, so great as now, the number constructed each year was larger, and the attention devoted to the work greater.

The large stock farms which, then as now, dotted the whole country, caused a large number of men of enterprise and wealth, who, in other sections would have crowded into the cities, to seek their homes in the country. In addition to this, the famous distilleries, whose product made the names of "Kentucky Bourbon" and "Kentucky Hand-Made Sour Mash" known all over the civilized world, and some parts of it that are not civilized, were nearly all located in the country, and in most instances, some distance from railways.

The pikes are in the control of private corporations. The principal ones lead from one county seat to another, and, meeting in these common centres, form a chain or system, whose ramifications cover the whole of what is properly the Blue Grass section of the State. In nearly every county a separate corporation is in charge of the section of road which is in that county, even though the road in question may extend in an unbroken line through a half-a-dozen counties. An example of this may be had in the pike which leads from Louisville on the west to Maysville on the east. The whole distance is about 135 miles, and the route is practically one unbroken road, traversing the counties of Jefferson, Shelby, Franklin, Scott, Bourbon, Nicholas, Fleming and Mason. In this instance, one corporation may own that part of the road which extends from a county seat to the county line on one side, while another may own that part which extends to the county line on the other side of the county seat.

I have taken this particular road as a sample of the others, because it is the longest direct one in the State, and because it will, if the national meet should be held in Louisville, be a favorite with those contemplating a short tour after the races and other attractions in that city are over. But it is not by any means the only one of importance, and indeed, many sections of it are not so well kept as other more traveled, but shorter, roads. Should a tourist have plenty of time at his disposal, he could make many pleasant divergencies from the straight route given below, have equally as good, or better riding, and not have to double on his tracks, although the distance would be greatly lengthened. It is an open question if even one who was hurried to reach his destination would not find it profitable to take the longer route through Versailles and Lexington, as it is given underneath the main line.

Starting from Louisville, and naming only the towns of some size, the shortest way is:

Louisville to Shelbyville, 30 miles east; Frankfort, 22 miles east; Georgetown, 18 miles east; Paris, 18 miles east; Millersburg, 8 miles northeast; Blue Lick Springs, 13½ miles northeast; Maysville, 24 miles northeast.

Or, diverging at Frankfort, Versailles, 14 miles southeast; Lexington, 13 miles east; Paris, 18 miles northeast. Here take the main route again.

This route from Louisville to Maysville is, as I have said, the longest direct road, or rather series of roads, between two termini, in the Blue Grass country. It is macadam from start to finish. The surface is made of limestone rock, hand-broken, small enough to pass through a two-inch ring. It is not rolled, but when metal is freshly spread it is left for the traffic to pack solid. This has the disadvantage of leaving small ruts occasionally, but as a general thing it gives fair satisfaction. A premium is put on the use of broad tires by reducing the rate of toll as compared with that charged for vehicles of the same class using narrow tires. Travel is entirely free to the wheelman.

The roads are maintained by the tolls collected, but a dividend to stockholders is rare. I do not know of one having been declared for the past ten years. Before the war the State was a liberal subscriber to the capital stock of these companies, and at one time its holdings were worth a premium, but are now regarded as practically valueless as an asset. The private stockholders are generally those directly benefited by the operation of the road, who do not look for dividends. In the construction of new roads, the State is now prohibited by the constitution from subscribing to the stock, but the various counties may do so to the extent of $1000 per mile.

All these roads and many others which the limits of this article will not permit me to mention, are ridable at any season of the year. Of course there are days in all seasons when the sensible tourist will not care to venture out on any road, but no matter how bad the weather may have been on the preceding day, any pleasant day for riding will find the road surface in condition for touring without discomfort. The best season for the sport is in the fall, when the condition is superb, but there is a charm about touring in the spring that will amply repay any slight deficiency in this respect.

BICYCLE SADDLES

WESTBORO, MASS.

EULOGY ON THE MODERN RESTAURANT.

BY AL. E. GHENY.

"Backward, turn backward, O Time in your flight!"
Feed me on gruel again, just for to-night.
I am so weary of sole-leather steak,
Petrified doughnuts and vulcanized cake;
Oysters that sleep in the watery bath,
Butter as strong as Goliath of Gath;
Weary of paying for what I can't eat,
Chewing up rubber and calling it meat.

Backward, turn backward, for weary I am!
Give me a whack at grandmother's jam;
Let me drink milk that has never been skimmed,
Let me eat butter whose hair has been trimmed;
Let me once more have an old-fashioned pie,
And then I'll be ready to curl up and die.

COLLECT THE ASHES.

The bicycle clubs of Little Falls and Herkimer have adopted a plan which will not only benefit themselves, but their neighbors. They have agreed to assume the expense of collecting all the ashes of the towns during winter, and will use the material in constructing a cinder path from one town to the other for bicycles. Similar action by Rome and Oneida wheelmen is recommended. — Rome (N. Y.) Republican.

IT may be a joke to step on a tack in the dark, but the man who does it can't see the point.

ALDERMEN NEED A BRAKE.

City Magistrate Wentworth is credited with responsibility for the resolution offered by Mr. Hall in the board of aldermen on Tuesday, to compel the use of brakes on all bicycles ridden in this city. If the statement is true that Magistrate Wentworth advised the offering of such a resolution, then Magistrate Wentworth was guilty of a gross blunder.

The motive power of the bicycle is its best and safest brake. If Wentworth and Hall had taken the trouble to look into the matter they would have discovered that a very large proportion of the cycles sold by the best makers are not equipped with brakes, and that the percentage of the total number of bicycle accidents due to misuse of the brake is much larger than the percentage due to its absence.

It is absurd to attempt to legislate on a subject of which you know nothing. We imagine that this resolution will meet a peaceful death in the law committee of the common council, to which it has been referred. There are several gentlemen of common sense on that committee. If the resolution were to be adopted it would not prove that a bicycle needs a brake; only that a brake on the aldermen is imperatively demanded in the interest of the community. — N. Y. Recorder.

THE WINTER CAMPAIGN.

RECENT and abundant press clippings show that the Farmers' institutes and other organizations for the purpose of improving the lot of the farmer, are devoting a great deal of earnest attention to the subject of good roads.

For many years the "Grangers" and other farmers' clubs devoted much time to securing reductions in railroad freight rates. Their time was no doubt well spent. There was a field which they felt they could do some beneficial work. They secured many of the reductions and readjustments in rates which they asked for. At the present time, the existing laws regarding freight rates seem to more nearly satisfy their demands.

Strangely enough during all those years, the farmers overlooked the important fact that the greatest barriers between their fields and the markets were the roads that lay along side of their own farms. At the present time the greater part of the transportation tax is levied upon the farmer by his own neglect. The wagon roads are the ones that need immediate attention. It is to the study of this very important topic the farmers are now turning. The result of a winter's campaign of education will be made happily apparent next spring in the increased amount of road building that will be done, and the better methods employed in the construction and maintenance of highways. Some of these days bad roads will become as unpopular as they are unprofitable.

THE softer the road the harder it is for the horse.

ONE good turn (-pike) deserves another.

MAIN STREET, MUDVILLE.

The illustration published herewith shows the main street of an important town in one of the Middle Western States, as it appeared on Christmas morning. The local paper commented on it as follows:—

"On Christmas day while a party of rescuers, in the act of extricating a member of the Archbold council from the river of mud, which had complete possession of the main street, an artist took a "snap shot" picture of them.

The party by the aid of a boat and pike poles, finally succeeded in securing one gravel road man, but the unfortunate anti-gravel man was allowed to perish, head down in the mud, with nothing left but his felt boots and hat to mark the spot where he met his untimely death.

This should prove a timely warning to members of the council who try crossing the river during "high tide."

A correspondent writes that "it rained briskly 4 days before Christmas, and the roads were so bad that people could not get in to do their trading, and every business man in the town did at least 50 to 75 per cent. less business, during the holidays, than they would have done had we had good roads, as we have one of the best business places in North Western ——, and are situated in one of the finest farming countries in the State, in fact, we have the best township in the State, and when the roads are good, 'that is in the summer,' we do more business than a great many towns twice or even three times the size, as we have the most prosperous class of farmers in our vicinity."

HOW TO DO IT.

At last one community has found out how to improve its roads. The people living north of this city, from the city limits to Tropico and Glendale, have devised a way to get good roads out of their taxes. The plan is this: The taxpayers got together and all agreed to give so many days' work with a team or to pay so much money into a general fund. With this in hand they proposed to the supervisors that they would haul to the road any amount of good gravel, the board would shovel into their wagons and spread after it had been put in the proper place. An excellent bed of disintegrated granite was uncovered at Tropico, and the work was begun. The board of supervisors provide men to load the wagons and to level the gravel on the road. A big line of teams is at work, and most of three miles from the city limits to the store at Tropico has been covered with a good coat of this. The result is an ideal road.

The public-spirited people who conceived this excellent idea are now at work to get subscriptions to carry the good work on up Glendale avenue to Verdugo, up Central avenue to the foothills above Saint Hilda's Hall, and along San Fernando avenue to Burbank. If all this is done there will be in the district about twenty miles of really good roads.— Los Angeles (Cal.) Times.

THE Arkansas delegates to the Atlanta road parliament have recommended calling a good-roads convention at Little Rock, Feb. 25, to propose and present new laws and to arouse public sentiment in the good roads movement. Good results are promised.

Reading of the minutes of the last meeting was dispensed with.

Upon motion, duly seconded, the regular order of business was dispensed with and Secretary-treasurer Bull read his annual report which was, on motion, accepted and ordered printed in the BULLETIN.

Dr. Geo. E. Blackham presented the report of the executive committee, which was, on motion of Mr. W. S. Jenkins, received, placed on file, and the recommendations contained therein adopted.

At the request of the chief consul, Mr. Geo. R. Bidwell takes the chair.

Chief Consul Potter read his first annual report, which was, on motion, received, placed on file, and ordered printed.

Chief Consul Potter in the chair.

The report of the committee on rights and privileges was read by the secretary and on motion was received, placed on file and ordered printed.

Chairman C. B. Benson presented the report of the committee on rules and regulations. On motion the report was received and placed upon the table in order that the amendments contained therein might be taken up under unfinished business.

On motion of Mr. J. E. Roosevelt the report of the committee on improvement in the highways was ordered printed in the BULLETIN.

Chairman G. A. Roullier presented the report of the road book committee, which, on motion, was received and ordered printed in the BULLETIN.

On motion of Dr. M. L. Rhein the secretary-treasurer was empowered to cast one ballot for delegates to the national assembly as follows:

M. M. Belding, Jr., New York; J. E. Roosevelt, New York; Jas. B. Townsend, New York; Geo. C. Pennell, New York; Dr. F. A. Myrick, New York; A. G. Batchelder, New York; O. P. Wilson, New York; G. E. Benson, Hudson; W. B. Phipps, Albany; W. M. Honig, Albany; A. D. Wait, Cohoes; W. C. Vroom, Schenectady; W. Pierson Judson, Oswego; W. M. Rebasz, Jr., Rochester; W. S. Jenkins, Buffalo; J. Stuart Kelley, Buffalo.

The secretary-treasurer deposited ballot and the gentlemen named were declared duly elected.

Mr. W. S. Jenkins. In view of that portion of the chief consul's report which touched upon the control of the cycle racing by the national body, I desire to offer the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the board of officers of the New York State division, L. A. W., recommend the national assembly of the League of American Wheelmen to take such action at its next meeting, appointed to be held on the second Monday of February, 1896, as will lead to the early relinquishment by the League of its jurisdiction and control over cycle racing on the track, and that with such recommendation we communicate to said national assembly the following statement of reasons which give rise to these resolutions:

First. That the League of American Wheelmen should be so constituted and its affairs so conducted as to make it in the fullest sense a body representative of the sentiments, opinions, and objects of which belong in common to the great mass of cyclists within the United States; that it should be devoted to the protection of their rights, the advancement of their interests, and the supplying of those material needs and conveniences which make the use of the bicycle more enjoyable and more beneficial.

Second. That the control of bicycle racing is not an object in which the great majority of American cyclists have a common interest and that the experience of our League in this department of its work, has not been such as to commend it to cyclists generally, but has, on the contrary, subjected the League to much adverse criticism and aroused much unpleasant and harmful contention within our own ranks.

Third. That the experience of the League in the control of cycle racing, while being distinctly hostile to its growth in many directions, has been in no sense a substantial factor in aiding its increase of membership even among racing cyclists themselves.

Fourth. That we believe that the true and certain success of the League will be found in an united effort for an enlarged membership and for the making prominent to all cyclists the announcement of those benefits and advantages which the League professes to supply.

Mr. J. E. Roosevelt, Dr. M. L. Rhein, Mr. James B. Townsend, Mr. M. M. Belding, Jr., Mr. C. F. Cole, Mr. C. L. Jones, Mr. H. O. Folger, and Mr. W. S. Jenkins spoke in favor of the resolution, and Messrs. Will R. Pitman and R. G. Betts against.

Upon an aye and nay vote the resolution was almost unanimously carried.

On motion of Mr. Chas. T. Raymond the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the chief consul be, and hereby is, instructed to issue a standing reward of $25 to be paid from the division treasury, for the arrest and conviction of any person stealing a bicycle from any member of this division. The right shall be reserved to the executive committee to withdraw the offered reward on thirty days' notice.

Resolved, that this notice be printed at least once a month in the L. A. W. BULLETIN at the expense of this division.

On motion of Mr. Charles T. Raymond the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the rights and privileges committee be instructed to consider the penalty provided by law for stealing wheels with a view to submitting to the legislature a law making the penalty more severe and stringent than it is at present.

On motion of Mr. Chas. T. Raymond the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the section of the executive committee report referring to railroads carrying wheels free be adopted, and that the executive committee be instructed either to secure legislative action or to determine the rights of wheelmen by an appeal to the courts.

On motion of Mr. Chas. T. Raymond the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the executive committee be, and hereby are, instructed to issue at as early a date as may be reason ably practicable, a pamphlet containing the constitution of the L. A. W., the constitution and by-laws of the New York division, L. A. W., and the rules of the racing board, together with a brief history of what the L. A. W. has accomplished for wheelmen, a list of "what we get for our dollar," and a brief prospectus of the plans and projects of the New York division for the future.

Resolved, That an effort be made to secure enough advertisements to pay for the cost of printing the same, and that a sufficient number be printed to provide each member of this division with one copy.

Resolved, That the executive committee be authorized to draw upon the treasury of this division for any amount required to print and mail one copy of the above pamphlet to each member of the division, not provided for by receipts from advertisements.

On motion of Mr. Chas. T. Raymond the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the matter of supervising side-path work and securing necessary legislation to protect wheelmen in their rights on paths, be left to the executive committee with power, and

Resolved, That the executive committee be empowered to associate with them in the procurement of side path work, such L. A. W. members from other portions of the State as they may deem best.

Resolved, That the entire committee so constituted be authorized to solicit special subscriptions for side path work, and that such subscriptions be kept separately in the division treasury, and be expended as directed by the committee.

Mr. Geo. R. Bidwell in the chair.

On motion of Chief Consul Potter the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That our executive committee be empowered and take immediate steps to effect and direct the local organization of resident League members in all cities and towns where the number of such resident members may seem to warrant; that such local organizations be limited in their work to the attainment of objects properly within the province of the League as declared by our constitution, and to the general advancement of the benefits and defence of the rights of members within the local body.

On motion of Mr. C. F. Cossum the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the delegates to the national assembly be and they hereby are instructed to vote for and to advocate the adoption of the following amendment to the L. A. W. constitution.

Amend Article V., Sect. 1 A of the constitution by adding at the end thereof the following:

"Provided, however, that whenever the board of officers of any division shall adopt a by-law or rule providing that the secretary-treasurer of the division shall hold office during the pleasure of the board, the secretary-treasurer thereafter elected shall perform the duties of his office until the board shall declare his office vacant, by resolution duly adopted at any meeting regularly called, and after thirty days notice of such proposed action shall have been given by mail to the division board of officers. In the event of the removal of a secretary-treasurer by the board of officers, the chief consul shall appoint a secretary-treasurer who shall serve until the next annual election thereafter."

On motion of Chief Consul Potter, the delegates to the national assembly from the New York State division were instructed to vote for the adoption of an amendment by which the L. A. W. shall eliminate from its constitution and by-laws all provisions with reference to control of cycle racing.

On motion the report of the rules and regulations committee was taken from the table and the proposed amendments adopted.

Chief Consul Potter: I move that the hearty thanks of the New York State division, through its officers, be tendered to the Cycle Board of Trade.

Carried unanimously.

Mr. C. S. Cossum — I move you, if in the opinion of the executive committee the finances of the division will warrant it, that the expenses of the delegates to the national assembly at Baltimore, or such proportion thereof as may be proper, shall be paid out of the division treasury.

Motion carried.

Mr. W. S. Jenkins — I think it is proper and I therefore move that this board of officers extend to the proprietors of the Grand Union hotel a vote of thanks for their courtesy to us.

Motion carried unanimously.

Upon a motion, regularly moved and duly seconded, the annual meeting of the board of officers was declared adjourned.

W. S. BULL, Sec.-Treas.

$25 REWARD

Will be paid for information leading to the detection and conviction of any person guilty of stealing a bicycle from any member of the New York State division. By order of the board of officers.

ISAAC B. POTTER, Chief Consul.

TO ALL NEW YORK MEMBERS.

Important and Immediate Legislation at Albany.

The Hon. W. W. Armstrong, member of assembly from Monroe County, has introduced a bill in the legislature declaring bicycles to be baggage, and requiring all railroad companies within our State to check, carry and care for bicycles without additional compensation. For the past year several of the railroads have practiced a system of extortion in their dealings with the wheelmen, and the practice has become so obnoxious and burdensome as to be unbearable.

The fight is now on. The railroad companies are powerful, wealthy, dictatorial, and expert managers of the "black horse cavalry" (a familiar term in legislative circles). We ask every cyclist in the State to enlist in this contest and stand with us to the end. Write to the member of assembly representing your district at once, and urge him to support the Armstrong Bill. Get the wheelmen of your locality — of your club — to meet and take action. Write to me for printed matter to aid and direct your efforts. Tell every cycling friend to join the League and help along this effort for the wheelmen of New York State. Do all this at once, and keep it up. There is no time to be lost.

NEW YORK ROAD BOOKS.

Free Gift of Cyclometers to Wheelmen Contributing Routes to the New "Fifty Mile Books."

To All Members of the New York State Division: —

Chief Consul Potter has contracted with the Standard Watch Company for a supply of new cyclometers (latest pattern and newest patent) to be given by our State division to those members who will render prompt and active assistance to the road book committee in preparing routes and maps for the new road books now in preparation. There will be eight books entitled respectively, "Fifty Miles Around New York" — "Brooklyn" — "Albany" — "Troy" — "Syracuse" — "Binghamton" — "Rochester" and "Buffalo." Each book will include maps showing all important routes, and descriptive text covering all roads used by cyclists within a radius of fifty miles from the city referred to in its title page. We want all careful and accurate wheelmen to contribute to this work. Every contributor will be credited in the books with the work done by him.

Now as to the cyclometers. If you wish to take part in this work promptly and actively, write to me at once and state your qualifications for this work—your knowledge of routes in your vicinity. Give your name, residence, and League number. I will send you a blank to be filled out, and on its return to me will make an order on the Standard Watch Company, directing them to send you a new cyclometer, and charge to our division account. This offer will last for only a limited time, and notice of its withdrawal will be published in these columns

MISSOURI DIVISION, L. A. W.

By action of the Board of Officers, the rate of commission for recruiting for '96 has been fixed as follows:— For each new member, 20 cents; for each renewal, 5 cents.

All commissions are payable, not in advance, but at the end of the quarter during which the recruiting was done. This reduction has been made as a measure of economy, as the cost of commission in '95 was about $260.00, which the Board thought had consumed too large a part of the year's income.

IOWA DIVISION.

TO IOWA WHEELMEN: —

The board of officers of the Iowa division of the League of American Wheelmen makes the following liberal offer to its members for 1896.

First a reward of $30 is offered for the recovery of stolen wheels from its members, and in case the wheel is not recovered within 60 days, $25 will be paid outright to the owner.

A tag will be given each member, showing that he is a member of the Iowa division, which is to be placed and kept on the wheel.

A nice L. A. W. lapel button will be given to each of the first 150 new applications received after this date.

This is not a cheap button but something nice, and which any wheelmen would be pleased to wear.

Third, a new Hand Book of general information to Iowa wheelmen will soon be out, a copy of which will be furnished to each member. A nice certificate suitable for framing will be given for each State record broken.

All the above in addition to the usual benefits and privileges derived from being a member of one of the grandest and best organizations in existence, certainly gives one the worth of his money.

The board has adopted a liberal policy. Will you do your part by putting your shoulder to the wheel and help to push it along. It certainly is a good thing.

Personal solicitation is what counts. The Iowa division will show a membership of five thousand members, at the end of the season of 1896, if each one that we now have would only remember to speak to his brother wheelmen when an opportunity presented itself, and urge upon him the advantages of the organization. Tell him that he cannot afford to stay out, and not only tell him so, but take a little time to prove it to him, and nine times out of ten you get him.

How many are willing to work? Hold up your hands? —No, cut a blank application out of the BULLETIN, and go out and get one new name just for a starter. We must get them. We need them. They need us. It's a mutual arrangement, see to it that we get them, send for blanks and go to work.

A. C. MILLER, Sec'y Treas., Iowa Div.

OHIO DIVISION.

TO ALL OHIO MEMBERS:

At the request of the rights and privileges committee, Representative Mayer has introduced in the Ohio legislature "an act to provide against injuries, cuts and punctures to pneumatic tires," the full text of which was given in the report of the board meeting published in the BULLETIN, Dec. 27, 1895. I desire to urge all members of the Ohio division to at once write to their representatives in the legislature requesting them to support this measure when it is brought up for action. If you will all do this the bill will, undoubtedly, become a law. It will not take you long — not half as long as it would to repair a puncture.

Yours fraternally,

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to Monday preceding this date, and published in accordance with Article III of the constitution.

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published and to report errors and omissions to the secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at noon on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

QUERIES AND ANSWERS

Geo. Weaver, Albany, N. Y., writes:

I have had several discussions, also several kinds of advice as to how a tire should be wintered. Some say keep it blown up, others that air should be let out, and still others that air should be partially let out and wheel stood on seat and handle bar. Will you kindly give me the benefit of your experience.

Ans. A good many "hang up" their wheels during the winter. It is supposed to be the right thing to have the tires mildly inflated. The weight of the machine should not rest on the tires.

R. C. Kent, Carleton, Mich., wishes the address of any member of the L. A. W. who desires to make a wheel trip around the world, or the address of any member who has made the trip. No. 80,605, Pawnee, I. T., makes the same request.

Charles Butler, Omaha:

The racing board has accepted records made by Pete Berlo at New Orleans just before Christmas, as follows: Three-fourths of a mile, 1.17; Two-thirds of a mile, 1.00 2-5; one mile, 1.40 3-5.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I lost my hand January 16, and would like to inquire through the columns of the BULLETIN if there is any device which a one-handed man can attach to his stump to grasp the handle of his bicycle? No. 80,241.

CARL H. SEELIG & Co., Newton, Mass., print the blank application for membership in the L. A. W. on the reverse side of their business cards. It is a good example for other bicycle dealers to emulate.

WILL "J. H. D.," Cleveland, Ohio, whose communication was published in the L. A. W. BULLETIN of Oct. 18, 1885, send his address to Joseph St. Onge, Nashua, N. H.?

A member, Baltimore, writes:

Kindly inform me whether it is best to have the head of a bicycle tight or loose — that is, working easily or not. I think if it is tight it will be straining the head, and if loose is liable to break off, as I had one do last year. Kindly settle this doubt to the best of your ability, and I will be content to abide by your decision.

Ans. It should be adjusted so as to be free, but with no play orloss of motion.

"MALCOLM" and not Malcomb Taylor is the author of the article on "The Bicycle in Court," re-published in the L. A. W. BULLETIN of last week from the Virginia Law Register. Mr. Taylor, who resides at Northport, L. I., is recognized as an authority on bicycle law.

J. R. S., New Jersey, says to wheelmen, "When about to pass anybody or any vehicle going your way, make it a custom to ring your bell. It is a note of warning, and an act of courtesy, and is more frequently appreciated than you imagine. Besides, it may often be the means of saving yourself from narrow escapes, if not accidents."

OUT OF PLACE.

"Order is Heaven's first law,"
'tis said, and, so, the human race
Should have a place for everything and everything in place,
That which in certain quarters may be thoroughly despised,
Amid correct surroundings may be blessings richly prized
And that is why the mean "road hogs," we meet with now and then,
Are not so much admired as the ones within the pen.

But, are They?

If women were level-headed,
We think it is safe to state,
In a half a day or so why they Could get a hat on straight.

Bicycle Economy

Before buying a bicycle said to be "just as good as a Columbia" it is well to compare the prices at which the machines sell second-hand.

The second-hand price of Columbias often equals or exceeds the NEW price of the "just-as-good."

Dear Sir:-

The fact that we have given you a year's contract for a quarter of a page is, we think, sufficient evidence of our belief that the Bulletin is a valuable advertising medium. As this paper is not a trade paper, we cannot compare it with the other bicycle papers, but we are thoroughly convinced that it is in a field wholly by itself, and that we are reaching a class of people through the columns of the L. A. W. Bulletin which we cannot reach through any other bicycle medium. In other words, the Bulletin is a bicycle magazine.

We are well pleased with the results that we have had from the Bulletin. As soon as we issue our '96 catalogue, we will key our Bulletin advertisements, and we will be able to tell you in three months after we begin this just what the comparative results are. We think the Bulletin is a satisfactory medium in which to advertise "Satisfactory Business Bicycles."

Thanking you for past favors, we are,
Yours very truly,
Grand Rapids Cycle Co.

CORRESPONDENCE

A STRANGE CASE.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I was interested in the letter of No. 42,572 in your issue of Jan. 10th, emphasizing the fact of the cure of paralysis by the use of the cycle. My case is peculiar and very interesting. I have been troubled with vertigo when I walk, since 1890. I have been under the treatment of many doctors, but up to the present time I failed to get any relief. Two years ago I asked my physician at that time if it would be prudent for me to ride horseback or a cycle. He wouldn't advise me to do it. However, soon after I had an opportunity to try a cycle and improved it. Much to my surprise I found the vertigo had vanished! I immediately bought a cycle and have been riding it at all times since.

The vertigo abides with me when I walk but the instant I mount my wheel and fly away, figuratively speaking, it vanishes. This is a plain statement of facts. How can it be explained? I would like to be rid of the trouble when I walk.

HORATIO S. LIBBY.

MELROSE, MASS.

A LIFE-SAVER.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I am a member of the United States Life Saving Service, and have often wondered why some one hasn't suggested that the wheel be adopted to this service as well as the army. We could use them a great deal; for instance, this morning at five o'clock a large schooner came ashore three and one-half miles from here, abreast of Townsend's Inlet, L. S. S. All the crew had to walk except two, who made the distance on wheels in fifteen minutes, the rest were sixty minutes. Also I would like to say a word about charging for wheels on the W. J. R. R. I can buy a return ticket from here to Ocean View, two and three quarter miles, for fifteen cents, but if I wish to take a wheel it costs me just forty cents. I call this outrageous.

BABIES AND BICYCLES.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Until we poor wretches, the fathers, read the article in the L. A. W. BULLETIN of Jan. 24, entitled, "Those Cruel Fathers," we did not realize what cowardly, selfish mortals we were. No doubt but that some of us foolishly supposed that we were doing the little ones a kindness, as

Two and Two are Three?

Two weeks ago, in our advertisement in the L. A. W. BULLETIN, we stated that

"the wheelman who carries the perfect No. 2 'Standard' Cyclometer (which registers 10,000 miles and costs $1.50) pays one-and-a-half tenths of a cent for the accurate recording of each of the first ten thousand miles he travels — and nothing at all for its subsequent work."

Of course we were wrong — and some odd hundred of agile figurers paid two cents each for the pleasure of telling us so, by letter. The advertising man cheerfully acknowledges the "corn," and incidentally is gratified at the evidence that our advertisements are carefully read by the quick-witted. What we should have said is that the cost per mile for recording the first 10,000 miles registered by our No. 2 'Standard' Cyclometer is one-and-a-half hundredths of a cent.

Possibly there came into the mental process, in making our calculation, the doubt that we could furnish wheeling humanity so much fun for so little money — a mile of delight for one-and-one-half hundredths of a cent — and so we were led to err on the safe side. At least the conclusion may be drawn that our advertisements understate rather than overstate the merits of our products, and that the "Standard" Cyclometer is actually ten times better than our advertisements claim for it. Hereafter we shall hitch a "Standard" to our arithmetic, so that our calculations may be absolutely accurate.

well as relieving the mothers, in taking the babies for an outing, giving them the fresh air and sunlight, and bringing the roses to their cheeks. Instead we learn that we are "thoughtless, ignorant and vain-glorious." We had seen infants of high degree bowling along the avenue in phaetons and landaus, and had not learned that the air on a bicycle level was so much more dangerous to their health. Perhaps we ought to be satisfied to leave them indoors, feeding them soothing-syrups, with an occasional prescription from an M.D., but unfortunately (?) we cannot all view the matter in the same light.

Has the writer of the article in question ever seen the fond parent on the maternal side leave her helpless infant asleep (or otherwise) in a baby carriage outside a dry goods store while mamma searches for a half yard of ribbon to match her last season's bonnet? Sometimes the cab rolls across the walk and is about to plunge into the gutter, but is stopped by a pedestrian in time to prevent a tragedy. Or suppose a frightened horse plunges up on the walk. Yet who has heard of any fatalities in this line? Did the lady ever read of run-away accidents in which children were killed or injured by being thrown from the carriages? But so far no one has suggested the passing of a law to prevent the transportation of children in vehicles propelled by horse power.

To be serious, and without any desire to become personal, we would like to ask whether the lady ever owned a half interest in one of those charming nuisances — a baby.

WINTERING WHEELS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

We who reside in Baltimore do not "winter" a wheel; we always have them ready for use. But last winter was an exceptionally rough one here and I hung my wheel by cords attached to handle bar and seat post so as to make a sling. The treatment of the tires depends on the make. All tires that are much too large for the rim when deflated should be kept inflated. With all that fit the rim snug it doesn't make much difference if they are not pumped hard. The reason the single tubes of the larger pattern should be kept inflated, is that otherwise they will draw away from the rim and will require recementing before using. If the riders would ask the dealer they purchase from, they would get the correct information. Different wheels require different treatment and no general law will apply to all.

FEBRUARY 7, 1896.

OUR NEW DEPARTMENT.

It is a matter of tradition that there was no trouble on the earth until woman came, and yet it is safe to say that, as much as trouble is disliked, if its abolishment necessitated the absence of woman, the average man would at once become a very Job in patience, and the ability to put up with all sorts of adversity would immediately be as common as is the appetite for apollinaris water.

The man who scolds his wife because supper is ten minutes late, would, instead, congratulate himself on the fact that somebody thought enough of him to cook his supper at all, and the question of whether life is worth living would then become debatable with the odds on the affirmative side.

The L. A. W. BULLETIN management has often considered the advisability of running a woman's department; there have been requests for it and protests against it.

We were getting along very nicely, and, remembering the "Adamses" of long ago, we thought best to cope, with only a masculine force, against the serpents which have so often tempted us to try new and doubtful experiments.

Finally some lady reader wrote and said that she saw no reason why we should have a special department for the sisters, as they were in a minority and were interested as much as the men are in all that goes on, and so read the whole paper. This gave us a tip. Why not have a "woman's page" that the men would read?

Total number printed this week, . . . 41,000

And it came to pass that we made an arrangement by which, if it seems desirable, we shall devote certain space each week to the discussion of things feminine, also bloomers.

The woman in the case is Ida Trafford Bell, and though she hardly needs an introduction, it may be proper for us to go through the formality.

Forty thousand League members, allow us to present Mrs. Bell.

We had intended to say here that this new addition to our staff is inclined to be cranky, but we withold the compliment and leave our readers to form their own opinions.

She asked what would be the limit to which she might go in expressing her views on the racing question.

After consulting a libel lawyer we gave her carte blanche, or at least she took it last week.

She has our permission to write about any "bloomin'" thing she pleases, but with the distinct understanding that the cost of defending any suit for damages which may grow out of her utterances, shall be withheld out of the princely salary which we promise to pay her.

All communications relating to the subjects therein treated should be addressed to "Woman's Department."

A BAD START.

When Adam ate the apple and "blamed it" on his wife
And thereby made her grapple with trouble all her life,
He should have been "suspended" from some tree about the place,
And let some nobler, better man begin the human race.

IN THE SAME BOAT.

Friends are better than foes.

Wheelmen and horsemen are coming to a clearer realization of the fact that their interests are very nearly mutual and that the battle for better roads is their common cause.

The better the road is for the wheel the better for the horse and vice versa, hence the seeming evidences of enmity that occasionally crop out in the expressions of wheelmen or horsemen are as unwise as they are unpleasant.

In many localities owners of horses and the riders of wheels are uniting in their efforts to secure better streets and roads. This is the proper thing to do. The horse isn't likely to pass away. The wheel seems to be here for keeps. Provision should be made for the highest enjoyment of both.

The highways are broad enough for both. Because two otherwise sensible men choose different means for enjoying an outing is no reason why they must glare at each other and say mean things.

In union there is strength. Pull together.

THE PATH-MAKERS.

In the spring a young man's fancy is said to turn to thoughts of love.

We violate no confidence in saying that in the spring the minds of a whole lot of cyclers will turn to thoughts of wheel paths.

The work of building wheel ways promises to be vigorously pushed when the spring bicycling season opens. Already there are a good many important projects under way and scores of others being discussed.

At the present time all the athletic and bicycle clubs of Baltimore are being solicited for their signatures pledging their moral support to the scheme for bicycle paths between that city and Washington. The promoters of the scheme have already secured the sanction of nearly all the outdoor organizations in that city and will now canvass Washington.

Every bicycle path connecting important centers will be supplemented by numerous by-paths. The work will expand in a geometrical ratio. These popular wheel ways promise to become contagious. They promise to be good things to catch.

BICYCLES AS BAGGAGE.

Of Interest to all wheelmen, and especially New York State Wheelmen.

Particular attention is called to that part of our official matter, relating to a bill now before the New York Legislature. Don't fail to read it. It is on page 207.

TWO APPRECIATIVE MINISTERS.

While the L. A. W. BULLETIN does not claim to be in any sense a religious journal, (and if made, such a claim would doubtless be contested) it is pleasant to note that we often have said to us, kindly words by people whose lives are devoted to the cultivation of religious thought. We may be pardoned for printing the following letters:

CHRIST CHURCH CATHEDRAL,
LOUISVILLE, KY., Jan., 28, 1896.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Please let me add my tribute to the many good words which are said of the L. A. W. BULLETIN.

As a clergyman my reading is naturally largely theological, but for recreation I thoroughly enjoy the BULLETIN. It is really a literary work. Its wit is only equalled by its wisdom, and general good sense, and its verses are charming bits of humor and philosophy.

I joined the League because I felt like many others that I had no right to the benefits conferred by it upon wheelmen, without doing my part to help as far as I might be able, and I now feel that the BULLETIN is worth more than the price of membership in the League. With every wish for your success I am Truly yours,

C. E. CRAIK, Dean.

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY FOR SEAMEN.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21, 1896.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I want to say, as I have just laid down my Jan. 17 number of the BULLETIN, it is grand and grows better and better.

I get from it many a good practical seed thought for sermons. I am heart and soul with you and proud of the day when the happy privilege was granted me to become an L. A. W. member.

I wish to commend the L. A. W. BULLETIN. I read it through and feel its force. My best wishes.

L. A. W. BUSINESS CARDS.

It has occurred to several L. A. W. business men to print a League application blank on the back of each business card.

This is not only commendable from our point of view, but is a very good stroke of advertising for the concern which uses it. The L. A. W. BULLETIN has a plan, the details of which will be announced as soon as decided upon, which will make it very much to the interest of business people to include an application blank wherever possible.

The widow mentioned in the Bible was religious with all her mite.

A BICYCLE PATH MACHINE.

How many country roads we have seen which were almost good enough for the bicycle, but owing to little irregularities on the surface of the ground and the presence of small stones and sticks, riding must be cautiously done.

A New York State genius has invented an arrangement which may be drawn or pushed over the ground and which levels the surface and removes the loose stones for a space of about two feet in width. We have never seen it in operation but understand that it works successfully.

MANY bicycle paths will be built this year.

Important to Eastern Dealers

Owing to the enormous increase in our eastern business and the indications pointing to a still greater demand, judging from reports, we have opened a wholesale distributing branch at 339 Broadway, New York City, for the purpose of supplying our eastern agents with Waverley Bicycles. This branch will take charge of the trade in the following states, viz: New England territory, Maryland, Delaware and the eastern portions of New York and Pennsylvania . . . . . The above mentioned territory is nearly all covered, there being only a few places where we are not represented. THE ELECTROBAT.

This carriage, which competed in the motor-cycle race at Chicago, is designed to carry four passengers including the driver, the weight being 1,650 lbs. complete with batteries. As shown in the cut there is only one seat in place, the rear seat being fitted on the back of the carriage when used. It presents a handsome appearance and is very little different from an ordinary high grade surrey. There is no moving machinery in sight, the motive power being two 1½ h. p. motors which gear directly into a ring fastened to the wheel, all being encased and out of sight. The steering is accomplished by moving the upright lever (shown in the cut) backward or forward which turns the hind wheels parallel with each other from a point about 3 inches inside the plane of the wheels.

The wheels are of wood and of the usual construction except that they are fitted with pneumatic tires and ball bearings.

The driving or front wheels in this particular machine are 40 inches in diameter and the rear or steering wheels 28 inches in diameter.

The batteries are assembled in four cases weighing about 150 lbs. each, and these cases on

The controller is placed in a convenient position vertically in front of the seat and is operated with a small hand wheel on top. There is one speed backward, at four miles per hour, and three speeds forward, four, twelve and twenty miles respectively.

The battery gives a capacity of from twenty-five to thirty miles, depending on the speed. Of this carriage, the official report of the Chicago contest says:

THOSE PUZZLES.

We advertised two weeks ago to send the L. A. W. puzzle on receipt of a two cent stamp. We expected to receive a lot of calls, but we didn't expect to be swamped by them. Our supply was exhausted in a few days and we have hundreds of orders waiting. We are having made, enough puzzles to supply all who are likely to call for them.

This will explain why you haven't been "waited on" and if you haven't sent for a puzzle, do so at once and you will receive it "shortly."

BUTTONS WANTED.

Manufacturers of buttons such as are used for advertising purposes will please send address to BULLETIN office, together with samples and figures, as we are in a position to place a large order.

For the Ladies

"God Bless 'Em!"

"The world was sad, the garden was a wild,
And man the hermit sigh'd—till woman smiled."

So in the cycling ranks, where a few years ago all was darkness, wildness, sighs and man, now there are more than a hundred and twenty-five thousand smiling girls and women ranging from twelve years of age to — well, never mind where to — but ranging. If all were members of the League of American Wheelmen, what a stir they could make, and what a power they could be.

A well-known woman physician, writing upon the cycling literature of the day says, "Before the year 1896 shall have reached its close there will be over two hundred thousand active wheelwomen in the country, and the journal which adapts itself to this circle of readers will find a sufficiently rich field in which to expend its best efforts.

Parisian wheeling circles are excited over the rumor that the Cardinal Archbishop has declared that he will refuse to administer the holy sacrament to any woman appearing upon her bicycle in rational dress. The reverend cardinal may find himself with more of a situation on his hands and mind than he can comfortably handle, should his fair followers elect to follow the teachings of the "God of Nature," rather than those of a tyrannous bigot.

Dress for the wheel has resolved itself to a fine art, and as the spring season approaches the toilettes for cycling displayed in all the fashionable districts are marvels of genius, for nothing but the most perfect fit and harmonious combination of color and material are acceptable to my lady of the "Silent Steed." While a womon's chic is largely due to her clothes, the garment must be adapted to the requirements of the person, and not be at variance with her individual style. Hence the effort of every woman of good form and style is to show herself awheel a study in harmony, color, personality, effect and motion.

Her royal capriciousness, Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, who is a wheelwoman, and very enthusiastic upon the subject, was expected to have appeared at the "Royal Boxes," during the Madison Square Garden show, but something prevented, for which all were sorry. Perhaps it was well, as all his friends would have been very sorry to have seen "Brother Bassett," for whom she was to have been a pleasant surprise, fall down in a fit, or worse still, fall off his perch.

It is said that the Ex-Queen "Lil," of the Sandwich Isles, is learning to ride a bicycle. She objects to rat-trap pedals because they cut her bare feet, upon which she scorns to wear covering of any sort. Also she is having bother in managing a $5,000 Worth evening costume, which appears to be the favorite style of dress for all occasions of the dusky lady.

Dr. Harriette C. Keatinge, prominent in medical circles of New York, while a warm advocate and believer in the wheel for women, deplores the injurious effect it is having upon many through the tendency to stoop over the handle bars, and cites several cases of organic heart disease among her immediate patients, brought about through this ungraceful, hurtful habit.

Two women are among the prize winners in the New York State division contest by sub-consuls for largest number of members sent in within a given time. Mrs. Bolton of Brooklyn, N. Y., was awarded the sum of $40 and a high grade bicycle. We would suggest the advisability of other divisions following the example of that of New York, and thus induce consuls to work. "Competition is the life of trade," you know, and will apply elsewhere.

A new cycling paper, metropolitan in scope, and called The Rider, is about to appear and intends to cater strongly to the women and children element awheel. There has not been much attention paid to the little wheelers, and there are a lot of them.

Mrs. E. S. Merry, of West 74th street, New York, who has been one of the most tireless workers for the cyclists' federation since its first meeting, gave a luncheon to her many co-workers and cyclists. During the cycle show, Mrs. Merry secured a hundred and fifty members for that organization. This federation was formed recently for local work, and is working in complete and entire harmony with the League of American Wheelmen, and bids fair to be the parent branch of an endless chain of local organizations. The League has heretofore made no provision for bodies of this nature, although there has been a pressing and crying need therefor. This association is chiefly the work of women. At a recent meeting the racing question was taken up, and as all seemed desirous to stand by their chief consul in this matter, it was suggested that The Federa-

A thing noticeable for its absence during the recent cycle show was the discussion so freely indulged in the previous year, by manufacturers, to the effect that they would compel women to ride diamond frame wheels by not making the drop frame wheels. The woman's wheel was the most conspicuous feature of every exhibit, even to the extent of setting them in jewels and precious stones. IDA TRAFFORD BELL.

AN Illinois division member writes: "I think the BULLETIN deserves the highest praise for its successful efforts to place before its readers good solid suggestions aided by those who have something good to suggest. Why can't every good member aim to send in something for the good of the others or else keep still and save the space they are so kindly given which they use to bite at someone."

The illustration presented herewith gives a fair representation of one of the best hard roads in the country. It is "hard" in more than one sense of the word, for besides having a rocky foundation it is hard to climb because of its steep grade.

The road at the top of the hill is cut to the depth of forty feet, through solid rock. The hill is three-fourths of a mile long and is considered a very hard pull by the best wheelmen and it is only the best who can climb it all, but the views from and about it make it a popular route for bicyclists.

The officers of the North California division of the L. A. W. have prepared a pamphlet setting forth the League's claims on wheelmen for patronage and support, and the advantages to be derived from a membership in the League. The book is a condensed, comprehensive educator and is being sent to every rider in the division. It will help along in the division's determination to double its membership.

Professor Bell, of Anderson, Ind., has just completed his air ship. It is constructed wholly of aluminum and bamboo, weighs forty pounds, and, it is claimed, will carry 260 pounds and attain a speed of a mile in three minutes. It is composed of a series of parachutes or umbrellas, a propelling wing, and a rudder to guide it. It is worked by a gearing much after the plan of a bicycle and is very easy to handle. It folds up and can be carried with little trouble. Mr. Bell has demonstrated to a few friends that it will work. The machine can be constructed cheaply, he says, and can be used in all kinds of weather.

UNCLE JOSH'S VIEWS.

NIXON WATERMAN.

I've spent all day a-thinkin' an' I've laid awake at night
A-doin' jes' my level bes' a-tryin' fer to write
A poem 'at 'ill sort o' voice the things I want to say
Concernin' o' the bicycle 'at's everywhere to-day.
But somehow, as the feller says, I can't jes' strike a gait
'At seems to fit my sentiments, an' so I'm goin' to wait
Until I'm in the spirit, fer it's my idee the wheel
Is a poem made o' metal an' a symferny in steel.

At first I didn't like it when it went a-whizzin' by;
The good ole mare I ust to drive 'l'd allers up an' shy
An' keep me sort o' worried like, but now she doesn't care,
A-loafin' in the pastur' lot, how many wheels they air.
Fer my nephew from the city come to visit 'ith us once
An' fetched his wheel along 'ith him, an' like a blame ole dunce
I got to foolin' 'ith it an' I learnt to ride the thing
An' so when he took his'n home I bought me one, by jing!

There's nothin' chirks me up so much as jes' to take a spin;
My rheumatiz has vanished an' I'm gittin' young ag'in,
An' ills 'at ust to trouble me, an' all the aches an' pains
I lost among my saunterin's along the shady lanes.
An' bimeby, as the feller says, when all the signs is right,
I mean to take my pen in hand an' then an' there indite
Some verses as is verses, fer my bicycle, I feel,
Is a poem made o' metal an' a symferny in steel.

THAT YES OR NO VOTE.

For several weeks we have printed an informal ballot and have invited our readers to express themselves as to the advisability of the L. A. W. giving up control of racing.

What most surprised us was the small interest taken in the subject. We have felt sure that our paper was extensively read, for our advertisers have repeatedly told us so, and on several occasions we have taken the matter in our own hands and proven it. For instance, the puzzle mentioned in our Jan. 24th issue brought great results, no less than a hundred and ninety-six orders being received in a single mail, but votes on the racing question have come in slowly. The result as it stands is:

"Should the L. A. W. give up the control of racing?"

YES 936
NO 1,156

It is quite evident that the rank and file of the League is not losing sleep over this question.

Send a two cent stamp for the L.A.W, puzzle.

SOME "GENTLE" HINTS.

"The happiest man is he who helps pay for the privileges he enjoys."

These very true and pertinent words head a neat folder on which is printed the application for membership blank in the New Jersey division. Then follow a few questions and answers that are very full of meaning.

Who doesn't recall the time when a man on a bicycle was considered a fair target for every hoodlum's coarse wit and dangerous jokes?

Things are different now.

Did you pay your share?

Think again!

What was the condition of the streets, roads and highways of the country — especially New Jersey — ten or a dozen years ago?

What is their condition now? Roads all over the country are passable for a bicycle, while New Jersey ranks 'way up at the head of the list of States foremost in the good work.

Have you paid your share?

Think again!

Ten or a dozen years ago, did cyclists have any rights on the road that thick-headed, unmannerly teamsters were bound to respect?

True, there are yet more than enough "road-hogs"— but there will be a considerable number less at the end of this riding season if you do your part, and pay your share for the privileges you enjoy.

What is true of wheelmen in New Jersey is true of them in other divisions. The man who enjoys the good results achieved by the L. A. W. and who is not bent on getting something for nothing, ought to be able to know where he belongs.

Selling to the Rider Direct...

With one profit, and a small one at that, is no longer a question of doubt, but a positive fact and a success. Our experiment is no longer an experiment, but some thing that has come to stay.

If You Want a $75.00 Bicycle for $50.00...

Get in line. We are selling direct to the rider a "'96" pattern, $75.00, light, up-to-date Wheel, with Barrel Hubs, Large Tubing, Tool Steel Bearings, and fully guaranteed for one year, for $50.00 for the Gents', and $55.00 for the Ladies'.

THAT BABY OF OURS.

WE are pleased to be able to say, authoritively, if not officially, that the great American baby has a whole lot of friends in the crowd.

Those who have had to walk with it during the long Waterbury watches of the night may have said unfriendly things of it on the impulse of the moment.

But they didn't mean it. Everybody loves the baby and believes in the protection of our infant industries.

It is true that three or four back counties are yet to be heard from, but all the others have shown their interest in babies by writing answers to our communication published two weeks ago, regarding the cruelty of fathers who sometimes give their babies outings on their bicycles. These answers range from "grave to gay, from lively to severe," particularly the latter. Some of the articles are not too warm for type. S. Raymond Kitchin, Lawrence, Mass., writes:

I read an article last summer about the cruelty of carrying babies on wheels, etc. I have been riding my baby in that manner since she was eight months old and she enjoys it thoroughly, and so far from being frightened she went to sleep the first time I took her out. One of your correspondents speaks of the babies being strapped to the handle bars. I do not quite understand that as my baby has never been strapped to any part of the seat or wheel. It's the parents who get "strapped" on the wheel, not the children.

I do not like to be called cruel nor to have it inferred by mere onlookers that the fool killer could benefit society and, incidentally, the cause of bicycling, by removing me to a higher sphere. I will simply quote from Josh Billings: "It is better not to know so much, than to know so many things that ain't so." My wife told me to write this for the sake of the enjoyment our baby has received from the wheel.

Another correspondent, who resides in the same city as does the lady whose communication he answers, says:

In your issue of Jan. 24, F. W. B. condemns the practice of certain fathers carrying their children on the wheel, in such extravagant language, so palpably at variance with the facts and with such utter disregard of the proprieties, that, while I dislike engaging in controversy with the fair sex, I cannot refrain from "calling down" the writer thereof, who shows such dense ignorance of the subject. Whoever saw a child strapped to the handle-bars? F. W. B. never did. If she will walk from her home eastward on Arch street for half a mile and inquire at the numerous bicycle houses she will pass, for a carrier by which she can strap her "wee tot" to the handle-bars, she will be laughed at. All the carriers are made either to fasten on the frame or saddle-post, and do not affect either the balance or steering of the machine.

Notwithstanding there are several thousand "thoughtless, ignorant and vain-glorious" fathers in the city of Philadelphia, I challenge the lady to cite a dozen cases of injury to children through being carried on the wheel, and I doubt if she can produce half that number.

I have no hesitation in declaring that a child is safer on a bicycle under the watchful care of its parent than it would be left in charge of a maid, or on the streets to play with other children. I have carried my three children thousands of miles during the last six years and know whereof I speak.

If F. W. B. desires to become fully informed in this matter I shall be pleased to furnish her the names and addresses of a number of fathers, who reside within easy reach of her home, and who have carried their children over fifty thousand miles in the aggregate, without accident or injury. These children are all robust and healthy, and living examples of the benefit to be derived from wheeling, even though they were carried by "fools."

A question isn't a question unless it has two sides to it. And so this subject under discussion has its "pro and con" forces. While a very large majority of correspondents have insisted that the babies of the land should be given more bicycle outings and less paregoric there are others who say the baby should not ride the wheel. Here's a New Yorker's views:

Allow me to add a word upholding the position taken by Mrs. Fannie Warner Bicknell, in her letter on page 111 of this week's BULLETIN. I claim to be an expert rider and not a timid one, either, but I must confess that the sight of a child's helpless and dangerous position on the handle-bars always arouses my indignation against such reckless bravado. I have a large acquaintance among wheelmen, and I have always found a strong sentiment against this foolish practice. The most expert rider is not proof against an accident to his wheel, in which case he may usually save himself from serious injury but has no control of the fate of a helpless charge.

And another New Yorker, who may live next door to the one above quoted, says:

During several years of wheeling I have come in contact with many fathers in New York, Brooklyn, and outlying districts, who have carried their children in this way, and their universal experience has been that, upon the whole, it is no more dangerous to the child than driving. The little one is never strapped to the handle-bars, as your correspondent would have us believe, but sits in a seat, protected by its father's arms on each side and the handle-bars in front, and can be lifted off instantly, if necessary, in case of collision or accident to the wheel. I would like for some of the "croakers" to see my four-year son, who for three seasons rode with me on "our" wheel, and has covered more than 2,000 miles, without receiving so much as a scratch. Bright eyes, rosy cheeks and robust health are the results in his case, and instead of being a fit subject for pneumonia, etc., is all the better able to withstand such diseases.

Many other correspondents, whose words are crowded out for lack of space, prove conclusively that it is right, just, sensible, proper, and humane to give the babies outings on bicycles, while other writers show beyond the shadow of a doubt that the practice is wrong, foolish, wicked and dangerous.

And now that the baby has been told what's what, it must henceforth look out for itself until it becomes old enough to join the L. A. W., when it will again receive our undivided attention.

FOR THE LIVING.

NIXON WATERMAN.

If you would speak a kindly word,
Do not too long delay it,
But let it by our ears be heard—
We yearn to hear you say it.
Of friendly cheer our hearts have need
Along life's pathway dreary;
Remember we may never read
Our own obituary.

Is there a deed that you can do
To ease our yoke of sorrow?
Oh, do it with a purpose true,
Nor wait for the tomorrow.
Oh, give us cups of joy to quaff;
While we are with you, love us;
We'll never see the epitaph
Your hands shall place above us.

If you have loving gifts to make,
Do not too long withhold them,
But give them now that we may take
And in our hearts enfold them.
Oh, crown us with a wreath to-day!
Our hungry spirits ask it.
We'll never see the rich bouquet
You place upon our casket.

And while humanity extols
The ones beneath the daisies,
About us are the weary souls
Deserving of our praises.
We mean to tell them so, but still
(We are so thoughtless, very;)
We never mention it until
They reach the cemetery.

GUESS, THEN TRY IT.

Place a bicycle so that one pedal will be at the lowest point; now as you roll the machine forward the pedal goes back with reference to the frame, but which way will it go if you attach a string to the pedal and pull horizontally? This is interesting some of our exchanges. It is a very simple problem, and yet one which is liable to puzzle you. And, by the way, speaking of puzzles, have you sent for one of our L. A. W. puzzles yet? It only costs a two-cent stamp.

BICYCLE PATHS.

G. J. OAKES.

In the L.A.W. BULLETIN for Jan. 10, I read an article by W. F. Cooper, on cycle paths, which I thought was very good. He gives an account of the construction of a cycle path from Meriden to New Haven.

Why can't we have one from New York to Philadelphia? I would like to ask. I think if some of the clubs of New York and Philadelphia, and the cities and towns between those two cities, and also the unattached riders had to amalgamate together, I think we might have a cycle path that would make one of the finest century runs in the world.

Now I would like to make a few suggestions about the means according to Mr. Cooper's figures.

Six miles of path were built for $884.56 at an average of about $146.43 per mile, and he says from past experience gained, one could be built for half that cost. I would think $100 to $150 per mile would be cheap for a good path, and we will suppose there were 70 miles to build, that would be at the full cost, $10,500, we will say; or, suppose that the subscription was raised as follows:

50	First-Class Clubs at	$50	each,	$2,500
100	Second-Class " "	25	"	2,500
100	Third-Class " "	10	"	1,000
1000	Unattached Subscribers,	1	"	1,000
35	Cycle Manufacturers	100	"	3,500

Offering as an inducement to manufacturers this kind of an advertisement on a finger post at each end of the mile (One mile of Waverley track), could a manufacturer have a finer ad.? For each $100 give them a mile of advertisement, and a score of other ways the money could be raised.

Hoping the boys will be up and stirring at both ends and along the route, and any help that I could give to them I would be pleased to give it.

BRISTOL, PA. No. 82,651.

THE wheelmen of New Jersey are indebted to the good work of Mr. Jere. Pangburn, Jr., of Hackensack, to whose efforts is due the introduction in the State senate of the "Johnson Bill." This bill was drafted from views submitted by the prominent wheelmen of New Jersey, New York, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania and is said to be one of the most practicable of its kind. It covers the ground thoroughly and protects wheelmen to the fullest extent. While it does not take away from any section the rights and privileges now enjoyed, it places a limit on the restrictions which can be made, and which are now unlimited. It will no doubt prove a splendid model for other States to pattern after.

You might have to journey for many a day,
And many a wearisome mile,
Before you would find a more beautiful way,
Or a girl with a prettier smile.

BICYCLES VS. BOOKS.

The latest charge brought against the bicycle is that it injures the bookseller's trade. Books never have the same sale in summer as in winter, despite the fact that paper-covered novels are in demand by the loungers on the seashore; but this year there is said to have been a more than usual depression in trade. The wheelman is blamed for this, as it is logically argued that while indulging in his favorite pastime he cannot possibly be reading a book, and that when he gets home from his spin he is too tired to read. As the cycling craze is constantly increasing, the result of its growth upon literature would make an interesting study. — Philadelphia Record.

IN Cass county, Indiana, recently, the roads were so bad as to make the holding of funerals almost impossible. On one occasion a hearse had to be pulled out of the mire by four horses. But Indiana has much to be thankful for. That State is making rapid strides in road improvement. In one county, where fifteen years ago there were threats of killing the men who should undertake to build gravel roads, there are now two hundred miles of good gravel highway.

Roads built hard and round and high,
Are good though days be wet or dry.

COFFIN ON A BICYCLE.

"I saw a very strange sight while I was over in Vancouver Saturday," a bill collector for a Portland house was telling a friend on the car.

"It was a coffin strapped on a bicycle, and it was being taken to the country, evidently, for the rider had the appearance of being dressed for a long, hard ride. It was a strange combination. The coffin was strapped across the handle bars and over the front wheel. The big black varnished box almost hid the rider, whose head just appeared over the lid. To add to this grewsome spectacle, which reminded me forcibly of a mince pie nightmare, the rider wore a black cap, drawn down well on his head. His face was thin and white, and for a moment I thought it was a transformed vision of an end-of-the-century silent reaper. He was minus his sand glass and scythe — not to mention his whiskers — and to me the startling spectacle seemed as if it were some horrible octopus looking for a victim for the grave.

"The coffin was carried safely and quickly and I suppose beat a wagon all hollow. In the earlier days they used to carry coffins on horseback. This, to my mind, would not seem half so uncanny. A bicycle, you know, is the very spirit of life itself — especially when it runs away with you and breaks a rib — but to see it carrying the coffin gave me a shudder.

"Well, we shall see all sorts of strange things before we have done with the wheel. We have

THE L. A. W. BULLETIN has been asked to commend the very good work being done by the Boston Park Commission in the matter of skating on the various waters under their jurisdiction at Franklin Field, Jamaica Pond, Charlesbank and Wood Island Park, and the work being done by the city on the Public Garden Pond. In this connection it may not be out of place to refer to the fact that the coasting course in the common, made famous by the American boys, who in revolutionary times demanded that the British soldiers quartered in the common should not throw ashes on the slide and whose command was respected, is still kept sacred to the use then made of it. Every winter this course is bridged over so that coasters need not fear collision with pedestrians, and coasting goes merrily on as it did a century and a quarter ago. Another favor shown to the youth of Boston is the giving of free slight-of-hand and other entertainments to school children in every school district on each Fourth of July.

He tumbled from his weary wheel,
  And set it by the door;
Then stood as though he joyed to feel
  His feet on earth once more;
And as he mopped his rumpled head
  His face was wreathed in smiles;
"A very pretty run," he said,
  "I did a hundred miles!"

"A hundred miles!" I cried. "Ah, think!
  What beauties you have seen!
The reedy streams where cattle drink,
  The meadows rich and green.
Where did you wend your rapid way—
  Through lofty woodland aisles?"
He shook his head. "I cannot say—
  "I did a hundred miles!"

"What hamlets saw your swift tires spin?
  Ah, how I envy you!
To lose the city's dust and din,
  Beneath the heaven's blue;
To get a breath of country air,
  To lean o'er rustic stiles!"
He only said, "The roads were fair—
  "I did a hundred miles!"

Dress Reform.

It matters not though doctors may
  Declare that it will kill,
The awful corset's here to stay
  And stay of corset it will.

THE PRESENT NEED.

At this stage of the good roads movement it is not necessary to speak of the value of the work. The need of better highways in the interest of all classes is generally recognized, but as with every other reform, the chief obstacle to be overcome is the inertness of people who know what ought to be done, but who do not know how to do it and are not yet stirred up to activity. Local and even State interest in road improvement can accomplish much but the tendency in every enterprise involving the spending of money is for the small body to hang behind the larger. The natural supposition would be that the farmers who use the roads most would be first to demand their perfection, but they hesitate to spend more money than neighboring communities, and it is only with encouragement from the State that they can be induced to make any outlay. So the States need to be aroused to a common interest in the subject, and the citizens need to feel that it is a matter of common concern, until a town will come to consider it a disgrace to have such roads as are now too often endured with no attempt at improvement.—New York Tribune.

Frank F. Tyler, Detroit, Mich., says the brake question is largely one of locality, and purely geographical. "An inhabitant of Lapland dresses in fur, while the native of Africa wears a ring in his nose and an air of contentment (and perhaps a palm leaf), and for the man in Lapland to argue to the native of the tropics that fur should be worn is as logical as is the advocate of a brake on a bicycle to urge its use in a locality where we have no hills. I have been in sections of the country where every farmer had a brake on his wagon. But you will travel many miles in many States where such a device was never thought of. Let us not try to persuade the residents of Panama to wear sealskin coats and the members of the Hudson Bay Co. to dress in lawn tennis slippers."

A correspondent writing from Winterset, Ia., says: "Only a short time ago no one would have thought it worth while to present a sincere argument against the bloomer costume. It was met as a joke and received only ridicule. Now it seems that the bloomerites find less and less occasion to defend themselves, while their sisters who cling to the clinging skirt, seize every occasion to explain why they do it, and to tell us that you can ride just as well with skirts as bloomers."

A Happy Reminder.

Good, hard, level roads remind us
We may make them all that way;
And you never more will find us
Using mud and sods and clay.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

"C. H. S." of Brattleboro, Vt., tells the readers of the Rural New Yorker how a mudhole was transformed into a good road:

"This piece of road, being situated about 100 rods from a railroad station, has been known for years, far and wide, as the poorest in town. Teamsters always loaded according to what they could haul through "the mudhole," as it was generally termed.

"It was built in this way: As soon as the ground was thoroughly settled in the spring, a hole was dug in the road large enough to take in a heavy Syracuse plow. Six strong, steady horses were attached, and, by going very slowly, the road was gradually broken up the entire length and 11 feet wide. An excavation was then made, by the use of an improved wheel scraper, to the depth of about two feet. The hole thus made was then filled with large stones a little more than level full. These stones were purchased, at small expense, of a nearby neighbor who had a stone wall that was exactly in his way. On top of the stones was then piled coarse gravel taken out of a brook, to a depth of eight inches.

"The dirt taken out in excavating, was next scraped back, and the road shaped 40 feet wide. Then every 20 feet eight-inch tile were put in from the edge of the stone, at right angles with the road, and run to the outside ditch with a good fall. The tile were placed 20 feet apart on either side, a row on one side came between two on the other —thus placing a row every 10 feet. Mr. Hopkins considers the tile indispensable, for after heavy rains, they have often been noticed running off large quantities of water that would otherwise have remained in the road to soak through and make mud.

"A thorough job has been done, and this road will stand for many years a monument to its builder, and an honor to the town. More are needed, and I predict that each year will see additions of this kind, for Rupert has awakened to the fact that money invested in thoroughly built roads, like this, pays the farmer a higher rate of interest than money deposited in savings banks, and is absolutely safe."

MAINTAINING GOOD ROADS.

The second annual report of the New Jersey commissioner of public roads, for the year ending October 31, 1895, contains much that is of general interest. Regarding maintenance of road, Commissioner Budd says:

The four months of almost continued absence of rainfall has been very trying to all kinds of roads. The sand roads become almost impassable with their unusual depth of sand. The gravel and dirt roads dissolved into dust and chuck-holes, and the stone roads manifested a strong tendency to disintegrate on the surface for the want of moisture to cement the binding material with the stones. In many cases this tendency was overcome by a slight top-dressing of loamy gravel, in others by the application of water. Perhaps the most practical and economical plan is, in the late spring to apply thin coatings of gravel possessing cementing qualities, beds of which are found in a few localities in the southern part of the State, not far from where most needed. Noticing that where a certain amount of moisture was mostly present, through a damp subsoil, under the shade of trees, or where municipalities or incorporated stone pikes have daily recourse to the sprinkler, there was little or no raveling, I became impressed that water is a most potent element for preserving the integrity of the road beds, so have urged upon all the county boards, where it could economically be done, the application of the needed moisture.

I have also noticed, where the surface of the stone roads was a part of shaded avenues, there was little or no disintegrating, thus emphasizing the experience and practice of European road builders that macadamized roads should be set with shade or fruit trees, thus employing the silent forces of nature to steadily furnish what would require considerable outlay on the part of our freeholders, besides adding beauty to the landscape and pleasure and comfort to the traveler.

Another necessary provision for their maintenance is the quick adoption of measures whereby loaded wagons will be required to use tires not less than four inches wide. Narrow tires are the most fruitful source of cutting and rutting the surface of stone roads, whereas, if broad tires were the rule the traffic would continually roll and consolidate the bed.

MERCHANTS in many country towns are complaining to the local papers that "trade is dull because roads are in poor condition." What are the merchants doing to correct the evil?

MANY want the earth but farmers must have it.

GOOD ROADS IN CONGRESS.

Charles W. Stone has introduced a bill to create a special commission on highways and to make appropriation therefor.

In the Fifty-second Congress Senator Manderson's bill for a National Highway Commission passed the Senate without opposition, but did not reach a vote in the House. Subsequently the National League for Good Roads was organized and held a convention in Washington, January, 1893, in which twenty-five States were represented. This convention attracted the attention and interest of all branches of the government and many members of Congress were in attendance, as well as representatives of departments. It was there suggested that the government might aid in the work then being carried on by the League, and upon consultation of a committee of the League and the committee on Agriculture of the House, the appropriation of $10,000 for the organization of an Office of Road Inquiry in the Department of Agriculture was agreed upon. That office was organized in October, 1893, and annual appropriations of the like amount have been made since that date. The work, however, was necessarily tentative, and a great amount of gratuitous service being rendered by the friends of good roads, the expenditures were kept down for the first two years to less than one-half of the appropriation.

The work accomplished, however, has been valuable and useful. The many publications of the office have been eagerly sought for, and the Chief of the Inquiry has been constantly consulted regarding legislation for road improvement in various States.

National conventions have been held each year, and that of 1895, held in Atlanta, had representatives from over thirty States, including the most distant States of the Union.

It is now generally conceded that the work of the government in this direction could be advantageously broadened and extended, but it requires a very careful study of all the conditions to determine how this can best be done. So far the work of the government has been very highly approved by State authorities and by all the friends of good roads. The fact of the government having taken an interest in the subject, even to this small extent, has done very much to develop public interest, and there is a general feeling that the work may be safely put upon a higher plane.

The new bill does not propose to create any new offices, nor involve any expenditure of money, except that saved from the previous appropriations for the like purpose.

The Chief of Road Inquiry has secured some important concessions in the railroad rates on road materials, but has accomplished nothing compared to what might be done by a national commission of this high character.

W. S. BULL, Sec.-Treas.

TO ALL WHEELMEN IN THE STATE OF NEW YORK:

The Fight is on at Albany.

We have introduced a bill in the legislature to stop the unjust and oppressive practices of certain railroad companies in compelling cyclists to sign "releases" and charging a special fee for carrying bicycles as "excess baggage." Thousands of wheelmen have suffered from this oppression; have been subjected to every form of insolence and abuse from railroad employees; have been denied the ordinary privileges which the laws are supposed to give to passengers, and have had their wheels thrown recklessly about by baggagemen, who, under cover of a "release" have reduced the system to one of extortion. The statute law of New York declares that every railroad operating within this State shall carry a passenger and one hundred and fifty pounds of baggage without extra charge beyond the regular specified rate of fare. For fifteen years the railroad companies of this country have followed the custom of carrying bicycles free; not the light, easily-handled twenty-pound bicycles of to-day, but bicycles with 50 to 60-inch wheels and weighing from 50 to 60 pounds. More than a hundred American railroads are to-day following this custom. Custom makes law. "Custom is the universal sovereign." Custom is the common guide of honest people and every reasonable custom will hold its way.

Some of our railroads have broken this custom. It is a "break for revenue." Other railroads have been urged to follow suit, and the ingenious methods of the "combine" are being put in operation to force these railroads into the new scheme. What is baggage? The courts have declared that "whatever a passenger takes with him on his journey for his personal use or convenience, either with reference to the immediate wants of his journey or as a part of the ultimate purpose thereof, according to the particular class to which he belongs, is baggage." This principle has been followed and confirmed in all court decisions in which the subject has been brought into question, and in no American case has it been disputed. Guns and ammunition are the baggage of the hunter; fishing tackle is the baggage of the angler; tools are the baggage of the carpenter and the machinist; the easel and the sketching materials are the baggage of the artist; the bicycle is the baggage of the wheelman.

All this is sense and reason to you and to us; to the railroad corporation it is nothing. Only one thing can now be done. It is to pass the Armstrong Bill (introduced by Hon. W. W. Armstrong, member of assembly from Monroe county). Here is a true copy of this bill:

AN ACT TO AMEND THE RAILROAD LAW.

The people of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section 44 of Chapter 31 of the general laws is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sect. 44. Checks for baggage—A check made of some proper metallic substance of convenient size and form, plainly stamped with numbers, and furnished with a convenient strap or other appendage for attaching to baggage shall be affixed to every piece or parcel of baggage when taken for transportation for a passenger by the agent or employe of such corporation, if there is a handle, loop or fixture therefor upon the piece or parcel of baggage, and a duplicate thereof given to the passenger or person delivering the same for him. If such check be refused on demand the corporation shall pay to the passenger the sum of ten dollars, and no fare shall be collected or received from him; and if he shall have paid his fare it shall be refunded to him by the conductor in charge of the train. Such baggage shall be delivered, without unnecessary delay, to the passenger or any person acting in his behalf, at the place to which it was to be transported, where the cars usually stop, or at any other regular intermediate stopping place, upon presentation of such duplicate check to the officer or agent of the railroad corporation, or of any corporation, over any portion of whose road it was transported. Bicycles are hereby declared to be and be deemed baggage for the purposes of this article and shall be transported as baggage for passengers by railroad corporations and subject to the same liabilities, and no such passenger shall be required to crate, cover, or protect any such bicycle in any manner.

Sect. 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

How to Pass This Bill.

There are 90,000 wheelmen voters in the State of New York. We have a giant's strength, but it would be "cowardly to use it like a giant." Let us use it reasonably,—promptly, zealously and persistently, but reasonably. On receipt of your postal card request I will send you a list of the senators and members of assembly at Albany. Look over this list and see who represents your district or county in each body. Write to each of them at once, a sensible, reasonable letter, and ask them to help along the Armstrong Bill (assembly bill No. 372) by their votes and influence. Tell them of the abuses that exist under the practices lately adopted by the railroads and relate to them any facts on this point within your personal knowledge.

Watch the newspapers for legislative news, and keep track of this bill. Read the L. A. W. BULLETIN (official columns) every week. You will find there reliable information and "pointers" to aid your work. Call together the wheelmen of your locality, and pass resolutions favoring this bill and send a copy to your senator and assemblyman at Albany. Have your club pass similar resolutions. If the editor of your local paper is with us, get him to write and print a favorable editorial. Get signatures to the petition. I will send blanks on request.

Attach sheets of paper to the bottom and add more signatures. Make it a mile long if you like, and send it to the chief consul. Get wheelmen's signatures, and the signatures of all citizens who will sign it.

Don't forget to write a personal letter to the legislators from your county, and urge all other wheelmen to do the same. This is more important and more effective than the petition.

ISAAC B. POTTER, Chief Consul.

VANDERBILT BUILDING, NEW YORK, N. Y.

IMPORTANT TO NEW YORK MEMBERS.

The assembly committee on raiiroads now having under consideration the Armstrong Bill (to compel railroad companies to carry bicycles the same as other forms of baggage), is composed of the following named members of assembly, whose respective places of residence are also stated with the several names.

Assembly Committee on Railroads.

S. F. Nixon, Westfield, Chant Co.; Taylor J. Eldridge. North Creek, Warren Co.; C. J. Smith, West Henrietta, Monroe Co.; Chas. Brann, Buffalo, Erie Co.; Jos. H. Brownell, Windsor, Brcome Co.; A. J. Ablett, Cohoes, Albany Co.; Thos. M. Costello, Altman, Oswego Co.; Archie D. Sanders, Stafford, Genessee Co.; Oliver D. Budd, Hector, Schuyler Co.; Wm. B. Graves, Taberg, Oneida Co.; John J. Cain, Brooklyn, Kings Co.; Cornelius Coughlin, Buffalo, Erie Co.; Wm. H. Kinne, Ovid, Seneca Co.

If you live in the county represented by either of these gentlemen, I urge you to at once cultivate his acquaintance (personally or by correspondence), on the subject of Assembly Bill No. 372 (the Armstrong Bill).

NEW YORK DIVISION.

CHIEF CONSUL'S REPORT.

TO OUR BOARD OF OFFICERS:

The year's history of the New York State Division for 1895, has been an interesting and prosperous one. Since our last annual meeting, we have more than trebled our membership, which has now reached a figure several thousand in advance of that ever before attained by any State Division, and New York again holds the banner position in the League of American Wheelmen. In recording this pleasing fact, it is our first duty to give acknowledgement to the faithful and enthusiastic work of many of our representatives and consuls who have done so much to accomplish it, and to the gentlemen of the press, whose liberal and indulgent treatment has brought so much of the prosperity which our State division now enjoys.

CONSULS.—The work of appointing consuls, as described in my report of last June, has been carried steadily along, and the consular force in most of the counties is fairly adequate for the work in hand. As must necessarily occur, where so many voluntary officers have been enlisted to undertake official work, it sometimes happens that the best and most competent men have not been called into service; but in the main, our consular list is an admirable one, and the few changes now contemplated will so improve it, as to make it still more effective in building up the membership of the League and pushing forward its work.

ROAD BOOKS.—Two editions of the tour books, 1895, have been published, comprising about 11,000 copies. The distribution of these books has largely aided our increase of membership, and the demand for books showing popular routes has so steadily increased as to impress us with their value as a recruiting medium. Early in the year, the newly-appointed road book committee undertook the collection of data for six new road books, referring respectively to the territory surrounding the cities of New York, Albany, Syracuse, Binghamton, Rochester and Buffalo. Detail maps have been purchased showing the roads in all the various counties throughout the State, and the work of collecting accurate detail information from wheelmen, has gone steadily forward. Unfortunately, the chairman of our road book committee, Mr. Schwarz, urged by business demands which could not be ignored, was compelled to resign his place on this committee, and the vacancy thus occurring, has been filled by the appointment of Mr. G. A. Roullier, of Flushing, N. Y., a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, and a road engineer of prominence and ability. Chairman Roullier has taken hold of this committee work with a vigor which promises the best results; and if accorded the aid and co-operation which the importance of the work would seem to demand of every riding member, the books now in course of preparation under his guidance, will be the finest that have yet been produced within the League. I earnestly hope that each member and officer of our division will find it his pleasure to make Chairman Roullier's work as easy and exact as possible. It will be difficult and burdensome under the best conditions, and it behooves us all to do our utmost to uphold the efforts of every officer upon whom so great a burden falls.

HOTELS.—New form of hotel contracts have been devised and are being used wherever application is made for hotel appointments. The old form of hotel contract was in some respects faulty, and its requirements were so constantly ignored that our system of League hotels has been the subject of most adverse criticism. It is believed that the contracts now being put in force will tend to lessen this difficulty and to add substantially to the benefits which belong to every wheelman who joins our organization.

RAILROADS.—The evils mentioned in my report of December last, touching the attitude assumed by the railroads of the State in the matter of carrying bicycles, have been aggravated and increased; so much so, indeed, that the time for vigorous action seems to have come. I recommend that it be referred to our executive committee to inquire in what, if any manner, a more liberal treatment of travelling wheelmen by the railroad companies can be brought about and that our executive committee be empowered to take such steps as may appear necessary to protect our members from the abuses of which they so justly complain. It is not improbable that by co-operation with the State division of some of our neighboring States, such remedy may be secured by legislation or by resort to the courts, as will effectually settle the tendency of our railroad companies and their employees toward the imposition of unjust charges and inconsiderate treatment upon the wheelmen citizens of the country who make use of these roads.

ROAD IMPROVEMENT.—A public sentiment in favor of better roads has been steadily growing since the League began its agitation for improvement in this direction, and within the last two years, a substantial demand for better roads has been apparent in nearly every county of our State.

The legislative committee appointed by Gov. Morton last winter to investigate and report with recommendations respecting good roads legislation for the year 1896, has made a general tour of the various counties of our State and will report a very general interest in the subject matter of their investigation. A bill has been prepared by this committee which, it is believed, will meet the approval, not only of all wheelmen, but of all reasonable and conservative friends of the movement, and this bill will be introduced early in the session of the Legislature about to convene at Albany. Unless the provision of this bill should be such as we have now no reason to anticipate, it will commend itself to the hearty approval of our organization and will invite its zealous support. Upon this point, communication will be sent in due time to representatives, consuls and members of our State division and to all cycling clubs and organizations, with such hints as may be necessary to bring about an unity of action in favor of the best results.

The assessed valuation of property within our State now exceeds $4,000,000,000, and a trivial assessment necessary to begin and push forward the construction of improved highways is scarcely worth considering in view of the enormous benefits to trade and agriculture, which the improved roads are certain to bring about. The experience of Massachusetts and New Jersey as declared by the official reports of the officers having charge of road improvement in those States, has been not only so gratifying as to more than warrant the predictions made by the friends of good roads before the work was begun; but it gives evidence of a great change of sentiment even among those farmers, who, at the beginning opposed this improvement, and who are now loudest in their demands for the construction of improved highways. In Massachusetts, the appropriation by the Legislature for State highways is increasing from year to year, and notwithstanding this fact, it is already apparent that the appropriation of $400,000, for 1896, will be wholly adequate to meet the applications for improved roads filed in the office of the State Highway Commission by the farmers themselves. That the same enthusiasm will follow the constructions of good roads within the State of New York, is assured by the experience, not only of these neighboring States, but by that of every civilized country where good roads have been built.

MEMBERSHIP.—In all the work of our State Division within the past year, the question of increased membership has been held to be of the highest importance. A large membership means greater power and greater influence to accomplish every work to which the League has committed itself. The cyclists of to-day include thousands of citizens of mature age, men of experience in the affairs of life, public officials, tax payers and indeed all classes of citizens concerned in the management of State affairs. To invite these wheelmen within our ranks has been one of the chief ends to which our work has been directed, and in a large measure it has been successful. The influence of our Division was never so great as it is to-day, and its rapid growth has attracted public attention throughout the country. We have been called upon by officers of other divisions for suggestions and for information such as might aid them in the enlargement of their own memberships, and our experience has been doubtless of some value to them as we know it has been to us.

A word now as to inducements by which cyclists are led to join our organization. Every application for membership is in its nature a contract. The cyclist who pays his membership fee and dues parts with a valuable consideration and may reasonably expect to receive value in return; not a supposed or theoretical or mythical or sentimental benefit, but something the substance of which he can appreciate and enjoy, something that adds to the pleasures of wheeling, and enables him as a cyclist to receive advantages which otherwise might not be his. With these facts in mind, it has been and will be the policy of the present executive officers of the Division to prepare and distribute roads books and tour books, so that every member joining our organization may be amply supplied, and to so systematize and perfect our hotel arrangements and contracts, that the benefits accruing the League members who patronize regularly appointed hotels will many times pay the cost of membership to him who spends any considerable time in traveling or touring. This work is of course expensive and exacting. Is doubly expensive and exacting in view of the largely increasing demand for benefits of this kind and our corresponding increase in membership; but it pays, in that it tends more directly to the enlargement of our Division and to the contentment and satisfaction of our members, than could any other policy which we have been able to devise.

In the matter of expense we believe it to be the true policy to pay out money of the Division for the benefit of the members who contribute it. We have no need for the accumulation of large sums of money, and every member who joins our Division this year might reasonably complain of any policy which would lead to the hoarding of this year's receipts to be expended for the benefit of cyclists who may become members of the League four or five years hence.

Accordingly, it will be our aim in the future, as in the past, to make such prudent use of the funds placed within our control as to secure as fully as possible direct benefits to those cyclists by whom money is paid into the treasury.

LOCAL ORGANIZATION.—The increased number of wheelmen in many of our large towns and cities has made more apparent their wants and necessities and suggested many ways by which their interests could be served if the power of an organization could be placed more directly at their disposal. It is manifestly inconvenient, not to say impossible in many cases, for the interests of the wheelmen in these various localities to be well served from distant headquarters, and that fact has suggested with great force the need of local organization.

It is the immediate need of the hour, and in no manner can our efforts be directed within the next few months that will so fully and profitably answer the interests of our membership at large, as by making provision for the formation of local consulates or associations in all cities where the League membership is large enough to warrant, and to empower these local bodies under a fixed form of constitution and bylaws to carry on League work within their special jurisdiction. Such a provision would not only expedite and make more thorough and satisfactory the work which the League was formed to accomplish, but it would fast tend to relieve the chief officers of the League from an accumulation of detail work which already threatens them beyond the possibility of accomplishment.

SIDE PATHS.—The general sentiment has been growing among the wheelmen of many of our counties in favor of the construction of side paths, or to express it differently and perhaps more accurately, they favor the improvement in many localities of a narrow strip or roadway, varying in width from three to six feet, so as to make it easily passable for cyclists at most seasons of the year. This sentiment is a reasonable one, and should be encouraged.

A miserable, and in many cases, inexcusable, condition of the roadway and the great and conflicting variety of regulations and ordinances, in some cases forbidding, and in other cases restricting, the use of foot paths have added to the difficulties of the cycling tourist, and have detractedmuch from the pleasure of cycling and from the practicable use of the wheel in many localities. It is too much to expect that any improvement in the roads will become so general as to remedy this difficulty within a period of many years in the future; and the use of the wheel has become so general among all classes of our citizens that some provision ought to be made by which the cyclist's journey from one part of the State to the other may be made with reasonable safety and without the necessity of resorting to railroad travel to take him beyond the limits of long stretches of impassable roads. With these facts in view, and having in mind the fact that 150,000 cyclists within the State of New York are being from day to day reinforced in numbers, it is not untimely for us to suggest the passage of a law providing that highway commissioners throughout the State, having charge of roadways, in common use by cyclists, and which are for considerable seasons of the year impassable to persons using this form of vehicle, should be required to set apart and improve a narrow wheelway within the highway limits; and that they be required to do so in all cases where funds are contributed and supplied for that purpose. I commend this subject to the thoughtful attention of our members, and pledge the best support of our division to any reasonable measure which may appear to solve the difficulty.

RACING.—Through the medium of the public press and the cycling papers, it has been announced in language more or less accurate that the chief consul of this division is in favor of the proposition relieving the League of the management of cycle racing. A word of explanation would not be altogether out of place at this time. My objection to the League's control of this branch of athletic sport is the outcome of experience, and does not reflect my own belief more fully than it reflects the belief of hundreds of loyal members of our division, whose efforts have been exerted in the work of securing members during the past year. We began with the knowledge that the League of American Wheelmen comprised a comparatively small percentage of the cyclists of the United States, and that in seeking to be a representative body it had great need to invite within its ranks many thousands who for some reason had failed to apply for League membership. It was not difficult under these conditions, when an aggressive movement was begun, to ascertain the fact that a sentiment existed among thousands of prominent and influential cyclists outside the League that was not altogether in accord with the methods of our organization. In other words, in inviting cyclists to join the League, it is not so important for us to inquire regarding our own opinion as it is to ascertain the opinion and impression of the cyclists whose membership we solicit.

The extraordinary and fast increased attention given by the public press to athletic sports, and the enormous field for the making up of sensational articles supplied by the kaleidoscopic and gymnastic department of the League, at Philadelphia, impressed the great majority of the cycling public with the belief that the League of American Wheelmen is an organization maintained for the promotion of bicycle racing, and so general is this belief that from my own experience it is not an uncommon thing for an article on road improvement to be committed to a place on the sporting page of a newspaper by the editor, who acts upon the well-founded belief that whatever comes fram the League of American Wheelmen must necessarily pertain to some sort of cycling sport.

These facts and the fact that cycle racing has been productive of contentions, disputes, unsavory charges and countercharges, in which League officials have been in some degree concerned, and that all this has been widely published with threats and counterthreats, and that lawyers have finally been employed to drag the League into court to answer certain iniquitous complaints, have supplied a sort of advertising which has been distinctly hurtful in the League and embarrassing to its growth.

According to the concurrent testimony of all the workers for increased membership whose record of success is worthy of note in our division, the great stumbling block which has most interfered with recruiting work has been the belief generally expressed by cyclists that the League is largely a sporting organization, and that its experience is neither so attractive nor its benefits so apparent as to render an invitation to join its ranks irresistible. However, upon this question I have been favored by the expressed opinion of most of the members of this board, and am gratified to believe that it is in accord with the best interests of our division. To them for the present I leave its further discussion.

In closing, I thank you all for your kind and generous assistance in attaining the results in which we all take a just pride, and bespeak for our division a continuance of your good efforts.

ISAAC B. POTTER, Chief Consul.

Ohio Road Improvements.

TO EACH MEMBER OF THE OHIO DIVISION:

You are hereby requested to bring all possible pressure to bear on the congressman of your district, and also our United States senators, to get them to vote favorably on the accompanying bill now before Congress. Write to them personally. Do not wait for some one else to do it for you. Write at once, and get your club to instruct its secretary to do the same.

[COPY.]

54th Congress, 1st Session. H. R. 3339

In the House of Representatives, Jan. 7, 1896.

Read twice and referred to the committee on appropriations, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. Chas. W. Stone introduced the following bill:—

A BILL

To create a special commission on Highways, and to make appropriation therefor.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That a special commission of Highways is hereby created, which shall be composed of one senator of the United States, to be appointed as the Senate may provide, two members of the House of Representatives, appointed by the Speaker of the House; the Chief of the Engineers of the Army, the Director of the Geological Survey, and the Chief of the Road Inquiry of the Department of Agriculture.

Second. This commission to report from time to time by bill or otherwise, and to continue until final report is made, but not beyond the present Congress.

Third. It shall be the duty of this commission to inquire generally how the Government may further promote the improvement of the highways, and, among other things, to consider the expediency of, and the best methods of providing for—

The scientific location of the Highways in the public domain;

Construction of model roads, and instruction in roadmaking at agricultural colleges and experiment stations.

The employment of the Geological Survey in the discovery of road materials;

The free testing of all road materials offered;

The same at the Military Academy, and when practicable, at all institutions having a military instructor.

Fourth. The Commission shall confer with the interstate Commerce Commission, and with leading railway officials, concerning a general reduction of transportation rates on road materials.

Fifth. For convenience in acquiring information and to aid in awaking general interest in the subject, special meetings of the Commission may be held in any of the States in conjunction with the State authorities or organizations, and for such meetings the Congressional members of the commission may delegate other members of Congress to represent them; the departmental commissioners may also serve by substitute at any time with consent of the commission.

Sixth. Necessary office rent, clerk hire, and travelling expenses of the commission shall be paid, and departmental members shall be entitled during the continuance of the Commission to such increased pay as will make their compensation equal with that of the Congressional members.

Seventh. The staff of the Office of Road Inquiry shall render such service to the Commission as the Secretary of Agriculture may deem expedient.

Eighth. The sum of ten thousand one hundred dollars and ninety-five cents, being the amount returned to the Treasury from appropriations for Road Inquiry in 1894 and 1895, is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated for carrying out the provisions of this act, to be disbursed by the Treasury Department upon itemized vouchers, approved by the chairman of the Commission.

In the 52nd Congress, Senator Manderson's bill for a National Highway Commission passed the Senate without opposition, but did not reach a vote in the House. Subsequently the National League for Good Roads was organized and held a convention in Washington, January, 1893, in which 25 States were represented. This convention attracted the attention and interest of all branches of the Government and many members of Congress were in attendance as well as representatives of departments. It was then suggested that the Government might aid in the work then being carried on by the League, and upon consultation between a committee of the League, and the committee on Agriculture of the House, the appropriation of ten thousand dollars for the organization of an office of Road Inquiry in the Department of Agriculture was agreed on. That office was organized in October, 1893, and annual appropriations of a like amount have been made since that date. The work, however, was necessarily tentative, and, a great amount of gratuitous service being rendered by friends of good roads, the expenditures were kept down the first two years to less than one half of the appropriation.

The work accomplished, however, has been valuable and useful. The many publications of the office have been eagerly sought for and the chief of the Inquiry has been constantly consulted regarding legislation for road improvement in various States.

National conventions have been held each year, and that of 1895, held in Atlanta, had representatives from over thirty States, including the most distant States of the Union.

It is now generally conceded that the work of the government in this direction could be advantageously broadened and extended, but it requires a very careful study of all the conditions to determine how this can best be done. So far the work of the government has been very highly approved by State authorities and by all the friends of good roads. The fact of the government having taken an interest in the subject, even to this small extent, has done very much to develop public interest, and there is a general feeling that the work may be safely put on a higher plane.

The bill does not propose to create any new offices nor involve any expenditure of money except that saved from the previous appropriations for the like purpose.

The provision for local substitutes in the State meetings of the commission will save travelling expenses, secure full meetings of the commission, and interest more members of Congress in the work.

The chief of road inquiry has secured some important concessions in the railroad rates on road materials, but has accomplished nothing compared to what might be done by a national commission of this high character.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to Monday preceding this date, and published in accordance with Article III of the constitution.

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published and to report errors and omissions to the secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at noon on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

QUERIES AND ANSWERS

J. W. C., Roselle, N. J.:

There is now a common and well understood law making it compulsory for all vehicles to keep on the right side of the road, except when passing from the rear.

W. W. M., East Orange, N. J., says:

"To the women let me say that aside from any personal prejudice. you who are thinking, conscientious representatives of your sex, before you cast the die whether it shall be bloomers or the short skirt, let me ask you to read carefully and reflectively the fifth verse of twenty-second chapter of Deuteronomy and you will not be willing to wilfully disobey a commandment of Almighty God."

The verse referred to is, "The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment; for all that so do are abominations unto the Lord thy God." But oh, the perplexity of it all! When that verse was written, men wore skirts or other extenuated garments of one piece, that covered the lower extremities, commonly known as legs. So what's to be done?

Geo. M. Williamson, 400 West Madison st., Chicago, who has had considerable experience in making long trips by wheel, desires to make a bicycle tour around the world, and would like to correspond with anyone contemplating a similar undertaking. He is a League and a club member.

CYCLER—This road question, Mr. Farmer, is a broad subject.
FARMER—Yes, as you be representing it, it is 'bout as broad as 'tis long.

Why They Say It

You hear it on all sides—this, that, or the other bicycle is "just as good as a Columbia."

There is but one Columbia agent in a town, and he sells Columbias (and Hartfords) only. None other.

But other bicycle dealers must do business. Hence the continued comparison with

THE L·A·W·BULLETIN AND GOOD ROADS

OFFICIAL ORGAN OF THE LEAGUE OF AMERICAN WHEELMEN

Vol. XXIII. Boston, February 14, 1896 No. 7.

THE WHY OF IT.

Why do the boys leave the farm? It is chiefly because they do not care to take it with them. And who would want a farm with a road like this running past it? Of course, this road doesn't really "run," but it is so thin it would if it had a chance.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year. Special Club Rate, to League Members Only, 25 cts. Entered at Boston Postoffice as Second-class Matter. Price, 5 cents.

PAID CIRCULATION, 39,649

BICYCLE MAKERS

Usually advertise the points of superiority in their wheels.

With some it's the color of the rims.
(5 cents buys enamel enough to make your rims any color).

With some it's the name plate.

With others it's a curve in the frame, arising from ignorance of mechanical principles.

With still others it's "Symmetrical Lines."
(Nothing said about quality or workmanship.)

While some makers, who could not otherwise dispose of their products offer "big discounts to agents."

With VICTOR MAKERS it's the BICYCLE, every part of which receives the careful attention which has made the VICTOR the recognized leader of all other makes.

"No single parts unequally surprise,
All comes united to the admiring eyes."

Dear Sir:-

We have your letter of September 28, asking us what we think of the merits of the L. A. W. Bulletin as an advertising medium.

We have a very excellent method of determining the value, or rather the returns of an advertising medium. The young man who has charge of that department is accurate, but profane. He advises us that we can speak only in the highest terms of the L. A. W. Bulletin as an advertising medium, and adds, that he received so - - many replies that he didn't know what - - to do.

If this is not as strong as possible we have no doubt that the same young man is capable of even more vigorous language.

Yours resp'y.

DICTATED BY SECRETARY.

The Price of Rambler Bicycles will remain the same

$100.00

notwithstanding the fact that the cost of labor, rubber, leather, steel and tubing has materially advanced. We still own "Constant Improvement" as our watchword and shall continue to jealously guard our conceded position of "makers of the standard wheel for people of good taste.'"

Our new book of details, the highest class Rambler Publication ever issued, will be sent free to people who are willing to pay $100 for a fine bicycle, upon application . . . . .

CORRESPONDENCE

ONE-ARMED CYCLERS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Would say to 80,241 that there are two one armed cyclists in Utica, N. Y., who ride nicely. One, a letter carrier, is seen around the streets at all seasons, even now, riding with apparent ease.

Also, that "shrinking the sweater" can be accomplished by any expert dyer and cleaner without injuring color, or garment, the sleeves, collar, or body can be shrunken separately or collectively.

JUEN DOUX.

THE PROPER SPIRIT.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Permit me to make a suggestion: Let each member try to send in the name of at least one new member this year. If we all do this we will double our membership in '96, and if we increase at that rate it won't be long before this "glorious land of the free" would also be a land of good roads.

LOW FRAME, HIGH GEAR.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Noticing in a late issue an inquiry as to the use of 26-inch wheels, I have thought that perhaps my experience may be some use to fellow wheelmen. I am five feet four inches in height, weighing about one hundred and twenty pounds, and for three years rode what is now called an "ice," of ordinary height of frame, with 28-inch wheels, and weighing in the neighborhood of 40 pounds. The thought often occurred to me, "Why ride the same wheel as the taller and heavier rider?" and without figuring out the problem as a mathematical calculation, I procured a low frame, with 26-inch wheels, weighing 20 pounds, with a gear slightly over 70. The old wheel was geared to 59, but I soon found it was much easier to push the new than the old one. I am of the opinion that much of this ease is due to the low frame and smaller wheels, thus bringing one nearer to the ground. Wheelmen, try them, and you will find that the "little fellows" just hum along.

SIDE PATHS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I would like to ascertain how to mix soft coal cinders, and with what material to make a good but cheap side path. I have heard that clay and cinders make a good combination. We have

"The only way to prevent what's past," said Mrs. Partington, hoarsely, as she sat with her feet in hot mustard water and drank boneset tea, "is to put a stop to it before it happens."

Ninety-nine out of every hundred wheelmen will carry a Cyclometer in 1896. The hundredth man will be "out in the cold," with Mrs. Partington. Now is the time to "put a stop to it before it happens."

Ninety out of the ninety-nine will select a "Standard" Cyclometer. (In 1895 there were 263,427 "Standards" sold, and in 1896 the output of our factory will be a half million). Wheelmen appreciate the Highest Quality, Least Price and THE Guaranty.

Mr. John D. Howe, Omaha, Neb., correspondent for The Bearings, writes:
"Permit me to acknowledge receipt of Cyclometer sent in exchange for damaged one, and to express my appreciation of the handsome manner in which you treat those who are so fortunate as to have a 'Standard' Cyclometer. If all men would treat their customers as nicely as you do yours, the future would be so bright that we wouldn't be able to use a package of polish in a year.
"The 'Standard' has given the best of satisfaction in every respect. It is the best on the market, and the guaranty is made of genuine unadulterated material. It is a guaranty that guarantees."

tried cinders alone and they dry out and get mealy: good only in wet weather. I think it would be a benefit to all wheelmen if readers of the BULLETIN who are willing to aid the cause and know for a certainty of a way to make a cheap but good side path would send their address to be published, so those interested could correspond with them. A MEMBER of the New York division in writing of the article, "The Bicycle in Court," which appeared in the L. A. W. BULLETIN of Jan. 24, quotes the following:

The New York Park Commissioners who have authority to provide for the direction and management of the parks in the city, have power to pass an ordinance that no bicycle or tricycle shall be used therein, and such an ordinance has been upheld in a bicycle case.

To which he adds: "Has he never heard of I. B. Potter and the 'Liberty Bill?' Please ask him to look at the last page of the New York road book and read Sec. 163 there printed."

THE horseless carriage invented by Worth & Bauschke, Benton Harbor, Mich., was given a satisfactory test last week. The motive power is a gasoline engine. The vehicle makes rapid time on the pavement and is easily controlled and steered by a light lever. The wheels are fitted with heavy pneumatic tires.

A PROTEST.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

"Angels have nothing whatever to do with this."

To-day I had occasion to check a trunk containing two bicycles, weighing complete 150 lbs., over the Delaware & Hudson Canal Railroad, from Rutland to Fairhaven, sixteen miles. The excess charged was 25 cents. In returning the company refused to check the same, the whole, or any part of the distance for less than 50 cents, charging that for five miles when the ticket fare was but 15 cents (fifteen). How's that for robbery? "Penny wise and pound foolish," may well be applied here, for the management surely cannot have considered that among the summer visitors, from whom this road receives a goodly portion of its passenger fares, must be a reasonable proportion of wheelmen who will surely avoid such a region. And thus the corporation, and indirectly the whole section through which it passes, must suffer through the greed of the railroad officials.

FRESH AIR.

There are some persons in this world who are said to be too fresh. They are cured of this by a little roasting. Fresh paint is to be avoided. It has caused much distress. But fresh air is something that is recommended by and for everyone.

The "fresh air fund" charities are among the most popular of all the humane endeavors of cities, and every summer sees them more generously aided, and their beneficent influences more widespread.

"An injury to one is the concern of all," is an accepted truth. So a benefit to one is an aid to all. Every strong and sunshiny member of a community raises the standard of health and happiness of the locality.

Health is catching. Smiles and good cheer are contagious. Fresh air begets fresh thoughts, good health and good morals.

The money paid for bicycles has been a well invested "fresh air" fund. It has taken housed-up humanity out into the air and sunshine. It has made members of every community stronger and better and happier, and they, in turn, have made more sunny the atmosphere of all with whom they have come in contact.

The bicycle is a health-bringer and a joy-giver. It directly benefits all who ride and indirectly adds to the happiness of all.

The price paid for a good wheel is a very sensible contribution to the fresh air fund. Don't be an invalid in mind or heart or muscle. Gather health and sunshine and impart it to others.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH ENGLISH.

NIXON WATERMAN.

Can't druggists talk United States? If so, let's give the bounce
To those outlandish Latin words that no one can pronounce?
Why not use terms that common folks can somehow figure out,
And not hide everything behind a lot of Latin doubt?

Why say "chloride of sodium" when common salt is meant?
Or take "oxide of hydrogen" when it is our intent
To drink just good plain water? And would any one, alas!
Take "protoxide of nitrogen" instead of laughing gas?

'Tis sad to have to swallow drugs of any kind or form,
But these dread names they give them fill our being with alarm;
At "sulphate of magnesia" the startled patient halts,
When all he really wishes is a dose of common salts.

On the "menu" (a bill of fare) more foreign mush we note;
Charged by the piece it's "a la carte;" the whole thing's "table d' hote."
"Roast beef au jus" we learn when we the strange "au jus" explore
Means "gravy that goes with it,"—only this and nothing more.

"Puree of green pea au crouton," by those who know, is said
To mean what simple, common folks would call pea soup and bread.
So, day by day, our timid souls with awful fears beset
We drift on through the wide, wide world not knowing what we've "et."

THE WINTER SOLSTICE.

Never before, it is safe to say, has there been so much interest shown in cycling and cycling matters, during midwinter, as at the present time.

Time was when the bicycle came with the butterfly and the summer girl, and "when the frosty lips of autumn kissed the leaves to crimson," they mysteriously disappeared, to be seen no more until the robins should nest again.

Improvements in the construction of the bicycle have made it ridable on most all conditions of roads. This has served to lengthen the bicycle season, until now it has come to be an all-the-year-round vehicle of use and pleasure.

"Out of sight, out of mind" is as true inversely. Now that the wheel is never out of use it is constantly in the public mind, and the welfare of wheelmen is being discussed and studied at all times. The result is that there is no backsliding in the interest once awakened.

It is beyond dispute that the wheel can be used for more purposes than any other vehicle. It is also proving itself to be well adapted to all seasons.

And the end is not yet.

THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY.

The fifteenth annual national assembly of the L. A. W. was held at Baltimore this week. It opened on Monday with an innovation in the shape of a "good roads" day and a good roads banquet in the hall of the Maryland bicycle club house in the evening. Both were most gratifying in results and the happy precedents there established will be a strong feature in subsequent meetings. The good roads suggestions there offered will materially advance the cause in which the League is presumed to be vitally interested and for which it has done so much.

The election of officers occurred on Tuesday and resulted as follows: President of the L. A. W., Sterling Elliott of Boston; first vice-president, M. F. Cossum, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; second vice-president, A. C. Morrison of Wisconsin; treasurer, E. S. Hartwell, of Denver; auditing committee, J. Fred Adams of New York, J. J. Van Nort of Pennsylvania and G. A. McCarthy of Denver. Louisville was the city chosen as the place for holding the next national meet.

A resume of the doings of the assembly and comment on the same will be given in the next issue of the L. A. W. BULLETIN.

The proposition of the editors of the BULLETIN seems a very fair one. There has been much complaining and dissatisfaction among women generally, that up to the present date (with the exception of the Wheelwoman, which is published entirely in the best interests of women), no wheeling journal has given them proper representation or consideration, and hence no encouragement to take hold of League and other affairs pertaining to the subject of wheeling, and the best good of matters generally, and thus prove that they can be useful as well as ornamental. Now please let us hear from you, pro and con, on any and all subjects pertaining to the bicycle, as to how "she should be rid," and the women's department, as to "how she should be writ." Good roads, League matters or any other matters, and by so doing prove to the editors of the BULLETIN that their generous offer is appreciated.

MRS. MARGARET SANGSTER, Editor Harper's Bazar, says: "I am not a wheelwoman, and I never intend to imperil myself on a bicycle. I appprove very thoroughly of the exercise—for other women." Being one of the most lovable and broad-minded of women in the world, Mrs. Sangster always enters heart and soul into the feelings and pleasures of others, regardless of her own inclinations or opinions, and it is no doubt this very sweet self-forgetfulness which has made her the best-loved and most talked-of woman of her day.

CAROLINE KIPLING, wife of Rudyard Kipling, the famous writer of jungle stories, in reply to a letter as to whether her husband rode a wheel, says—"He does not own or use a wheel, which would be of little real use in our part of the country, where the hills are too steep to ride either up or down (to judge by the number of folks one meets with wheels walking by their sides.") I presume it will be some time before a wheel is invented with strength and courage sufficient unto the Vermont hills.

MRS. JULIA WARD HOWE is said to deplore the fact that an accident which she suffered some years ago, has prevented her attempting bicycling. She is, however, a warm advocate of wheeling, and always responds promptly to a request for an opinion upon the subject.

NO one can tell in these days of "survival of the fittest," and prize competitions, what an ambitious editor will do to bring himself into the "public eye." In a recent issue of a London publication, there was offered a prize of one guinea for the finest pair of hand-knitted, bicycle stockings. We have no doubt the offer was made to woman; the word "hand-knitted," convinces us of that. If it had been machine-knitted, then we would have been sure it was meant for men as well, as then the women could have held the threads, adjusted the spools, etc., while the men sat up (as Lillie Deveraux Blake said recently), in a "sort of glorified way," making "the wheels go round."

"MRS. MARY ABBOTT, of Chicago," says a leading New York publication, "who is the Herald's literary critic, is a persistent rider of the bicycle. In a series of amusing articles for that sheet, she chronicles the numerous adventures and mishaps which she experienced in learning — a task especially difficult to her." The mastery of the bicycle always reminds me of the wooing and final subjugation of "Black Beauty." A bicycle, on first acquaintance, is like the white man, "Very onsartin," and presents all the viciousness of an ill-tempered or restive horse, which must be conquered and subdued before he will recognize or submit to authority. It would be ridiculous to say he is not alive, for he can prance, kick, buck and shy in a more decided and impressive manner than the meanest of tricky horses. But once you have proven yourself master or mistress, he will do your bidding like the gentlest of beasts, and "soar you as gently as a sucking dove."

THERE is a scriptural quotation which is apropos to the fact that when Moses stretched out his magic rod and said "Let there be flies," there were flies innumerable, until the people were willing to do anything, if only the curse were removed. This quotation has not been out of my mind since a week or two ago, when there was a rumor afloat to the effect that cycling garments for both men and women would follow closely after the English hunting costumes, running to gay colors. And if one or two examples seen on the boulevard, perfect "Studies in Scarlet," as to jacket, cap-band and brass buttons, I am very certain that soon the feminine portion of these United States of America will be ready to undergo any trial or penance, if only this curse be removed. One of the smartest and prettiest gowns I have seen as yet this season, a dark blue cloth, had on it stunning buttons, six of them on the jacket, each being an exquisite French miniature. Let us have buttons and buckles after the style of "ye olden times," but deliver us, Dame Fashion, from scarlet jackets and caps.

So, like the pioneer progressive woman that she is, she is about to begin to study new music under a capable instructor. — N. Y. World, Feb. 6.

Some purple, perfumed ink,
And now all that I have to do
Is just to try to think.

"Ay, there's the rub," as Billy says,
For though I write all day,
It, somehow, does not sound like his,
So those who hear it say.

I swim in phosphates, so to speak,
Of fish, my meals I make,
And yet my brain seems most too weak
To cope with Mr. Shake.

I would not care to leave my fame,
As Bill did, insecure,
For many things that bear his name,
They say, aren't his for sure.

And so it is a joy to feel,
The while I build each line,
No one will ever care to steal
A single thought of mine.

THE VALUE OF CYCLE SHOWS.

BY R. PHILIP GORMULLY.

IT is about a year since I wrote a letter relative to cycle shows. Therein I expressed my opinions quite fully, and endeavored to prove that the correct date for holding such shows in the future would be the month of January. Later the board of trade made a canvass amongst its members and the trade in general, and the date was finally fixed for January, '96.

They have been held and are now a thing of the past, and as might be expected, a number of opinions have been publicly expressed as to the value of such shows and the proper date for holding them in the future. In the letter of a year ago to which I have referred to, I stated that the manufacturers were divided into three classes, namely: First, manufacturers who build bicycles and market them themselves absolutely through agencies. Second, manufacturers who manufacture for the jobbing trade and do not market them themselves through agencies. Third, manufacturers of parts of bicycles. The interest of each, of course, should be conserved, provided it is necessary for them all to go into the show.

The first point to settle is, the value of shows and their purpose. Their original purpose was to establish an annual market, as it were, where buyers and sellers of cycles and accessories could meet and exchange commodities, something on the pattern of the great fair held annually at Nijni Novogorod, in Russia, where buyers from the east and west, north and south, from temperate and tropical climes, meet and exchange commodities, but I think from past experience it has been demonstrated that cycle shows in this country will not meet this expectation.

Manufacturers of parts, generally speaking, have completed their samples and have made their contracts with manufacturers of bicycles, most of them as early as the month of August; therefore no matter what date shows are held, it would not benefit them much, other than to meet their patrons and possibly collect accounts, etc., of business done. The manufacturer of bicycles for jobbers, will also have completed trades and arrangements, possibly as early as September or October, at least, so as to have their product in the hands of selling agents, the jobber, in time for the following season's trade; therefore an early show is of no advantage to him. The manufacturer who sells to agents direct is probably not ready and does not desire to send out the designs of the coming year before the expiration of the old. At any rate he will have made all arrangements with his selling agents before the month of November or December; therefore it would appear that the date of holding the show would be entirely irrespective of its value as a market between manufacturers of all classes, their agents and customers.

This being the case, the value of such shows are, in the opinion of the writer a great educator of the public, a great incentive to the sport, and are missionaries in making converts to the wheel.

The late shows in New York and Chicago have demonstrated that fact, where it has been seen that over 100,000 people in each town have been willing to pay admission at the door for the purpose of examining what we hope they will buy. This demonstrates the fact beyond doubt that although the cost of shows are great to manufacturers and exhibitors, that they are such an incentive to trade that the money is well spent and is reaped in the future in the increased business thus produced. Two great national shows held on these lines for the education of the public are profitable to the manufacturers, and these two great national shows have also the effect of producing enthusiasm in other and smaller cities, where local shows can be held by local boards of trade, to the great benefit of their individual and local business.

The deduction would seem to be that the national shows should be held at a time somewhat in advance of the cycling season—not much, so that the enthusiasm excited amongst the public should not have time to cool before the riding season commences. I am, therefore, of the opinion that late in the month of January, or early in the month of February, is the proper time for such national cycle shows to be held, leaving still time for local shows in other cities to follow immediately afterwards and keep the pot boiling.

His face was scratched, his clothes were rent,
He looked the picture of distress,
As limping to his ma he went
His misdemeanors to confess.

"He was a larger boy, you know,
And as my wheel passed by," he said,
"He gave his foot a sudden throw
That threw me off, heels over head."

"What did you say to him, my son?"
The mother asked; the boy replied,
"I didn't say a word, not one;"
And then he very faintly sighed.

CATALOGUES.

We shall take pleasure in making mention in this column of any bicycle catalogue which may be sent us. If our readers who send for any of the catalogues mentioned will kindly say that the notice was seen in the L. A. W. BULLETIN it will be appreciated by us as well as by the manufacturer.

The Dayton.

The Davis Sewing Machine Co., Dayton, Ohio, makers of the "Dayton" bicycle, have sent out a catalogue they may well be proud of. Its front and back cover pages are devoted to real works of art, in chromatic colors, the one on the back page, by Chicago's well-known artist, W. W. Denslow, showing the young pair eloping on a tandem, while the "stern parent" in a buggy is following in the distance, is particularly striking and beautiful. One of the 32 large pages, in colors and fine half-tones, is devoted to the interests of the L. A. W.

The Monarch.

Forty beautifully printed pages, embellished with many pleasing bits of pictures in half-tone, and illuminated initial letters, and the whole enclosed in a handsome, cleverly-designed cover make the catalogue sent out by the Monarch Cycle Mfg. Co., Chicago, a book well worth having. The pictures showing the many uses to which the wheel may be applied form an interesting feature.

The Adlake.

"Wanderings of an Adlake," the 32-page profusely illustrated book published by the Adams & Westlake Co., Chicago, very pleasantly combines a charming account of a 1,200-mile European trip, awheel, showing splendid half-tone pictures of striking views and landmarks, with a comprehensive catalogue of the "Adlake" wheel. The front cover page shows a Swiss landscape, with the Matterhorn in the distance.

The Light.

The Light Cycle Co., Pottstown, Pa., is certainly "up to date," for attached to the back cover of its very neat 20-page catalogue is a calendar pad of twelve independent pages. The combination is a novel one, and will, no doubt, have plenty of imitators. The cover-pages in white and robin's-egg blue are most effective in their quiet beauty.

Defiance.

The Monarch Cycle Mfg. Co., Chicago, has issued a neat 32-page catalogue devoted to its new line of "Defiance" wheels. The body of the book is printed in black and red, and the covers in black, green and buff, the front cover showing the Lake Shore Drive and Grant Monument, in Lincoln Park, Chicago.

Standard.

A pretty 24-page catalogue is issued by the Standard Cycle Works Co., Chicago, describing minutely its make of wheels. The cover pages are really artistic.

Puritan.

A neat catalogue describing the "Puritan" wheel is issued by O. J. Faxon & Co., Boston. The book is printed in green — the color of the Puritan rims — and on the cover, in red and green, is a maiden who, from the waist up, is dressed in Puritan garb, but whose lower limbs are trimly attired in up-to-date knickerbockers. The same Company issues another catalogue describing the "Hector" line of wheels.

Greyhound.

Four knickerbockered bicycle girls on a "quad." are one of the catchy features of the neat catalogue issued by the Greyhound Bicycle Mfg. Co., Boston. One page of the book is devoted to the interests of the L. A. W.

Muller & Co.

F. X. Muller & Co., Buffalo, N. Y., makers of the "Empire State 999," "Boston Special," and "Guide" bicycles, have issued a 32-page catalogue, two pages of which they have kindly devoted to the purpose of increasing the membership of the L. A. W. The cover page shows a picture of the famous Empire State express drawn by locomotive No. "999," the one creation that attracted more attention than any other mechanical exhibit at the world's fair.

The Sandow.

The oft-heard remark that catalogues are never read cannot hold true with the one just issued by the Sandow Cycle Co., Philadelphia, because it is red. The book is devoted to a description of the "Sandow" wheel and to bicycle sundries.

"Tiger" and "Gazelle."

Hose pipe tires bearing the above names are described in a neat little catalogue issued by the Mechanical Rubber Co., Chicago.

"Bee" and "Daisy."

The bicycles bearing the above names are described in a neat 24-page two-color catalogue published by The Niagara Top Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Quite a number of marginal half-tones and line drawings add to the beauty of the book.

The Tie Co.

A brief catalogue of novelties has been published by the Tie Co., Unadilla, N. Y. It contains things of interest to wheelmen and others, and describes several unique inventions.

JUST THAT AGE.

M. K. STEVENS.

Yes, you'll want to see the baby
(He arrived a week ago),
But he's sleeping, bless the darling!
For he's just that age, you know.

'Round about a busy kitchen,
Where quick feet pass to and fro,
Restless moves an active baby —
For he's just that age, you know.

Chubby boy with his slingshot
Lays a neighbor's chicken low,
And destroys the parlor window —
For he's just that age, you know.

Tears his pantaloons and jackets,
Steals the cookies, — labors slow
When he's set to weed the flower-beds —
For he's just that age, you know.

High-school boy; speaks slang and Latin,
Spies on sister with her beau,
And smokes cigarettes in private —
For he's just that age you know.

Goes to college — plays at football,
Lets his yellow love-locks grow —
But he isn't fond of classics,
For he's just that age, you know.

Enters business, art, or letters,
Thinks he makes the world to go —
You'll excuse his swelled perceptives,
For he's just that age, you know.

A Hundred Dollars for a Wheel!

...NONSENSE!!

The man or woman who pays that amount for a bicycle, no matter what the name, or who the maker, when for $75.00 he can buy the ENVOY, or she can buy the FLEETWING, might as well throw $25.00 into the ocean.

We have made bicycles for 10 years, and know whereof we speak. So will you, if you will send for our catalogue.

Winter's Boon.

BY L. M. R.

In riding months I am happy and gay,
I'm astride my wheel both night and day.
But in winter, if there is ice, I skate,
And the rest of the time for the BULLETIN wait.

SIZE OF TANDEM WHEELS.

We are asked as to the advisability of making tandem wheels 26 inches instead of 28. 28-inch wheels have proven to be the smallest diameter practical for ordinary road use on bicycles.

Owing to the greater weight carried, tandem wheels should certainly not be smaller than those used on ordinary bicycles.

OIL HOW OFTEN.

A bicycle bearing would not be harmed if it was oiled every five minutes. The danger of too much oiling is that the surplus oil may get onto the rubber.

Rubber is quickly softened and destroyed by oil. Two or three drops of oil in each bearing once a week is sufficient for a bicycle that has ordinary use. If it is used constantly, oil should be applied at least every one hundred miles.

Always remember that the oil which gets into the working part of the bearing will produce better results than that which doesn't.

THE BEST SADDLE.

We are often asked to recommend a saddle. There is no saddle made that is best for everybody. There are many good saddles in the market; each rider should select for himself.

P. S.—The odds, we think, are slightly in favor of those which are advertised in the L. A. W. BULLETIN.

ST. LOUIS CYCLE SHOW.

All indications point to a very successful culmination of the cycle exhibition which is to open at St. Louis, on the 20th of this month. It is to be held under the direction of the Associated Cycling Clubs, and the profits will be used to promote the interests of wheeling in that vicinity.

BICYCLE TRADE DIRECTORY.

A very convenient little volume, is the list of bicycle manufacturers and dealers issued by H. D. Taylor, Springfield, Mass. The price is 25 cts. While it is all very valuable and interesting, we would call your especial attention to page 13, which, in this case, certainly is not an unlucky number.

JED SPILKIN'S TANDEM.

NIXON WATERMAN.

Jed Spilkins owned a "trottin' hoss" that used to go so fast
It fairly took your breath away to see him flying past.
It didn't matter who it was against him in a race,
Jed always threw the gravel in the other fellow's face.

Jed "felt his oats" immensely as he drove about the town;
He knew there wasn't anywhere a nag he couldn't down.
And no one tried to pass him, for they knew his horse could skim
So fast they wouldn't try to pass the time of day with him.

One day a fellow on a wheel came riding through the place,
And Jed, he ran against him and he bantered him to race.
Oh me, oh my! The wheelman proved so very swift and quick
The horse was never in it, and his owner — he was sick.

For weeks Jed didn't show himself, and everybody said
That his defeat so worried him it sort of turned his head,
And it did turn it thinking on a wonderful machine,
The only one, that up to date, the world has ever seen.

For Jed (I hope the reader won't presume I'd tell a lie)
Was one of the immortal few that were not born to die;
He built that horse a tandem and he taught him how to ride,
And now a streak of lightning couldn't pass him if it tried.

WE have received a small map of New York City, showing asphalted streets and good roads to suburbs. A New York wheelman writes he finds it very useful and thinks it would be a popular feature of the next road book, and that if made larger it would be in great demand among real estate agents and could be sold for a fair price, because one of the arguments used to boom the price of land is always that there is a good road to it, or that the street is nicely asphalted. Real estate agents are quick to point out the advantages the land owner gets from a good road, which would assuredly gain support for the movement.

Beware, ye men of the truth bereft!
If you don't do right you may get left.

Helen A. J., Des Moines, Iowa: The verse you ask for is from Richard Gifford's "Contemplation." The "giddy wheel" referred to does not refer to the bicycle, as the lines were written a hundred years ago. They run as follows:

Verse sweetens toil, however rude the sound;
She feels no biting pang the while she sings;
Nor, as she turns the giddy wheel around,
Revolves the sad vicissitudes of things.

Early Depravity.

SEE JEREMIAH XX, 14.

Boys of today are not the worst,
Though some of them have sworn,
For pious Jeremiah cursed

From other naughty boys.

A PERSONAL EXPERIENCE.

MISS I. O. WEIGH.

It was discussed at the supper table one night and decided that, if I was to learn to ride the bicycle, I should tackle the machine and work out my own destruction with fear and trembling. Accordingly the next morning, the wheel was regulated and left for my benefit, with parting suggestions, words of encouragement, and some mysterious injunctions about the proper grip and the correct by-words for the initiatory pranks of cycling.

When the work had been hurried through, the meat put into roast and a pie to bake, I rolled the wheel out upon the soft and yielding turf. The sun shown mockingly, the wind tauntingly blew my bangs about, the wheel stared at me coolly and indifferently, determination turned pale, and the well-authenticated evidence of woman's weakness welled up in the off hand corner of the left eye. I wiped away the globule of briny bitterness, thinking of that touching little requiem: —

"Oh! who will black his dusty boots, dusty boots,
Oh! who will keep him home from toots,
home from toots,
Oh! who will mend his ragged coat
When I am gone away?"

And a stern female voice not far away (not farther than a year hence) answered indignantly, "His second wife won't do it for him."

With a smile of deep satisfaction I replied, "So be it," and grasping the handles firmly I put the right foot on the left pedal, the right pedal somewhere in the region of the back, the front wheel encircling my neck, and the hind wheel pinioning down my dress skirt, while very defiantly the saddle refused to have anything to do with me. This is a peculiar kind of mount, original with myself and having power to attract spectators. In an hour's time I had cremated one pie, furnished free entertainment to my neighbors, knocked down a tree stump, cracked a fence post, lost the entire half of the sole of one shoe, discovered several new stars in the upper spheres, and once, yes, once, had been seated upon that saddle. From that time on I practised the Lowland fling mount with great results. Sometimes and often when the wheel got at variance with my wishes I would softly breathe its name, which seemed to have a magic effect. The name had been bestowed upon it, long before, when I had looked forward to these happy times. I had chosen it from the German, a soft, mellifluous title, that comes trippingly to the tongue, and it was christened "Dammer." This interpreted signifies "a coming happiness," and had no relation to any word in the English language.

There were many trying things that had to be undergone. People stared pityingly, youngsters laughed deridingly, jokes were cracked, and dissertations on ladies' bicycling appeared in the little bivalve "Citizen," our semi-weekly newspaper. There were teary days and weary nights, in which I sat me not down, nor laid me to rest, that I did not first soothe my deep blue remorses with tincture of arnica and extract of witch hazel. But now it is all accomplished and I can mount and spin swiftly over the wide, level road, ever and anon stopping to rest at some rough spot, then limpingly remounting, and off again.

This was my experience, but you might learn sooner perhaps, were you to follow the advice of those who doubtless know all about it, and for your benefit I will give it as it was given to me: "Put on the power!" "Go it, go it!" "Whoa, Sally!" "That's the cheese!" "You'll make it after a while!" "Lean with the machine!" "Practice on a down grade!" "It's easy enough, when you know how!" "Cry, cry again!" Yes, you will find as I have that there is an attraction about the bicycle which you can never quite overcome and wise men long ago named it, "the attraction of gravitation."

IOWA FALLS, IA.

W. M. H., Baltimore, asks: "Will you be good enough to advise through the BULLETIN whether or not the gearing of a wheel affects its coasting qualities; that is, should a wheel geared to say 70 coast as fast as one geared to 60, or vice versa?"

Answer: The difference, if any, would be very slight, though the chances are somewhat in favor of the higher gear, as a given number of revolutions of the driving wheel would not revolve the pedals so many times if geared high.

THE town of Onondaga, N. Y., adopted the money system of working its highways a year ago last February. The amount due for day's work was assessed and collected with the other taxes. This secured about $1,500 for each of the three commissioners, or $4,500 in all, the money was expended under the direct supervision of the commissioners, with the result that "three times as much was accomplished as in the old way."

KALAMAZOO, Mich., wheelmen built an experimental bicycle path last year, and this year they intend to do much of that sort of thing, and possibly unite their town, by a path, with Battle Creek.

WINTER IN TENNESSEE.

BY NO. 70,251.

We have just passed through one of our bad winter spells, which we expect every winter to be repeated two or three times. While you all are floundering through the deep snow, and dodging the blizzards, we are paddling through the mud and trying to keep out of the rain. We had not seen the sun before yesterday for ten days, during which time the weather had been damp and cold, and half the time rain was falling, so that now all country roads are in bad shape, and wheelmen are resting up. Two or three days of wind and sun will, however, change all this, and "the horse that you don't have to feed" will again be doing duty.

There are in this county about 1,000 wheelmen and women made up of all sorts and conditions of people and conditions in society. Nearly all the prominent makes of wheels are sold, and the spring trade is well under way. Conditions are favorable for wheelmen and women.

The city of Memphis is fairly well paved, considering, and additions are being made annually, while in the county of Shelby, outside of the city of Memphis there are 130 miles of well-graded and well-graveled roads, and these are being extended yearly. In 1895, about fifteen miles were made, this year ten or fifteen more will be completed, and each year a like amount, until we of this (Shelby) county will be able to say with truth and pride, that we have the best system of public roads in the entire south, and equal to any county in all Uncle-Samdom.

What pleases us most, is the fact that neither has a dollar of debt been created, or a toll-gate been set up; in fact, there is not one of those ancient — but sometimes necessary — nuisances within the boundaries of our county.

All the grading for this road making is done by the convicts from the county work-house, who, with teams, implements, etc., are camped on the line of the road under improvement, and remain under guard, both there and at their work, until the grading is completed.

There is very little gravel, and no stone in this county, and that used for metaling is hauled in by rail to station nearest the work, and from there hauled by teams to the place required, using, where possible, teams from the immediate neighborhood, who are paid at contract rates.

Money for this outlay of gravel purchase, freight hauling, feed for the graders, and pay to guards, is raised by a general tax levy of ten cents on the hundred dollars on all the taxable property in the county (it is about the only popular tax we have), and from this assessment about $60,000 per year is raised, all of which is expended on road improvements by a Board of Turnpike Commissioners composed of three members, all of whom are elected by the county court, and hold office for three years. One of their number is secretary for the Board and receives $600 per year, and the other two $300 per year each, for their services.

A TIMELY BOOK.

Clarence E. Rice, of Syracuse, N. Y., has written a little book on "How the Bicycle Agent Should Advertise," which can be had by sending him 35 cents (no stamps). To the average dealer, the book, were its instructions followed, would be of great value. It discusses advertising in all its phases, fully and intelligently, and every dealer will find much of profit and interest in it. The following "Pithy Pointers" are reprinted from it:

"Nothing venture, nothing have." It takes nerve to advertise successfully.

An ounce of good advertising will insure a pound of business.

Honesty in advertising is the best policy.

A satisfied customer in hand is worth two prospective ones in ambush.

It is never too late to mend your advertising ways.

Never put off until tomorrow the advertising you should do today.

The best antidote for poor business is good advertising.

Make your announcements so striking that he who runs may read. This doesn't make it necessary that you use poster type, either.

To give a well-worded advertisement poor display is like setting a feast before a dyspeptic. It cannot be appreciated as it deserves.

The bicycle business is one which must have a spring-tonic advertising. If this is not administered it will waste and become but a shadow of what it should be in a healthy condition.

The worth of all advertising should be measured by returns. No matter how good you may believe your advertisements, they are faulty if they bring no results.

Never advertise one day and then skip four. Such advertising reminds one of the man who said he was a seven-day Baptist, and when asked to explain what a seven-day Baptist was, answered: "Three up and four back."

"BARREL" HUBS.

A correspondent asks us to point out the advantages of barrel hubs.

We have never been able to see any advantage, but regard it as one of those fads which the public demands every now and then. It is very much the same as the two buttons which every man wears at the point where his coat-tails intersect the coat. No one can tell exactly why they are there, and yet it would be decidedly unfashionable to leave them off.

HEIGHT OF SADDLE.

There is some difference of opinion on this question, but the best average for all riders is to locate the saddle so that the heel will just reach, comfortably, the pedal when it is at its lowest point.

"Joys of the Bike."

BY L. M. R.

Wheeling, he said, was a heavenly joy,
Rode eighty miles and felt like a boy;
But he broke a pedal, reached home at morn,
Now he curses the walking, also his corn.

THE BICYCLE.

The coming of the bicycle is undoubtedly one of the most remarkable things in the social life of the world, which has taken place since the introduction of steam power for purposes of locomotion. A horse is a luxury of the rich, or the necessity of some phases of professional life in the country. The country doctor and the country parson must often be compelled to keep a horse, not for pleasure, but for business. To seek out the sick and needy, or the careless and ignorant in country byways, is impossible without the use of some sort of a roadster. Travelling by rail, on the other hand, is a very tedious, as well as a sometimes inconvenient, method of enjoying scenery, or visiting remote points in the country. What persons would take their constitutional, or their afternoon ramble, in a railroad car? But the bicycle far excels either the horse or the railway in convenience, and often in despatch. As a means of taking exercise it is better than the buggy, or the padded seats of the train. Nor is the exercise too severe for the sedentary man; the bicycle may be so used that girls and women are benefited in health by employing it. Then how easy it is to take a journey on it. To ride the bicycle is to have a steed ready to hand, who in a couple of hours will carry the rider over a large area of lovely country. The city toiler is made acquainted with that feeling of liberty and exhilaration which Rousseau used to find in his walking tours. But the bicycle never brings the traveller to the condition of sluggish weariness to which Goldsmith acknowledges he was brought by rambling —

"Remote, unfriended, solitary, slow."

The bicycle is a friend; no one can be solitary while spinning along, as if gifted with the winged ankles of mythology, any more than they can be slow. The swift passage over summer or autumn lanes, the friendly meetings on the road, the healthful air, the moderate exercise indulged in by the judicious cyclist, make the world of the city worker something that it has never been before. We wish we could think that the country churches were brought nearer to their scattered congregations by the wheel. In some cases we feel that they are, and it cannot be doubted that wheelmen would reap double benefit from their Sunday excursions, if they dropped in as they went by at the simple, rustic church, and took part in the service before they returned home, or resumed the delights of a fascinating journey.— The Churchman.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I wish to make an appeal from your decision of bet on page 34 of Dec. 27 issue.

The sprocket in this proposition is the power, the pedal is the weight, and the shaft is the fulcrum, the leverage is the distance, weight is applied to the lever beyond the power. The proposition does not admit of the consideration of the second sprocket in the least.

R. W. MORSE.

LANSING, MICH.

Our answer was correct when considered as a practical bicycle problem. If all other parts of the machine except the crank and front sprocket be ignored, then the above statement would be correct.

WHILE the Farmers' Institutes are discussing good roads, bicycle clubs should discuss the condition and care of the streets of their towns. An organized and intelligent effort may result in having streets properly kept and sprinkled which otherwise would be unpleasant and annoying.

A CORRESPONDENT suggests that the officers of the L. A. W. should interest themselves in the proposed cycle path between Baltimore & Washington, and thereby obtain free passes for members of the L. A. W.

The provision for local substitutes in the State meetings of the Commission will save traveling expenses, secure full meetings of the Commission, and interest more members of Congress in the work.

NEW ROADS AND ROAD LAWS

IN THE UNITED STATES, by GEN. ROY STONE, special Agent for the United States, Department of Road Inquiry. 1 vol. 12mo., cloth, 200 pp. with numerous illustrations. By an arrangement with the publishers we are able to offer this valuable book to our readers for $1.00. General Stone has enjoyed unequaled opportunities for obtaining information on this subject, and the book is replete with valuable practical suggestions, both as to road legislation and road construction. Its record of actual progress gives hope of an early realization of the benefits of Good Roads throughout the country. Every L. A. W. member who wants to be up to date on the road question should read his book. Send orders to An Improved Aphorism.

"The good die young." Did they survive
They like we common mortals would
In later years at wrong connive,
'Twere better said, "The young die good."

IT requires a crack to break a bicycle record.

THE best way to winter a wheel is to keep it going to and fro on the road as much as possible.

DON'T do right to please your cousins or your aunts. Do right because it's the right thing to do.

WE'VE had stories of a hansom cab, a parlor car and other pleasure vehicles, and now we should have a romance founded on the bicycle. A bicycle book ought to have quite a run.

THE bicycle has been popular but a short time but plenty of men have ridden four centuries.

IF men had long hair and women short, the women would no doubt find it easier to manage.

EVERY bicycle ride you steal from the weather during winter is clear gain.

OHIO is going to make an effort to build free turnpikes in every county.

A REAL thoroughfare should be thoroughly built.

A TOLL tax is a thoroughfare.

THE distance to market should be measured by the depth of the mud in the road leading to it.

EUROPEAN ROADS.

As one good road in a community is an incentive for the people to build others, so the good roads of one country inspire the people of other countries to emulate the good example.

Since European bicycle tours have become popular, the excellence of the highways of foreign countries has been made known to all Americans, through the tongue and the eye of the pen and the camera.

"If we only had such roads at home!" has been the wish, and from it has come efforts that have served to set the people thinking and doing. Americans, who excel in so many of the arts and sciences, will sometime attain their proper place as the builders of perfect highways.

BEAUTY ON THE WHEEL.

R. F. FOSTER.

One of the popular fallacies of the day is that a woman's appearance on a wheel is a matter of dress, whereas it is entirely dependent on the proportion of the wheel she rides. A woman buys a wheel out of the general stock. She rides it. She is not satisfied with her appearance. She realizes that the majority of the other women she sees on wheels are guys; and then she falls to discussing the burning question of how she shall dress.

Ankle or calf, nowhere or knee.
Where is the end of her dress to be?

Those in favor of the simple bloomer or knicker will say, "Nowhere," while those who wish to retain the skirt in some form will continue to differ as to its length and width. Thousands of columns have been filled with the discussion of the proper dress for wheelwomen, and still the matter is unsettled. The trouble is not with the dress at all, but with the wheel.

In the first place, it is idle for women to contend that the ordinary dress is as comfortable on a wheel as the divided skirt or bloomers, and, in the same degree, that either of the latter is as good as knickers. Any woman who has tried the experiment will agree to this.

Why, then, do not women adopt knickers? There must be some other reason than that of comfort or convenience, and it is simply one of appearance. Every woman wants to look well on her wheel, and no woman loses sight of the importance of looking well off her wheel in her cycling dress.

This brings us to the consideration of a principle well known to all artists, which has never yet been mentioned in this connection that I know of. This is the fact that no woman looks well in motion. Take a hundred horsewomen, however well dressed; it is the one that looks really well and the ninety-nine that fill the intermediate stages from passable to frights. The same is true of wheelwomen. It is an occasional one that looks well when riding, while the great majority appear to disadvantage however well they may be dressed.

If we refer to the most famous works of art we shall find the principle just mentioned carefully observed by both sculptor and painter. The perfectly formed female figure is always represented in repose, while the male figure appears best in action. Take the Rape of the Sabines. However energetic the treatment of the male figures, that of the female lies in the absolute repose of an apparent swoon. How perfect and inimitable the repose of the Venus of Milo! How terrible the masculine struggles of the Laocoon!

If we go a step further we shall find another article in the artist's creed. When the female form is to be represented in action, the model selected is not that of a perfectly womanly woman, but rather one approaching the masculine type. Look at the difference between the figures of Diana and of the Venus de Medici. Put Diana in knickers and a cap and she will be a very passable youth, but nothing could disguise the Venus. If we apply this principle to wheelwomen we shall find it equally true. The less womanly a woman is, and the more nearly her form approaches the masculine type, the better she will appear on wheel or horseback.

Visitors to Asbury Park last summer continually turned to admire a tall, thin, flat-chested girl, who sat her wheel as straight as an arrow. A moment later the same people would turn to smile at a brown-haired girl from Tennessee, whose softly rounded knees worked like the walking beam of a ferryboat, and whose well-fitting dress never for a moment suggested that it covered one of the most beautiful forms in America. When both wheels stopped at the pier, the riders stepped to the ground, and the attractiveness of each was immediately reversed. The flat-chested girl was a guy, the other a Venus. What was the cause? Not the dress, for the dresses of both were almost identical in cut. Not the wheels, for both were the same make and gear. It was the motion, nothing more. When the taller and thinner woman sat her wheel she followed the $6\frac{3}{4}$ throw of the cranks with her ankles, reducing the movement of the knees as much as possible, until, in proportion to her height, which must have been 5 feet 8 inches at least, it was hardly perceptible. Not so the other. The continual swing of her shorter limbs through a circle $13\frac{1}{2}$ inches in diameter was so ungainly, that it entirely diverted attention from the artistic beauty of her figure.

Ten days afterward this girl was put upon a wheel geared down to 49, with a 26-inch driver, the front and rear sprockers being 17 and 9, respectively, and the throw of the cranks reduced to $4\frac{1}{2}$ inches. This is about the proportion of crank to gear in the old high racing wheels, ridden at the shortest pedal notch, and is quite enough for ordinary level roads, such as a woman would ride. So much did this reduce the apparent motion of the Tennessee belle's knees, that her thin rival actually lost by comparison.

What women want is not a better dress, but less motion on the wheel. Beauty must approach repose.

As yet no one has invented a bicycle adding machine for running up the columns that now have to be footed.

THERE is a crying demand for a handy vest pocket or bloomer pocket booklet on "How to Fall off a Wheel Gracefully." At the present time Delsarte doesn't seem to cover this important feature of every-day life.

BICYCLE TORCH-LIGHT PARADES.

It has been suggested by several prominent wheelmen that in the coming presidential campaign it might be well to organize torch-light or otherwise illuminated parades, the participants to be mounted on bicycles.

The idea is a novel one, and would no doubt attract great attention to the candidates who were thus advertised and to the bicycle itself. Let us hope that something of the kind will be carried into practical effect.

THE man who is hanging on just by the skin of his teeth is pretty well off but he doesn't think so.

HUGGING a girl is a roundabout way of impressing her that you love her.

SUPERINTENDENT WANTED.

THE L. A. W. BULLETIN is interested in obtaining a competent superintendent for a bicycle manufacturing concern not many thousand miles from Boston. A first-class, experienced man is wanted. Also, the same people would like to hire a first-class man to take charge of enameling department. Please send application to this office and we will see that it is promptly forwarded.

MANAGER WANTED.

An old established and prosperous Cycle Manufacturing concern needs an active business man to take charge of its New York office and the Metropolitan district. An investment of capital required to meet the rapidly increasing business of the Company. Good salary and substantial dividends guaranteed. Address, Cycle Manufacturer, care of the L. A. W. BULLETIN.

A BAD ROADS LESSON.

DEFECTIVE roads are the strongest argument in favor of good roads. The worse they become, the more likely they are to be improved. When a community has to take its self-prepared medicine, the more bitter and heroic the doses, the more likely a change of some sort is to occur.

The correspondent of a St. Louis paper, writing from Bloomington, Illinois, says, "that the roads of Central Illinois are practically bottomless quagmires, and their condition has put an embargo on trade and business of all kinds. They have not been in such utterly impassable condition in twenty years before. In places it is impossible to move an empty wagon with a team of horses. Farmers who come to town come on horseback or on foot. This condition of things has been brought about by the high temperature of the past week, together with the showers and continuously fog-laden atmosphere. The net result of this condition of things is very marked, as there is depressing stagnation in mercantile business of all kinds."

If such a state of affairs is not a sufficiently forceful argument for better roads, all other appeals would be useless.

The condition of the road should not depend wholly on the weather. It is liable to rain most any time.

IN Wisconsin recently a farmer hauled with one team on one trip what would be four ordinary loads, across the ice of Green Bay. If we had hard, level roads, "green bay" horses or horses of any other color could do almost as much anywhere.

THE better the road the easier it is to keep it repaired.

A VALUABLE OPINION.

Knowing that the Studebaker Bros., of South Bend, Ind., had made an extensive study of the wide tire question, we wrote them for information, which they have kindly furnished us in the following letter:

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Yours of the 28th ultimo was duly received.

We have given considerable study to the question of width of tire for wagons. We sometime since made a series of tests with dynamometer, intended to show the relative draft required in hauling loads, using different widths of tire. The result of these experiments was both interesting and instructive. The ordinary width of tire is an inch and five-eighths, and the difference between the weight of a tire of this width and increased widths up to four inches, will vary from fifty to two hundred pounds. The increase of cost ranges for the usual widths of wide tire, from twenty to thirty per cent.

There can be no doubt that the demand for wide tire on wagons is increasing. Perhaps one-third of our trade at this time requires a greater width of tire than the regular narrow tire width. For farm use, especially in hauling grain from the field, the wide tire is preferable. But the advantage of the wide tire in hauling freight on good hard roads is less apparent. Indeed, on a solid, smooth road, more particularly mountain roads, the narrow tire is to be preferred. Reference is now had to the draft of the load, and not to the effect of hauling the load on the roadbed. There can scarcely be two opinions with reference to the advantage of wide tire over narrow tire on the roads themselves.

J. M. STUDEBAKER.

If there were laws established throughout the different States that were strictly uniform, requiring a width of tire to correspond with the loads to be hauled, this would be a sensible provision, and would assist in keeping up a good roadbed. Of course the heavier the load, the wider the tire should be, within reasonable limits. It would be a great advantage to wagon manufacturers if there could be a uniform width of tire, especially between States comprising certain sections where the general requirements would be the same.

AN OASIS OF JOY.

At the present time, when so many newspapers are lamenting the depression of business and the absence of pleasure, in their respective localities, because of the "wallowy" conditions of roads, it is a pleasure to run across something that savors of a higher civilization and a better standard of moral and industrial life.

Such a hopeful influence may be found at Marysville, Ohio. The local paper of that city says, "that at this season of the year Union county people appreciate the value of their turnpike roads. Everybody can get out with carriage or wagon and go in any direction he pleases without so much as getting an ounce of dirt on the wheels. We are led to these remarks by the doleful complaints we see published in the newspapers of old and rich counties where the people have not yet waked up to the necessity of better roads. In fact there are counties in this State that have thrice the wealth of Union county, where the farmers can do no teaming at this season, if the weather be soft, or if venturing out, pull their poor horses to death, because they are too closefisted to improve their highways. We don't envy such people's niggardliness, but we do pity their poor animals that have to drag against such odds."

A PLEA FOR PROGRESS.

Just now the people of Iowa have two pressing needs, one is a new penitentiary for its increased number of convicts, and the other is a better class of highways. One of the papers of the State in commenting on the condition of affairs says, "that the public demands better highways — not more prisons — and in this century of progress it behooves the people of progressive Iowa to look well into these questions. In place of a third penitentiary give us steel road vans for gangs of workmen, who will make better and easier communications for farmers and lessen taxation. Boarding vans, mounted on broad-tire wheels, could be located at convenient camping places, at stone quarries, etc., working out each way, ditching, grading and macadamizing, all under supervision and in accordance with advanced ideas."

THE Arkansas Good Roads convention will meet in Little Rock, Feb. 25. Good results in the way of intelligent legislation is hoped for.

THE secret of the success of the fine roads in France is attributed to the prompt and systematic repairs made at all seasons of the year.

THE magnificent roads of Europe which traveling Americans find so wonderful are the result of scientific construction and a thoroughly studied system of constant repairs.

THIS is a country of magnificent distances, but many of the roads between distant points aren't altogether magnificent.

GOOD roads are likely to be more popular next summer than ever before.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF THE L. A. W., 1896.

Up from the direful valley of gloom and despondency where were the drear caves of humiliation and financial decrepitude in which we had our habitation one year ago, we have climbed to the heights of prosperity from which we joyfully contemplate our grand success as evidenced by our great numerical strength and our financial robustness. Over the good roads which we have builded, our car of progress has rolled smoothly along and its rapid advancement is largely owing to the highway improvement for which we are responsible.

We have made a grand record which is not of the class B order, but it stands quite up to the top in the class A column and not even the sword of Gideon could cut us loose from it did it never so much desire to.

One year ago I reported 26,140 members as of record Feb. 1. This year we show a membership of 39,323 on the even date, or a gain of 13,183. Since Feb. 1 we have enrolled 719 members, which carries our total to 40,042 and our gain to 13,902. The coveted 40,000 is at hand.

Out of the 26,244 members that we enrolled last year, we renewed just 18,000, or 68 per cent. Our renewals of the previous year were but 48 per cent. of the whole.

We have enrolled 22,042 members, which exceeds by 4,871 the best previous record.

The good results which have followed from the adoption of the rule which give a member a full year of membership are shown by the following figures: From Nov. 1, 1894, to April 1, 1895, we enrolled 1,274 names. From Nov. 1, 1895, to Feb. 7, of this year, we enrolled 3,140 members, and we have two months remaining to add to the increase.

We have seen one division reach the extraordinary figures of 10,414 members. The best previous record was 6,297 by Massachusetts. From position three in the rank of divisions, New York has climbed to such a height that the other divisions are using telescopes to find her. Mr. Potter has demonstrated his ability to manipulate a Bull market.

I present a table showing the membership to date, Feb. 7, and that of one year ago:

This table will bear a great deal of study with profit. The phenomenal records made by New York, Missouri, New Jersey and Wisconsin call for our hearty commendation.

Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Ohio have made great gains over the record of last year, but neither has touched its previous best on record.

The following table shows the position of the first ten divisions in the past two years in contrast with the present:—

Our list embraces 1,470 lady members. A gain of 780 and the largest list ever shown.

At the beginning of last year we were in debt to the divisions in the sum of $1308.55 This has been paid in full, and this year we owe nothing to the divisions that we have not the funds on hand to pay.

Our income has been:—

Our best previous record of gross receipts was $52,410.50 in 1893. We top that this year with an excess of $9,170.40.

Last year we credited $20,409.50 to divisions. This year we have sent $35,178.80. An excess of $14,769.30.

Last year we credited to treasurer from membership fees $13,019.00. This year we credited $15,680.51. An excess of $2,661.51.

The ticket case account has shown a profit of $197.05; the veteran bar, $53.25; uniform, $20.00; tickets, $0.60.

In the days when gloom and despondency hung over us like a pall, the Rhode Island division evinced loyalty and generosity by donating to the national organization forty cents of the initiation fee paid by every new member who joined us, between March first and September first. This amounted to $70, and the money was credited to the treasurer. And now in the day of our prosperity we have no need for the money, and I hope this assembly will deem it best to hand back the gift, wrapped up in a covering of its sincere thanks.

The secretary's office has been a busy place the past year, and we see no evidence of grass growing through the cracks of the office floor.

As there has been some criticism of the expenses of this office, and as many people think that we have nothing to do but murder time, we may be pardoned if we encroach upon your time by giving a few details of our work. To indicate the volume of business that we turn off, let me say that on three different days during the renewal season, the secretary and his assistant were engaged from 9 A.M. till half after 5 P.M., in merely opening and sorting the day's mail, and they had on steam at full pressure all of that time. Never a day during all that busy season did we get the morning's mail open before noon.

Sixty one thousand dollars is not a very large sum of money to handle if it is cut up into great lumps, but when it comes to a man in pellets of one and two grain calibre, it is a sum of no small importance.

Forty thousand men drawn from all ages and classes and distributed throughout the length and breadth of the land, is no small family for one man to keep in check. Forty thousand men, all eager to know, all wanting an explanation, all shooting their questions at one mark. The correspondence of the secretary's office involves a vast amount of paper and great quantities of ink, to say nothing of the agony of mind of him who conducts it. By a judicious use of printed answers to stock questions, we have been able to cope with this department of our work and reduce its burden.

The secretary keeps his own books, and he has to keep them in a way to satisfy the auditing committee, which pays him a visit every year to inspect his work. Our books are many, and the detail of work is and must be very elaborate. Our struggles over cash balances and trial balances account for the whiteness that overtops our crantum.

The secretary has to do some editorial work, has to prepare manuscript for the press, does no little proof reading, and through all has to preserve his temper.

We have to keep a complete and accurate list and record of League Clubs, their officers and their members.

We have to keep official and division directories in many forms, shapes and sizes.

We handle quite a lot of merchandise as the profits quoted above show.

We have to run the mail list. Ah, there's the rub; if members would only remain in one place how happy we should be. As it is, we have five hundred changes on an average per week to make on that mail list. If members would only write their names on a typewriter, we should be saved the expenditure of a deal of time and no end of gray matter. But,—they don't.

The secretary has to assume a paternal relation to the small divisions and encourage their growth. During the past year, as well as in former years, he has had large correspondence with wheelmen in States, where we are not represented, and has advised with them as to means and methods of recruiting members and organizing consulates. This is, and must be, an important part of the secretary's work. It involves a large amount of correspondence, but its results have been most gratifying.

When a consulate is to be organized the secretary has to prepare circulars and ballots, and receive and count the votes. He has to prepare ballots, distribute, receive, and count them for every sub-division and consulate. Last October he conducted elections in fourteen States.

The distribution of recruiting matter is no small part of the work of our office. Our standing notice calling for names of non League wheelmen brings to us every day a large number of names to which we forward our circulars and blanks. We cannot say just how many thousands of these white winged messengers of solicitation we have sent out this year. We haven't had time to count them since they passed the hundred thousand mark, but we can say that we have had good returns from them.

Advice to and consultation with the member who gets run over by a road hog, whose wheel is stolen, who has trouble with a baggage master, who wants to make a record or a tour, who knows just how we ought to run the official organ, or who meets with trouble in its many other guises and forms, pulls from the storehouse of our time a very large quantity.

The entertainment of the country member occupies no little time. Every member of the League who comes to Boston likes to call on the Secretary, and we are always glad to see him. If we are busy and don't want to see him, we have to do it just the same, and on these occasions we have to call up the official smile and the worn out stock phrases to disguise the boiling that is going on within.

Now one word as to the detail in the membership enrolment.

An application is received and a receipt is immediately sent. The next step is to sort out the several blanks by clubs and in alphabetical order, by States and names. If any one imagines this to be an easy task, let him take say 1500 blanks, as we had to on one occasion last year, and let them be of all sizes and shapes, and written in every kind of legible and illegible handwriting, and if he does not perspire over his task we will confess ourselves a poor prophet. The names have to be written for the printed list in the BULLETIN after this. Proof of the BULLETIN list has to be read. Tickets have to be written and the name and address has to go on the envelope as well. Then the name goes into the numerical list and after that upon the alphabetical index. The name has to go on to the mail list and the original pasted in our scrap books. Thus each name has to be written seven times, and each member costs us three cents in postage.

A renewal that comes to us with the right number simplifies our work a great deal, but by far the larger portion do not send the number. The nearer we get to the individual in receiving a renewal, the easier is our task. It is when we get lists from clubs that we enter the valley and shadow of tribulation.

A renewal is first checked on the books, the name is then entered, the ticket and envelope written, the name entered upon the sheets to be returned to the division secretary-treasurer, the name checked on the mail list, and the blanks pasted in the book. To secure accuracy, nearly all of these steps have to be verified before the record is allowed to stand.

Such is the volume of our work during the renewal season that we are never up with the regular work during that time and often we are as much as two weeks behind. We have never been able to complete our book lists and our indices during the season and even at this time we have two clerks hard at work trying to complete the work of the year by showing completely written indices at the close.

No, gentlemen, the expenses of the secretary's office have not been large and the policy has not been an extravagant one. I believe that the office should be kept up in a style to comport with the dignity and the demands of a great and flourishing organization. It has been given out by an officer of the League that the League should not be called upon to pay for ice that cools the water for drinking purposes, another has said that the secretary has no right to travel in a drawing-room car when he goes to League meetings. Gentlemen, I don't believe you want the young lady clerks to drink warm water when the burning sun scorches their throats and I don't believe you want your servant to go to the meetings in a freight car.

The work of the office will be very largely increased the coming year. The new scheme of enrolment whereby a man obtains a full year of membership will lead to complications that will call for very much more labor. Every week we shall have to take off and put on names,—some will take the paper and some will not and we shall need to exercise the greatest care in keeping our records. We have outgrown the book system of records and it is imperative that we adopt the card index system. It will be well if every division adopt this same system. It will cost a good deal at the outset but it will more than pay for itself in the end.

We promised that we should move up the numbers when our numeration reached 100,000. That will come this year and the change will be made so that a member may have his new number next year.

In one respect an injustice has been done on the League records to a very worthy and a very deserving class of our members. Those who were at Newport and who were instrumental in laying the foundations of the League deserve some recognition at our hands. Many of these, through the procrastination of club secretaries are entered upon the books against dates far removed from that of the Newport meet and would seem to have been among the laggards in the recognition of the L. A. W. and its worthiness. I suggest that every man who was at Newport be entered upon the books as a founder and that he be given one of the official numbers. This can be done easily when the list is revised and it will incommode no one except those who have in late years held an executive office. It would be a graceful act to do and we hop that the secretary will be instructed to do it.

And now we come to a matter which we approach with great delicacy. The official department has been called the dry-goods department of the BULLETIN. To a certain extent the characterization is merited but it must be remembered that the secretary contributes very little of the matter that appears. I am now talking to the contributors and that is why I must treat the subject delicately. We have been trying to squeeze a gallon of material into a quart jug during all of the year. We are allowed under our contract to use eight pages of the BULLETIN per week. We have used in all 429 pages or an average of 9⅛ pages per week. The excess comes to us through the generosity of the publishers of the BULLETIN and amounts to 69 pages more than we have been entitled to.

The success of the L. A. W., in a very large measure depends upon the BULLETIN. An interesting paper will send our numerical strength up among the stars; a dry and uninteresting journal will bend us in the dust. I do not doubt we can depend upon the generosity of the publishers in the future as in the past to give us more space than we are entitled to, but I submit that as we extend our space we make the paper uninteresting to the large majority. I submit that forty thousand men do not care to read a long report of an annual meeting held in a division of a thousand members. The application list has a business aspect that is pleasing to us all and we would not like to see it curtailed. If those whose duty it is to send in reports will kindly remember that our space is very valuable and put their contributions through a condensing apparatus before sending it they will see good results growing out of a better BULLETIN.

The future is rich with promise for us. The boom that has affected cycling has been and will be greatly beneficial to us. If we, by good deeds and fruitful work show ourselves deserving, we shall reap a harvest that will place us well up the top, in the list of the influential organizations of America.

NEW YORK DIVISION.

Secretary-Treasurer's Report.

TO THE BOARD OF OFFICERS OF THE NEW YORK STATE DIVISION

Gentlemen:—The membership of the New York State division was 3,031 on Dec. 1, 1894; to these were added by March 31, 1895, 215 new members, making a total membership of 3,246 at the close of the membership year of 1894-95. Of these there have been renewed to date 2,675, about 82 per cent. The previous membership year the renewals numbered 2,144, out of a total membership of 4,532, about 47 per cent, a gain of 35 per cent in renewals over last year.

The total number of applications received during the membership year of 1894-95, was 1,102. The applications received to this date number 7,255, a gain of 6,153, with three months yet to hear from.

The total net expenses of the division for this fiscal year with a membership of 9,930, amounted to $11,916.25, or $1.20 per member.

For the previous fiscal year, with a membership of 3,031, the expenses were $4,230.86, or over $1.39 per member.

Owing to the reduction to the income of the division of 15 cents per member, the receipts for this year have been $1,480.50 less than they would have been under the division of the income between the State and the national body, which existed previous to this year.

For the information of this board I have prepared an estimate of the income of the division for the coming fiscal year.

Cash on hand Dec. 30, '95,		$1,361.62
Estimated receipts, from renewals and applications, on basis of receipts for the year just ended, as follows:—
8,142 renewals (82 per cent of 9,930), at 35 cents,	$2,849.70

Report of the Executive Committee.

TO THE BOARD OF OFFICERS OF THE NEW YORK STATE DIVISION L. A. W.:—

Your executive committee takes pleasure in reporting a very satisfactory condition of the affairs of the division. In consequence of the increased activity along all lines of the division work, the labors of your executive committee have greatly increased during the past year. They have collected from various sources $14,961.09, and of this amount have expended $13,599.47, as will be shown in the secretary-treasurer's report. Every item of this receipt and expenditure has been carefully checked and audited; nothing has been paid except upon voucher approved by all three members of the executive committee. The details of all this work will be presented to you in the reports of the chief consul and the secretary-treasurer.

One important matter has been forced upon the attention of the executive committee, and that is, the absolute necessity of a more practical arrangement of the executive and financial work of the division. With an increase of membership from three thousand two hundred and forty-six (3,246) to ten thousand (10,000) members; with increased activity along the lines of road improvement, etc., the detailed labor of the chief consul's and secretary-treasurer's offices has been largely increased. It will not, of course, be expected that work of a division of 10,000, or as we hope to have it before the coming year expires, over 20,000 members, can be done satisfactorily by the same force, and at the same expense that was sufficient for a division with a membership of only 3,500.

The executive committee has taken this matter into careful consideration, and has called into consultation some of the older and more prominent members of the division and board of officers; and it is their unanimous opinion that the time has come for a thorough reorganization of the methods of doing the business of the division. They recommend:—

First. That the secretary-treasurer's office should be brought to New York City and consolidated so far as location is concerned with that of the chief consul. That the secretary-treasurer should be given a sufficient allowance to enable him to devote his entire time to the service of the division and should be furnished with necessary help to keep the accounts properly, answer all correspondence promptly, and generally to do the business of the division in a business-like manner.

This, of course, will require increased appropriations, but with our enlarged and enlarging membership we will have an increased income, out of which to pay the increased expenses.

It is not the belief of the executive committee that the policy of the division should be to accumulate a large fund. On the contrary, it is their belief that the moneys collected from the members should be expended, so far as possible, for the benefit of the members during the year in which it is collected, and that only a sufficient cash balance should be kept on hand to provide against contingencies.

It is also the belief of the executive committee that, if a proper amendment can be secured to the League Constitution at the Baltimore meeting to permit of such action, the office of the secretary-treasurer should be made a permanent and salaried office; a capable man elected to serve until removed by the board of officers. In this way only, can we retain the services of a competent and experienced man, whose knowledge of the affairs of the division will be of great value to the division and to the chief consul, for the time being, whoever he may be.

As this course is not practical until the League Constitution shall have been amended, it is recommended for the present, that beginning with Dec. 1, 1895, which is the beginning of the present fiscal year, the Secretary-treasurer's office should be removed to New York City, suitable office rooms secured, and allowances to the chief consul and secretary be made, sufficient to enable them to carry out the plans above outlined. It is estimated that the necessary appropriations for this purpose will be as follows.—

Chief Consul,	$1,250.00
Secretary-Treasurer,	2,500.00
Office rent, say,	1,000.00
Stenographer, say,	750.00
Office boy,	250.00

making a total fixed charges for these two offices of $5,750.00

This, of course, will not include printing and stationery, nor the necessary travelling expenses of the officers.

It is, therefore, recommended that if after due consideration you shall agree with your executive committee, as to the advisability of putting the business of the division on a business basis, that you will vote the appropriations as above stated.

The executive committee would also report that it has examined from time to time the books and accounts and methods of the secretary treasurer's office and has found them correct. It has audited and checked all bills, and examined the financial statement or report of the secretary-treasurer, and has found it to be correct and supported by the proper vouchers.

Respectfully submitted,
GEO. E. BLACKHAM.
I. B. POTTER.

Report of the Committee on Rights and Privileges.

Since my appointment as chairman of this committee, I have devoted to its duties such time as I believed it required, and my business would permit.

I have been repeatedly called upon and consulted by members of our State division in reference to matters pertaining to their legal rights as wheelmen and to their rights upon the public highways and streets of the State, and in reference to the duties of common carriers and transportation companies in regard to the carrying of wheels of wheelmen. I have been very frequently consulted by members of the New York State division, in reference to the recovery of stolen wheels, and have given them such legal advice and assistance as I deemed necessary in the premises. I believe it would be advantageous to the interests of the New York State division, that some means should be devised by which aid could be promptly rendered to such of our wheelmen who have lost their wheels by theft.

One of my associate members on this committee, has written me that he succeeded in securing for the wheelmen, the privilege of using certain sidewalks in the village of Charlotte, Lake Ontario, because of the unridable condition of certain streets in said village; and also made a satisfactory and beneficial arrangement with the railroad officials of the New York Central & Hudson River railroad company, as to the amount of toll which should be exacted by said railroad company, for the carrying of wheels in that locality.

One of the members of the League residing in the city of New York, consulted my office in reference to an accident which had happened to her, while using her bicycle, through a collision with a delivery wagon on the streets of New York city, and after much correspondence and consultation, this matter was amicably adjusted, and the rider in question was compensated for the loss and injuries.

I have under consideration at the present time, about which considerable correspondence has been carried on, claims against the Westcott express company and against the Long Island railroad company. In each case the claim being for loss of a bicycle through the negligence of the company in question. I am in hopes that these matters will be arranged in such a manner as to be satisfactory to the members who have suffered this loss. I have also pending in behalf of one of the members of the League, residing in the city of New York, a suit against the Metropolitan street railroad company, for injuries and damages sustained, by reason of this member, while riding his wheel on Broadway, in this city, being struck by one of the cars controlled by the Metropolitan railroad company. I had considerable correspondence with the railroad company and numerous consultations, but no amicable settlement could be arranged, and suit was consequently begun.

During the early part of last summer, a party of eight members of our division, consisting of five gentlemen and three ladies, left New York by a train on the Erie railroad company for Port Jervis, New York, to take a bicycle run to the Water Gap and return, and this party made arrangement to return on the early evening train from Port Jervis on the following Sunday evening. On the day in question, the parties were all on hand at Port Jervis station about a half hour before the arrival of the train. The ladies secured their seats on board the train and the gentlemen looked after the bicycles. After the baggage master had taken on board half a dozen bicycles belonging to other members of the party, he refused to take more, alleging that there was no room on board the car, which was afterward found to be untrue. After the baggage master had refused to accept the wheels of the parties in question, other wheelmen presented their wheels, and upon giving the baggage master one dollar each, by way of "tip," their wheels were taken on board the train. The train then left the station before any arrangement had been made about the taking of the bicycles in question and the gentlemen missed the train and the ladies in the party were compelled to buy additional tickets to Jersey City and wait there until the arrival of the rest of the party on the next train from Port Jervis, which was about 1 A.M. One of the members of the party immediately wrote to the proper officers of the railroad company, but could obtain no satisfaction from the company. The railroad company acknowledging to him that they were well aware that the baggage master did accept small sums of money from the owners of wheels which he received at this time, and seemed to convey the idea that they considered it perfectly proper.

The matter was then called to my attention, and I proceeded at once to investigate it. I wrote to the general passenger agent of the New York, Lake Erie and Western railroad company, explaining to him fully the facts in the case, and demanded that the parties should be reimbursed for their expenses and trouble. I received no response to this letter, and then communicated directly with the receivers of the railroad company in question, and received a reply that the matter would be promptly attended to. I subsequently held numerous consultations with their legal representative, and the result was that the company delivered to me a draft in full payment of all expenses of the party, and stated to me that they very much regretted that this occurrence took place, and assured me that it would not occur again, and that there would be in the future no discrimination between wheelmen in the carrying of bicycles, and such arrangement would be made, by which all wheelmen would be amply provided for. I turned the draft in question over to the parties and informed them of the result of my consultation with the railroad company, and received in reply a letter in which they stated: "We all join in thanking you for your trouble. It is very gratifying to have the assurance of the Erie railroad company that wheelmen in general would be treated with respect in the future, and I feel that the small sum spent for dues in the L. A. W. for five years past is a mighty good investment, as our personal complaint was turned down with the same degree of promptness that our wheels were thrown out of the car. Again thanking you as well as complimenting you at your successfully bringing said road to terms."

I cite this case in detail as one of many which illustrate in what manner and to what extent the division may be directly useful in protecting its members, and the appreciation with which such services are regarded by the cyclists who belong to our organization.

Our committee has in course of preparation a brief revision of the "Law of Cycling" to be included in such future publications as may be printed for the use of our members. The need of information relating to the legal rights and liabilities of the cyclist is becoming every day more apparent and pressing.

GEORGE E. WEINER, Chairman.

Report of the Committee on Rules and Regulations.

The committee on rules and regulations, to whom were referred the amendments to the by-laws and upon whom were devolved the duty of revising our constitution and by-laws so as to conform to the national constitution and by laws, on the basis of which this division is organized, respectfully report as follows: Section 2, Article II. of the constitution, as amended September, 1891, referred to as the basis of our organization, should read "Section 4, Article II.," to conform to the constitution of the League of American Wheelmen, as amended February 1895, said constitution being hereby adopted as the constitution of this division.

Sect. 2, Article I., of the by-laws, by amendment, was stricken out, thus necessitating the renumbering of the following sections: Sect. 3 thus becomes Sect. 2, and Sect. 4 becomes Sect. 3.

Sect. 2, (new number) Article I., is changed by the striking out of the words, "Article IV., Sect. 2," and inserting in the place thereof the words, "Article V., Sect. 1."

Sect. 3, Article II., was amended by the striking out of the words, "There shall be an annual meeting of the division" and inserting in the place thereof the words, "Two meetings of the division shall be held in each year."

Sect. 1, Article III., was amended by the striking out of the words, "By the board of officers at its annual meeting," and inserting in the place thereof the words, "or approved by the board of officers at any regular or special meeting."

Sect. 3, Article III., was amended by adding at the end thereof the words, "or approved by the board of officers at any regular or special meeting."

Sect. 2, Article IV., is changed by the striking out of the word "July," and inserting in the place thereof the word "September."

Sect. 2, Article V., is changed by the striking out of the word "one," and inserting in the place thereof the word "two."

Sect. 7, Article V., was amended by adding at the end thereof the words, "In each case where two or more candidates have been regularly nominated or regularly certified for the same office, the names of such candidates shall be printed on the official ballot in such order as shall have been determined by lot by the secretary-treasurer; and each ballot shall also contain a sufficient space for the writing of additional names, a place for the voter's signature, and instructions as to how many candidates may be voted for each office. Said ballots, when prepared, shall be sent promptly by mail, one to each member of the division, together with an envelope marked "Mail Vote," and addressed to the secretary-treasurer, who shall canvass the same as provided in Sect. 3 of Article III. The secretary-treasurer shall not sell or deliver ballots to any candidates or other persons except as hereinbefore provided.

Sect. 8, Article V., was amended by the striking out of the word "fifteenth" in two places, and inserting in the place thereof in two places the word "first."

Sect. 1, Article VI., was amended by the striking out of the words "consisting of three members each, i.e.:" and inserting in the place therof the words, "to wit:" and by adding at the end thereof the words, "Each of these committees shall consist of three members, except the committee on improvement of the highways and the road book committee, which shall each contain as many members as in the judgment of the chief consul shall appear necessary to thoroughly perform the respective duties prescribed in these by-laws for said two last named committees, and who shall be appointed by the chief consul in the exercise of the discretion herein conferred.

Sect. 5, Article VI., was amended by adding at the end thereof the words, "or approved by the executive committee."

The following amendments to the by-laws, notice of which has been duly given through the official organ, will be acted upon at this meeting. It is proposed to amend Sect. 3, Article VI., by striking out the words, "and shall designate from time to time, what newspaper or other medium is to be accepted as the official organ of the division, but shall have no power to render the division liable for any expense in connection with such organ without authority from the board of officers;" to amend Sect. 1, Article VI., subdivision 1, by striking out the words, "one member," and inserting in the place thereof the words, "an auditor." Also to amend Sect. 3, Article VI., by adding the words, "It shall be the duty of the auditor to examine and audit all bills and accounts against the division, and report thereon to the executive committee, before payment thereof shall be made."

Report of the Committee on Improvement in the Highways.

As chairman of the committee on improvement in the highways, I would offer the following report, for the last half of the year 1895.

Since the report made in June, little has been done that has shown any apparent results, though your committee has endeavored to keep alive the fact that one of the prime objects of the League is to get better roads; and to give all the aid we could to anyone laboring for the same end.

When the assembly committee made its tour through the State, gathering facts for a report to the Legislature this winter, I urged the members of the committee, and League members also, to attend their meetings, and aid them all they could. I believe that the labors of that committee will result in favorable road legislation this winter, and would urge on all officers and members of the division, that they watch the bills offered for road improvement, and request the support of their senators and assemblymen for those that are truly in the interest of honest and effective road work.

I would recommend that a committee be made in each League Club, on highway improvement; and that care be taken in selecting such members of the club for members of the committee, for their knowledge of the roads in the county in which the club is, and their acquaintance with the town officers.

The L. A. W. BULLETIN published a letter from me on November 20th, in which I called the attention of New York State members to the fact that we have a number of copies of the "Primer on Road Building" and will mail any number of copies, if list of names of those having charge of road work in the several counties are sent to me. I was in hopes that my mail would be much heavier than it proved to be. A few requests for copies was received, but in only one case, that of a worker in Erie county, has lists of road officials been received. I cannot get these lists without the aid of other members, hence if I cannot get the asked-for aid, the men with whom we are all willing to find fault, must go without a little book that will be of great service to them in their work; and the many cyclists will continue to cry about the poor roads in New York State. I do not mean to say that the general distribution of this book will make good roads, but I do claim that we can each aid in some way toward the improvement of our highways if we will; and simply finding fault with those in charge of the work will not improve anything.

I want to call the attention of the division to the fact that the building of "Stone roads" is being called for more and more by those that use our highways; and that information as to how it is best to build them, is being asked for. If a book similar to the "Primer" could be distributed by the division, I believe it would be of great benefit. At present much money is wasted, for want of proper knowledge in this direction.

WM. C. VROOMAN,
Chairman Committee on Improvement of Highways.

Report of the Road Book Committee.

TO THE STATE BOARD OF OFFICERS OF THE LEAGUE OF AMERICAN WHEELMEN:

Gentlemen,—It has been deemed advisable to make certain important changes in the form of the road book; changes that have been suggested by the result of the labors of those who have so faithfully worked to produce the books of the past. The radical character of these changes may render it impossible to make the next issue as perfect as might be desired, owing to lack of funds and of time. However, a beginning must be made.

The State is to be divided, for the present, into six route districts, each of which will extend about fifty miles around a large centre, to wit: New York, Albany, Rochester, Buffalo, Syracuse and Binghamton. Through routes extending beyond these fifty mile limits will not be lost sight of.

This subdivision will materially simplify the preparation of the book, and will overcome some of the difficulties that may have been encountered by the previous committees. The publication of the book for one section will not be retarded by the lack of interest of the wheelmen in a different part of the State. The credit for accuracy, or discredit for inaccuracy, in the routes of a district, will be clearly chargeable to those in that locality.

One of the features of the book will be to give credit for each route to the party reporting it. A credit that is justly due to each and every member who takes sufficient active interest in the matter to honestly work for the benefit of his fellow wheelmen.

The index maps for each district will necessarily be much smaller than the present ones, and consequently more convenient. For simplicity and clearness they will show only the routes contained in the book, and will be so arranged that no printed index of routes will be necessary. It will be possible to select, at a glance, a complicated route, that is, one composed of the whole or parts of several routes.

Wherever the necessary data can be obtained, the important or leading routes will be shown in map form, with sufficient notes to make them clear and readily intelligible. The printed descriptions now in use, are generally more or less difficult to follow, and are confusing, as they must be read and re-read before becoming sufficiently well fixed in the mind to avoid constant and tedious reference to them. Whereas, a mapped route, showing all branches, forks, and other important and readily recognizable features along the road, can be pictured in the mind, and followed without difficulty, especially if accurate cyclometer measurements are given, from some well defined starting point, to each one of the features above mentioned. These distances will read in one direction on one side of the page, and in the reverse direction on the opposite side, so that the map can be conveniently used in whichever direction the wheelman may be going.

From information received, it is evident that routes have been listed which are now far from being desirable for comfortable travelling, because they were examined and reported at a time, when, through the spasmodic effort of some path master, they were in good condition temporarily.

A dirt road is always unreliable; its near-by-future condition can never be foretold to a certainty, because its period of transition from fair to bad, is short. Not so, however, with the improved road; it may deteriorate, but it will do so slowly, thereby giving opportunity to issue warning of its changed condition. Therefore, classifying the roads as fair, good, etc., is not satisfactory; such designations are not misleading, not indicating the probable permanency of that condition. From this it appears that it would be advisable to adopt a different nomenclature for the classification of roads.

An attempt will therefore be made to state clearly, in each instance, the character of the road and its usual condition, that the wheelman may know what to expect.

Whether everything that is herein outlined can be fully carried out in the next issue of the road book, will depend entirely on the assistance that the committee will receive from the wheelmen in the several districts. However incomplete the information may be, it will at least be a foundation upon which a clear and readily understood route tracing system can be built in time. A system that will admit of being corrected and extended without undoing any of the work previously done. After the first edition, the original hand drawn maps can be filed to be corrected, amended and reproduced at small cost for future editions; thereby insuring a constantly increasing degree of accuracy and clearness.

One of the principal difficulties, encountered by all previous committees, has been the lack of interest shown by many wheelmen, who took no pains to report the desirable routes in their vicinity. Those routes being familiar to them, they saw no necessity in describing them. All wheelmen should bear in mind, however, that that which is familiar to them, is not necessarily so to others, and that, while they are laboring for others, those others are laboring for them. They may themselves some day be "travellers in a strange land" and glad to avail themselves of the labors of their fellow wheelmen in that locality.

Respectfully submitted,
G. A. ROULLIER,
Chairman road book committee, N. Y. Div., L. A. W.

Report of the Transportation Committee.

TO THE BOARD OF OFFICERS, NEW YORK DIVISION, L. A. W.

Your transportation committee respectfully report as follows: —

Special rates were secured for the June 15th meeting at Brooklyn and Coney Island, and also for the Buffalo meeting in the fall and for whatever else was necessary.

One of the members, who is on the national transportation committee, has been in consultation with them regarding the charges of wheels by the railroads, so that all matters pertaining to this branch of the division work have been carefully looked after.

Respectfully submitted,
GEO. C. PENNELL,
Chairman Transportation Committee.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., Feb. 6, 1896.

NORTH CALIFORNIA DIVISION.

Members of the North California Division, League of American Wheelmen, are earnestly requested to assist this division all they can in the matter of showing their membership cards when staying at any of the League hotels, as in this way the good work is enlarged, and you are getting only what you are entitled to, in the matter of reduction.

During the past week, the city ordinance, of San Francisco, regarding bells, has been enforced, and not a few wheelmen have been caught out without them and spent the night in jail. When their cases came up in court, League Attorney F. H. Dunne appeared for them (League members and non-League members) and secured their release.

This is as it should be, and I wish to urge upon you one and all to call upon Attorney Dunne when you are in such fix, or when you need the help of a brainy lawyer, as he is anxious to show you that he does not belong to the L. A. W. for just what he can get out of it, and in no other way can he do it more thoroughly, than in having you seek his assistance.

During the week Chief Consul F. H. Kerrigan appointed the following hotels League hotels: Burdge Hotel, Lincoln; Haywards Villa, Haywards; Commercial Hotel, Stockton; Levinger Hotel, San Miguel. Please show your cards when patronizing any of them.

Local consuls have been appointed by him as follows: W. H. Sawyer, Auburn; Col. C. G. Starr, Angel Island; O. G. Tranz, Benecia; S. P. Wible, Bakersfield; Burr Mitchell, Colusa; C. A. Wetmore, Crows Landing; E. W. Simmons, Calistoga; G. B. Fairbanks, Castroville; F. A. Hutton, Dixon; G. L. Roberts, Eureka; R. M. Thompson, Fresno; C. J. Cavanaugh, Fort Bragg; S. Dickson, Fortuna; F. M. Ring, Ferndale; J. C. Tyrell, Grass Valley; W. Blackman, Gonzales; A. J. Powell, Haywards; D. L. Newman, Hanford; H. C. Hendricks, Kelseyville; A. M. Reynolds, Lakeport.

STANLEY G. SCOVERN, Sec.-Treas.
North California Division, League of American Wheelmen.
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3, 1896.

NEW JERSEY DIVISION.

TO ALL NEW JERSEY MEMBERS:

There will likely be an amendment to the present stone road law to be presented in Trenton within the next few weeks.

The strength of the present law lies in the fact that the boards of free holders are compelled to build stone roads when they are petitioned by the property owners along the line of the proposed improved road. This clause it is endeavored to amend making it optional with the freeholders, and it is highly important that this mandatory clause remains, as we hear from many sections of the State, where freeholders who are opposed to road improvement, favor the proposed amendment.

An effort will also be made to have the township to bear a portion of the expense—this is wrong in that it will make the law more difficult to become operative.

Please write your senator and assemblymen quickly and ask them, in all fairness, to let the State aid law of 1891 remain as it is for at least a year longer—thus giving it an opportunity to prove its value and also ask them to work against the amendment.

Concerted and prompt effort will materially aid road improvement in New Jersey.

Signed, ROBERT GENTLE, Chief Consul.

Wood, Percy Werner, Hon. Henry T. Kent, Paul Bakewell.

ROBERT HOLM, Chief Consul.

INDIANA APPOINTMENTS.

The following have been appointed local counsuls at their respective points: Mr. B. F. Leiser, of Albion; Mr. Jno. R. Mutz, of Edinburg. Resident members in each of these towns can assist their local consul greatly by arousing still more interest in L. A. W. affairs among the non-members and see that these "outsiders" have copies of our new recruiting circular which has just been issued. Get them interested, tell them about our new road book that will be out by April 1 and which goes to each member of this division free of cost. Have them drop in and see the local consul, or post him so he can see them, or both. Help him so he can help us and so enable us to help you. Reciprocity. See?

MARO R. THOMPSON, Chief Consul.

FEB. 8, 1896.

INDIANA PUBLICATION BUREAU.

We have established a publication bureau in order to the more thoroughly disseminate the inducements we have to offer prospective members and at the same time inform each member of this division what this division is doing and expects to do. Through the channels of this department we shall, from time to time, issue folders, circulars, pamphlets and magazines upon topics of interest to our members. For several months we have been gathering data relative to cycle paths, their construction, cost under various conditions, and means of raising funds. When as complete information as is desired has been obtained it will be properly classified and sent out to members along with other printed matter. Touring information will be handled in the same manner. All Indiana points of interest will be arranged in a convenient form for members' use. The good roads question will receive especial attention. It is our plan to scatter broadcast all over this State literature pertaining to this subject. Arrangements have been made for articles concerning Road Leagues, best manner of constructing dirt roads, gravel roads, and the repair of same. Our publication bureau will be self-sustaining, in fact we hope to see it doing more than this. Enough space will be devoted to advertising in the different publications to insure an amount sufficient to cover the cost of issuing them.

By the time this notice will have appeared every member should have received some of our new recruiting literature that has just been issued. We have an abundance of it and want every wheelman in the State to have a copy. Distribute it freely and with a word or so of advice to your friends that they join us. Get their applications and have them sent to Abbot Bassett, 12 Pearl street, Boston. Push the work along in every town in the State. See that your town appears in the official columns of this paper each week with at least one name.

In case any member does not receive a copy or copies of the circular above mentioned it will be because there is some error in his address, and he should, upon reading this notice, advise Secretary-Treasurer Mueller promptly of the fact and send correct address.

Sincerely yours,

MARO R. THOMPSON, Chief Consul.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to Monday preceding this date, and published in accordance with Article III of the constitution.

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published and to report errors and omissions to the secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at noon on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

QUERIES AND ANSWERS

No. 71,562, Philadelphia, Pa.:

Please tell us how you use benzine in your lamp. Must "raw cotton" be used or will the plain, cooked variety do?

L. Z., Detroit:

There are quite a number of one-armed and several one legged bicycle riders in America.

L. D. Levengood:

Please send your address.

Eliza D., Buffalo:

Red bloomers will add more to your notoriety than it will to your fame as a bicycle rider.

D. V. O., Ottumwa, Ia.:

A widow may appear in public on a bicycle as soon after her husband's death as she would in an open pleasure carriage. It is not considered good form to ride a wheel in a funeral procession. No one knows just why.

C. E. S., St. Louis:

Yes, there is a law in all the states prohibiting the public from riding bicycles on the tracks (rails) of a railroad company, where such tracks are an inclosed right-of-way; and besides there is the law of self-preservation.

Lucille, Oshkosh, Wis.:

Your letter asking us "how can a sweater be washed without shrinking?" is at hand. We see no reason why one should shrink from so simple a task.

Geo. Weaver, Albany, N. Y.:

A Missouri division member in answering your inquiry says the best way to keep a tire in winter is to ride it. He is fifty-eight years old and says, "there are very few days during the winter I do not ride. As a general thing when a team or a street car can go one can go on a wheel unless it is very muddy."

Information wanted: Harrie M. Crandell, 80 Hanson Place, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"Any of the members familiar with the roads in Nova Scotia, would confer a favor by conveying any information as to their condition, or as to what would constitute a good three or four weeks' tour in that province."

ANOTHER APPROVING MINISTER.

Permit me to express the pleasure I find in reading the L. A. W. BULLETIN. Its contents are bright and sparkling, its tone is invigorating, its object most worthy, and its readers should be multitudinous in number.

(Rev.) Alex. S. Van Dyck, No. 92,143.

193 St. James Place, BROOKLYN, N. Y.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

PENDING passage of the bill making bicycles baggage in New York State, let no bicyclist sign a release holding a railroad company harmless against damages occurring to his wheel. I have repeatedly shipped my wheel on railways in New York State, and when assured that the wheel would not be accepted unless I signed this release, I have written the words: "under protest" before my signature, and no lawyer can doubt but that such a signature is powerless to relieve the company from its well-established common law liability as common carrier. Once the baggage man drew his pen through the words, "under protest," and then received the wheel. But I had in no way consented to his erasure, and it is needless to point out that he was evidently not acting by advice of counsel. No. 88,314.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

The suggestion of Mr. G. J. Oakes, of Bristol, Pa., (under the heading of Bicycle Paths), of building a cycle path between New York City and Philadelphia, and the way to raise the money to pay for same, in last week's issue of the L. A. W. BULLETIN is a good one and in order to "push it along" the writer pledges the "Century Wheelmen of New York" to subscribe $50 toward that end as their share of the cost, providing the necessary amount is raised. SOME COLD GLAD FACTS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Before we improved and macadamized our main thoroughfares, our farmers had to use an extra team and man to get their produce to market, costing them, on an average, $2.75 extra on every load, or in other words, a man and team one-half day. They hauled on an average three loads per week and an average of thirty loads each during a season, making the cost of poor roads $82.50 for each farmer who hauled his produce

Testimony that counts

New York State Division L. A. W. is preparing its Road Book for 1896. It intends to measure all distances very accurately. Consequently, it looked into the merits of the various cyclometers now on the market, with the care that was due to the importance of making a right selection.

The result was a foregone conclusion, in the minds of those who have gone into the question of comparative values. The New York Division L. A. W. officially announces that "the 'Standard' Cyclometers to be used in our Road Book work are the latest improved cyclometers (new design), manufactured by the New York Standard Watch Company, and are believed to be strictly accurate."

No. 1 (1000-mile), $1.00; No. 2 (10,000-mile), $1.50; No. 3 "Midget" (10,000-mile), $1.75.

to the New York and Brooklyn markets. They now take a much larger load with one team, where two, and sometimes three teams had to be used, and save enough to pay all their taxes, town, county and State, and yet some object to a slight increase in the tax on account of the good roads.

CATALOGUES.

We shall take pleasure in making mention in this column of any bicycle catalogue which may be sent us. If our readers who send for any of the catalogues mentioned will kindly say that the notice was seen in the L. A. W. BULLETIN it will be appreciated by us as well as by the manufacturer.

The Quincy.

Sixteen neatly printed pages, two of which are devoted to the good purpose of increasing the L. A. W. membership and in explaining the objects of the League, are within the attractive two-color cover pages of the catalogue issued by the Quincy Cycle Co., Quincy, Mass. The paper used in cover and catalogue is a symphony in brown and buff, and the cover design is "catchy."

Bicycle Locks.

The Slaymaker-Barry Co., Lancaster, Pa., issue a neat "red book" catalogue, describing their very full line of bicycle locks, including chain, aluminum, sprocket, shackless and pressed locks.

"S. & Z."

Smith & Zimmer, Minneapolis Minn., have issued a 12-page catalogue describing their "Kenwood" and "S. & Z. Flyer."

Bicycle Sundries.

Davis, Hopp & Co., Chicago, have issued a 24-page catalogue of bicycle sundries which they handle as manufacturers and selling agents.

Road Machines.

The American Road Machine Company, Kennett Square, Pa., has issued an elaborate and extensive 40-page catalogue, describing all kinds of road-making machinery as well as devices for keeping highways in good repair. It is a book that will be of interest to many.

RIDING a bicycle on a sidewalk or footway being prohibited by statute in Pennsylvania, it is held in Com. v. Forrest, 29 L. R. A. 365, that the fact that the sidewalk ridden upon was on land appropriated by a turnpike company, which consented to such use, did not take the case out of the statute, and the further fact that other persons were in the habit of riding on the sidewalk was immaterial.

FEBRUARY 21, 1896.

THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY

Meeting which adjourned last week in Baltimore, Md., accomplished the passage of several measures which are of the greatest importance to the L. A. W.

The most sorely needed reformation being the abolishment of what had been known by the meaningless title of class B.

A large proportion of the trouble to the League which had come through its control of racing, was due to the attempted enforcement of rules which were both unnatural and unjust.

When cycle racing began to develop into a business, there came up a class of riders who necessarily and very properly made their living by their speed, and yet who, owing to certain disreputable doings on the part of professional racing men, and which were still fresh in the public mind, did not relish the idea of being known by the then odious title of "professionals."

Hence, it seemed advisable to invent a new name, by which to designate these young men who were, and yet in a sense were not, professionals.

When, however, some of our very best riders who were beyond the suspicion of dishonesty came to be generally known by the now less objectionable title, professionalism in the public mind ceased to be a synonym for dishonesty, and the result of that public education was seen in the recent decision of the national assembly to hereafter call all riders what they are, namely, either amateurs or professionals.

Total number printed this week, . . . 42,000
Sent to paid Subscribers, ... 40,049
Samples to Advertisers, Exchanges, etc., 1,951

It is to be hoped that this simplifying of the racing rules may do away almost wholly with the trouble heretofore caused by our attempt to control racing too much.

League Meets.

Another important move was that which takes the location of the annual "meet" out of L. A. W. politics.

The question of where this meet should be held is supposed to be of the greatest interest to those towns which are striving to obtain it, while it is of comparatively little consequence to the average L. A. W. member.

The proposition now is to have this matter settled during the month of January by some sort of a mail vote, the exact nature of which is to be determined by the executive committee. Although this new plan for settling what at times has seemed the principal question may detract somewhat from the interest taken in the next national assembly, it cannot fail to have a beneficial effect.

Proxies.

Much trouble has arisen in the past from the improper use of proxies. As our rules stood last year, any delegate could hold one proxy from outside his State, providing, however, that more than three such proxies could not be held by the delegates from any single State.

As amended at Baltimore, no delegate can be represented by proxy except when the holder of said proxy is a delegate from his own State.

In other words, a State to be represented at all, must send at least one delegate.

A most remarkable fact in this connection is, that the motion was made by Texas and seconded by southern California.

Much other business of more or less importance was transacted by the assembly, a full report of which will be published in our official columns.

A Sure Thing.

My father used to say to me,
"If you wish a thing well done
Do it yourself, for you can't," said he,
"Rely on any one."

But my new rule works twice as well
For it counts not when or where,
If I want a thing well done I tell
The waiter to bring it rare.

To insure good health, ride a bicycle either before or after eating, or both.

IF you don't see the good road you want, in your community, ask for it.

Have you ever stopped to think

What you are paying for in most bicycles? No? First, there's material; that's about the same in all good bicycles (though a heap of poor stuff is worked into "Jobbers' Wheels," and sold as "high grade"). Then, there's Labor; it may be good, bad or indifferent; it's not often bad, except in convict-made wheels (then it's worse). It's generally "indifferent," the "don't care a ——" kind that makes wheels which sell to clubs at $35.00, more or less. The kind

BICYCLES AS BAGGAGE.

Are they baggage or not?

The League of American Wheelmen would like to know.

The legislatures of New York and Massachusetts will soon have an opportunity to answer this question. We travel on the railroad. We pay the price. We are entitled to take one hundred and fifty pounds of baggage.

What is baggage? There is no statutory definition. It has been generally understood and decided by the courts that "baggage is whatever a traveller may take with him for his personal use and convenience, or for the ultimate purposes of his journey." Certainly the bicycle answers these requirements.

A million bicycles are being sold in America this year. There are several millions already in common use. These are used by people who have votes.

One hundred and thirty-two transportation companies in this country already carry bicycles and consider them baggage. A few prominent railroads are now standing out. It has been decided to put this matter to a vote in several of the States.

If the tourist may carry his canoe, sketching materials, bedding, etc., if the oarsman may carry his racing shell, if the theatrical company may carry its scenery. if the travelling man may carry his sample trunks, if the carpenter may carry his tool chest, why may not the bicycle rider carry with him his wheel "for his personal convenience and for the ultimate purposes of his journey?" We do not "pause for an answer." There is no answer but one.

We must insist that the bicycle should be carried and considered baggage, and especially when the traveler has no other belongings for which he asks transportation.

We do not ask that bicycles be carried "free" any more than that trunks be carried free. All of these things are carried for the money which the passenger pays. The question is purely a technical one. It is whether the bicycle which weighs 20 odd pounds may be carried in place of the trunk which weighs 150. That is all there is to it, and it must be answered by the courts or the law-makers.

But, says the railroad man, the bicycle is a nuisance. Of course it is. It is a most wilful piece of property, when no special arrangement is made for its storage.

Trunks would be a great nuisance, did not the railroad companies provide special cars in which to carry them.

Bicycles are now received and thrown into these baggage cars, which were made for trunks, without any provision whatever for their proper care. In the upper portion of every baggage car is room for a dozen bicycles. Bicycles, as now made, are very uniform as to size, shape and weight. The railroad companies should have long ago provided means for storing these common, every-day wheels. Whether wheels are to be carried as baggage or not they do have to be carried, and even when paid for the railroad companies have not, to date, devised any satisfactory means of storing them.

Moral suasion is all right in its way, but railroad corporations seem to be peculiarly deficient. We could not afford to ask for that which we did not think is just. In asking that bicycles be regarded as baggage we believe that our only fault is that we are several years behind the times. It should have been asked sooner.

Among the larger railroads our most conspicuous friend has been the Baltimore & Ohio, and what is the result? Wheelmen all over the country are patronizing that road in every way possible, and the managers inform us that they find their "concession," so-called, to be an extremely profitable investment as they obtain very much more money from wheelmen by carrying wheels as baggage, than they could possibly gain out of the more pessimistic policy of making a charge for them.

All wheelmen in New York and Massachusetts (we know of no bills pending in other states on this subject) should write at once to their representatives in the legislature to urge upon them the importance of acceding to these very just and reasonable requests which are soon to be formally made.

The photographer has a taking way with him.

"LEAGUE HOTELS."

The League hotel, so-called, is a thorn in the flesh of every chief consul who has had experience with them.

The League hotel agrees with the chief consul that if appointed and advertised as a League hotel in a given town that it will make a special rate to L. A. W. members. In many instances this rate is made and complied with, but in nearly every case this same rate is made to wheelmen who are not League members. In other words, we publish in our hand books and advertise in other ways that a certain hotel is appointed and will give to League members a special price.

This is a plain business transaction and should, in many instances, be very profitable to the hotel which receives the distinction. As soon, however, as these privileges are granted to non-League members, the hotel not only breaks faith with the League officials but at once takes from us the only incentive which leads to the appointment of such a hotel.

We learn that Chief Consul Potter is attempting to make the New York State hotels carry out their agreement with the L. A. W. The editor of the L. A. W. BULLETIN would be very glad to hear from those who know whether the scheme is working satisfactorily.

THE average spring road is quite too springy.

No other wheels made stand so high in the estimation of dealers and riders. The cause is plain. Waverleys are built on honest value lines and the purchaser receives full value for the investment. For the Ladies

"God Bless 'Em!"

FIRST, we congratulate you, Mr. President, upon your election. He "needs no introduction, but it may be proper for us to go through the formality."

"Forty thousand League members," allow us to present Sterling Elliott, Esq. (with a BIG S.), Honored President of the League of American Wheelmen."

Now we have discharged our obligations. He has congratulated us on our new department; we have congratulated him; now we wish to add that the first time we meet him upon neutral ground we shall demand a settlement on account of the innuendoes cast out week before last, concerning "crankiness."

We don't aspire to so lofty a height as that of "crank," meaning a person born in advance of the age in which he lives, and consequently not being appreciated or understood, is looked upon by humanity as a semi-lunatic, if not plain fool. We don't want to be either, as being "of the earth, earthy," love the world, the people and things therein.

NEXT, a gentleman wants the writer to understand that "there is nuthin' that makes a man — and an ex-racer at that — so tarnashun mad as ter see a fool woman meddlin' with subjeks she don't know nuthin' about, an' the papers at sich er loss for reliable news as ter print her stuff. What's a woman know about racin', enny how?"

Perhaps women do know little about racing generally. One might judge so, if the "Woman's Race," held during the latter part of the past year at Madison Square Garden, was an example. But it "attracted attention to the League," in just the same manner as the men's races do, when reports of fights, lying and bribery get out and fill column after column of the daily and cycling papers, and keep the officials of the League busy for months after, writing and talking in explanation, argument and apology for the discreditable actions on the part of participants, and at the same time giving no reason why any self-respecting person should join that body.

Let men race if they will, and if we may be permitted the suggestion, also let each victor have his noble brow crowned by a laurel wreath, after the ancient Roman custom. Then we will have pure sport, indulged in only by pure lovers of sport, and the time we spend each year in fixing up and explaining fights and dishonesties. can be employed much more advantageously in looking after road and street improvement.

It is said by good authority, that at least one of the women (a Brooklyn woman), who took part in this woman's race, is a League member. If any law has been broken, that is, if the clause which was inserted in the racing rules about a year ago, to the effect that no woman should be allowed to take part in races is not a dead letter, then the person guilty of violating this rule should be punished, and if there is no law to reach such ses, would it not be well to have one framed?

WE have the gracious permission of the editor to talk about any "bloomin'" thing we please. Apropos to this, we would say that the ladies of a fashionable New York club, who recently made life miserable for a poor little actress, arrayed in this much-discussed costume, who was practicing for an act in the play called "The Century Run," did not succeed in proving anything, but inconsistency. Last summer at Newport — and they were all there — all the fashionable world was wheeling; the Baroness Selliere, white-haired mother, in the lead, the admiration and envy of her set, in bloomers. Artistic, graceful, Parisian-made and imported bloomers, to be sure, but unmistakable bloomers. But that was last summer, and in Newport, doncherknaw, and now it is the winter, and in New York, doncherknaw. It must be some satisfaction, however, to the ill-used little struggler for daily bread, to know that an enterprising man — "God bless 'em" — has got a patent on bloomers. Now what capricious daughter of wealth and idleness shall say what shall and what shall not be worn?

THERE is a man in our town who calls himself Gothamite, and who writes things. That is, he puts many words together, and these words form sentences, and these sentences are much after the style of a certain editor of a certain very correct periodical published in the "Quaker City," who, after a long and arduous life of thirty years, feels called upon to give, from his wonderful store of knowledge and experience, good advice "to young men." Now, Mr. Gothamite would be exactly like this gentleman, were it not for this difference — he gives good advice to young women, and the clever things that this ambitious young man don't say, would fill quite a large book. Last week he told girls what they ought to be, and talked to them very seriously upon the subject of "The New Woman," the greatest and most glaring of whose faults always lies in her use of a bicycle. He says, "If I were only able to write a book" (and herein we can appreciate the saying of that most wise man of biblical fame, when he exclaimed, 'Oh that mine enemy would write a book'), "I would try to make my heroine as sweet and pretty and decorous as Thackeray's Amelia, who, after all, is the woman we ought to marry (we might infer from this that he has lived recently in a certain part of China, where women are permitted to marry as many men as they can support). We admire Becky Sharp, but we would not like to be her husband. I never have loved the new woman, although I have admired her immensely. But men don't marry the women they admire. I do not even think I should care

"Locks, bolts and bars all fly asunder."

You may exclaim, "Well, what about it?" Be patient. It is our intention to apply the above quotation very specifically. It is easier to flatten the ends of tubes and fasten them by means of bolts and nuts than to make difficult forgings and by dint of extra labor make the frame one solid whole.

to be the husband of a superior woman. I want to be superior."

Poor fellow, he "wants to be superior." Are no idiots left in the world, that he must go about seeking a mate whom he can impress with his superiority?

ANOTHER man discusses the woman question by starting out thusly: "The new woman will not like it, but it is beauty that puts woman in perfect harmony. No man can pass the statue of Apollo without involuntarily straightening up. I have sat before Venus de Milo whole hours, just to see the influence of her serene majesty and sweet, calm, self-sufficiency upon the visitors. Hundreds of perfect faces are not pleasing; hundreds of plain ones are captivating. Any woman who pleases can be charming. Men admire that indescribable something we call femininity, color, lace, grace, ornament, novelty, freshness, or nonsense, if you will. Men own up to the enjoyment of following a pair of dainty boots over a muddy crossing. Mon Dieu! Why not? The girl who gets on a bicycle in bloomers is guilty of public offence. She is a nuisance and should be locked up. Bloomers are horrible; they leave nothing to be imagined."

That is a fact, but it don't strike the writer as an argument against them, but rather in their favor. Like the Bible, they are so plain (spoken) as to leave no room for imaginative speculation, and should be commended a a time saver to men, if for no other reason.

FROM NEW YORK TO ALBANY.

The Hudson, (N. Y.) Bicycle club has started a movement to build a path four feet wide along the Hudson river from New York to Albany. The four miles of clay between Hudson and Stockport is known as one of the "pest spots" between Chicago and New York. The Hudson club will care for this at a cost of $600. To raise this amount the following circular is being distributed locally:

HUDSON, N. Y., February, 1896.

The Hudson Bicycle Club proposes to construct as early in the spring as possible a cycle path between this city and Stockport. To carry out this project will call for a considerable expenditure of money, and the club look to the cyclists of this vicinity to subscribe the greater part of the funds required.

The business men of the city have very generally contributed, and the committee now appeal to those directly interested in the scheme,—the cyclists.

You are requested to fill out the slip attached with the amount of your contribution, and hand the same to either of the undersigned. Any sum from 25 cents up will be gladly received and acknowledged in the papers. Remember that no cyclist can consistently use the path if he refuses to contribute toward its construction.

Yours respectfully,
CYCLE PATH FINANCE COMMITTEE.

I herewith contribute the sum of $.....toward the Hudson-Stockport Cycle Path Fund.

.....

The members of the club state their position on the bicycle path question to be that they believe in "good roads" first. In cases where that seems to be possible only in the distant future then they believe in trying to do something for their immediate benefit. Hence the path.

Winter Cycling in Southern California

IT may seem improbable, if not impossible to those (I almost said "unfortunate") people who are now struggling with a furnace in an almost vain endeavor to keep the house warm, that we wheelmen in this southwest corner of the United States are enjoying the best of riding. Nevertheless, it is a fact. The weather is like a Minnesota summer, warm days and cool nights. Roads are generally good, and where they are sprinkled, by no means a rare thing in this section, they are very good indeed.

The favorite run for Los Angeles riders is to Santa Monica, a town well known to wheelmen as being the winter quarters of some of our noted racing teams. It is on the ocean, seventeen miles from this city. The road, rather dusty now, runs along the foothills, parallel with the mountains the entire distance, through immense grain fields, now dry and yellow; with an occasional orange or lemon orchard, that breaks the monotony with its bright green leaves studded with yellow fruit. It takes us through the grounds of the soldiers' home, the handsomest spot in southern California. To see the well-kept roads, shaded by rows of palms, hedges of calla lilies, flowers of all kinds and roses everywhere, it seems to one brought up in the north that the seasons have made a mistake and this cannot be winter. At Santa Monica it seems even more unreal. On the track the record-breakers are hard at work and on the beach you will find the bathers nearly every day in the year.

Travelling east from Los Angeles one finds an altogether different sort of country. This section is merely a succession of towns. The roads (they are all called "avenues"), are of the very best, well graded, generally well sprinkled.

Old Mission Walk, San Gabriel, Cal.

Through here is where the finest of the oranges are grown. The "tenderfoot" on his arrival here thinks that any orange, fresh from the tree, is delicious, but after wheeling a little soon learns to choose between a navel, a blood and a seedling. Oranges are free to bicycle riders and wherever you stop you are invited to try the fruit from this or that choice tree. If you feel tired of riding and would like to stretch your legs you can leave your wheel and walk up Wilson's Peak. It is "only nine miles up" and the grade averages one in nine. The greatest drawback to this trip now, is the liability of finding snow and cold weather at the top.

The San Gabriel Mission, which lies in this valley, is well worth a visit. A half day will be plenty for the trip. This building was built in 1771, and is still used by the good Mexicans and Spanish. The female dragon in charge would be a terror to evil doers. The writer, though he does not include himself in this class, had quite a seance with her. After paying the regular admission and getting inside he undertook to photograph the organ. On getting outside he found he had forgotten his camera case and it took a half hour's hard argument before she would give it up.

The Chinese gardener is also a prominent feature here, and unlike his brother farther north, is generally well treated and respected. His crops are planted with little regard to season, his principal consideration being to have a crop of each and every vegetable maturing at all times, in which he is very successful.

As a city Los Angeles would be a paradise for wheelmen, were it not for unjust laws and reckless drivers. Bicyclists are limited to eight miles an hour while horsemen can travel at any speed they may choose. The wheelman who runs over a pedestrian, or is run over by a street car or horse, is always regarded as being to blame, and he can do nothing but submit. In this respect, at least, we are far behind eastern cities.

San Gabriel, Cal., Streets.

But, taking it altogether, no thorough "bicycle crank" can find a better place than this is for the winter. Good roads, good weather, and many novelties, both scenery and people all combine to make "life worth living" here.

A large and increasing number of communications serves as a standing notice to the editors of the L. A. W. BULLETIN that the "dog question" is not yet disposed of. Believing that it should be muzzled, at least, it is here taken up, but not with the thought of settling it to the satisfaction of all who have shown an interest in the discussion.

When good Isaac Watts, early in the seventeenth century, quilled the lines,

Let dogs delight to bark and bite,
For God hath made them so;

people were not riding bicycles. Neither were the women of those days wearing bloomers, thus robbing themselves of the needed protection of the lower limbs. Things are different now.

It is not a theory but a condition that confronts us. We have bicycles and we have dogs. How shall we harmonize these two factors? Many men of many minds have expressed opinions on this subject. We cannot do better than to let them give voice to their thoughts and permit the reader to draw his own conclusion.

Please let me thank your correspondent for raising his voice in behalf of dogs. I have been much surprised by the continual outcry against "the friend of man." I am "only a woman," but I have ridden many hundreds of miles. Of course dogs have often flown at me, but I have yet to see one which could not be brought to reason by coolness. In general I find the best course to be to speak to them with kindly contempt: "What are you making that noise for? You are acting like a perfect idiot," will bring most dogs to terms.

It is true that one dog caught me by the ankle and forced me to jump off my wheel, but as soon as I was on the ground he invited me to pet him, which I did, and we parted excellent friends. If wheelmen would keep a cool head and not be filled with rage and fear at the sight of a dog there would be less trouble. No. 87,211.

If 72,924 during his 3,000 miles ride took time to stand by his wheel and conciliate with sweet persuasive speech every dog that "acted savage" upon the trip, he must possess a spirit of patience worthy the emulation of a Job. Certainly not every cyclist is thus endowed. I think most people will conclude that a savage dog "who" "acts savage" toward travelers on the highway is altogether de

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I wish to refer to articles that have lately appeared in the BULLETIN. No. 75,644 says: "Shoot blank cartridges in hopes of scaring an attacking dog; but if bullets are used, it is likely to get the shooter into trouble."

'Tis true, 'tis pity, and pity 'tis 'tis true.

The ancients used to regard certain animals as sacred, and worship them. Are we, as a people, beginning to regard the dog as sacred?

Surely many of us have bowed (or tumbled) down to him, but I fear it was not to worship.

No. 72,944 says: "If the dog acts savage, I jump from my wheel, stand beside it and talk to him a minute, and he is sure either to at once become friendly or return to his kennel." Who else has seen a bicycle-chasing dog "become friendly," or, after such a dose of medicine, "return to his kennel?"

And will No. 72,944 kindly tell us how he jumps from a bicycle going twelve to twenty miles an hour, when a savage dog is making frantic efforts to grab the unprotected calf?

To be able to "jump" and "stand beside" one's wheel under such circumstances is a thing to be devoutly desired.

Again he says, "The fault is usually with the wheelman and not with the dog."

That is right. Teach the dog to smash bicycles and bite the riders. Encourage and justify them in so doing, and then shout after the unfortunate bicyclist, as he limps away with the remains of himself and wheel, "You were the most to blame."

I have seen bicycles smashed by attacking dogs, and the lives and limbs of the riders endangered. I have known men, women, and children to be attacked repeatedly by the same dogs, and that, too, while passing peaceably along the public roads. Some escaped being bitten, and some didn't.

Even all this we might endure, for a dog isn't supposed to have brains enough to know where his rights end and the rights of men begin; but when the brutal, belligerent owners of such vicious dogs claim that the dog isn't to blame, the limit of toleration is passed and we are tempted to appeal to the bullet and the law.

If a man goes onto the highway and commits an assault and battery he is "committed." If a dog on the street commits an assault, and compels the bicyclist to batter himself, the bicyclist and the bicycle to batter each other, and both to batter the road, the dog generally goes scott free.

Then "the dog poisoning fiend" riseth in his wrath and perhaps a dozen valuable dogs die a painful, lingering death, simply because there is no law to prevent a vicious dog from attacking whoever, wherever and whenever he pleases.

BREAK THE RECORD

Increase the speed of your wheel and the ease of driving it; make your chain run easier and last longer by the use of Dixon's "679" Graphite CYCLE LUBRICANT. Prepared of the choicest and smoothest soft graphite, it thoroughly lubricates chain and sprockets, and prevents them from wearing. Will not gum or hold dust or dirt. Saves money and muscle. Send 15 cents for sample stick.

If the L. A. W. BULLETIN AND GOOD ROADS and the S. P. C. A. would unite their influence to pass a law which should impose a heavy fine on the owner of any dog that should attack a person on the streets, whether afoot, on a bicycle, or in a team, this obstruction to "Good Roads"—in fact the whole dog question — the bicycle-chasing dog, the irresponsible vicious dog, and "the dog-poisoning fiend" would all cease to exist. EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I have read various articles in your paper treating on methods of avoiding "dog bites." If my personal experience is applicable generally, the simplest and most satisfactory plan is, metaphorically speaking, to do nothing. Keep on pedalling, pay no attention to the dog, and after a few barks and apparent longings for revolving calf meat, he will, in disgust, relinquish the attempt to get it. Possibly I haven't been unfortunate enough to meet the wrong dog. No. 55,528.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I notice in the last BULLETIN, No. 72,924 states that he has ridden 3000 miles in New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Maine, and has not been troubled with dogs. I do not know how numerous dogs are in the States mentioned, but I do know that in this city (Philadelphia) the writer has been troubled considerably with dogs. I have noticed that most dogs have a tendency to follow wheelmen, and I myself have met with very narrow escapes, while I have friends who have been seriously hurt by being tripped by dogs. Of course, if a person would stop and get off to accommodate every dog they saw, they might escape uninjured, but it is not always convenient to do this. Some time ago, while riding along a public thoroughfare, I saw a man deliberately hiss his dog after me. Of course, the dog was not to blame for this. If owners of dogs would train them properly, I agree with No. 72,924, we would not have to kick the dogs — nor the owners either, for that matter. No. 73,639.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Supposing a dog should make an attack on you in the street, or road, while riding a wheel, would you be justified in shooting the brute?

ST. JOSEPH, MO. MARY KYLE KNIGHT.

Ans. We do not care to answer this publicly. It is a point on which people differ. We wish to be thought humane and kind-hearted. However, if you have a dog you wish to preserve, don't let him make it a practice to bite us, or you'll have to pickle him to preserve him. We do think that the owner of such a dog is the real guilty party.

The Bloomer Girl

A Study from Life

MONTAIGNE is wrong in declaring that custom ought to be followed simply because it is custom, and not because it is reasonable or just. — Blaise Pascal.

Let me address some words of encouragement to my fellow-wheelwomen who are desirous of shedding the skirt on long country runs, or tours, and yet, perhaps, lack the courage to stand up for their convictions, in the face of the decided stand taken by some cycling editors.

I cannot agree with Mrs. Mary Sargent Hopkins or Miss Branth, that skirts are conducive to safe, comfortable, or speedy riding.

The long dress can not but impede the free movement of the limbs, to say nothing of the loss of the rest, and the glorious exhilaration afforded by coasting, which a skirt, unless it be short, renders too dangerous. What rider who really loves the sport and knows what a coast is, would forfeit that means of descent, after toiling more or less painfully up the previous ascent? As for the short skirt worn with leggings and over bloomers, I admit that it is decidedly the most graceful and stylish costume yet adopted, provided the clerk of the weather guarantees not to send too hard a wind to ride against.

Those of my readers who have been on the Coney Island cycle path on an ordinary summer's day, and have seen the many poor women struggling against that strong headwind from old ocean, with skirts gathered in folds and lying in their laps, exposing bloomers and leggings in the front, and from the back, presenting the appearance of inflated balloons, will agree with me, that under these circumstances, bloomers are the neatest and most sensible.

There is nothing I so venerate and honor in our sex as womanliness; but I consider the essential womanly virtues, viz., unselfishness, tenderness, softness, modesty and dignity, perfectly compatible with the sterner qualities of sound judgment, logic, self-reliance and independence, this last mentioned a woman must possess in some degree to ride in bloomers anywhere outside of the large cities.

I can fully appreciate and sympathize with that woman who feels that bloomers are the proper garb for wheeling, but shrinks from making herself conspicuous, or becoming the mark for low wit and occasionally disagreeable remarks.

If you have decided in favor of bloomers, make up your mind not to hear or notice anything of the kind, and you will be astonished at finding how really indifferent you become in a short time. If only more women in the interest of cycling and free unhampered enjoyment of it by their sisters, would adopt a neat bloomer costume (not the baggy kind, nor yet the knickerbocker style, but a happy medium) so that universally it would be the general rule, not the exception, whatever discomfort and annoyance attendant on wearing them, would then be done away with.

I have run the gauntlet, having been the first woman in my native town, Hackensack, N. J., to don this much-abused costume.

Probably I was somewhat hardened, and had paved the way to feeling a certain amount of indifference, by learning to ride at all, which I did four years ago, just after my marriage, and against the bitter disapproval and opposition of my three brothers and two sisters. In passing let me add that now they all ride and own wheels. My husband has always been an enthusiast, and is one of those liberal-minded men, who think a woman is the best judge of what is suitable, and though he disapproves of skirts for all around riding, never insisted upon my abandoning that style of dress. However, after many trials, tribulations, and several narrow escapes from what might have been serious accidents, common sense at last came to my rescue, and I now strap my skirt on the handle bar, when going out for long runs. My bicycle suit consists of bloomers, skirt, leggings, coat and cap of one material. On leaving my wheel, I throw my skirt around me (it opens on the side, buttons being concealed by a fold of the goods), hook the band, button as many buttons as is convenient, and I'm all right, at least I feel so.

In the matter of wheels, as in dress, let each decide for herself, and be allowed to carry out her ideas, without being frowned down as bold, vulgar or unwomanly. Remember that the costume does not make the woman, but woman the costume.

Do not imagine that I am excusing or sustaining the "bloomer girl," in the usual acceptation of the term, that gum-chewing, slang-speaking rowdy, or "lady scorcher," who thinks she must "keep up with the boys" to such an extent as to lay over her bars, adopt their clothes, and in many other ways copy them so closely as to be, to all outward appearances at least, one of them. Let these individuals be put down, if possible. Women, especially mothers, cannot but look with sorrow, not unmixed with alarm, on the increase of this element in these latter century days. How can we rear our sons in that chivalrous respect and veneration for woman, simply because she is a woman, that our fathers had, and which is the foundation of the home, our security and happiness, the fundamental source of our present position and influence, if these are the kind of girls with whom they are thrown.

I shudder to think of the future of men, and our own also, should the time ever come when they cannot respect us as a sex.

The Automatic Bicycle Balance.

Easy to ride with "Hands Off." The greatest invention yet. Will balance wheel to perfection. Prevents accidents, as it keeps the wheel straight ahead. Greatly increases the pleasure of riding, especially on rough roads; corners and circles can be turned with steadiness and safety. Gives one confidence in their wheel. The rider does the pumping and the balance does the rest.

Dear Sir,—The wheel your doctor refers to must be the "Lady Hardy."

It is a new bicycle, entirely rigid, constructed on the principle of a spring carriage in a way which prevents all shocks, jars and vibrations from reaching any part of the body. It allows one to ride with ease and comfort on the roughest of roads or streets.

It is now on exhibit in the Mechanics Fair Building, your city. If you have not time to go and see it, you can get full information regarding same by addressing The Hardy Cycle Company, at No. 42 West 67th street, in this city. (They are the makers.)

Trusting that you will enjoy the use of this wheel as much as my wife does, I remain, dear sir,

Select Cycle Tours

White Mountains to Mt. Desert

Sooner or later the public learns to appreciate a good thing when it finds it. Touring by wheel is a delight that those who have journeyed only in the prison-like confines of a soot-stained, gas-tainted railroad car, or a "rocky," uncertain, over-crowded boat, have no means of measuring.

Bicycle touring at home and abroad will be more popular this year than ever. The wheel as a means of enjoying an extended outing is beginning to be happily appreciated. Bicycle touring parties will be numerous this season. In every centre of population will be many who will wish to know of pleasant routes for wheeling. To them a carefully-planned tour, on paper, will serve as a guide to the real enjoyment. Such may here be given from time to time, with the chief cities of the country as starting points. These should be preserved for future reference. The first of the series is by the very well-known cyclist, Henry Clyde.

First Day. Leave Boston, 1 P. M. from Union Station. Arrive at Plymouth, N. H., about 5 P. M. Stop at Pemigewasset House. Fine short runs about Plymouth, on river road towards Rumney, or towards Ashland or Holderness.

Second Day. Leave Plymouth, morning, Franconia Notch road; dine at Woodstock, (22.50 m.). Arrive at Flume House about 4 P. M. Make run about 3 miles up to-morrow's route to "Old Man" and Profile Lake. Best effect of the Profile about 5.30 P. M. Return, and, if time, visit the Flume. Day's run, Plymouth to Flume House, 31.50 miles.

Third Day. Leave Flume House, morning, to Profile House (stop), Eagle Lake, (stop), Franconia, Bethlehem (14 m.), dinner; Twin Mountain House, Fabyan's, Mt. Pleasant House (view of White Mountain range), to Crawford House. In late afternoon, make ascent of Mt. Willard for view of Crawford Notch. If road is in good condition, it is possible to take a bicycle up the carriage road and ride back to hotel. Day's run, Flume House to Crawford's, 28 miles.

Fourth Day. Leave Crawford House, morning. Through Crawford Notch via Willey House, Bemis's, Bartlett and Glen Station, to Jackson; arriving for dinner (Jackson Falls House). The hills about Jackson command some of the finest scenery in the White Mountains, and the valley roads are good. Good run north, up the Glen road and return, may be taken. Day's run (Crawford's to Jackson), 26 miles.

Fifth Day. Leave Jackson, morning; circuit by "Ledge Road," taking in Diana's Baths, Cathedral and Echo Lake, 14 miles, or, direct by Glen Station and Intervale, 8 miles, to North Conway. To Intervale Station, where take train for Portland, arriving there about 1 P. M. Dinner at Union Station. Wheel to Brunswick, via Cumberland, Yarmouth and Freeport, 25 miles. Day's run 33 miles; by "Ledge Road," 39 miles.

Sixth Day. Leave Brunswick, morning, via Richmond, Gardiner and Hallowell, to Augusta. Arriving at Gardiner early in forenoon may take the small steamer which connects with the Boston boat, and so avoid the hilly road between Hallowell and Augusta. Stop at Augusta House, near the State House and Blaine mansion. Scenery about Augusta very beautiful. Observatory on the high land to the northeast of the city commands an extensive view, including the White Mountains nearly due west, 80 miles. Day's run, (Brunswick to Augusta), 33 miles.

Seventh Day. Leave Augusta, morning. Cross river and follow east bank through Vassalborough to Winslow, where cross to west bank and on to Waterville (18 miles, dinner). P. M., via Fairfield to Skowhegan. Hazelton House. (At Skowhegan the route starts up the east bank of the Kennebec via Solon, Forks of Kennebec and Moose River, through the northern woods and over Bald Mountain, through Province of Quebec, to Quebec, 203 miles). Day's run (Augusta to Skowhegan), 36 miles.

Eighth Day. Leave Skowhegan early morning, via Canaan and Pittsfield to Newport (27 miles; dinner, Shaw House. P. M., Newport to Bangor, Bangor House. Day's run, 55 miles.

Ninth Day. Leave Bangor, early morning. Cross Penobscot and via Brewer, Holden Centre and Dedham, to Ellsworth (26 miles, dinner). P. M., to Thompson's (Mt. Desert Bridge, 10 miles), thence to Southwest Harbor, taking first turn to right on the Bar Harbor road, and passing through Somesville and by Echo Lake on the right. Day's run, 46 miles.

(Southwest Harbor is the best headquarters on the island for wheelmen desiring thoroughly to explore the country. The roads on Mt. Desert are generally fair to good, but mostly hilly. The finest run on the island is from Southwest Harbor to the Sea Wall and return (9 miles). At the Sea Wall, the view to seaward is grand, and so is the panorama of mountains to the northward on the return trip. There are several good hotels, charging moderate rates, at Southwest Harbor; of these, the Island House is nearest the steamboat landing. A superb trip from Southwest Harbor is by morning steamer to Bar Harbor, rounding the island, spending the day in runs about Bar Harbor, making the run back as far as Northwest Harbor by wheel, and thence taking the steamer to Southwest. The rider may choose the shore road or the inner route through the notch of Newport Mountain.

The Improved Automatic Cycle Saddle

As we now make it, is an especially good Ladies' Saddle. It is made in two sections, each section working automatically with the movement of the leg, and by means of a screw the automatic principle can be regulated at will. Seat can also be widened to suit rider.

FOR SALE. A '96 Columbia, used but little, 26-inch frame, 17-inch handle bar, rat-trap pedals. This wheel has not a scratch on it. The best offer takes it. Address, Lock Box 39, Hightstown, N. J.

Tenth Day. At 1 P. M. (Bar Harbor) or 1.40 P. M. (Southwest Harbor) take the steamer to connect at Rockland at 6 P. M. with the boats of the Boston and Bangor Steamship Company for Boston, arriving in Boston at 5 A. M. on the eleventh day; or, take the Mt. Desert ferry boat from Bar Harbor, connecting with express trains to Boston. Charge for cycle, Mt. Desert to Boston, $1.00.

The above trip is made up of light runs each day, so as to give the tourist an opportunity to see something of the places of interest in the vicinity of the several stopping places. Stop-overs of a day or more might profitably be made at the Profile House, giving an opportunity to make the ascent of Mt. Lafayette and Cannon Mountain; at Crawford's, making the ascent of Mt. Washington by the bridle path and descending by the railroad, or vice versa; at Jackson, which is one of the best points in the mountains from which to make excursions. Portland and Bangor are each worth a day's exploration; and a week of fair weather is not too much to give to wheeling at Mt. Desert.

Do not attempt the road between North Conway and Portland on a cycle. It is mostly sand until Sebago Lake is reached. But you may leave the train at Sebago station of the P. & O. R. R. and wheel to Portland with comparative comfort, although the ride will hardly compensate for the time expended in making it, unless you intend to make a longer stop in Portland than that indicated above.

This trip may be reversed, but will not be found so easy as if taken in the direction indicated. The grades going north from Ellsworth to Bangor are generally sharply ascending, and there are also about 1400 feet of ascent between Glen station and Crawford's going west up the notch.

Times of boats or trains, as given above, are of course not guaranteed correct.

HENRY CLYDE.

BOSTON, MASS.

GOVERNOR RICH of Michigan is confident that the good roads convention, called by executive proclamation, to be held in Lansing, March 3, will be largely attended. It will be a mass convention, and anybody interested in the movement will be welcomed and invited to participate in the deliberations. In various parts of the State much interest is taken in the subject, notably in the Grand Traverse regions, in Muskegon, Manistee, Oceana and Montcalm counties, and in the Saginaw Valley. The bicyclists are largely back of the mass convention movement, but it is heartily approved as well by many of the progressive farmers, and the farming element, it is expected, will be well represented at the meeting.

Dry hard roads are best, but the sandwich should be otherwise (not the sand which is on the road, but the one on the lunch bar).

Paths of Pleasure

Should They Be Built?

IF indications count for anything, it is safe to predict that a great number of bicycle paths will be constructed during this year. The few completed last year brought such pleasant returns on the money and labor invested in their construction, the supposition naturally follows, that the joy-giving ways will be lengthened in extent and increased in numbers.

At first thought one might be led to think that there could be no objection offered to the building of cycle paths. They seem to be blessings unqualified; joys that do not come entangled in the meshes of regret. And in many cases they will prove to be all this.

There is a danger, however, that the building of cycle paths, if such action should be followed extensively, might, and no doubt would, lessen the wheelmen's interest in the work of securing improved highways. This seems the more certain for the reason that had it not been for the coming of the wheel and its friends the good roads movement might have been delayed indefinitely.

We say it "more in sorrow than in anger," when we insist that the public, which at first, was unkind to the wheel, has softened its heart only to the extent that the people, as individuals, have become patrons of the bicycle, until now the majority, or a very enthusiastic minority are on the side of the tireless steed.

Undoubtedly the good roads reform inaugurated by wheelmen has caused the great non-wheeling public to tolerate the wheel where it otherwise would have opposed it. If the building of side and independent paths were to divorce wheelmen from the general good roads work, the rest of the world would treat wheelmen less kindly in the common thoroughfares.

Wheelmen are not wholly sentimentalists and will be moved by the same incentives that stir the hearts of selfish mankind. Where thoroughfares are crowded or roads are hopelessly poor with no immediate prospect of being improved, wheelmen will very gladly take up any practical plan that promises to give them good and pleasant going. If they show a spirit of selfishness it may be charged to the examples that have been set before them during the years they have been trying to induce farmers and others to assist them in better ing the highways.

The subject is a debatable one. Among the communications at hand the following adequately set forth the advantages of and objections to path building:

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Having occasionally, in reading your valuable magazine, noted that the general impression among wheelmen seems to prevail, that bicycles should not be taxed any more than other vehicles, and I, taking for granted that it might meet with the approval of most wheelmen of the State of New York, I voted against a bill recently introduced in the senate, authorizing the supervisors of Niagara county to appoint sidepath commissioners to tax bicycles, but which, nevertheless, passed that body. Of course it affects only Niagara county, but if this taxing business is once started, it might eventually become a general law throughout the State. From the bill which I enclose, you will note it was introduced by Mr. Ellsworth, who is the leader of the republican majority in the senate of his State. I saw Senator Ellsworth about this bill and he informed me that he introduced the bill because Mr. Charles T. Raymond, president of the Lockport Wheelmen had requested him to do so. For your information I enclose to you herewith Mr. Raymond's letter to Senator Ellsworth, and you may make whatever use of it you deem best for the wheelmen of the State.

I would suggest that this whole matter be made an issue and be published in your valuable magazine, and so get expressions of opinion from many sources which may serve me as a guidance in my legislative capacity.

Would be glad to hear from you on the subject, either direct or through the medium of your paper, what your views are on the subject.

THEO. KOEHLER.

SENATE CHAMBER, ALBANY, Feb. 9, 1896.

The bill referred to is sufficiently explained in the following extracts from Mr. Raymond's letter to Mr. Koehler:

HON. T. E. ELLSWORTH,
SENATE CHAMBER, ALBANY, N. Y.

My Dear Sir,—I enclose herewith a copy of the sidepath bill in regard to which I had some conversation with you.

It received the unanimous approval of the common councils of Lockport and the Falls before it went to the governor. . .

Mr. Pound sent a copy of the bill to every paper in Niagara county. Nearly all printed it in full and all without exception spoke favorably of it. It received the unanimous endorsement of the Lockport wheelmen, the "Pastimes" of this city and the Niagara Falls wheelmen and it also had the support of Chief Consul Potter of the League of American Wheelmen.

It has the following to commend it. It is a home rule bill. It permits the supervisors to tax wheels, but it is not compulsory. If it is not supported by local wheelmen it will never go nto operation.

It uses all the money for the direct benefit of those who pay it, the wheelmen, while incidentally it will be a benefit to every farmer in the county. It gives us the right to use paths after we have built them. At present, highway commissioners and others interfere with us after we have contributed the money out of our own pockets, to build the paths.

Mr. Pound held the bill for several weeks after it was introduced in order to secure an expression of opinion on it. He had letters from all over the State in its favor, but none against it. Mr. Clark received one local letter endorsed by a number of people, many of whom, however, were not wheelmen. The objection urged was, that wheelmen of Niagara county would be taxing themselves to build paths which Erie county wheelmen would use without paying anything for. This objection seemed narrow and selfish. We have believed that if this county went forward and the idea proved successful it would be adopted by other counties, and already the wheelmen of other counties are bringing forward similar bills.

The objection is particularly narrow this year in view of the fact that the wheelmen of Buffalo (Erie county) are raising by subscription among themselves the sum of $10,000 to build a path from Tonawanda to the falls along the river road, all of which will be in Niagara county. . . .

If you desire letters from prominent people endorsing the bill we can secure them in any number, and if you wish the clubs to again act on it we can have them do so. The Tonawanda Wheelmen are in line this year. I met with a number of them one evening recently and it was unanimously approved.

You will doubtless get some letters of disapproval from other sections of the State this year. There are many wheelmen who feel that wheels ought not to be taxed, but that whatever the wheelmen desire in the way of improvements should be paid for by the other property holders of the State; and there is still another body who believe that any bill which favors improved sidepaths will result in weakening the movement for good roads.

In regard to the former, I have to say that this bill affects only Niagara county and if the wheelmen here desire to tax themselves they should be permitted to do so, and certainly if wheelmen want paths they should be willing to put their hands in their pockets to some extent to get them.

As to the second class, we believe that both movements can and should go forward hand in hand. Wheelmen in favor of sidepaths do all they can for the good roads movement and wheelmen exclusively in favor of good roads ought to, at least, hold a negative attitude toward the sidepath movement. . .

Niagara county has been the banner county from the start in sidepath work, and if this bill becomes a law and goes into effect, it will still maintain its prestige.

CHAS. T. RAYMOND.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Jan. 6, 1896.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

To my mind, the growing tendency to construct bicycle paths is a questionable expedient; first, because it diverts attention from the main question, good roads; second, it is a heavy expenditure of funds without a proper right of way; and third, because there is no security against its being appropriated by pedestrians at all times and by horsemen whenever the path is in better condition than the public road.

The improvement of the public road is the one phase on which all classes of society can unite, and while it may come more slowly, it is still best policy to concentrate all our energies on the one thing necessary to substantial benefits to wheelmen and all others.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

In the BULLETIN of Feb. 7, is printed this significant sentence—"Many bicycle paths will be built this year." There are localities where traffic has become so conjested that a separate path for bicycles is a necessity. Where this is not the case and wheelmen exert their efforts in building a path parallel to the road not because it is too crowded but because the road is poor they are making a mistake. The great object of this generation of wheelmen should be to improve the condition of our public roads and by accomplishing this result they will erect lasting monuments testifying to their energy and public spirit.

By building a path the wheelmen obtain cheap means of communication between towns that are connected by poor roads, but by so doing they naturally lose interest in the condition of that portion of the highway, thus delaying the day when means of travel will become convenient, not only for them but for traffic in general. Let us remember that the world's business is not done on bicycles, that there are other and broader interests at stake in this matter of "Good Roads" and that there is another great class (the horsemen) working to accomplish the same end. Let us not divide the forces then, that are working for better highways, by building bicycle paths which are of no use to the public, but rather let us unite with our friends the horsemen in constructing good roads which will be of use to every one.

WALTER STILLMAN.

CLOSTER, N. J.

THE editor of the Los Angeles, Cal., Times, proves himself to be something of a philosopher when he says:

There has been no end of talk about good roads, but very little has thus far been accomplished. We can talk till doomsday about good roads without accomplishing anything unless work succeeds discussion. It is time for work to begin in earnest, if this great and vitally important problem is ever to be solved.

WHEN the farmers take a better and broader view of the road question, they will put better and broader tires on their wagons.

WHEN the going is good it is just as easy to get back.

THE publishers of the Logan, Ohio, Journal-Gazette are the kind of men who are doing splendid work for the cause of good roads. They are offering a cash prize for the best paper on the subject of good roads, and are doing much to interest farmers in the work.

GOOD roads, big loads. Stones and sags, little "jags."

FARMERS should be in favor of good roads. They use them more than anyone else.

D. I. VERSION.

The far-famed hero lost the race,
'Twas a sad event, my dears:
While the band played soft, I saw that the seats
In the grand stand were in tiers.

REPRESENTATIVE Carroll of York County, South Carolina, has introduced a bill in the legislature which he thinks will hereafter result in better roads in this State. The bill is as follows:

"A bill to prescribe the width of wagon tires to be used after March, 1897, provided that this shall not prohibit the continued use of wagons purchased prior to March 1, 1897."

This bill provides, as amended by the committee on roads and bridges, to which it was referred, that all wagons drawn by two mules, horses or oxen, shall have tires not less than three and one half inches in width. All wagons drawn by four or more horses, mules or oxen, shall have tires not less than four inches wide, after March 1, 1897, provided that it does not prohibit as above the continued use of all such conveyance in use prior to March, 1897.

Mr. Carroll hopes that by the passage, that the roads can be kept in good condition, especially during the winter seasons.

A BILL authorizing the employment of prisoners confined in the county jails for purpose of building and repairing highways in the county where confined, or upon the public works or in the institutions of the county or of the towns, villages and cities thereof, was introduced in the legislature during the present week. The bill provides that supervisors in each county shall provide the necessary means to carry the law into effect. The bill meets with the commendation of thousands of tax payers, who think the prisoners should be made to work out their sentences, instead of lying in comfortable idleness in jail.—Elmira (N. Y.) Star.

Should anybody come to you and whisper, "I've a scheme;
For getting cash, hand over fist, an endless, golden stream,"
And add, "I'll let you in on this!" why, then, if you are wise,
You'll spurn the bait and never try to grab the golden prize,
For he's got a string tied to it
Or, of course, he wouldn't do it;
He is very sure to work the razzle-dazzle after while;
So distrust the souls who offer,
'Cause it's you, to fill your coffer,
For the men with gold to give away have all gone out of style.

When anybody smiles on you and warmly shakes your hand
And shows a depth of friendship it is hard to understand,
And doesn't seem to have a joy but he would have you share
Now, such a heart may be "O.K.," but, just the same, beware
For he's got a string tied to it,
Or, perchance, he wouldn't do it;
You have got to pay the price—aught else is a delusive hope;
And so, here's a thought to ponder
As about the world you wander,—
Anything that's worth the having's always anchored to a rope.

GOOD ROADS AND TRADE.

It should not require a very acute mental vision for merchants in country towns, who are almost entirely dependent on the farmers for their trade, to see that it is to their interests to assist in the work of improving the highways leading to their towns.

A spider with no web wherewith to catch flies is no worse off than a town with no roads radiating from it. Every mile of good road adds so much more area to a town's territory of trade. Every steep grade, every muddy place, every sandy stretch is a barrier that the farmers will avoid by going to some trade centre more easily reached.

If the merchants in a slow-going town would organize their idle clerks into a road improvement corps and go out in the highways and byways mending the roads it would attract more customers than to cut off two per cent from their selling price.

SIMPLE ARITHMETIC.

An approximation to accuracy in estimating distance from market can be made by this formula: Multiply length by square of depth (of yielding soil) and add, at discretion, to equal amount lost by coherence of yielding material such as clay. In certain cases this latter element could only be expressed by infinity. Thus a stiff clay yielding to a bicycle one inch would be absolutely impassable, but with a wagon sinking the same distance sufficient power might be applied.

UXBRIDGE, MASS., Feb. 15, 1896.

A MASSACHUSETTS member writes: "Let a town employ a skilled road engineer to lay out and specify what and where repairs should be made, leaving the work to be carried out by the highway superintendent. A few days' labor in this way could give more points to the ordinary road surveyor than could be got into his head by reading a year."

IT's a long lane that has no bottom.

ONE THING LACKING.

THE way of the transgressor is hard, but it isn't smooth. A good road should be both.

The illustration published, herewith, gives one the impression that it is, at least, a "hard" road. But it isn't smooth. A mud-puddle is smooth but it isn't hard.

A good road must be smooth and hard. It should also be somewhere near level.

The picture here given is of a road (?) in the vicinity of Clearfield, Pa. The photograph [it was made from was taken by a League member who is also an enthusiast for better roads, as most League members are.

The photograph is accompanied by the following lines written by the wheelman who sent the picture, and while they are not so very smooth they are not so rough as the road they treat of:

Not traveled for the above reason
At this or any other season.
Our politician supervisors
Don't seem to be the best advisors.

THE surface of a properly shaped road will act as a roof to keep the rain away from its foundation.

BOYS often leave the farm, but if the road is good enough they may return to it again.

ONE OF THE WHYS.

The good roads movement moves slowly in some localities. Men who should be progressive and up to date, cling to old habits and conditions as mud clings to the wheel. The roads were good enough for their fathers and their grandfathers, and so they insist that nothing better is required now.

While the average opponent to better highways is generally supposed to be a resident of Wayback county, Danville, Ill., is afflicted with a school superintendent who is fond of mud, and who ought to be peddling clams. But as a happy and efficient antidote for his influence, Danville possesses a live, progressive newspaper, The Press, which gave the slow-going superintendent the following lesson on brains, and how to use them:

"Superintendent Carter who has always been considered an advanced thinker, and for whom The Press has always entertained the highest esteem, stood before the Farmers' institute and declared the farmers did not want better roads as much as some people supposed. The roads were good enough for them, and if they were at times muddy and wet, the farmer could provide himself with rubber boots and gum coat. That sentiment fostered and encouraged and applied to education would send Superintendent Carter back to the farm, and put a $700 or $900 man in his place. Some people might think the $900 man was good enough for them, and those who did not could send their children to other towns and schools to acquire an education, just as well as the farmer who did not like mud and water could provide himself with gum coat and rubber boots. If the roads are good enough now for the farmer, we can make them more to their liking by ceasing to spend annually thousands of dollars for their improvement. It is folly to spend money upon something that already is to your liking, and in doing which there is danger of dispossessing yourself of a great boon. All things possible to others we should ourselves have and enjoy. If we mistake not, Superintendent Carter has been caught snoring on the progressive highway of thought and action."

AN INCENTIVE FOR GOOD ROADS.

The pleasure drivers of a township in Huntingdon County have made it a rule, for the past two years, to present a gold watch and chain to the road supervisors of the townships, for keeping the roads in good repair. A Mr. Allison, and his successor, Thaddeus S. Jackson, have each been the recipient of gold watches and chains. This is a new thing for public road supervisors, but a very common thing for railroad section supervisors to receive a prize every year for the best sections of road beds in each division of the Pennsylvania Railroad. This action on the part of the officials make it an incentive for good work and good roads beds.— Media (Pa.) Ledger.

THE GOOD ROADS REPORT.

The presentation of the report of the good roads investigating committee before the present legislature is interesting, but we fear not likely to be followed by any great results. We find nothing in the report of an especially striking or original character. The arguments in favor of the suggestions of the committee will be much the same that have been repeated for the past ten years whenever the subject has been discussed. Unfortunately the class that ought to be the most earnest champions of this proposed improvement are opposed to eleven projects yet suggested, and we see no reason to expect at present a change of heart.

The rural communities of the State are almost solidly opposed to good roads upon the ground of expense. The opposition is short sighted for the reason that the present expense will be slight compared to the direct future advantages. But the opposition is undoubtedly honest. It is apparently determined. And we see nothing ahead except a prolonged campaign of education and agitation. So far as can at present be seen the money spent in this investigation might as well have been torn up or thrown into the fire for anything that it will accomplish.—Albany Argus.

MISSOURI DIVISION.

To Missouri Members:

There is now pending in Congress a bill to create a national highway commission. You are urged to agitate in favor of its passage in every possible way, and especially by writing to your congressman and impressing it on his mind that he must vote for this measure. We want better roads, and this bill will greatly help the country to get them

Fraternally,
William M. Butler, Sec.-Treas.

NEBRASKA DIVISION.

The committee on hand book of this division is anxious to hear all members' views and suggestions on same. Let each member have something to say. Also wish to get the main routes and roads all over the State and ask your help.
Would be pleased to see other State guide and road books and will appreciate some very much; every little helps.

We expect such a book will be of great value to all wheelmen, so do not be afraid to help the good cause along. Can give your news, etc., regarding same to chairman of committee.

L. S. Brodstone.
Superior, Neb., Lock Box 116.

MEETING OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The new executive committee, consisting of Sterling Elliott of Boston, Mass., Chas. F. Cossum, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and A. C. Morrison, Milwaukee, Wis., held its first formal meeting in Boston, Feb. 17.
Mr. Cossum was elected secretary. The result was much general discussion which will bear fruit later, and the following definite action was taken:
Secretary Bassett was authorized to at once adopt the library card system of keeping the membership rolls, as it was thought that the organization had outgrown the old methods. The president was authorized to hire and furnish an office from which to carry out the road improvement ideas as advanced by him at Baltimore. The secretary was authorized to employ artists to submit competitive designs for a permanent engraved membership ticket. Said designs to be submitted to the executive committee.
The president was authorized to negotiate for an early meeting with the cycle board of trade with a view to discussing the possible co-operation of the two organizations in the matter of highway improvement.

Signed,
Chas. F. Cossum, Secretary.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to Monday preceding this date, and published in accordance with Article III of the constitution.
Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.
Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published and to report errors and omissions to the secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.
The application list is closed at noon on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

For though I was not quite 'dead broke'
I was pretty badly bent.

A correspondent asks if those good men who would prohibit women from wearing bloomers because the Bible says they shall not dress as men do, allow the feminine members of their households to wear balloon sleeves and theatre hats in defiance to Ezekiel xiii, 18, which says, "Woe to the women that sew pillows to all their arm-holes and make kerchiefs upon the heads."

HE SAYS HE ISN'T DEAD.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I am the fellow who was taken sick in October, and, as the papers stated, I had over-ridden on my bicycle, and that after a forty mile run was immediately taken with a stroke of paralysis and could not recover. This is one of the many articles and mistakes that the newspapers are heir to; for they certainly printed this and knew nothing of the real cause, or the circumstances surrounding my sickness; and then it was all on account of the "infernal wheel" as they expressed it.

To begin with I didn't ride down to Clyde on my wheel. I went down on the Wheeling, and there is where they misconstrued the gossip in the word Wheeling, and that "it caused paralysis." I had been working quite hard for the past five weeks, and the sickness was simply caused by nervous prostration.

You will pardon this epistle, but, as a member of the L. A. W., I write this letter to say that the person "that could not recover" is still worth a hundred dead men.

WILL A. BAKER.

AUBURNDALE, O.

WHEELS FOR SHORT MEN.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I wish to add my experience to that of Mr. Huff, No. 50,581, regarding 26-inch wheels, for the benefit of a recent inquirer, and others who may not be up to standard in height. Like Mr. Huff, I am 5 feet 4 inches, and weigh 120 pounds, and for twelve years I rode various misfits, but did not find my ideal mount until 1893, when I had a 26-inch wheel made to order. Owing to a change in location I did not ride this wheel long, but while I did I rode a perfect wheel, which for ease of propulsion, and general "get there" qualities, I have never seen equalled.

In my opinion, a man of short stature should ride a wheel of this kind, which can be made more rigid, lighter, and carry a higher gear than the regular 28-inch wheel.

Brothers of the "sawed off" brigade, try this and make the long boys ashamed of their size, and also prove true the answer made by Abe Lincoln to the man who asked him how long a man's legs should be.

WOMEN AND CRANKS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

"Beauty on the Wheel," printed in the BULLETIN of Feb. 14, is undoubtedly based upon good principles, but the author has gone to extremes with his illustrations, and a literal following of his figures would result in a most undesirable mount for any lady in most localities other than a dead level country. First he puts his characters upon wheels fitted with $6\frac{3}{4}$ inch cranks. Now I will risk the statement that there is not a ladies' stock wheel in the United States with any such preposterous length of crank, though of course that length may be obtained (from a few makers) on special order. But the dangerous part of his article is the proportion of gear and crank he holds up for admiration. If you figure a 49 gear and $4\frac{1}{4}$ inch crank, and apply the same proportion to his previous illustration, you will find that with the alleged $6\frac{3}{4}$ inch cranks, his heroines might have ridden a gear of about 78 with only equal effort. And if you take the common length for ladies cranks of 6 inch, it will be seen that it would take a gear above 69 to equal his proportion. Now, as I think no one will recommend a 68 to 70 gear for ladies' use, it would be only safe, to avoid misleading your lady readers, to advise them not to follow too literally Mr. Foster, but if they want a 49 gear, use not less than 5 inch cranks, or if they must have cranks of his shortness (I was going to say "length," but the word don't fit), then cut down the gear to about 42, if they live in such a hill country as it is my misfortune to inhabit.

AN OLD THING.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

The suggestion in the February issue of the L. A. W. BULLETIN to organize torch-light or illuminated parades is a practical idea, but not a "novel one," at least it would not be in this locality.

In 1888 the wheelmen of Chambersburg, Pa., organized a Harrison and Morton club, consisting of forty wheelmen, and their illuminated cycles were the chief attraction of every parade they participated in. Their exhibitions in 1892, were received by increased demonstrations of enthusiasm; and in '96 we propose to eclipse our previous efforts.

The New York State Division, L. A. W., in the preparation of their Road Book, had to determine the important question as to the Cyclometer to be used in measuring the distances. As in all similar competitive trials, the selection was a foregone conclusion.

The New York Division, L. A. W., has just officially announced, "The 'Standard' Cyclometers to be used in our Road Book work are the latest improved Cyclometers (new design), manufactured by the New York Standard Watch Co." because they "are believed to be strictly accurate."

The guarded and conservative endorsement of an official circular covers the real enthusiasm which stirs in every wheelman who has seen and used the "Standard," and which will find echo in half a million enthusiasts before the snow flies, next fall.

THE BICYCLE AT FUNERALS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

In answer to D. V. O. in issue of Feb. 14, I notice you say it is not considered good form to ride a bicycle in a funeral procession. Why can't the members of the L. A. W. change the order of things and make it "good form?"

Last fall I was down in southern Kansas on my wheel and passing by a church I noticed that there was a funeral. I dismounted, went inside, and discovered that deceased was an acquaintance of mine, brought there for burial. I desired to attend the funeral, but had some hesitancy in going on my wheel, seeing I had no time to get a horse and carriage and as all others that had rigs were crowded for room, I determined on going to the cemetery on my wheel. As the procession started I "fell in" and before going two blocks another wheelman rode up alongside of me and asked me if I were going to the cemetery (on my wheel). On being informed that such was my intention, he joined me and said he wanted to go but considered it out of place for a wheel, but if I would not back out, he would accompany me. Thus we rode on and at the edge of town were joined by other wheelmen and we rode side by side into the cemetery and saw our friend placed "at rest."

Some little comment was made at the time about bicycles being in the procession, still no one thought it out of place for the silent steed.

I trust that other wheelmen, and wheelwomen too, will use their silent steeds for this same purpose. Then soon the prejudice, if such there be, against it will die out.

I hope when Father Time calls me, that bicycles will take the place of carriages for funerals. In any event, give me the bicycle funeral for myself.

BAD ROADS COST MONEY.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

The most striking and destructive lesson for good roads has come under my notice. During the night of Feb. 15, at Sherman, Texas, the district attorney's residence was discovered in flames. The fire engine answered the alarm, but when within one block of the conflagration owing to the bad and gummy roads the two horses could not move the engine any further; two more horses were secured but met with no more success than the first pair. At last, with six horses attached to the one engine, the burning house was reached, too late, however, to save it. No. 4,925.

"APPLICANTS WHO DO NOT SUBSCRIBE TO THE BULLETIN."

We have been often asked why we print under a separate heading the names of those who do not subscribe for the L. A. W. BULLETIN.

It is done for the benefit of secretary-treasurers and others who are obliged to keep track of members by the sending out of official notices, ballots, etc. It is known that the readers of the L. A. W. BULLETIN may be reached through that medium at no expense to the L. A. W., consequently State officials must know which of their members do not take the L. A. W. BULLETIN, so as to be able to reach them by some other means instead of overlooking them entirely as they would be obliged to if their names were intermingled with those who do subscribe for the L. A. W. BULLETIN.

It has been hinted that this publication of names was done to, in some mysterious fashion, black-list those who omit to take the paper

It may be proper to state in this connection that any pressure that has ever been brought to bear to make members take the L. A. W. BULLETIN was by L. A. W. officials and not by the L. A. W. BULLETIN publisher, who takes great pride in the fact that subscription to the paper is entirely voluntary and may be considered a strictly voluntary paid subscription.

While it is our aim to make the L. A. W. BULLETIN so interesting that nearly all members will take it at the ridiculously low price of 25 cents, we still do not wish any one to become a subscriber who does not do so voluntarily.

Total number printed this week, . . . 42,500
Sent to paid Subscribers, ... 40,517

The annual dues in the League of American Wheelmen are 75 cents. Subscription price of the L. A. W. BULLETIN to L. A. W. members only is 25 cents. To all others, $1.00. Although this information has been printed at the head of the application blank in the L. A. W. BULLETIN every week since it started, we take pleasure in giving it this additional prominence as we do not wish to have any one misunderstand the facts.

It is a very common occurrence for ladies to refuse the L. A. W. BULLETIN because their husband or some other member of the family already takes it.

We very much prefer to have one copy of the L. A. W. BULLETIN read by several members of the family than to have anybody subscribe for papers which they do not want.

The New Woman.

She was "swagger" and bold, she was heartless and cold,
An Amazon, body and mind.
He a white-livered youth, fuzzy-lipped and uncouth,
Of the goody-good, "mamma's boy" kind.
She was laying her plan to annihilate man
And build a new world, but one day
He said, "Will you wed?" and she pillowed her head
On his vest in the old-fashioned way.

LANTERNS IN MASSACHUSETTS.

There is a bill before the legislature of the Bay State which, if passed, would make it necessary for every bicycle rider to carry a lamp immediately after sundown.

Do the wheelmen of Massachusetts want such a law? We assume that they do not.

Massachusetts wheelmen who are anxious to see such a law passed should at once write to their respective representatives at the State house, urging upon them the importance of passing it.

Should Massachusetts wheelmen think otherwise it is equally as desirable that they express their preference in the most emphatic manner possible.

It is claimed that public safety demands the passage of such a law. This impression has gained ground among non-cyclists owing to the disagreeable fact that many irresponsible persons ride bicycles.

It is one of the most important duties of the League of American Weelmen to do all in its power to prevent, if possible, and certainly to punish riders who recklessly interfere with the convenience of pedestrians.

Reckless riding which may result in serious accident should be considered sufficient ground for expulsion if the offender is an L. A. W. member.

It is, however, pleasant to note the fact that but very little of the trouble arising from these causes comes from members of the League.

CLIPPERS NEW CHALLENGE COMPARISON

THE FINEST FINISHED bicycle on the market to-day is made right here in Grand Rapids, Mich. Besides its superior finish, there are other points of superiority, such as the Berkey & Gay, furniture-finished, cloth-lined wood rim; the Clipper hollow fork crown, the lightest, strongest, and most beautiful crown ever shown; the Clipper detachable front and rear sprockets, which are cut and milled to fit the chain on the first milling machine of the kind ever made; barrel hubs of a special design, turned from shafting steel by a very expensive process; the finest tool steel cones and cups turned from edge tool steel, tempered in oil, and ground perfectly true. These are a few of the features found only on our new

It is our duty to use our influence, so far as possible, to prevent irresponsible riders who are outside the League from exhibiting conduct which is prejudicial to the general cause of wheeling.

It is just possible that the passage of this lantern law might help to restrain one man in a thousand. The question is, should the nine hundred and ninety-nine be put to unnecessary inconvenience and expense.

Let the wheelmen of Massachusetts, or any other State where similar laws are contemplated, communicate directly with the law-makers and plainly, sensibly and logically express their wishes.

Attention is called to the fact that the national committees for '96 have been appointed, and that the revised list is published at the head of official department in this issue of the BULLETIN.

THE "SAFETY."

"What's in a name?" It may be a little late to answer this question propounded by a certain Mr. Shakespeare who cut quite a swath in local literary circles in London (Eng.) some years ago. But it is never too late to mend or to marry or to go to one's funeral.

The "safety" is about the safest thing the world has ever seen.

As a means of securing health it is safer than all the squills and pills and patent medicines in the world. It beats the "bloom of youth" and "the elixir of life."

As an exerciser it is safer than dumb bells or health lifts.

As a means of travel it is safer than a kicking, runaway horse, or a railway train.

As a moralist its effect, superinduced by contact with the fields and woods, is safer than many of the faulty creeds preached within the musty walls of sanctuaries. As a pleasure bringer it is safer than a sacred picnic or a ride in the merry-go-round.

The "safety" is perfectly safe for all classes, ages and conditions of men. It is a safe thing for the mind and muscles, for the heart and the head.

If you do not own a bicycle, it may be worth your while to know that the safest thing for you to buy is a "safety."

A GOOD road is necessary for a good ride.

BRAINY MARIA.

BY MOLLIE MURPHY.

Maria wasn't pretty in either form or face,
But there was a heap of pretty girls in this here western place;
And they used to guy Maria, and say she got the shake
From all the fellows in the town, who to her didn't take.

But Maria, she was brainy, and it came into her head,
That chaps that went a calling were biking now instead.
And she likewise then concluded that she could bike it too
And to overtake these fellows was just the thing to do

So now you can imagine how these pretty girls all feel
When Maria with their fellows spins by them on her wheel.
And then to add more timber to the rage with which they burn,
She shouts out "Come and meet us; we'll be back when we return."

NEW YORK CITY.

THE BICYCLE FACE.

The newspapers have had more or less to say concerning "the bicycle face," without clearly defining just what it looks like.

It may be of interest to know what a true "bicycle face" should be.

In the first place it should be a smiling face. If fresh air and gentle exercise count for anything, it should be a picture of health, and if the gracious ministries of field and forest are not in vain it should wear a look of happy content.

A religion, a science, a social or an industrial system that doesn't tend toward making men, women and children happier on earth is a faulty basis on which to build.

If the bicycle cannot make its users happier and better its coming has been in vain. If it does not succeed in making the face of its rider kinder and hence handsomer, it is not the friend men could wish it were.

Every bicycle face should be a happy inducement for others to become patrons of the wheel.

It should be modest, rosy with health, and an exponent of a mind at rest and a heart in the right place.

If you haven't that sort of a face try to cultivate one, and if you can't do that, why wear a heavy veil. No one with a wilfully unhappy face has any right to inflict its presence on the helpless public.

If your heart will not warm and your bicycle face become a pleasant appearing one under the genial influence of the wheel, you may conclude that your case is really serious, and you should consult a physician at once.

Look pleasant, please.

IN an article on Kashmir published in The Nineteenth Century for December, 1895, Sir Lepel Griffin, K. C. S. I., says: "Good roads rank higher than education as a civilizing agency, and the English, as colonizers and rulers of subject races, have no higher title to honor than as road makers, which they share with their prototypes the Romans."

THE CHIEF ROAD-MAKER.

The bicycle, which at first was seen only in the important cities and centres of population, soon wandered beyond the smoothly-paved streets out into the highways and byways of the world.

The wheel, which is the most nearly natural of all artificial means of locomotion, inspires in the breast of its rider a deeper and broader love of nature. It moves too fast and too far to be hedged within the confines of a city's walls. Its mission is to "go," and it has gone to the uttermost ends of the world.

At some time or another the bicycle has threaded its way through every hidden lane and by-path, in every nook and corner of the land, and wherever it has gone it has sown amid the rough clods and muddy wastes of the highways the seeds of discontent with existing conditions. Those who watched it patiently feeling its way, for the first time in their lives realized that the roads were rough. And from that seed of thought has grown the now general movement to mend the public highways.

Road improvement has followed in the track of the bicycle. Wherever it has gone it has served as a forerunner of progress, and to its presence the many and lasting joys of good roads may be very largely ascribed.

The bicycle is the good road maker of the world.

To the Girl in Skirts.

When tired and out of breath, you know,
Because of your skirts, perchance
The knickerbocker girl may show
Some even shorter pants.

FRIENDS OF THE ROAD.

The spirit of unfriendliness that for a time threatened to produce strained relations between the horse and the bicycle, is being softened by the flight of time and a clearer realization of the mutual interests and purposes of the two types of steeds.

The horse no longer shies at the wheel and the wheel no longer presumes to crowd the horse quite off the earth. They have mutually agreed that there will be room and use for both, though the former's sphere promises to continue the shrinking process it has for some time been undergoing. But while the sphere of the horse may grow smaller, it will surely grow smoother and better, and the horse himself will improve to the extent that his surroundings are improved.

Bicycles will bring good roads. Good roads will bring good horses.

Built on a Gold Basis.

One of the happy evidences of the fulfilment of this prophecy is found in the character of the editorial utterances of papers devoted to the horse and carriage trades interests. The following from The Hub News, New York, very neatly presents the case:

The efforts that are being made for the improvement of the roads deserve the hearty support of every carriage man. There is nothing that will increase the sale of carriages more than good roads, and nothing that retards the advancement of carriage business more than poor roads. It has become the fashion among some carriage men to look upon the bicycle rider as an enemy, in spite of the fact that the average wheelman never would have bought a carriage and seldom would have used one. But the great army of bicycle riders that has grown up in the past two or three years, and whose numbers will be vastly augmented in the year to come, has brought about a powerful sentiment in favor of good roads among a class of men who never gave the matter a moment's consideration before they began to ride the wheel. All this cannot fail to benefit the carriage trade. Where the roads are good, the number of pleasure drivers will greatly increase. This is clearly demonstrated by the experience in northern New Jersey, where the roads are probably the finest in the country. So it almost goes without saying that it is to the interest of the carriage man to second heartily the efforts that the League of American Wheelmen are making for better roads, since by helping others he will be casting bread upon waters for which he will not have to wait many days before getting it back again.

It is gratifying to think that through the future years there is to be no enmity between the horse and the wheel.

The equine and the bicycle shall trot out together and a little child shall ride them.

Let's Be Thankful.

Oh, girl in knickerbockers,
Who shrinks from public view,
It is lucky, quite, that your garments tight,
Aren't given to shrinking, too.

AN UP-TO-DATE MAYOR.

It's a cold day in Canada when Mr. Fleming, the newly-elected mayor of Toronto, doesn't receive some good word from wheelmen, and though all the rest of the world should give him the "marble heart" he can rest assured the bicyclists will ever extend to him the "glad hand." And why shouldn't they? In his recent inaugural address he said:

In the construction of streets hereafter the council should pay special attention to the needs of those who ride bicycles. A part of each street should be paved with the most suitable material for them. In addition to this, strips on a large number of streets in different parts of the city where asphalt or brick does not now exist should be put in first-class shape for bicycle riders. We must remember the fact that the traffic upon the streets is changing rapidly, both because of the electric service and because of the introduction of bicycles, and parts of the streets hereafter should be graded and paved with special reference to the comfort of those using wheels.

The desire to have Canada annexed to this land of stars and stripes is already very general, so it is said, and every such mayor as this will serve as annex-tra inducement on the part of wheelmen, to bring about that result.

MY CASTLE OF GOLD.

NIXON WATERMAN.

If the fairies should build me a castle of gold
And wreath it with flower and vine,
And set it with jewels of value untold,
And fill it with music and wine,
'T would still be a sorrowful prison of gloom;
My spirit would long to be free,
And Love would lie weeping his grief in the tomb,
Were you ne'er to share it with me.

Should the Fates, in the sorriest hut, say I must Forever abide, to their law
I would happily bow; I would live on a crust,
I would lie on a pallet of straw,
I would crown me with thorns, I would fervently pray
My joy-time might never be o'er
If you, oh, my love! could pass by every day
And, smiling, look in at the door.

For you are my marvelous castle of gold,
And you are my flower and vine;
And you are my jewels of value untold,
And you are my music and wine.
Alone, and a famine stalks close at my side,
The joys of the living have ceased;
With you, and the world is as fair as a bride,
And filled with a fount and a feast.

THE reason why the average woman appears as old at thirty as the average man does at forty is because the average woman at thirty is usually about forty.

BE good to those about you. Love should begin at home.

BETTER, THANKS.

The Editor of Fowler Truth, in reply to the thousands of kind inquiries as to his condition, after the horrible wreck at Georgetown, Colorado, Sunday, February 9th, desires to assure his apparently many friends that he is rapidly recovering his old time form, and expects shortly to be in the game once more.

That old saying, "There is no loss without some gain," seems to have applied happily to the present accident, for, while we find ourselves a loser to the extent of about two quarts of royal American blood, and have been compelled to undergo a complete treatment of surgical manipulation, yet the Company which we represent, and the wheel which that company makes — The Fowler — has easily received what might be estimated at $10,000 worth of free advertising.

Blood and physical discomfort would have to be quoted pretty high to offset that ten thousand and leave a balance on the wrong side of the ledger.

But all joking aside, it was a narrow call, and the next time we want $10,000 worth of advertising, we are under the impression that we would prefer paying for it in the recognized hard cash of the realm.

TEMPORARILY LOST SIGHT OF.

In view of the fact that the editorial department of this paper has spent the greater part of the past ten days in a darkened room, where whispered conversations were the only kind held, we have somewhat lost sight of the condition of the bicycle market at the present time. We understand, however, that the Fowler "Sex" and the complete line of '96 models which were exhibited at the Colorado Springs Cycle show, easily held their customary position at the head of the column, and when it was all over, we have been told, that not one man, woman or child out of the 20,000 inhabitants of that beautiful city was free from the latest malady, known throughout cycledom as "Fowler Fever," a complication of Don't-tell-me-there-is-any-other-bicycle-in-the-world-excepting-the-Fowler peritonitis and Sorry-I-was-ever-buncoed-into-buying-any-other-wheel diphtheria.

NOTED PEOPLE AND "FOWLERS."

It has been published in about all of the daily papers in this country that Edouard and Jean de Reszke have chosen Fowler bicycles for their 1896 mounts. This is true, as is also the fact that Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has likewise decided that Fowlers are the most graceful, symmetrical and altogether exquisite bicycles made in America.

There are numerous other persons of more or less renown and varied occupations, who have ordered Fowler bicycles for this year, among whom might be named: Camille d'Arville, John L. Sullivan, Lottie Gilson, Steve Brodie and numerous others.

"CYCLING WEST" IS ALL RIGHT.

We believe in giving credit where credit is due, and everlastingly roasting the unworthy. We, therefore, with feelings of commingled pride and satisfaction desire to announce broadcast throughout the world that we consider the Cycling West, that brightest of cycling publications, an advertising medium of sterling worth. We might compare it, while we are in this gold-mining country, to a stock purchased at 1 cent and worth $1000. It has the western section of the United States practically to itself, and it is conceded by every cyclist and dealer from Mississippi west as being their encyclopedia and guide. Long live the Cycling West! They can put us down for a life-long contract — we know when we have struck a good thing.

HURROO FOR ELLIOTT AND LOUISVILLE.

How could it lose — that Elliott-Louisville combination. We have advocated in FOWLER TRUTH the election to the presidency of Sterling Elliott, and the selection of Louisville as the place to hold the national meet for '96, ever since either one was spoken of, and now we want to congratulate the magnificent work of the Louisville boomers and the splendid common sense that elected Elliott to the highest position that the League has to offer. We will shake hands with Mr. Elliott when we get the chance. And so far as Louisville is concerned, if we are not there with bells when the meet is held next summer, it will be because there are no bells procurable in this country. Bells or no bells, however, we will be there — not as guests, but as active Kentuckians ourselves, with a glad hand to every visitor to the grandest State in the entire Union.

She never grows old, no, it isn't the mode,
She has pinned her faith to the "fresh air" code,
And joined the gay throng out on the road.

Her grandma wore cute, little lacy caps,
Her grandma took daily, her little naps,
But She takes the air in modern wraps.

Her grandma grew aged at forty or so;
But stemming the tide of the long ago,
Her locks show but faintest trace of snow.

Now She, when at sixty, her countenance bright,
Her cheeks smooth and ruddy, her step soft and light,
A woman of thirty in vigor and might.

When heavy her burdens and trials may feel,
And she, for herself, some sweet solace would steal,
She instinctively turns to her tried friend, The Wheel.

When once in its saddle, out 'neath the blue sky,
Like a bird on its pinions, she seemeth to fly.
Her burdens are lifted, her spirits soar high.

She dwells not on mem'ries of joys that are flown,
How fleeting they were to her has been shown —
Now, dependent on none, she goes forth alone.

This, then, is the "up-to-date," "New Woman's" code,
This Nineteenth Century's practical mode
Of defying the years by "the fresh air code."

THAT bicycling is in higher favor among women this season than ever before, is evidenced by the fact that all the ladies are endeavoring to get possession of a '96 wheel as early as possible, and one need only to go out upon the boulevard or through parks and speedways, cold as it is, to note how high. The good roads movement has done more than anything else to bring about this happy era. The woman a-wheel has become a more common sight than the woman in her carriage or a-horseback. We see her under many and varied circumstances, wending her way silently, and in many and varied directions. The woman out for an airing upon her bicycle, as but recently she appeared in her carriage; the Sister of Mercy in her vocation of ministering angel, finding her way through the by-ways and highways of town and city; the nurse relieved from her hospital duties, in silence and thankfulness wending her way around the hill or through the park, drawing in long, full breaths of the pure, fresh air; the artist whose pictures catch new life and beauty from her runs through nature in her fairest garb; the mother or teacher, with lagging step, strained nerves, and overworked brain, rides upon her flying steed joyously, away from her grinding cares and menacing ills. The bicycle helps women into a purer and wider existence, by meeting all the conditions. It helps them into closer and better fellowships with men, for the more interests men and women have in common, the better will it be for both.

Many thousands of dollars have been spent upon the improvement of roads, but the work has only begun. Pathways, subways and rights-of-way, which only a few years ago were denied them, are now wide open to them.

The League of American wheelmen is constantly sending out calls to the women riders, to help the good work along, and they can do much and in many directions, if they will but see the necessity of the movement. We are apt, in our present condition of rights and privileges, to forget the early struggles of the few who made it possible for both men and women to ride bicycles. Good roads are a necessity to comfortable wheeling. On horseback the discomfort falls upon the horse, in wheeling it falls upon the rider.

It is said that the reason why French women are superior to American women in style of dress, although possessing much less personal charm of face, form, and individuality, is because every French woman studies herself, individually, while American women follow blindly the prevailing fashion, with but little exercise of personal taste. Perhaps this is the reason why so many so-called French costumes made hundreds of our American girls look like frights, or scarecrows, when wheeling, and is perhaps the reason why women are now striving after the artistic in mount, adjustment, pose, dress and repose. Someone said recently, that what was most needed by the woman a-wheel, was repose, which she could never attain so long as she was obliged to propel her machine by pedaling. We don'tagree with the gentleman on this point. A woman mounted upon a properly adjusted wheel, properly gowned,can be as reposeful and harmonious an example of poetry in motion as any man or woman need care to look upon.

Clever physicians are encouraging wheeling among women, claiming that it is more beneficial than any other form of violent exercise. The girl who is narrow chested, the woman who is too lazy to walk, and the athletic young woman who has tired herself out in the gymnasium, will find in the bicycle a pleasant means of recuperation. Many even say that it will cure one of sciatica.

The '96 sweaters are in many and beautiful shades and designs, and the athletic girl is losing no opportunity of showing herself in one of them in the gymnasium, on the wheel, and when off for a long tramp afoot, and it is whispered that these charming garments have even insinuated themselves into the study and studio.

This is pleasant news, for last season they were anything but pretty or numerous, and many of the girls and women were obliged to have recourse to that worn by husband or brother, when they needed special protection against cold or overheating, when off for a long run. They are in great variety of texture and weight, and while at first they were manufactured with small, tight sleeves, after the style of the famous "Jersey," which was in vogue years ago, the modern woman in her desire for comfort and ease, could not be beguiled into having her arms strained and almost paralyzed by being handicapped by tight sleeves, hence those shown this season are made with goodly-sized and comfortable sleeves.

The finest qualities come in dark shades, and so woven as to give the effect of stripes. They are finished at the neck with satin bands. Also, they are made loose and easy over the hips, snug at the waist, and narrower at the shoulders than those of the men. Yachting sweaters are very pretty, and combine the nautical colors, blue and white. They range in price from $2 to $7; for those made of wool, and from $8 to $25; for those made of silk. Wool sweaters are the best under all circumstances, as they absorb the moisture of the body, and prevent the wearer from taking cold.

Dr. John P. Burke, known to the press and cycling world as "Good Roads John," who is not only one of Gotham's leading dentists, but one of its leading wheelmen, writes: "Allow me to congratulate you upon your appointment to the Bulletin. I know you to be a good fighter, and that is enough for anyone who has Irish blood in in them. Don't be too hard on us men. We are not all alike, and so far I find that the bloomers' worst enemy is woman, not man. There is not one wheelman that I know who is against them. (Dr. Burke used to be). Don't you think leggins for long distance riding, absurd? They are hot, heavy and binding to the muscles of the leg, where free play is necessary."

Each rider must be the judge of what is best and most comfortable in the way of clothing for all occasions, and many of our wheelwomen discard leggins, and wear silk or cotton stockings during the hot months. Here is a chance for the wheelwomen to give an opinion. Let us hear from you.

The writer begs to assure the readers of the Bulletin that they need not have the slightest doubt as to the authenticity of that most skilfully turned and cleverly told tale of Mr. Waterman's, about "Jed Spilkin's Tandem," and to vouch for the fact that there is in New York a parrot that has been taught to ride a bicycle. If a parrot with but two short, clumsy legs can do it, why not a trained racer, aided by a vivid imagination and skilful pen? Ida Trafford Bell.

That Baby of Ours

Shall He Ride the Wheel?

Although in a former article on this subject, we stated that having presented therewith arguments for and against carrying babies on the bicycle, the youthful American would thereafter have to look out for himself, the letters continue to come. The most of them are written by those strongly in favor of giving the baby a bicycle outing, some are conservatively so and some oppose it.

It is very probable there is a safe middle ground of argument. When so many careful, happy fathers have given joy to their babies and themselves on the wheel, it would be unreasonable to say such a course is all wrong. On the other hand, a "scorcher," with a helpless babe in his care, or rather, his lack of care, is a painful sight. So is any one so riding in a crowded, dangerous place. It is easy to see how opinions may differ and every appellation from "saint" to "brute" be applied to such a father.

The following communications must close the discussion for the present, unless some new and striking feature enters into the question:—

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

The old Puritanical notion of the freedom of each to do as he pleases so long, and only so long, as he pleases to do our way dies hard in this country. I am moved to make this sage observation anent a sister's article on "Those Cruel Fathers," in the BULLETIN of a recent date.

Happily I don't live in San Francisco, but if I had that misfortune, I would try the cheerful idiot who tries to compel by law all fathers to take his ignorant view of the duties of fathers to their children, a hack just for luck. I have ridden the bicycle for the past seventeen years and I believe I know more about it and its safety than some old mossback that trusts to his prejudices rather than his knowledge, and I have no hesitation in stating that, as a result of my personal experience, observation and study, it is much safer than a horse and buggy.

There is no fool horse to get scared at anything or nothing, and run away and tip you and your baby out, and if you do fall the results are much less likely to prove serious than if an accident occurs while driving.

In the last four years, I have carried my baby many hundreds of miles on my bicycle without accident or incident and with far less apprehension for his or my own safety than I have felt in traveling a much less number of miles with him in a buggy. Last summer I toted him over 750 miles in his beauty baby seat with great pleasure and physical and mental benefit to him and myself, and I would just like to see one of those dyspeptic "anti-everythings," immortalized by the autocrat of the breakfast table of blessed memory, try to cheat me out of my little lad's company when I take my daily spin. "Civis Americanus sum!" and as such I have some rights that even presidents of "societies for minding other people's business" are bound to respect, and chief among them is the right to share the pleasures and benefits of my bicycle with my children, and if any meddlesome old woman of either sex attempts to interfere with the free exercise of this right, there is going to be a row, sure. Yours for business,

GEO. E. BLACKHAM, M.D., No. 135.

DUNKIRK, N. Y.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I have been much interested in the articles which have appeared in the BULLETIN on the subject of carrying children on the handlebars of bicycles, as I have probably had as much practical experience in carrying children upon a bicycle as any person in the country.

I have a boy seven years old whom I have carried on my wheel thousands of miles, commencing when he was nine months old and continuing until last summer, when I built him a wheel. During the last two seasons I have also carried another child now past two years old, commencing when he was but five months old, making two children on the one wheel.

If the lady who writes in the BULLETIN of Jan. 24th directs her attack wholly upon those who carry children in a child's seat strapped to the handle bars, I must partially agree with her, as I found from experience that such a carrier is not at all safe in the hands of any but an experienced and extremely careful rider as such a weight upon the handle bars renders steering quite difficult, especially in riding side paths and bad places in country roads.

But in my very extended experience I have never known of any harm to the children from their very extensive riding with me upon the wheel, and I know it has done them and their mother untold good. The little one after riding forty-two miles with me one day last summer begged for "more ride a bicycle, papa, more ride a bicycle," when I lifted him from the seat.

I consider my boys just as safe when on my wheel with me as are other people's children when riding in carriages with them and think that anyone who has mastered a wheel can safely carry a child in a child's seat which fastens to seat post or frame of bicycle, but would advise any but the most careful and experienced to beware of children's seats fastened to handlebars, they are difficult to manage and consequently dangerous.

Writing from thorough knowledge of the subject I must insist that children can be safely carried upon bicycles to the mutual benefit and pleasure of both children and parents, and that any law which prevents such carrying of children would be as unjust as would be a law preventing the carrying of them in carriages, for who has not personal knowledge of injuries to children from carrying them in carriages.

Yours for the health of the little ones.

Bicycle Dress in Europe

It may be of passing interest for our "Coming Woman" to know how our European cousins clothe themselves and what is considered an ideal costume in lands beyond the sea.

In the first place let us consider the dress of our nearest neighbors, our English cousins. It would be most difficult to decide on a costume that might properly be called the "accepted," for they have a most unconventional manner of touching both extremes. In fact, in Hyde Park, of an afternoon, one sees everything from a flashy up-to-date, to the most reserved and modest of habits. Concerning the former class we shall say more later on. As to the latter many of them could scarcely be called a "costume" as we use the word, consisting as they do simply of a plain skirt made larger and in pleats, and perhaps three inches short of the ordinary skirt.

Considering up-to-date costumes, of which I have seen many, all differ materially, but in each, one object is uppermost, namely, perfect freedom of the limbs, with perhaps just a touch of pride in a well-formed leg. This latter point is more apparent in French and Belgium centres.

That the bicycle costume has come to stay and is, so to speak, a stepping stone in the great anti-slavery-dress question of our sisters, could not be more aptly illustrated than by an article which recently appeared in "Les Temps" of Paris, which was to the effect that "No one unless a recognized cyclist should appear in other than a 'rational costume,'" applying of course to women. How discriminate? This agitation suggested a law. It was not feasible, of course. As an instance we will suppose the law has been enacted and a lady leaves her cycle for a few moments. A gendarme asks her, "Have you a bicycle?" "Yes." "Where is it then?" he asks. "Oh, I can show you, sir." He accompanies her, and lo and behold, her emancipated mother-in-law is off with it for a spin; she pleads, she scolds, she cries. The officer is obdurate and she is marched before the prefect. Of course she can prove her statements later on when she possesses her wheel once more, but think of the mortification, the disgrace! And this is a product of gay Paris. As every bicycle has to be registered in Paris it is somewhat perplexing to try to harmonize the fact that there is about one half a bicycle for each lady wearing a costume for the same.

Costumes of Paris vary. One consisting of a suit of full black tights was seen going across the Place Vendome, and far too speedily to please the assembled bystanders.

Again, at Cologne, we saw a party, evidently English, consisting of two ladies and eight gentlemen. One lady was in black, relieved by a white tie and a narrow braid of white around the bottoms of her bloomers, while the other was clothed in a white sweater under a light box coat, and bloomers terminating slightly above the knee, then black stockings as far as the calf and capped with a red band with small dots and wide enough to reach the bottom of her bloomers. And what a furor they did create among the quiet phlegmatic Germans.

A figure that was the centre of attraction in Le Gene du Midi in Brussells recently was clothed in close-fitting silk knickers drawn tightly about the waist, where it enclosed a dainty shirt of black material relieved with a white tie and jaunty straw hat. Of course she wore black silk stockings, for that is the recognized thing in Brussells. She rode a gent's wheel.

As a summary of this much-mixed question of dress is quite out of the question, and as each lady should clothe herself as best suits her requirements, to offer advice would be presumptuous. Much observation at home and abroad leads us to say that, above all things a woman's dress should be moderate. But "wear what you like," is the advice of one who advocates the cause.

THE COMFORT BICYCLE GARTER.

PAT'D. SEPT. 17TH 1895 No. 546,420

The Comfort Garter is made in all grades and finished in fabrics, such as cloth, velvet, etc. It is provided on its inner surface with a rubber lining, having soft rubber teeth or projections, which enter into and engage the meshes of the stocking or other article to be held. The tension in the garter is no greater than is required to hold the garter in place, and consequently the pressure exerted is not sufficient to produce any discomfort or inconvenience, therefore the garter does not interfere with the circulation of the blood, while at the same time it cannot slip or budge.

the "Waverley" is elaborately shown, many beautitul half tones supplementing the descriptive matter. The cover pages are very dainty.

Ajax.

An elaborate sixty-four page catalogue issued by Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., Chicago, is devoted to describing the good points of the "Ajax" wheel in particular, and to numerous other wheels and bicycle sundries in general. The cover is a splendid example of the printer's and embosser's art and the entire catalogue, in two colors, is attractive.

"Lewis-Booth."

The L. & B. Cycle Manufacturing Co., Cleveland, O., has issued a neat catalogue one page of which is devoted to the interests of the L. A. W. The cover page in black, red and blue is decidedly catchy.

Hardy.

The Hardy Cycle Co., New York, issue a modest little catalogue that is worth the having for the two very pleasing half tones, which it contains of members of the gentler sex. The "Hardy" wheel is fully described in its pages.

Dunlop Tires.

The American Dunlop Tire Co., New York, Chicago and Toronto, issue a concise little booklet, with illustrations relating to the "Dunlop" tires. It leaves little unsaid on the widely discussed subject of tires.

Eagle Locks.

The Eagle Lock Co., Terryville, Conn., issue a brief catalogue of bicycle locks which is of interest to bicycle riders.

"Peerless" and "Triumph."

"The Story of the Bicycle," is told in a most entertaining manner in the beautiful thirty-two page book issued by the Peerless Manufacturing Co., Cleveland, O. The "story" begins with the taking of the ore from the mine and following it till it is in the finished wheel, giving in detail every process in the manufacture. Numerous half tones embellish the pages, many of which are devoted to describing the "Peerless" and "Triumph" wheels.

Avery.

The Kansas City Avery Planter Co., Kansas City, Mo., has issued a neat, comprehensive catalogue describing the "Avery" and other bicycles it manufactures, and bicycle accessories. Among the bits of verse which embellish the pages is this:

The dust in the road is like velvet,
And the rag-weed and fennel and grass,
Is as sweet as the scent of the lilies,
In the Eden of old, as we pass.

The cool fragrance of the woods is made enjoyable because of the contrast between its beautiful archways and the sunny stretches beyond. But were all the roads through woodlands, the surroundings would become monotonous. but not so painfully so as where the way is wholly in the glare of the sun.

The ideal road is that one whereon sun and shadow happily blend and intermingle. Such highways can be provided if sufficient attention is given to the planting and care of trees. Wheelmen should use their influence to encourage tree planting.

A DUTY THAT NEW YORK STATE WHEELMEN OWE THEIR DIVISION.

BY A NEW YORK MEMBER.

It is a common cry among the New York wheelmen that they have the worst roads in the country right in their own State. To many of them credit must be given for the effort that has been made to have the roads improved, but to the majority a seeming lack of willingness to aid the few that have kept up the agitation has been evident. If we will have better roads, with the increased amount of pleasure in riding a wheel or driving a horse, concerted action must be taken.

To get these improved roads appears now to be within our grasp if we will but make the demand strong enough. An element that has opposed the demand in former years, is awakening to the fact that our arguments have not been erroneous. This element is the farming faction; and they are each day becoming more and more convinced that to make their calling profitable they must have better roads. I quote from the set of resolutions offered at the Farmers' Congress held in Albany last week the following:

"Resolved, That the New York State Farmers' Congress favors any system of economical road improvement, and will approve any practical law that will improve the highways of the State; but is opposed to heavy and unnecessary taxation for the construction of a few main roads at fabulous cost."

What the agricultural sections have been asking for, is a law by which the State will pay a portion of the expense of building the main roads, making them with a hard surface so that they can be used at any time or season. The demand has been noticed by Gov. Morton in his message of 1895 in which he recommends a committee be appointed to ascertain the style of roads wanted and the laws required to build them. Such a committee was appointed by the assembly of last year, with the Hon. Richard Higbie as chairman. They did their work carefully, as will be seen by their report, just published; and the six bills that they have introduced. To give these bills in full would be asking too much space in this paper, but a description of them in brief with their numbers will be of interest, and any one that wishes to learn more about them can procure them from the authorities. The numbers given are the assembly numbers.

No. 185 provides for a State superintendent of highways with authority over the entire road work of the State, but more particularly in regard to the proposed roads that are to be built under State aid. His office will be a veritable bureau of road information.

No. 168 provides for the construction of main public highways by State aid. It affords this aid upon three alternative methods, namely, on the petition of one-half of the property owners of the benefited district, or upon a resolution passed at any town meeting, or upon a resolution passed by a board of supervisors. In either case the State will pay one-third of the cost, and the county one-third, the other third is provided for by the bill upon the basis of who makes the petition. Persons that have made the subject of road laws a subject say that this is one of the wisest bills ever presented, and is thoroughly safe guarded; and should have the support of all interested in the subject of road building.

No. 187 provides for the substitution of the money system of taxation throughout the State, and abolishes the system of paying the road tax in labor. There should be no objection to this bill for we all know the waste of time and money with the poor results obtained by the existing plan of working out the road time.

No. 186 provides that as the terms of the road commissioners shall expire, no successors shall be elected until the last one has served his term, and after that only one commissioner shall be elected in a town. It provides as well that his work shall be done under the direction and control of the town board. The bill has many excellent features, and with the cash system will be advantageous to the towns.

No. 184 provides for the erection and operation of rock crushing plants at the State prisons and penitentiaries of the State, and for the disposal of the crushed stone for highway purposes. In view of the fact that prisoners will not be allowed to work at the trades they have been working at formerly, after the first of January, 1897, this bill should meet with approval.

No. 183 provides for the universal use of wide tires after 1900, with a bounty to those that will use them previous to that date. The great objection to the use of wide tires among the farmers has been that unless the use of wide tires became general and compulsory, the party using them on a soft road would be doing more work with his team than his fellow with the narrow tire. The general use of the wide tires is believed to be to the advantage of all.

I have given the intent of the bills above as briefly as I could, and hope that every member

THE REAL THING.

"They ain't no such thing as a real Christian," said the man with the patched jeans.

"Don't you think they ain't." said the man with the soft hat turned up behind. "I knowed one myself."

"Huh! Whatever did he do? Never miss going to meeting?"

"Oh, I ain't layin' so much on that as on when it come time to work the roads he went out and did a real honest day's work, jist as if he was workin' his own farm."—Indianapolis Journal.

EXPENSIVE DEFECTIVE HIGHWAY.

Mrs. E. Olmstead, of Matteson, Waupaca county, is suing the town of Maine, Outagamie county, for damages on account of injuries sustained by plaintiff last October. Mrs. Olmstead was severely hurt by being thrown from a wagon while riding over a defective highway. The town board offered $1,200 in settlement, but this was not accepted.—Appleton (Wis.) Crescent.

THE members of the Virginia Good Roads Association have been inspecting New Jersey's fine roads, and they say that Virginia has the material right at hand to make her highways just as good, and the work of doing so is to be pushed along.

SUBSTANTIAL recognition of the rights and pleasures of the 50,000 bicyclists of New York and Brooklyn by members of the East river bridge commission, who are arranging plans to have the bridge contain roadways for the exclusive use of wheelmen. At each tower the bicycle paths, it is contemplated, will be so widened as to form a sort of aerial rendezvous or resting place for the cyclists. Here they will be able to stop on their way from New York to the charming roads of Long Island and view the picturesque East river. It is estimated that by the time the bridge is completed the cities it is to connect will have 200,000 cyclists.

ANNUAL MEETING OF NATIONAL ASSEMBLY.

BALTIMORE, FEB. 10, 11, 12 AND 13, 1896.

The annual meeting of the national assembly, L. A. W. was held in Baltimore, Md., beginning Feb. 10.

The first day was distinctly a good-roads day and the sessions of the assembly were held in Y. M. C. A. hall.

Called to order at 11.15 A.M. Seventy members responded at roll call.

President Willison, in calling the meeting to order, said:

"This is the first good-roads day ever given by the League, and it will not be the last. The amendment made by Mr. Potter, of New York, providing that one day annually should be set aside for the discussion of good roads, was one of the best amendments ever offered in the League, and we did well to pass it. The delegates to the assembly should feel bound to attend this good roads convention and to give it their entire attention. As the highway improvement committee, and not the League proper, is in charge of this affair, I shall take great pleasure in resigning my chair to its efficient chairman, Mr. Isaac B. Potter, of New York."

Mr. Potter made a brief address and said of the meeting:

"The attendance is not as great as it should be, but from my own experience I know that it is twice as great as was the attendance at the good roads congress, called by the United States government, and which was more widely advertised than was this convention. The delegates here, however, represent 40,000 wheelmen, and what transpires here will be more far-reaching in its effects than was the action of the good roads congress referred to. Many delegates have not been able to attend for various reasons, and many prominent people to whom we sent invitations have also been unable to get here."

He read letters of regret which also commended the cause, from Mayor Jewett, of Buffalo; Mayor Taggart, of Indianapolis; Mayor Swift of Chicago; Gov. Matthews of Minnesota; Gov. Morton of New York and Ex-President James R. Dunn.

Mr. Potter then introduced Mayor William M. Kennedy, of Allegheny City, Pa., one of the most prominent advocates of good roads in the country, during whose administration Allegheny City has changed from an ill-paved, ill-kempt city, to one of the finest in the country. Mayor Kennedy spoke of what had been done in the way of improved streets and roads in and around Allegheny City, and of the many direct and indirect benefits.

Following Mayor Kennedy, Henry W. Williams, chairman of the legislative committee of the Maryland good roads League, was introduced. Mr. Williams gave a history of the birth of the good roads League of Maryland, and the appointment of a legislative committee, of which he was made chairman.

D. P. Miller, chairman of the board of commissioners of Allegany county, delivered a short address, telling of the work accomplished by his confreres and himself in Western Maryland.

Both President Willison and Mr. Sterling Elliott delivered brief addresses, and put themselves firmly on the good roads plank.

The principal speaker at the afternoon session was Gen. Roy Stone, of the United States Bureau of Road Inquiry, who said in part:

"The wheelmen should help to encourage the farmers who are in hard luck by joining them in securing good roads. Make the farmers see that good roads will make the city people want to live in the country and will make them live there.

"The government can and will do much," he said, "when we have a national government highway commission. That commission can, by visits to different parts of States, gain a great influence in the road-building State and aid any local effort in doing good work. No State is too poor to help localities that will show an effort to aid themselves.

"The wheelmen can co-operate with the government by having convicts work in quarries to crush the stone." The other speakers were: E. G. Harrison, secretary of the New Jersey road commission; George A. Perkins, chairman of the Massachusetts State highway commission; G. Richmond Parsons of Providence, R. I., chairman of the Rhode Island division committee on highways; Percy H. Richardson of Maine; A. Cressy Morrison, first vice-president of the L. A. W., and I. B. Potter, who illustrated his lecture by stereopticon views of good foreign and bad domestic roads.

SECOND DAY, FEB. 11.

The business meeting was called to order at 11 o'clock by President Willison.

The following members responded to roll call: Colorado, George L. McCarthy; Connecticut, Philip W. Westlake, D. J. Post; Delaware, S. Wallis Merrihew; District of Columbia, W. T. Robertson; Illinois, George D. Locke, John L. Misner, Fred Gerlach, F. R. Gadd; Iowa, E. Kostomlatsky; Kansas, W. C. F. Reichenbach; Kentucky, John W. Clendening, Ed. H. Croninger, Marmaduke B. Bowden; Maine, Percy H. Richardson; Maryland, Conway W. Sams, R. H. Carr, Jr., Albert Mott; Massachusetts, Sterling Elliott, Alonzo D. Peck, D. E. Miller, J. S. Dean, A. K. Peck, W. C. Dillingham, F. S. McCausland, N. W. Starbird, Louis H. Adams, F. I. Gorton, S. T. Williams, C. W. Fourdrinier, C. G. Percival, H. W. Robinson; Michigan, Frank H. Escott, E. N. Hines; Missouri, D. W. Robert, E. N. Sanders; Nebraska, A. R. Edmiston; New Hampshire, G. H. Phinney; New Jersey, Robert Gentle, J. C. Tattersall, C. Frank Kircker, James G. Lee, R. R. Chiswell, Dr. A. J. Wright, T. F. On motion of Mr. Mott, the balance remaining in the hands of the racing board, after the payment of expenses, was voted to the chairman ($667.38).

The report of the transportation committee was read by the secretary. Accepted.

Mr. Elliott presented a financial statement of the Good Roads magazine, and turned over a balance on hand of $66.01.

Adjourned at one o'clock, to meet at 2.30 P.M.

The afternoon session was called to order by Vice-President Perkins, at 2.40 P.M.

Mr. Dean moved to proceed to the election of officers.

Mr. Potter moved a recess of five minutes. Recess taken.

Called to order at 2.47.

Mr. Willison moved to take up deferred business.

Mr. Potter moved to amend by postponing deferred business to a later hour. Carried by a vote of 49 to 48.

Mr. Willison regretted the action taken, as he had an important statement to make which had a bearing on the election of officers.

Mr. Cossum hoped that Mr. Willison would have every opportunity to say what he desired to, bearing on the election.

Mr. Elliott said that he desired that Mr. Willison be allowed to make his statement, and he moved a reconsideration of the question. Vote reconsidered.

Mr. Willison read a report from the executive committee, which gave in detail the arrangement made between the League and the Cycle Board of Trade, for inserting the League application blank in the makers' catalogues. He stated that a bill for $830 was still due, and he recommended that it be paid. He referred to what had been done in the Potter suit, and stated the present condition of the case. A great deal of exciting debate, and no end of parliamentary tactics was now indulged in, and, after voting to lay the matter of the report on the table for future consideration, the assembly voted to proceed to the election of officers.

A committee of three, consisting of C. F. Cossum, Albert Mott and S. T. Williams, was appointed to superintend the balloting for president.

Chief Consul Sams, of Maryland, nominated A. C. Willison, of Cumberland, Chief Consul Westlake, of Connecticut, seconded the nomination. It was also seconded by Gerlach, of Illinois, and Robert, of Missouri.

Spencer T. Williams, Esq., of Massachusetts, nominated Sterling Elliott, of Boston. Chief Consul Potter, of New York, seconded the nomination.

The result of the ballot was as follows:

Whole number of votes,	177
Sterling Elliott,	104
A. C. Willison,	73

On motion of Mr. Willison the election was made unanimous.

During the counting the following nominations were made for first vice-president: C. F. Cossum, of Poughkeepsie, A. Cressy Morrison, of Milwaukee.

Mr. Morrison withdrew his name, and, by vote, the secretary was authorized to cast the unanimous vote of the assembly for Charles F. Cossum.

On motion of Mr. Potter, the secretary was authorized to cast the unanimous vote of assembly for A. Cressy Morrison, for second vice-president.

Treasurer Mergenthaler withdrew his name as candidate for treasurer.

Chief Consul McCarthy, of Colorado, nominated E. S. Hartwell, of Denver, for treasurer.

On motion, Mr. Mergenthaler was authorized to cast the unanimous vote of the assembly for Mr. Hartwell.

J. Fred Adams, of Massachusetts, J. J. Van Nort, of Pennsylvania, Geo. L. McCarthy, of Denver, were elected auditing committee.

Mr. Dean moved that the assembly proceed to choose a place for the annual meet. Carried.

It was agreed that each side be given twenty-five minutes.

W. W. Watts opened the case for Louisville, and introduced Mr. Marmaduke B. Bowden, who occupied the greater portion of the time.

Hon. J. M. Brown, of Toledo, spoke for that city.

The vote was as follows:

Whole number,	178
Louisville,	97
Toledo,	81

On motion of Chief Consul Reed, of Ohio, the vote was made unanimous.

At this point the assembly adjourned to Wednesday to meet at 9 A.M.

THIRD DAY, WEDNESDAY, FEB. 12.

Called to order at 10 A.M.

Mr. I. B. Potter moved that a committee of three be appointed to draw up resolutions in relation to the Armstrong bill, now before the New York legislature, which, if enacted, will compel railroads to carry bicycles as baggage and with all the rights of baggage.

Mr. Elliott moved to amend so as to include in the resolutions a similar bill before the Massachusetts legislature and all similar bills in other States. The motion as amended was passed. Messrs. Sterling Elliott, Chas. F. Cossum and Isaac B. Potter were appointed the committee.

It was voted to constitute a committee of three persons to take testimony in New York City and make such inquiry and investigation as they may think to be necessary to adjust the claim of Mr. Potter against the League. The League to choose one, Mr. Potter to choose one and these two to choose a third.

Mr. Potter agreed to the proposition and stated that he would abide by the decision of the committee.

Mr. Conway W. Sams was chosen to represent the League.

The thanks of the assembly were voted to the Maryland division for courtesies extended at the theatre party given on Wednesday evening.

Adjournment for noon recess.

The afternoon session was taken up by the consideration of the constitutional amendments. The votes on these amendments are a matter of record in the secretary's office and we will not impose upon our readers by giving them in full detail. In our next issue we shall print the constitution and by-laws in full as amended.

FOURTH DAY, THURSDAY, FEB. 13.

The morning session was opened at 10 o'clock, with President Willison in the chair. On motion of Mr. Monaghan of South California, a committee, consisting of Messrs. Dean of Massachusetts; Cossum of New York; Harder of Pennsylvania; Culmore of Texas and Perkins of Rhode Island, was appointed to take up the appeals for reinstatement, hear the evidence and report to the meeting.

The committee retired, and later made its report. It recommended the reinstatement of the following: R. Parker Rich, Harrisburg, Pa.; Robert J. Jobin, New Orleans, La.; L. A. Ryce, Jersey City; A. W. Cleaver, Chicago; Albert M. Price, Ghent, Ky.; James W. Curry, Aurora, Ill.

The committee also recommended that the appeals of the following be rejected and the rulings of the racing board be sustained: H. Bruce Failing, Baldwinville, N. Y.; Ernest Biggs, Guy Anderson, Mason Hess, Dan E. Reed and E. N. Robinson of Guthrie, Ia.; Henry Perry, Oregon; C. A. Diamond, Iowa; R. A. Hunt, Kansas City, Mo.; O. E. Robinson, Plattsburg, N. Y.

On motion of Chief Consul Cooke the thanks of this assembly were tendered the Maryland Bicycle Club for the courtesies of their clubhouse.

The following resolution, proposed by Chief Consul Cooke, was adopted.

Resolved, That the executive committee be and they are hereby instructed and empowered to arrange, perfect and carry out some plan by which the place of holding the next League meet shall be settled in advance of the meeting of the next national assembly, by mail vote of members of that assembly or of the principal officers of each division, sub-division or consulate, constituting the boards of officers of the same or of the membership at large, as in the opinion of the executive committee shall be deemed best.

A special committee, consisting of Messrs. Potter, Sams and Cossum, was appointed to consider and adopt the best plan for incorporating the League.

The assembly had a complaint before it against Chief Consul Edmiston, of Nebraska, that he had been connected with a newspaper in Nebraska which assumed to be the official organ of that division, in direct violation of League rules. Mr. Edmiston easily proved his innocence, and the assembly unanimously declared him not guilty.

On motion of Mr. Cooke all recommendations made in the reports of officers were referred to the executive committee.

The selection of a place to hold the next national assembly was delegated to the executive committee.

Mr. Potter brought up the Titus-Cabanne matter, and said he thought the action of the racing board in suspending these players for life was too severe. He asked that the assembly recommend to the racing board that it lift the life suspension placed on Titus, and make it a suspension for one year from the time the suspension took effect. Mr. Sams said that if the life suspension was lifted from Titus, it should also be lifted from Cabanne, and this recommendation was unanimously carried. In his plea for Titus, Mr. Potter said that the racing man did not deny the guilt of his intentions. Titus confessed that he wanted Cabanne to win in St. Louis because Cabanne was his team mate, and St. Louis was the home of Cabanne, where his popularity would make a great hit if he could win. Titus confessed that he had approached Billy Young, Murphy's trainer, on the subject, but said that Young would not consent and that the event at St. Louis last August was run on its merits, after all.

The following recommendation in the secretary's report was taken up: "In the days when gloom and despondency hung over us like a pall, the Rhode Island Division evinced loyalty and generosity by donating to the national organization forty cents of the initiation fee paid by every new member who joined us between March 1st and Sept. 1st. This amounted to $70, and the money was credited to the treasurer. And now, in the days of our prosperity, we have no need for the money, and I hope this assembly will deem it best to hand back the gift, wrapped up in a covering of its sincere thanks."

It was voted to return the money with the thanks of the assembly.

It was resolved that the legislation now before the legislature of New York, Maryland and other States, and that which might in future be offered, looking to compelling railroads to carry bicycles free, when accompanied by their riders, should be pushed and backed with all the power of the League. To make this more effective, it was recommended to the transportation committee, having it in charge, to confer with the National Cycle Board of Trade, with a view to getting its co-operation in the work.

Thanks were extended, especially, to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, for its stand for the wheelmen's claim to the right to carry their wheels with them on the trains.

It was voted that the bill of Robert L. Stillson, for cuts and inserts, be audited and paid.

The following resolution introduced by Mr. Robert was passed:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this assembly that all riders who have heretofore been transferred to class B, are, by the action taken here to-day, recognized as riders in the amateur class.

Chief Consul Hope of Texas, called the attention of the assembly to a sign to be used by local consuls. The matter was referred to the membership committee.

On motion of Mr. Mertens of Pennsylvania, a vote of thanks was passed to the retiring officers.

Mr. Willison made a short address. He reviewed his work with the League, and spoke of the friendships he had made and the kindly feeling he entertained for one and all.

Secretary Bassett in behalf of the League presented the president with the official gavel used at the meeting.

Adjourned, sine die.

MINNESOTA DIVISION.

The meeting of the board of officers of the Minnesota division, League of American Wheelmen, was held at the office of M. L. Knowlton, chief consul, room 301, Guarantee Loan Building, Minneapolis, Friday, Jan. 17, 1896.

Members present, Chief Consul Knowlton, Vice-Consul Hoxie and Secretary-Treasurer Willson. Absent, Representative Wilkinson of Duluth.

The report of the retiring secretary-treasurer, E. S. Gregory, of Winona, was presented, read and accepted.

Upon motion of Vice-Consul Hoxie, the secretary was instructed to convey to ex-Secretary Gregory the thanks of the board of officers, for the able manner in which he had attended to the duties of his office, and for the courtesies he had extended to the other members of the board.

The report of the chief consul was presented, read and accepted.

The question of the League's retaining control of racing, and the abolishment of class B was brought up, and, after discussion it was the consensus of opinion that the L. A. W. should retain control of racing and that class B should be abolished.

The matter of increasing the membership during the coming season was introduced and discussed at great length and several plans were proposed.

It was moved by Secretary-Treasurer Willson that in order to give an incentive to the members to "hustle" for new members, twenty-five cents of the initiation fee be given to the member for each new member he or she secures. The application accompanied by the initiation fee to be sent to the secretary-treasurer of the division, who will place the sum to the credit of the member sending the application, and the amount standing to that member's credit to be remitted to the member at the end of the year.

The report of A. B. Choate, chairman of committee on highways, was presented, read and accepted.

The matter of construction of cycle paths was brought up by the chief consul and was discussed at great length. The question of the division giving financial aid to cycle clubs for the purpose of encouraging the building of paths was deemed inexpedient for obvious reasons.

Moved that the recommendation of the chairman of the committee on highway improvement, to the effect that the efforts of the committee hereafter be particularly directed to the construction of cycle paths for the use of wheelmen, be adopted. That is, said committee to secure all information possible relating to materials, specifications and cost of construction, devoting to this purpose the monies voted to said committee.

Resolved, That we recommend all local consuls of this division to effect an organization of all wheelmen in their immediate locality for the purpose of building local cycle paths.

The chief consul and Representative Hoxie audited the accounts and vouchers of the retiring secretary-treasurer, and reported the same to be correct.

It was moved and seconded that the meeting adjourn.

Report of Chairman Committee on Highways.

TO THE BOARD OF OFFICERS, MINNESOTA DIVISION, L. A. W.:

On account of the scarcity of funds not much work has been undertaken this year except to co-operate with others. But the general interest which has been awakened in the question of highway improvement has made progress possible without the usual initiative and hard work on the part of wheelmen.

Good Roads headquarters were maintained at the capitol during the session of the last legislature. At a meeting of a State organization of physicians, resolutions indorsing the movement and pledging its support were passed. A State good roads convention was held at which I made an address upon invitation, and on the 22d of this month I am to deliver an address before the State meeting of the Surveyors' and Engineers' Society on the subject of road improvement. All this during the past year without this division of the L. A. W. taking the initiative.

I have made considerable investigation into the materials for road building in this State, and was happily disappointed to find so great a quantity and excellent quality of road material. I had one specimen of sand and gravel partially analyzed and found that it contained sesquioxide of iron, 14.97%, carbonate of lime, 11.68%, the other ingredients were a great variety of pebbles and such as are usually found in ordinary deposits of drift gravel. The lime was in form of gravel and the iron gave the whole a reddish look. These two elements made a fine cementing material. A specimen of this material has been tried in one of the city parks of Minneapolis and has exceeded all expectations. Without any rolling it packed almost immediately and made a surface nearly as hard as a rock, which seems to be almost, if not quite, equal to the best macadam. The amount of this material is unknown, but I have reason to believe there is considerable in the State.

Since the movement for better roads has become quite general, and the demand for and practicability of bicycle paths is also being felt, I would recommend that while, as citizens and individuals we will continue to interest ourselves in the movement for better wagon roads, that as an organization of wheelmen we should devote our energies and division money, heretofore used for improving wagon roads, to the building of bicycle paths, and to securing the co-operation of the legislature and public officials in their construction as a necessary part of the improvement of our highways. A. B. CHOATE,

Chairman of Committee on Highways.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Jan. 18, 1896.

Chief Consul's Report.

The Minnesota division has made some progress during the past year, but it has been much less than I hoped for and expected. One year ago we had 214 members, and of these, only 142 renewed. We have secured 109 new members and lost one by removal from the State, making our present membership 250.

While this is more than some of the larger States can show, it is much smaller than it ought to be, and very much smaller than it would be if we had a larger percentage of workers among our members.

Nearly one half of the new members have been secured by myself and the balance by about a half dozen persons, which is the greatest number of workers I have been able to find among our members.

Perhaps it will be well to offer some prizes for recruits and see if it will not set more at work.

One thing that has prevented our making more of a stir during the past year has been lack of funds. The publishing of our road maps and reimbursing one of our members, the cost of suit which was brought against him for frightening a horse, left us with very little money for other work; but I think the money was well spent. The decision which was obtained from the supreme court is worth many times its cost to the wheelmen of the State, and road maps are fast becoming an absolute necessity since touring is becoming so popular with wheelmen.

Indications for the coming season are very favorable for a large increase in our membership and I trust that the State of our finances will admit of doing more than in any previous year for the cause of better roads, which I consider the real work of the League.

I have this day appointed Mr. Percy Sinclair local consul at Tacoma, Wash. E. G. DORR, Chief Consul.

TACOMA, Feb. 15, 1896.

MASSACHUSETTS CLUB REPRESENTATIVES.

Shoe City Wheelmen, Brockton, W. H. CENTER.
Cambridgeport Cycle Club, A. R. DURYEA.

A. D. PECK, Sec.-Treas.

NORTH CALIFORNIA DIVISION.

The members of this division, League of American Wheelmen, will please note that we have secured a reduction in the admission fee at the indoor bicycle tournament to be held in the Mechanics pavilion commencing March 5, and to run for five evenings, and that upon the showing of their membership L. A. W. cards they will be admitted for twenty-five cents, so come prepared to show your cards and reap the benefits.

The annual race meet will be held at Petaluma this year on the Fourth of July and the inhabitants of this town will spare neither expense or pains to entertain the L. A. W. members. The admission to the races for members of the L. A. W. will be free upon the showing of their League membership cards. Special accommodations have been made both for train service and hotel accommodations.

League hotels have been appointed by chief consul Kerrigan as follows. Mansion House, Watsonville; Tait House, Tehama; Sherwood House, Santa Clara. Please show your cards when patronizing any of the L. A. W. hotels.

Local consuls have been appointed by him as follows: F. C. Davis, Lincoln; E. S. Logan, Hollister; T. H. Whiffen, Palo Alto; F. D. Gordon, Marysville; A. T. Hastings, Merced; E. A. Nicholson, Madera. J. E. Mecum, Orland; F. K. Lippitt, Petaluma; R. L. Janney, Paso Robles; G. C. Allen, Placer; W. F. Stuart, Porterville; W. G. Lovie, Redwood City; E. M. Bransford, Stockton; L. A. Pellett, St. Helena; G. Readman, Sacramento; C. E. Noggle, San Miguel; R. M. Thompson, Santa Cruz; S. Steele, Snelling; C. Culp; San Fillepe; F. J. Quirin, Santa Clara; E. E. Long, Suisun.

Members are urged to work for this division's interest by securing new members, and by sending the names of all wheelmen they know of in their particular towns, that recruiting literature may be forwarded them.

We are anxious to increase our membership double and have made an offer to any one sending me a batch of ten applications at one time, I will allow a reduction of twenty-five cents on each applicant so that by a little work, it will enable you to easily earn $2.50 and in many small towns a live hustling member can pick up ten applicants quite easily.

STANLEY G. SCOVERN, Sec'y-Treas.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14, 1896.

TO ALL NEW YORK STATE MEMBERS.

The Armstrong Baggage Bill is in assembly committee on railroads at Albany. Its success depends on your efforts. Petitions are being received in its favor from all parts of the State. The most important thing is still to be done. I earnestly beg you to write to the senator and member of assembly who represent your district—your town—your county—and urge them in the name of all wheelmen and all fair-minded citizens to give their support to the Armstrong bill. There is still a long and bitter fight before us. The big railroad companies are arrayed against us and their methods are well known. We shall win this battle if we pull together. Only this is required. Be prompt. Be vigorous. Write your senator and assemblyman a manly, straightforward letter; state the case fairly and honestly; tell them that the railroads of our State have carried wheels for fifteen years without imposing these extra charges and unreasonable conditions and that hundreds of other railroads are still doing the same. Tell them of the abuses and losses and impositions which wheelmen have suffered, and ask them whether these great corporations which have been protected and made rich by public charter and public patronage cannot reasonably be required to carry a twenty-pound bicycle under the same law which requires them to carry 150 pounds of other baggage, Please do this at once. Do it now. I will gladly send list of senators and members of assembly to any wheelmen who will send me a postal card requesting it. Faithfully yours,

ISAAC B. POTTER, Chief Consul.

VANDERBILT BLDG., NEW YORK CITY.

OHIO ROAD BOOK.

Owing to the fact that the members of the committee to which the question of issuing a road book was referred by the board of officers at the December meeting, would, with one exception, all be in Baltimore in attendance at the national assembly, and that it would cost the division less to have that member come to Baltimore, than to call the committee together in Ohio, a meeting of the committee was called to be held at the Hotel Rennert in Baltimore, and assembled in room 118 on the evening of Feb. 9, 1896. There were present Chief Consul Reed, Sec.-Treas. Howson, Messrs. Kempton, Munro and Chubb of the committee, and also delegates J. A. McGee and J. B. Griffiths.

The secretary outlined his plan for the new book, which was to reproduce, by the photographic process, the corrected map of each county, each map to occupy a page in the road book, with a page, more or less, of descriptive matter, and to have a larger folding map of the State, showing only the main roads.

After considerable discussion it was decided unanimously to issue the road book on this plan at as early a date as practicable.

The secretary stated that 75 out of the 88 counties in the State had been sent out for correction since January 1, and 15 or 16 had been returned corrected. There being no further business the meeting was on motion adjourned.

The secretary would like to have volunteers for the work of correcting maps of the following counties which have not yet been sent out, Ashtabula, Clarke, Geagua, Guernsey, Harrison, Hocking, Jackson, Lorain, Morgan, Meigs, Vinton, Wood and Williams.

ARTHUR B. HOWSON, Sec.-Treas.

CHILLICOTHE, O., Feb. 15, 1896.

TO ALL NEW JERSEY MEMBERS.

Please write or call upon your senator and assemblyman, requesting them to vote for, and if possible work in behalf of the Side Path Bill (House Bill No. 104) that is now before the legislature, and will come up for third reading in the House next Monday; also urge upon them to vote against the amendment of the State Aid Act of 1891, Assembly Bill No. 126, to be brought up next week also.

This amendment, if passed, will remove the mandatory clause making it optional with the board of freeholders whether they build good roads or not, even though the property owners petition for same. You should impress upon your assemblyman the request that the law be given at least one year's trial before amended. This request seems so reasonable that any fair-minded legislator should be willing to grant it.

ROBT. GENTLE, Chief Consul.

MARYLAND DIVISION.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE MARYLAND DIVISION;

Bills have been introduced into the Maryland legislature, to protect pneumatic tires, to require guide posts and sign boards to be placed at cross roads throughout the State, to require the railroads to carry bicycles as baggage, and for the improvement of the roads throughout the State. I wish all the members of the L. A. W. in Maryland to take an active interest in the bills. The session of the Maryland legislature is about half over, therefore prompt action is necessary. The way each one can help is by seeing in person your State senator and the members of the house from your county, and urge upon them the necessity of the passage of these laws. If you can not talk with them, at least write to them. In all events give the matter your attention and never let up in your support. Keep at it and we will some day obtain the legislation we ask for and need. Especially put in work for the roads bill. They are very simple. One is an act to create a department of roads and highways for the purpose of investigating and reporting on the road question in the State and of furthering the improvement of the county roads. In short it creates an engineering department. Without discussing the bill at length it is only necessary to say that the bill is the beginning. Get this and we will be making an advance.

The amount appropriated by the bill is only $25,000, or $12,500 per annum for two years. This amount is very small considering the work. The other bill is an act for the more perfect construction and maintenance of the roads and bridges in this State. It creates county boards of bridges and highways, leaving to the counties the control of their roads. Send to your representatives for copies of the bills and work for them. The bill creating the engineering department has received the approval of the road bureau of the United States. We need the immediate and active support of every League member. Get to work and the result will not be long in doubt.

CONWAY W. SAMS, Chief Consul Md. Div.

BALTIMORE, MD., Feb. 19, '96.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to Monday preceding this date, and published in accordance with Article III of the constitution.

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published and to report errors and omissions to the secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at noon on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

THE PROPER SPIRIT.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

The L. A. W. BULLETIN came to-day as usual, and as I sat reading it the spirit moved me to make a feeble squeak myself for the cause. I have been the means of adding two new members to the League since I myself became one. Truly not a very great record, but let no one who has not himself done better criticise it. If all persons who become members of the L. A. W. did so, as well for the principles which it represents, as for the advantages which a membership in it affords, and would by their own individual effort do all in their power for the promotion of those principles, what a power for good the L. A. W. would be, and what a healthy system of good roads we would have. Our roads are the veins of our land, upon the condition of its veins the health of our country depends, therefore not the selfishness of having a good road to ride on, but patriotism is the foundation of it all, and to be patriotic should be the aim of every true American, so let us together do all we can for the furthering of the good work of the L. A. W. and know that we are serving our country at the same time. A long step in the right direction is to secure all the members we possibly can for the L. A. W. We should not wait for some one to stimulate us with the offer of a prize, but do what we can, if it is a very little, and have the satisfaction of having done good work for a good cause in the right spirit.

CYCLE PATHS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

From the tone of Walter Stillman's letter in this paper, I gather that he is a horseman of deepest dye, as he says, "Do not build cycle paths, which are of no use to the public," etc. There may be what he calls "our friends the horsemen, who are building good roads," but the only kind I have found down here in Connecticut,

"As good as the 'Standard,'" is the argument of all the other Cyclometer makers. It establishes that the "Standard" is indeed the standard. But the evidence is against the claims of these would-be competitors, for the testimony in favor of "Standard" superiority is as 263,427 to 11,573 (of the total of 275,000 Cyclometers sold in 1895, 263,427 were "Standards").

In 1895 we made one style of Cyclometer; in 1896 we are making three styles, and they are better and cheaper than our first attempts. We shall make a half million of them — because you want them. You know what's what!

are those who on all sorts of narrow-tired wagons are not only plowing up the roads, but every foot of sidepath they can possibly drive upon, until we have to go over shoe in mud, at times, to go at all. Why is it a mistake to build side paths, when there are no decent roads, nor any evidence there ever will be. Better ride a wheel, Walter, and you will think differently about our friends the horsemen, many of whom used to try their best to wreck our wheels and kill us, too, in the old days. I go in for good roads, but if wheelmen get no help to build them, why not build cycle paths, which cost less. STAM.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Those people who defend vicious brutes of dogs that attack anyone on public highways, should be born again, and see if a better job could not be done. They would weary me if they were worth noticing in earnest. They have the same right to turn a wild tiger out upon the road, as to allow their snapping canine pests at large. STAM.

An Open Secret.

As pious as a saint was good old Ebenezer Birch
While on a Sunday morning he was "dressing up" for church.
He was thinking of the gifts he'd make, and since he was devout
His left hand shouldn't know a thing his right hand was about.
His right hand pushed the bureau drawer and strove to get it shut.
The while his left pushed down the towsled linen in it, but
His right hand didn't let the left know what it was about,
Till the drawer went shut "kerbang!" and then the neighborhood found out.

THE up-to-date political party will not try to win with a "dark horse" when there are so many good bicycles in the market.

IT is easy for wheelmen to observe lent. They are used to "fast"-ing.

IF "time is money" how much should we get for these forty days' lent?

BICYCLE GEARING.

Readers of the L. A. W. BULLETIN frequently ask us to decide upon the merits of some particular means of applying the rider's power to the propulsion of a bicycle.

Ordinarily we do not care to say anything which would reflect on any particular device, but we may give some general suggestions which can be made to apply in most cases.

The present plan of driving by two sprocket wheels and a chain is, all things considered, a more satisfactory mechanism than any other which we have yet seen. The relative size of the two sprocket wheels determines the "gear."

Numerous machines have been built on paper and otherwise, which, through various combinations of gearing, have sought to accomplish the desired end, with varying claims as to results. We refer particularly to those machines in which a gearing is used between the cranks and the front sprocket wheel. All of these devices are a direct result of a lack of proper mechanical information.

Two sprocket wheels having the proper relative size, together with a good chain, is all that a wise mechanic can recommend in the present state of the art. Every gear which is added simply increases the weight, friction and expense. This is assuming that the chain is to be used at all.

Certain devices looking to the abolition of the chain might succeed, were it not for a very hard-to-get-over fact, viz., that it is extremely difficult to make, or if made, to keep a driving and driven shaft exactly parallel, or "in line."

The chain and sprocket system allows for more or less imperfection in workmanship and design, also for springing of the frame incident to hill-climbing or any slight permanent derangement caused by accident.

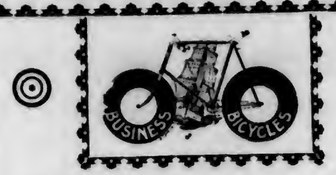
It is well, of course, for the general public that numerous inventors are always willing to spend their time, and that usually capitalists are found who are willing to spend their money in experimenting with devices which are not strictly orthodox, but when it comes to the general adoption of new features they must, of course, have genuine merit which, in some cases, cannot be determined except in the very thorough school of experience.

Where it Fails.

It is puzzling to the makers
Who "back a guarantee,"
That while the wheel they build they feel
Is strong as strong can be,
And stands the shocks of ruts and rocks,
No matter what the load,
Should just go all to pieces
"On a smooth and level road."

THEATRE HATS.

The L. A. W. BULLETIN believes in doing good and realizes that one of the best ways in which it can assist in accomplishing a desirable end is to devote a little attention to the subject of "unnecessary obstructions to the view of people attending places of public entertainment."



We have decided to get out a special theatre hat number of the L. A. W. BULLETIN. It is difficult to tell exactly when this will be published, but sometime within the next few weeks.

Meanwhile, if any of our readers have anything to say on the subject, either original or clipped and either in the line of illustration or reading matter, we should be glad to have it as we want to make this special number a notable one.

A Warm Possibility.

If, as some teachers tell us,
When we from earth are gone,
We then in some one else's guise
Shall still live on and on,
Perhaps in that far land from whence
No traveler returns,
Our present Robert Ingersoll
May then be Robert Burns.

LENT does not necessarily mean we must avoid bicycle "meets."

Capital can buy "good" labor, but Capital can't purchase "organized experience," and

That's what builds the Best Bicycles.

Good bicycles can't be made in a day or a year. The maker who succeeds in turning out first class wheels inside of five years is lucky. Most bicycles are made from "stock parts," they look alike, are alike, though some are even worse than others, and usually sell for "any old" price. The success of the

New Clipper is the Result of years of careful study and experiments, coupled with an honest desire to give the public more value for the same amount of money than could be found elsewhere.

"LEAGUE HOTELS."

We are in receipt of letters almost daily, criticising the conduct of the keepers of League hotels, the universal complaint being that such hotels either refuse to give a discount at all, or that they give a discount to all wheelmen, whether League members or not.

Our personal opinion is that the League hotel system is not a splendid success, and unless hotels will carry out their part of the agreement, there is no reason why any League official should recommend any particular hotel, as in too many instances it is giving the hotel advertising and prestige which is undeserved.

A hotel which would give special rates to League members and not to wheelmen who are not League members, would be an advantage, of course, to our organization.

If all wheelmen are given the same rate why should we specify one hotel more than another?

THE funeral director doing a stiff business, should not complain of his lay-out.

BOARD OF TRADE.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the National Cycle Board of Trade, it was decided to sanction no local cycle shows, to be held after the 31st day of March for the ensuing year, on account of the many protests which have been received from the cycle trade generally, that it is interfering with their spring business.

And it was also decided to sanction no local show, unless gotten up by the local cycle board of trade; or, if there be no local cycle board of trade, that the application bear the endorsement of a majority of the local dealers.

President Coleman has been in receipt of applications from professional show promoters, in all parts of the country, and he has been kept busy the last few days telegraphing to the trade to ascertain their wishes, and the above resolution very clearly indicates the sentiment of the trade as regards local cycle shows.

BICYCLE CHARGES.

A NEW rate card has been posted which says that beginning with the first of March, the Erie Railroad Company and all branches and roads operated by it, which have heretofore carried wheels free, will charge for carrying bicycles, the rate being 15 cents where the limited single fare is from 5 cents to $1.00; 20 cents where fare is from $1.01 to $1.25 and so on. The cyclist is required to purchase ticket at ticket office and attach same to wheel and present it to train baggage master at baggage-car door and upon calling for wheel he is required to show identification ticket without which he cannot get his wheel. This includes the Chicago & Erie Railroad and the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio Railroad which are operated by the Erie.

TEA AND COFFEE.

The L. A. W. BULLETIN recently received copy for a half-column ad., together with a letter from the enterprising concern who sent the copy, saying that if we would insert it we would receive from them two pounds of coffee and one-half pound of tea.

An offer like this is certainly very tempting.

It is an awful thing when we realize that our children are crying for tea and coffee to be obliged to refuse such a magnificent offer, but our space is limited even if our appetite for tea and coffee is not.

L. A. W. CONSTITUTION.

The full text of the L. A. W. constitution and by-laws, as amended at the recent Baltimore assembly, will be found in the official department of the L. A. W. BULLETIN. Every League member should familiarize himself with it, and thus have an intelligent understanding of the organization of which he is a member.

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER YEAR.

This is the price of the L. A. W. BULLETIN to League members only. We often have inquiries as to whether we can furnish a given member with copies for his friends at that rate. Would say that we cannot make this price except each subscriber is a League member.

Olympic.

The Olympic Cycle Manufacturing Co., New York, has issued a 32-page catalogue of unusual beauty. The many illustrations, showing the sports and athletic games of all times and countries, are particularly good. The cover page, in green and gold on white, is simple and pleasing.

The Anderson.

The Anderson Cycle and Manufacturing Co., Detroit, Mich., devotes two pages of its very neat 32-page catalogue to the interests of the L. A. W. The cover page, in green and brown, is artistic and striking. The "Anderson," "Osborn," "Northwest," "Wayne," and "Wayne, Jr.," wheels are neatly and fully described.

Syracuse.

The Syracuse Cycle Co., Syracuse, N. Y., has issued a catalogue of striking designs and colors. The cover is suggestive of "war paint," as is also the envelope in which it is mailed. The book contains many marginal pictures that add to its beauty and interest. The striking cover page design shows a number of Sycamore braves discovering a Syracuse wheel.

HOW TO WASH A SWEATER.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

A Boston wheelman asks, in the BULLETIN of Feb. 21, for "the best method of cleansing a woolen sweater." Having had some experience in that line, and with the best of success, I am prepared to answer the inquiry, and will guarantee that the process described below is the simplest and easiest and best method yet discovered for woolen goods, and is just as good for cotton or silk.

Fill a pail two thirds or three quarters full of cold water. In extremely cold weather the water may be tempered a little, but let it be cold, and not warm. Take a cake of good laundry soap — any good soap that has n't an excess of alkali will answer the purpose — and rub between the hands in the water for a moment. Put in a teaspoonful of ammonia and stir well. Soak the garment in this liquid for fifteen minutes or half an hour, and then souse and knead with the hands so as to squeeze out the dirt, but not vigorously enough to impair the garment's shape. Turn inside out and repeat the process. Pour off the water, which now contains all the dirt that was in the garment, and rinse very thoroughly in several waters — cold water, of course — using the same motions as before.

Lift the garment from the rinsing water and lay it over a line or wooden frame to drip and dry. When dry turn right side out and the job is done.

Observe the following cautions: If the garment is one you care anything about, wash it yourself. You cannot trust Tom, Dick and Harry, Bridget and Jane. It will take but a few moments, and you will be amply repaid for the trouble. Put the soap in the water, not on the garment. Use good soap, and not a very great deal of it. Use cold water. Don't wring, or squeeze, or pull. Dry wrong side out. Don't dry in the sun or wind or by the fire. (A shed or basement, with a tub to catch the water, is usually better than out doors). Don't leave where it is cold enough to freeze. Don't iron.

In case the garment is extremely dirty, use more ammonia and soak longer. If there are grease spots, after soaking, remove the spots with ammonia, benzine, or some cleansing compound. and then proceed as before described.

I have an all wool, close-fitting jersey shirt that has been washed in this manner by myself just forty times, by actual count. I cannot see that it has shrunk a particle, and, with the exception of some wear, it is still in first class condition.

Follow these direction carefully, and if your sweater is injured by washing you can sue me for damages.

The above information is worth $10 to any cyclist. 90 off for spot cash.

It All Depends.

The literary editor was feeling good and glad,
And not a manuscript or book he read that day was bad;
He scanned them very carefully, with notes, from end to end,
And criticized but little and found plenty to commend.
But, oh, that night he ate much cheese, of absinthe drank a lot;
Devoured limes and lobsters, ate a mince pie, extra hot;
And on the morrow every book he ventured to attack
He said was "rank" and "rocky," as he ripped it up the back.

FRICTION

In machinery and on the road can always be depended upon, and so much of its retarding influence as cannot be overcome, we accept as a necessary evil, but the friction caused by incompatibility of people "makes countless thousands mourn," and is the hardest "condition" that confronts mankind.

BICYCLE TRACKS.

A good many inquiries regarding the cost and methods of building bicycle tracks are being received by the L. A. W. BULLETIN. If the track-builders will send the desired information, together with their addresses, we shall be glad to refer such inquiries to them for answer.

EVIL insinuations never hurt a clear conscience.

HE IS SURPRISED AND GRIEVED.

A New York gentleman writes that he is "surprised and grieved to find the L. A. W. BULLETIN directly mis-stating facts."

He refers to our answer to a correspondent which was as follows:

"There is now a common and well-understood law making it compulsory for all vehicles to keep on the right side of the road except when passing from the rear."

Our correspondent says that there is no such law, but that he is particularly anxious to see such a law passed.

The mistake in our answer, if it can be called a mistake, is that we should have said customary instead of compulsory. This is so generally understood that we hardly see the necessity for a law, especially when there are so many laws more needed.

A man who is ignorant of a custom would be equally, or more, ignorant of a law, and every user of the road is now held responsible for his own carelessness, law or no law.

RACING RULES.

As soon as the new racing rules are ready they will be published in full in this paper. Readers who desire to have a copy of the rules should watch for them and preserve that number of the paper.

For the Ladies

"God Bless 'Em!"

MISS C. C. BEDFORD, president of The New York Association of Cookery, and demonstrator of practical and fancy cookery says, in relation to a series of lectures prepared by her on "Food for Bicyclists": "A lunch always conveys the idea of more or less formality, and when on the road, or at the end of a long run it is impossible to be formal. My idea in preparing such lectures is to show riders what food would digest most easily and what should be avoided, either because of its inherent indigestible nature or because it is so cooked as to make it difficult of digestion. In connection with these thoughts I propose to give a list of the most nutritious of the many concentrated foods on the market (some of which may be carried in the pocket), and then with a chafing dish to prepare a number of dishes from eggs, milk, meat, etc., all of them simple enough for the most inexperienced person to attempt. As regards utensils suitable to be carried on the road, such as I have at present under consideration, and the information I have collected is still in too incomplete a state for publication."

MRS. CLARA B. TOWT, of Lancaster, Ohio, and member of L. A. W., writes: "We formed here last year a small bicycle club of about thirty members, which we called 'The Home Wheel Club,' and adopted red and black as our colors. We had runs once or twice a week and even went so far as to have 'Class B' races, and paid at least half the amount of the prize cost. I was treasurer of the club. Several weeks ago we called a meeting and agreed to disband, our reason for so doing was that we have in our town quite a prosperous club called The Lancaster Athletic Club, composed entirely of gentlemen, both married and single. Now these gentlemen have agreed among themselves to have races and make short and long runs by themselves, leaving the ladies out in the cold. But the ladies will not be snubbed in this way, and before very long we will have made some kind of arrangements for the coming summer's work. We ride a little through the town but most of us prefer country roads. As a usual thing when we start for a run we go to some neighboring town, get dinner or supper, as the case may be, and return home if possible by a different route One day last summer a party of us rode from here to Newark to attend the races and returned, making a run of sixty miles. That, I think, is too much for any woman to attempt very often.

"About our dress — I wore last season a rather short skirt with leggins, a jacket made of the same material as the skirt, a white wool sweater with large sleeves, and a tam o' shanter hat to match suit. A great many people here think the sweaters too warm, but I find mine much cooler than either a cloth or wash waist. I wear bloomers under my skirt and like them very much, they give so much more freedom to the limbs.

"I wonder why it is that men will continue to be so abominably selfish in regard to women taking part in their out-of-doors exercises and pleasures. They seldom want them for one pretext or another. Women are not so to men, which, of course, only goes to prove their entire sweetness of nature, etc., and I think it high time that women serve selfish men, as Manasseh, king of Juda, for wanting the whole earth — 'And I will wipe Jerusalem as a man wipeth a dish, wiping it and turning it upside down.' We might infer from this text also, that the women of those days did not have an entire monopoly of the kitchen."

CARL BRENT, professor of physical culture, says in reply to "Maud S.," who does not ride a bicycle: "Some of the baggy sleeves worn by ladies are more shocking to my sensibilities than the close-fitting and convenient costumes worn by bicycling women, that so shock 'Maud S.,' and I can only ascribe her feelings to a consciousness of possession of a figure which would appear to better advantage concealed in baggy appendages — just like the 'skinny' arms which need the baggy sleeves to hide their unsightly angular outlines. If we did not see something shapely once in a while we would lose our interest in the fair sex altogether. Let 'Maud S.,' whose name does not sound 'slow,' turn her attention to some of the male scorchers next." Sensible Professor Brent.

BROOKLYN wheeling circles are on the qui vive on account of the action of Mr. Gideon, in bringing to book some offending racing members of the L. A. W. and of one of Brooklyn's most fashionable clubs. Mr. Gideon is entirely right in his position, and once the members of the League get it through their heads that the officers of that body really mean to enforce the laws governing it, there will be less cause for complaint and punishment.

Hanaford is a woman of great strength and force of character, and has a way of saying and doing things, which carry weight and conviction with them. She is a warm advocate of wheeling, and several times in her discourse introduced the bicycle as one of the foremost factors in the advancement of the womanhood of to-day.

Her talk was in sharp contradistinction to Mr. Julian Ralph's, who, in a story published this month in one of our leading magazines, entitled "The Sad Fate of a New Woman," says, "Love, fiddlesticks!" Old man, if you knew anything—about society people, I mean—you would not couple love and that woman's name in the same sentence. Man alive, the new woman believes in love as much as you do in small-pox, as a disease, and if there ever was a new womany new woman it is she. She gave readings and recitations only to prove the capacity of woman for independence. Her mother is very rich. She would not accept a penny she did not earn. She is a new woman, in spite of being a very pretty one. (The new woman is not usually accredited with much in the way of beauty or good looks.) "She will not have a man about her—not to carry a hand-bag. She even broke her own saddle horse; wears bloomers on a bicycle; is the only woman who can cast a fly like a man, learned the trick because she said that men thought they owned fishing as a masculine monopoly, etc." Mr. Ralph manages to make of his "new woman," a very weak, vascillating and inconsistent being in the end, in short, a faddist posing for effect, etc. Therefore let us be truly thankful that the Reverend Phebe Hanaford is but one of thousands like her—"God bless 'em."

THE almost irreparable harm caused by two over-zealous or over-officious officials of The Cyclist's Federation, to the passage of the Armstrong bill at Albany, last week, is but an added reason why the L. A. W., if it would be all-powerful, should make provision for and control all local organizations. This could and should be done, and that quickly, too. The General Federation of Women's Clubs, a body having a membership of some six hundred thousand women, is made up of national, State and local bodies. The local clubs uniting to form those of State, and the State bodies in turn forming the national, or international organization, but all under the management and control of the main body. If the League would form such organizations everything could be done "decently and in order," and the dignity and earnestness of the L. A. W. and its officers, would thus be protected from ridicule, and its ends and purposes carried out, instead of being continually defeated, by not knowing where they "are at," or what big-headed or misguided, so-called friend may turn up to knock all its plans into "pi."

The Sprinkling Cart:

How to Reform it.

"In the spring a livelier iris changes on the burnished dove:
In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love."
And the minds of wheelmen riding up and down the muddy street
Turn, and not so lightly, either, to the sprinkling carts they meet.

AGLANCE at the calendar convinces us we shall soon pass from the grip of the coal man into the grasp of the ice man. Nature, the gentle nurse, will tenderly transfer us from the refrigerator to the Turkish bath.

A study of recorded conditions that have prevailed during past summers leads to the conclusion that the coming summer may be warm. Heat robs the earth's surface of moisture, and dry earth begets dust, and dust begets sprinkling carts, and sprinkling carts beget woe.

And yet a sprinkling cart is not inherently, hopelessly wrong. It can be reformed. A "Society for the Reclamation of Wrong-minded Sprinkling Carts," composed of gentle but persuasive spirits, who will woo the erring back into the dryer paths of peace and happiness, is really needed.

Consider the gorgeously painted band wagon of the street, it tooteth its loud horns and beateth its big drums, but for real deviltry it compares with the sprinkling cart about as Concord, Mass., does with Cripple Creek, Colorado.

A reformed sprinkling cart is a noble and an inspiring sight, as it moves along a thirsty street, quieting the dust with the gentleness of the dew, rather than the disastrous downpour of the deluge.

Figuratively speaking, we need more Presbyterian carts that believe in the saving grace of sprinkling, rather than so many Baptist ones that think submersion necessary for the salvation of a dusty street.

The sprinkling cart whose action produces a happy medium between dust and mud, will find a warm place in the hearts of the American people.

The trouble with the average sprinkling cart is that "it never rains but it pours." In a restricted sense a sprinkling cart is a blessing. It is not its use but its abuse that works evil.

The man who drives a cart should not do his thinking with a liver pad. He should be a bright man and hence a bicycler, and a member of the L. A. W. The city or village fathers who employ him should be really living in the present rather than amid reminiscences of the past. They should make proper laws and regulations to be properly observed. That is what they are doing in some places.

Hon. Horace L. Allen, of Hoboken, N. J., has introduced the following bill in the legislature of his State:

An act to regulate the sprinkling of streets, avenues; alleys, roads, highways and public places.

SECTION 1. Any city, town, township, borough, village or municipal corporation, or any individual, person or persons, corporation or company, which shall engage in sprinkling any avenue, street, alley, road, highway or public place with water, hereafter shall not sprinkle such avenue, street, alley, road, highway or public place within three feet of the curb stone or gutter on each side of said street, avenue, alley, road, highway or public place, and for each offence in the premises, shall forfeit the sum of ten dollars, to be recovered by action of contract with costs by any person who will sue for the same in cities where there are district courts, in a district court, and in any municipal corporation where there are no district courts, in a court for the trial of small causes, and all penalties recovered under this act shall be paid, one half thereof into the road or street fund of the city, town, township, borough, village or municipal corporation in which they may be collected, and the residue to the informer, provided such action shall be brought within six calendar months after the offence has been committed.

SECT. 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

If the officers and members of the New Jersey division of the L. A. W. do not exert their influence to have this bill become a law they should be doomed to a perpetual punishment of sloshing through illimitable streets of unfathomable mud. The same legislator has introduced an act to prevent injuries, cuts and punctures to bicycle tires and animals, that is equally deserving of their attention and support.

THE WHEEL IN LAW—ITS RIGHTS AND WRONGS.

IN the issue of the BULLETIN of Feb. 21, mention is made of the recent case of Com. v. Forrest, 170 Pa. 40, relating to riding bicycles on sidewalks in Pennsylvania.

It will be interesting to all riders of the wheel to know the exact scope of this decision, and Pennsylvania wheelmen may perhaps profit by a little knowledge on this subject.

The Act of the Pennsylvania legislature of 23d April, 1889, P. L. 44, provides "That bicycles, tricycles and all vehicles propelled by hand or foot . . . shall be entitled to the same rights and subject to the same restrictions in the use thereof . . . as carriages drawn by horses."

The Act of 7 May, 1889, P. L. 110, Sec. 3, provides "that if any person . . . shall wilfully and maliciously ride or drive any horse or other animal upon or into any boardwalk or sidewalk or footway laid or erected or being on and along the side of any road or highway in any township . . . or shall otherwise wilfully break, injure or destroy the same, the person . . . so offending" shall be liable to a fine of not over twenty and not less than five dollars, and on failure to pay the same shall be committed to the county jail, "Provided that no conviction shall be had . . . in any case where the . . . footway aforesaid shall have been located between the gutterways or within the limits of the ordinarily traveled roadbed . . ."

The case of Com. v. Forrest decides that the two acts above mentioned, taken together, make it a penal offence to ride a bicycle on any sidewalk in any township in Pennsylvania.

The reasoning of the decision is as follows: The Act of 7 May, 1889, applies equally as well to persons driving as to persons riding horses. As it is absurd to suppose that a person can drive a horse without being in a carriage, it is therefore a penal offence for a person to drive a carriage on a sidewalk. The Act of 23d April, 1889, makes bicycles subject to the same restrictions as carriages, therefore, it is also a penal offence to ride or drive a bicycle on a sidewalk.

It would be useless to comment upon the soundness of this decision. It is the law in Pennsylvania, and such it is likely to remain, unless the legislature should decide otherwise.

It is interesting, however, and perhaps not unprofitable to note the scope and effect of this recent ruling against bicycles

1. It applies to any boardwalk, sidewalk or footway laid, erected or being on or along the side of any road or highway. This decision would therefore apply to all kinds of footways whether artificially constructed or formed by the frequent passing to and fro of people, including sidepaths, except such as lie between the gutterways or within the ordinarily traveled roadbed.

2. It applies to any township in Pennsylvania, and would, therefore, include all villages, boroughs, towns and cities located in townships where there is no inconsistent legislation.

3. It does not apply to footways located within the gutterways or within the limits of the ordinarily traveled roadbed. Ordinary sidepath riding is therefore not affected by this decision.

4. It applies to all vehicles propelled by hand or foot. The term vehicle has not yet been judicially defined. Websters' definition is, "that in which anything is or may be carried, as a coach, a wagon, a cart, a carriage or the like." It would possibly be easier to enumerate the various things which this definition does not include than those which it does. At any rate, wheelbarrows, push-carts, children's express wagons and baby carriages are "vehicles" within the meaning of Webster's definition, and are propelled by "hand or foot" or perhaps more strictly speaking, by both. The farmer had better, therefore, keep off the sidewalk with his wheelbarrow. The huckster will surely be a more pushing if not a more successful business man, if he propels his cart along the road; and wheelmen and others having families may possibly contribute materially towards keeping their children out of jail by directing the nurse to ply the baby carriage in the streets only.

Bicycler's Snap Shots — Good Times in Georgia.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

One-armed and one-legged riders of the bicycle are not in it with Mr. Geo. F. Durbin of Cheyenne. Several years ago he lost both feet at or just above the ankles. By the aid of artificial feet he was enabled to hobble about with considerable difficulty, always using a cane. A few months ago he was prevailed upon to try riding a wheel. He adopted a drop frame because he felt that he could never learn to mount a diamond frame. He now rides everywhere, and takes particular pleasure in riding "hands off," thus almost literally riding without the use of either hands or feet.

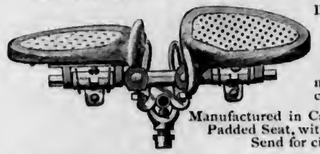
THE DOG AND THE LAW.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Having had a dog "sicked" at me by its owner, or some one in charge of it "just for fun," when I was riding, I have just a little interest in the dog question, and here is a little statute law which defines the rights of the public so far as Massachusetts is concerned. Chapter 102, Sect. 93, Public Statutes, provides: "The owner or keeper of a dog shall forfeit to any person injured by it double the amount of the damage sustained by him, to be recovered in an action of tort.



"Sec. 94. Any person may kill a dog that suddenly assaults him while he is peaceably walking or riding without the enclosure of its owner or keeper."

Sec. 95 provides that a person so assaulted may make oath to such fact before a justice of the peace within forty-eight hours after assault, which notice shall be served upon the owner or keeper who shall forthwith kill or confine the dog, and if he does not then he shall forfeit ten dollars; after such notice is given and the dog is found outside the enclosure of the owner or keeper he may be killed and the owner or keeper shall forfeit ten dollars; and it after such notice the dog does any further mischief the owner or keeper shall be liable to pay treble the damages sustained. Maine has the same provisions in her statutes, except the forfeit is five dollars instead of ten.

Of course it is not always practicable or convenient for a bicyclist to carry out all these provisions, but where they can be carried out it seems

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

You ask for the "best method of cleansing a woollen sweater." I send the following as having been very satisfactory in its results:

Put the sweater into warm water containing a handful of pearline, and leave it over night. Next day knead it (do not rub), punch it and squeeze it, changing the water several times, and then simply press out the excess of water, without wringing, and hang it up to dry. If you wish it small at the waist, hang it across a stick, allowing it to hang lengthwise. When dry it will be clean and soft. WM. H. MOIT.

THE committee on roads and highways of the Kansas division is now at work compiling a road book of that State, and it is expected the book will be published some time next month. The committee intends following the general plan of the road books of Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, though it may not be so elaborate as those books. It will fully describe about 200 roads in that State of good roads, and in addition the book will have considerable other valuable information of interest to wheelmen.

THE real philosopher is the man who lives the life of to-day and lets the troubles of to-morrow wait till to-morrow.

ELWELL European Tour has special arrangements for ladies, ensuring comfort, care and health. Sails June 27th. Particulars of F. A. Elwell, Portland, Me.

CHEAP ROADS.

A very wise philosopher has observed that the great bulk of the people must always support the mass of the population.

The people pay for everything the people have. The public pays for the railroads and the expense of running them. If the railroads were only half as good and could only haul half as much it would cost the people twice as much to ride or ship over them.

It is fortunate for the people that railroads are conducted in an organized business-like way. If the opponents to improved roads had their way the railroads would be neither profitable nor pleasant.

The people of a community are the ones vitally interested in the roads of that community.

If the farmers of each township were to get together and mutually agree that they would go about it in an organized way to build and maintain a system of good roads their sum of happiness would be increased.

Since the people pay for the roads why not have those that are cheapest and most pleasant — the very best ones.

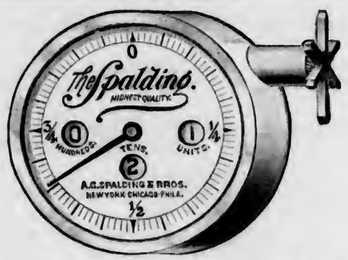
THE Texas good roads convention will be held at Galveston, May 22. A thousand representative men and women will attend. A plan to employ convict labor has been devised, by which the quarries will be worked and the counties furnished with good roads at half the expense they are now.

IN Holland, where they have the best roads in the world, it is said that a farmer will haul, with a team of large dogs, as heavy a load as can be drawn over a bad road with a team of horses. This reminds us how dog-gone bad our roads are.

THIS country has 1,300,000 miles of common roads. This would encircle the globe fifty times, or go to the moon more than five times. But if most of them would go there just once and not come back, earth would be just about as happy.

THE WIDE TIRE CAMPAIGN.

Not only do wide tires save the pavements, but they are also a saving on beasts of burden. The Missouri Good Roads association at its recent convention in Columbia declared in favor of wide tires. Prof. H. J. Waters, dean of the State agricultural college, added to the tabulated results of the tests made between narrow and wide tired wagons the following:



"By using the wide tires an average of fifty-three pounds draught is saved. A horse is computed to exert a pull of 150 pounds for ten hours, traveling at the rate of two and one-half miles per hour. On this basis the wide tires save slightly more than one-third of the exertion of the horse."

The experiments with heavy wagons from which the conclusions of Prof. Waters were reached formed the most interesting part of the proceedings of the convention, and the results of all the tests were carefully noted. In every test it was demonstrated that the wide tire lessens the labor of the horse and is in other ways far superior to the narrow tire, which is the most commonly used. — Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph.

IN round numbers there are now confined to the idle house of the penitentiary 1,000 convicts. They are submitted to a punishment almost insufferable, and one not contemplated by the laws under which they were sentenced, for their hourly task is one of absolute physical and mental inactivity. They can be given work, the roads of Ohio can be improved, and the increasing drain on the State treasury can be relieved with practically no cost to the counties, if the legislature says the way. But none of these things will be done if the general assembly continues to maintain its present eloquent silence.— Toledo (Ohio) Blade.

BUREAU county is a good example of the possibilities latent in a gravel bed and developed by experience, common sense and a little persistent hard work. The writer well remembers the time when the only good road in that county was the highway running easterly from Princeton and known as the old Peru road. For years that road was in good condition the year round, and the farmers along its route increasingly prosperous, while everywhere else the roads were, for a large portion of the year, hideous as a mince-pie nightmare. After suffering from this incubus for half a generation, people began to think. Finally it dawned upon a few bold and venturesome souls that if gravel were good for the poor road it might possibly be good for some others. So the idea spread and the experiment was tried until now the graveled roads, comparatively smooth and always passable, ramify the whole county and distant farms are brought approximately close to town by that wonderful genii, gravel!—Bloomington (Ill.) Leader.

AT the sixty or more farmers' institutes that have been held in the various counties, one evening at each has been given up to good roads discussion and this has been instrumental in working up much favorable sentiment.— Lansing (Mich.) Journal.

THERE are a great many "cross roads," but a still larger number of cross riders who are made cross by the horrible condition of the cross roads.

A WHEEL, to roll well and easily, should pass over a smooth, hard surface. This fact should be borne in mind by road-makers.

L. A. W. CONSTITUTION.

ARTICLE I.

SECTION 1. This organization shall be known as the LEAGUE OF AMERICAN WHEELMEN.

SECT. 2. Its objects shall be to promote the general interests of cycling; to ascertain, defend and protect the rights of wheelmen; to facilitate touring; to secure improvement in the condition of the public roads and highways, and to promote and regulate cycle racing on the track.

ARTICLE II.

SECTION 1. The League shall be an association sub-divided for convenience in administration and government as follows:

First, States having one hundred or more resident League members to be called DIVISIONS.

Second, States having not less than fifty resident League members to be called SUB-DIVISIONS.

Third, States having not less than twenty-five resident League members to be called CONSULATES.

Fourth, For the purposes of this section, California shall be considered as two States, divided as follows: South California to be composed of the following counties: Santa Barbara, Ventura, Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino and San Diego; and all north of these counties shall be known as North California.

SECT. 2. When there shall be twenty-five League members in any State it shall be constituted a consulate, and the secretary shall call an election for a chief consul. The election shall be conducted by mail and the secretary shall receive and count the votes and declare the result. The chief consul so chosen shall enter upon his duties at once and conduct the affairs of the consulate under rules and regulations made by the executive committee.

SECT. 3. When there shall be fifty League members in any State, the chief consul shall appoint a secretary-treasurer and organize a sub-division under rules and regulations made by the executive committee.

SECT. 4. When there shall be one hundred members in any State, the chief consul shall appoint a vice consul and organize a division The chief consul and secretary-treasurer and the vice consul thus appointed, together with such other representatives as may be appointed as hereinafter provided, shall constitute the division board of officers with power to make and execute a constitution and by-laws for the government of the division.

SECT. 5. The status of every consulate, sub-division and division shall be fixed annually on the first day of October, and shall be based on the membership enrolled on the books of the League on that date.

SECT. 6. When the membership of any division, sub-division or consulate shall be less than twenty-five, such division, sub-division or consulate shall be discontinued, and all money and property shall be turned over to the secretary of the League within thirty days after notification by the secretary.

ARTICLE III.

SECTION 1. Any amateur white wheelman of good character, eighteen years of age or over, shall, with the endorsement of two League members, or three other reputable citizens, be eligible to membership in this League upon payment of the initiation fee and dues, as provided in this constitution.

SECT. 2. All applications for membership shall be forwarded direct to the secretary of the League, together with the proper fees and dues, and such information as may be required.

SECT. 3. The name of each applicant for membership must be published in the official organ, and unless within two weeks thereafter, a protest shall be filed with the secretary, he shall become a member of the League.

SECT. 4. Each applicant shall pay to the secretary of the League an initiation fee of one dollar and shall also pay seventy-five cents for his annual dues.

SECT. 5. All memberships shall expire one year from the date on which the application is published in the official organ.

SECT. 6. A member may renew his membership at any time within sixty days from the date of its expiration by payment of the annual dues of seventy-five cents. (One dollar with L. A. W. BULLETIN AND GOOD ROADS). If he shall postpone the payment of his dues beyond the sixty days he shall pay in addition to the annual dues the sum of fifteen cents for every month or fraction of a month he is in arrears, except that he shall pay no more than one dollar in fines for a full year.

SECT. 7. Objections to the admission of any candidate for membership must be made to the secretary within two weeks after the publication of the name of such candidate, and such objections shall fully set forth the reasons why the candidate should be denied admission, and shall be considered confidential.

SECT. 8. In passing upon the eligibility of candidates as amateurs, the membership committee shall be guided by the following amateur rule, and shall take proper pains to ascertain and determine through the racing board the facts in the case where objection is made to a candidate on this ground.

AMATEUR RULE. An amateur is one who has never competed for a cash prize or for gate money, or who has not knowingly competed with or against a professional for a prize of any description, or where gate money was charged; or who has not trained nor coached a professional, or who, after having forfeited his amateur status, has had the same restored by a unanimous vote of the national assembly, L. A. W. A cyclist ceases to be an amateur by

(a) Competing for a cash prize or for gate money.

(b) Personally training or coaching any professional wheelman or athlete, either for cash, as a means of obtaining a livelihood, or for a wager, money prize or gate money.

(c) Competing with a professional, or making the pace for, or having the pace made by such in public or for a prize.

(d) Selling, pawning, exchanging, bartering or otherwise turning into cash, or in any manner realizing cash upon any prize won by him.

(e) Accepting directly or indirectly for cycling competition any salary, remuneration, compensation or expense whatever.

(f) In this class no prize shall exceed thirty-five dollars in value.

(g) Racing men in the employ of cycle establishments may be transferred to the professional class by vote of the racing board.

(h) An amateur may not compete in any race outside of his own State, at a distance greater than one hundred miles, by the usual line or route of travel, from his legal residence, except at national championships or closed college race meetings, or by special permission from the member of the racing board in charge of his district.

(i) License may be granted by unanimous vote of the racing board for a special competition in any year between the recognized champions of the amateur and professional classes, the prize rules of the amateur class to govern the contest.

(j) Any amateur who neglects or refuses to answer questions touching his status to the satisfaction of the racing board, and within thirty days, shall be transferred to the professional class, and shall have no further opportunity for hearing or appeal.

(k) A professional is any rider other than an amateur.

(l) The League recognizes as athletic exercises, in addition to cycling, all sports over which the Amateur Athletic Union, The National Association of Amateur Oarsmen and other amateur athletic organizations have jurisdiction.

SECT. 10. The secretary shall retain from the annual dues and from all renewal fees an annual per capita tax of forty cents. The balance of such annual dues and the whole amount of the initiation fee shall be returned to the divisions, etc., quarterly. He shall return to the divisions, etc., fifty per centum of all back dues and fines.

ARTICLE IV.

SECTION 1. The management of the League shall be vested in a national assembly consisting of

All chief consuls,

All vice consuls from divisions having two hundred or more members,

All secretary-treasurers from divisions having one hundred or more members,

All delegates chosen by the several divisions,

All ex-presidents and ex-vice-presidents of the League who shall at the time of a meeting of the national assembly be members of the League in good standing; but no ex-president nor ex-vice-president shall be represented by proxy at any meeting, nor shall he be empowered or entitled to hold the proxy of any other member.

The president, first and second vice-presidents, the secretary, the treasurer and the chairmen of all standing committees.

It shall have power to make a constitution and by-laws for the guidance of the League, to establish regulations for the government of divisions in their relations to the League and to each other, and to generally direct and decide in all matters not provided for in this constitution.

SECT. 2. The general supervision and executive powers of the League shall be vested in the executive and finance committee, but said committee shall not involve the League in any matter not contemplated by the purposes of this organization, without the authority of the national assembly. Said committee shall enforce all rules, regulations and orders made by the national assembly and carry out the provisions of the constitution and by-laws, but shall not have any power of legislation (this being vested solely in the national assembly). They shall be allowed their necessary expenses, and may allow committees their necessary expenses. They shall approve all bills before payment by the treasurer and shall during the months of January, April, July and October of each year publish in the official organ a financial statement up to the first day of each of said months. Said January statement shall be audited by a committee of three to be elected by the national assembly at the annual meeting, and said auditing committee shall have power to employ an expert accountant. All orders for the payment of money by the treasurer shall be signed by the executive committee or a majority thereof.

Before the annual meeting in February the committee shall send to every member of the national assembly a complete detailed printed financial statement, showing the condition of the League to Jan. 1, last preceding.

SECT. 3. Fifteen members personally present at any meeting of the national assembly shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

SECT. 4. The annual meeting of the national assembly shall begin on the second Wednesday in February in each year. The place of meeting shall be determined by the national assembly during its session of a preceding year, or the assembly may, by vote, delegate the power of choosing to the executive committee.

SECT. 5. Special business meetings shall be called by the president upon the written request of a majority of the chief consuls of the divisions. Said meeting shall be called not later than sixty days after the receipt of the request, at a place designated by the president. Thirty days' notice of such meeting must be given in the official organ, with a statement of the business to be transacted at the meeting, and no other business shall be considered.

SECT. 6. In case of the refusal or neglect of any division, sub-division or consulate of the L. A. W. to comply with any decision or ruling of the national assembly or of the executive committee when the national assembly is not in session, it shall be within the power of said national assembly by a majority vote, or of said committee by a unanimous vote to impose a fine on said division, sub-division or consulate which may be collected from the amount of dues in the hands of the secretary of the L. A. W. and withheld from the division until the aforesaid order of ruling shall be complied with.

ARTICLE V.

SECTION 1. (a) Each division shall elect annually a chief consul, vice consul and secretary-treasurer; and shall also elect one representative for each two hundred League members on its roll Oct. 1.

(b) Whenever the board of officers of any division shall adopt a by-law or rule providing that the secretary-treasurer of the division shall hold office during the pleasure of the board, the secretary-treasurer thereafter elected shall perform the duties of his office until the board of officers shall declare his office vacant, by resolution duly adopted at any meeting regularly called, and after thirty days' notice of such proposed action shall have been given by mail to the members of the board of officers.

(c) In the event of the removal of a secretary-treasurer by the board of officers, the chief consul shall appoint a secretary-treasurer who shall serve until the next annual election thereafter.

(d) Each League club located under the jurisdiction of a division shall be entitled upon joining the League and annually thereafter, to elect one representative for the first twenty members on its roll exclusively, another for the next eighty, and an additional representative for each one hundred members thereafter.

(e) The chief consul of a division may appoint and League clubs may elect representatives from time to time, as the increase in membership of the division or the club may warrant.

SECT. 2. Each sub-division shall elect annually a chief consul and secretary-treasurer.

SECT. 3. Each consulate shall elect annually a chief consul.

SECT. 4. The persons who shall receive the greatest number of votes regularly voted for any office at any election in a division, sub-division or consulate, shall be declared elected.

SECT. 5. These officers shall constitute the division, sub-division and consulate boards of officers, and shall be elected annually between the 15th day of October and the 15th day of November, at such time and place, and in such manner as is provided by the constitution and by-laws of the division and the rules and regulations of the sub-division and consulate.

SECT. 6. No person shall be nominated for or elected to any office in a division, sub division or consulate, unless he be at the time of his nomination a member of the League and a resident of the division, sub-division or consulate.

SECT. 7. When any officer of a division, sub division or consulate or any delegate to the national assembly shall remove from the State or territory in which he was elected, or shall cease to be a member of the League, his office shall forthwith become vacant.

SECT. 8. In the event of a contested election in any division, the division making the contest must pay all expenses which may be incurred by any national committee in the consideration, report and settlement of the same.

SECT. 9. Vacancies in the office of chief consul of a division shall be filled by the succession of the vice consul. Vacancies in the office of chief consul of a sub-division or consulate shall be filled by the president. All other vacancies in divisions, sub-divisions or consulates shall be filled by the chief consul.

SECT. 10. Each division shall adopt for its guidance, a constitution and by-laws not inconsistent with the national constitution and by-laws, and a copy of the national constitution and by-laws shall be included in any publication containing the constitution and by-laws of any division which shall be published by the division for general distribution among its members.

SECT. 11. The term of office of all division, sub-division and consulate officers shall commence on the 1st day of December in each year.

SECT. 12. Each division board of officers shall hold its annual meeting in the month of December, and shall then elect from the division one delegate to the national assembly for each four hundred members upon its roll on Dec. 1.

ARTICLE VI.

SECTION 1. The officers of the League shall be a president, first and second vice-presidents, treasurer and secretary, who shall be elected by the national assembly, at the annual meeting; provided, however, that the secretary shall hold office as long as he shall render satisfactory service. The national assembly may, however, by a two-thirds vote of the members and proxies present at any meeting, declare the office of secretary vacant and hold an election for his successor, one month's notice of the intended declaration of a vacancy having been given.

SECT. 2. The official year shall begin immediately upon the adjournment of the annual meeting of the national assembly.

SECT. 3. There shall be the following national committees:

1. Executive and finance, to consist of the president and vice presidents.
2. Membership.
3. Rights and privileges.
4. Rules and regulations.
5. Improvement of highways.
6. Transportation.
7. Racing board.
8. Auditing.
9. Local organization.

SECT. 4. (a) All national committees except that on auditing, which shall be elected, and that on local organization, shall be appointed by the president, who shall have the power to suspend or remove any member of such committees, and to fill vacancies therein arising from suspensions, removals or from any other cause.

(b) The committee on local organization shall consist of the chief consuls of all divisions having memberships of one thousand and upwards on their respective rolls at the date of the annual meeting of the national assembly next preceding the official year for which this committee shall take office. The members of the committee on local organization shall select their own chairman by the ballots of those members personally present at the said annual meeting.

(c) The committee on rights and privileges, rules and regulations and membership shall consist of three (3) members each. The racing board and committee on improvement of highways shall consist of at least five members each, nor more than seven.

(d) The committee on transportation shall consist of a chairman, who shall have power to add members to the committee not exceeding ten in number.

ARTICLE VII.

SECTION 1. The League shall provide an official organ to be known as the "L. A. W. BULLETIN AND GOOD ROADS," in which shall be printed all official announcements and communications, and which shall be devoted in a substantial way to the encouragement of fraternal co-operation among its readers in the work for improved roads throughout the United States and to the other benevolent objects of the League. The said official organ shall be sent as a regular periodical publication to each member of the League who shall have paid a separate and sufficient subscription fee for the same, excepting, however, that at any time when the postal authorities of the United States shall permit the distribution by mail of free copies of an official organ to members of the League upon payment of postal rates as second class matter, the executive committee of the League may arrange or provide for such distribution of such official organ to League members without the payment of a separate subscription fee. No division, sub-division or consulate east of the Rocky Mountains shall establish or contract for an official organ of its own.

ARTICLE VIII.

SECTION 1. (a) Any wheeling club in the United States that shall have in its by-laws a provision requiring every active member to be a member of the League of American Wheelmen, and that shall file annually with the secretary of the L. A. W. a certificate thereof together with a correct list of club members certified to by the president and secretary of the club, accompanied by a fee of two dollars, shall become a League club, and entitled to all the privileges accorded League clubs under this constitution.

(b) The board of officers of any division may adopt a by-law providing that any club within such division, at least seventy-five per cent. of whose members are members of the League, may become a League club. And upon such club filing a certificate thereof with the secretary of the League, accompanied by a fee of two dollars, and a certified list of all its members, designating those who are members of the League as provided in clause (a) it shall become a League club and entitled to all the privileges accorded League clubs under the constitution. Provided, however, that such club shall be entitled to representation to the extent of its League membership only, and that no action on League matters shall be taken except by the League members of such club.

(c) The membership of every League club, as such, shall expire on the first day of July in each year and may be renewed at any time before the first day of September next succeeding. Upon receiving from the secretary of the club a certificate to the effect that the club still continues the required by-law in force together with a correct list of the club members with the League members designated as such, certified to by the president and secretary of the club and accompanied by a fee of two dollars, the secretary shall issue a new certificate of membership. The membership of all clubs that fail to renew the same before Sept. 1 shall lapse.

(d) On and after the date of the passage of this rule no club shall be entered as a League club if its name shall be the same or similar to that of any club already enrolled, except by consent of the League club whose name is the same or similar. The appearance in the title of the name of the city or town in which the club is located shall constitute the name a similar one, and therefore it shall be deemed prejudicial to the interest of the club already enrolled.

(e) Representatives to the division board of officers from League clubs shall file with the secretary-treasurer of the division a certificate of their election, signed by the president and secretary of the club which they represent and the secretary-treasurer shall announce the election in the official organ.

(f) All rights and privileges of any League club, including representation on the division board of officers, may be revoked at any time by the executive and finance committee, fifteen days' notice having been first given by said committee to said club to show cause why the same should not be revoked.

(g) No League member who shall belong to more than one League club in a division shall be permitted to vote for club representatives in more than one of the clubs of which he is a member. On or before the first day of October in each year, such League member shall advise the secretary-treasurer of the division as to the club in which he elects to vote for club representative.

(h) League clubs containing members belonging also to other League clubs will have such members on or before the first day of October in each year, advise the secretary-treasurer of the division as to the club in which he elects to be counted for League club representation in the division board of officers and the secretary-treasurer shall thereupon notify all the clubs to which the member belongs of his decision as to representation.

ARTICLE IX.

This constitution may be altered or amended by a two-thirds vote of the delegates of the national assembly voting in person or by proxy at any regular meeting of the assembly, or at any meeting called for that purpose, of which sixty days' notice shall have been given; but no amendment shall be made or considered unless thirty days' notice thereof shall have been given through the columns of the official organ.

BY-LAWS.

ARTICLE I.

OFFICERS.

SECTION 1. The president shall preside at all meetings of the national assembly; shall appoint all committees not otherwise ordered; may fill pro tempore any vacancy in any office or committee not otherwise provided for; shall have a general supervision over the affairs of the League; and shall make a report at the annual meeting of the national assembly. He shall be allowed for clerk hire, $1,000 per annum.

SECT. 2. The vice-presidents shall, in the order of their priority, preside in the absence of the president at all meetings of the League or of the national assembly, and perform in such absence all the necessary duties of the president at the time; and in case of death, resignation, or removal of the president, they shall, in the order of priority, act as president until the next annual meeting of the national assembly.

SECT. 3. (a) The secretary shall receive and cause to be published all applications for membership; shall receive and be accountable for all fees and dues; shall keep a register of all applications and any action thereon; shall receive all protests and refer the same to the membership committee; shall keep a list of members and officers of the League, with notes of all changes in the same; shall keep suitable books of account, and shall pay out the funds in his hands only upon order of the executive committee or the national assembly.

(b) He shall receive and answer, or refer to the proper officials, any correspondence with the members or officers that pertains to the affairs of the League, and any appropriate correspondence with non-members of the League. He shall notify members or officers of all meetings; shall issue certificates to all members of the national assembly; shall record the proceedings of all meetings of the League and of the national assembly; shall keep an accurate roll of the membership and generally provide himself with all necessary statistical and other information.

(c) He shall act as editor of the official department in the official organ over which he shall have control, subject, however, to the supervision of the executive committee.

(d) He shall keep an account with the treasurer, to whom he shall render a statement at least once every three months, paying to him such balance as may at that time be due over and above the amount required for running expenses of the secretary's office.

(e) He shall keep an account with each division, sub-division and consulate and shall render a statement to each at least once every three months and pay them at least once every three months such money as shall be due them.

(f) He shall issue to every member the annual membership ticket.

(g) He shall give bonds for the faithful discharge of his duties in the sum of $5,000. He shall receive a salary of $3,000 per annum.

SECT. 4. The treasurer shall receive and be accountable for all money paid over by the secretary or received from other sources; he shall keep suitable books of account; he shall pay out funds of the League only upon order of the executive committee or the national assembly. He shall give bonds for the faithful discharge of his duties in the sum of $5,000.

SECT. 5. Bonds required from officers of the League shall be subject to the approval of the executive committee, and all expense incurred in procuring the same shall be paid out of the funds of the League.

SECT. 6. Any member may, if he chooses, subscribe for the L. A. W. BULLETIN AND GOOD ROADS at the club price of twenty-five cents per annum.

ARTICLE II.

MEETINGS.

SECTION 1. (a) There shall be an annual meet of the League at such time and at such place as the national assembly or executive committee may determine.

(b) At meetings of the national assembly any member thereof may be represented by proxy provided that the person holding the proxy shall be also a member of the assembly and a member of the same division or sub-division.

(c) The proceedings of all meetings of the national assembly shall be published in the official organ.

(d) Prior to the meeting of the national assembly the president shall appoint a committee of three on credentials which shall examine and report upon credentials of delegates.

(e) At all business meetings of the national assembly, the established law (Cushing) of deliberative assemblies shall be observed. The order of business shall be as follows:

Calling the roll.
Report of credentials committee.
Report of the president.
Report of the treasurer.
Report of the secretary.
Communications or reports from standing committees.
Reports of special committees.
Unfinished or referred business.
Election of officers.
New business.

(f) At each annual meeting of the national assembly at least one day shall be devoted exclusively to the consideration of ways and means for advancing the work for road improvement within the various States and to the determination of a plan or plans for the effective co-operation of the State divisions in the further advancement of this branch of League effort. The day or days devoted by the national assembly to the separate consideration of road improvement subjects under this section, shall precede the regular business meeting of the assembly and shall include such proceedings as shall have been determined and announced by the national committee on improvement of the highways. At this meeting any member of the national assembly may invite the presence of citizens not members of the League, and the committee on improvement of the highways may provide for lectures, addresses, or reports from such persons as in the judgment of said committee are well qualified to encourage and advance the work for improved roads.

ARTICLE III.

DIVISIONS AND SUB-DIVISIONS.

SECTION 1. The management of divisions shall be vested in a board of officers, consisting of the chief consul, vice-consul, secretary-treasurer and representatives, elected as provided in Article V., Section 1, of the constitution, said board to have the power to make such rules and regulations as shall not be inconsistent with the constitution and by-laws of the League.

SECT. 2. The management of sub-divisions shall be vested in a chief consul and secretary-treasurer. (Article V., Section 2, Constitution).

SECT. 3. The management of consulates shall be vested in a chief consul. (Article V., Section 3, Constitution).

SECT. 4. The chief consul shall be the executive officer of the division. The secretary-treasurer shall keep a full register of the members of his division, and keep proper books of account of all receipts and expenditures, and publish in the official organ at the close of each term of his office a full and complete statement of the financial condition of the division or sub-division.

SECT. 5. Vacancies occurring in the delegation to the national assembly from any division, either by death, resignation, promotion or removal, shall be filled by the chief consul of the division wherein the vacancy exists, and in case of failure to appoint within two months after such a vacancy has occurred, the president shall appoint.

SECT. 6. Each division shall file in the office of the secretary of the League a certified copy of its constitution, by-laws and rules and of each and every amendment thereto, and shall certify to him the results of all elections within ten days after the votes shall have been counted.

SECT. 7. Divisions may add to their constitutions or by-laws the following article or one not inconsistent with it, for the benefit of "unattached" members:

"When local consuls are appointed, they may at the discretion of the chief consul, be given jurisdiction over a certain territory to be defined on the certificate furnished them by the chief consul. In all cases where the territorial jurisdiction of local consuls has been fixed, the chief consul shall notify the secretary-treasurer of the appointment and the territory it comprises, whereupon the secretary-treasurer shall at once send to the local consul a list of all unattached division members in that territory, giving their names and addresses, and also supply him with lists every three months thereafter, containing the names of such members afterward joining from his territory.

"When the local consul receives the list of members, he shall communicate with, and call a meeting of all of them for the purpose of organizing a division club. At this, and at all subsequent meetings the local consul may preside, a secretary being elected at the first meeting, whose term of service shall expire at the time fixed by the division club. The division club shall correspond with the chief consul, and shall make a report to him at least every three months. At the meeting for organization, the club may adopt a name, and a constitution and by-laws not inconsistent with the constitution and by-laws of this division, or of those of the L. A. W. (national body), may be adopted. Meetings of the division clubs may be held as frequently as may be determined at the original meeting for organization. The objects of the division clubs shall be to promote the general interests of cycling; to ascertain, defend and protect the rights of wheelmen; to facilitate touring, to secure improvement in the condition of the public roads and highways, and such other objects as may not be inconsistent with a League club. Local consuls may be allowed the expenses of correspondence upon bills approved by the division board of officers."

ARTICLE IV.

DUTIES OF COMMITTEES.

SECTION 1. (a) The executive and finance committee shall have the general management and control of affairs of the League while the national assembly is not in session. Shall regulate and direct all matters of revenue, disbursement and investment, and determine all questions of detail arising in the conduct of the League. It shall have visitorial power over divisions and sub-divisions and may take summary action in cases of default.

(b) This committee shall have the power and it shall be its duty to explain, define and interpret any provision of this constitution or any by-law, or any rule of any committee of this League upon request of an officer of the League, and its decisions on such points shall be final.

(c) It shall direct and instruct the chairman of the racing board to collect from applicants in advance (except League clubs having twenty or more members) twenty-five dollars each for granting sanctions for national circuit race meets; ten dollars each for open race meets; and five dollars for each additional day; and two dollars each for athletic meets scheduling two events; and all meets, the entries to which are limited to the members of the school or club holding the meet, shall apply for sanction, but no fee shall be charged. And to apply the revenue derived to the expenses of conducting the affairs pertaining to the racing board, its chairman and members; to the employment of an official referee (to be appointed by the chairman) who shall be required to officiate at all national circuit race meets, and to the general improvement of the racing interests of the L. A. W.

SECT. 2. (a) To the Membership Committee shall be referred as they arise, all protests against members or applicants for membership. The Committee shall act without delay, and a decision of the Committee in the case of the applicant shall be final.

(b) The committee shall have charge of methods, means and measures for recruiting the membership, and with that end in view, shall correspond with the officials of the different divisions and prepare for an interchange between them of all recruiting matter (printed or otherwise) issued by the different divisions. The committee shall make a study of and devise ways and means of increasing the membership, and from time to time shall furnish division officials with suggestions and advice embodying the results of such study."

SECT. 3. (a) The committee on rights and privileges shall consider and advise in all matters pertaining to the maintenance of the rights of wheelmen, the enactment of legislation, and the protection of the privileges of the members of the L. A. W. and may take such action in connection therewith as the circumstances of the case may require.

(b) To this committee shall be referred all questions about a contested election in any division; they shall inquire into the facts prior to the next ensuing meeting of the national assembly, and shall report to such assembly their findings on the facts, with such recommendations as they may deem proper in the premises. In each case of a contested election the decision shall rest with the national assembly, and such decision as to the right of the incumbent of a division office or claimant thereto shall be final and binding upon that division.

(c) Whenever any division or sub-division of the L. A. W. shall neglect or refuse to hold an election for officers in compliance with the provisions of this constitution and by-laws, such election may be ordered and held under the direction of the president of the League by a committee of which the chairman of the rights and privileges committee shall be one, said committee acting as nominating committee and returning board, and they shall declare the result of the election, their decision in the premises to be final. Members of any such division shall comply with the decision of the committee, and officers elected under the above rule shall serve during the unexpired balance of the regular term.

SECT. 4. To the committee on rules and regulations shall be referred all amendments to the constitution published in the official organ in compliance with Article IX of the constitution, and all amendments to the by-laws published in the official organ in compliance with Article XI of the by-laws. All such amendments the committee shall consider and present in proper form to the body authorized to act upon the same; but this provision shall not prevent the proper body from acting upon any amendment legally given notice of if the committee fail to consider the same and report upon it.

SECT. 5. It shall be the duty of the committee on the improvement of highways, to promote in the public mind, through the instrumentality of the League, a sense of the utility, general economy and desirability of high class roads, and an active sentiment in their favor; to encourage legislation requiring committees and public officials to construct and maintain good roads; to collect practical suggestions and information based upon observation and experience concerning the methods of making and mending roads; to publish printed matter calculated to further these ends, distributing the same to members of the League and highway officials, as in the judgment of the committee shall seem wise, and generally to perform such other duties as shall best promote the objects of the League.

SECT. 6. The committee on transportation shall arrange and secure special rates and agreements for the carriage of members of the League and their wheels; shall have power to represent the League in negotiation with transportation lines, and fix the routes for League travel, and also to arrange for the recovery of stolen wheels.

SECT. 7. (a) To the racing board shall be referred all matters pertaining to racing and the championships. It shall make all arrangements for the annual championships which are held under League auspices, and shall assign such other championships as are now or may be established, to be run under the auspices of such clubs or associations as it may consider most desirable, and under such conditions as it may deem expedient.

(b) It shall have the power to grant or to withhold sanctions for race meetings, and to impose penalties upon race promoters and racing men who may hold race meetings or engage in racing at the same without the official sanction of the board. But no race meeting shall receive official sanction if it is to be held on Sunday, or has upon its schedule any event which is open to woman competitors. The board shall charge a fee for each sanction, but a League club having twenty League members on its roll; or meets, the entries to which are limited to the members of the school or club holding the meet, may receive a sanction without payment of fee.

(c) It shall be the duty of the board to make inquiry regarding any wheelman whose amateur status is questioned, and all protests or charges shall be entered with the chairman of the board, who shall provide for an investigation by a member or members of the board. Pending investigation, the party against whom these charges are brought may be suspended from the track. Suspicious circumstances, which are, in the judgment of any member of the board, sufficient to make the status of any wheelman a matter of reasonable doubt, shall be the basis of an investigation, in the absence of formal protest or charges. The member or members to whom the work of investigation is assigned, shall immediately communicate with the party under suspicion, either in person or by registered letter, lay all charges before him, or set forth the circumstances which lead to a reasonable doubt, and call for an answer to the charges, or a satisfactory explanation of the circumstances which gave rise to the doubt. If the charges are proved, or the reasonable doubt is not removed, it shall be the duty of the chairman to report the findings in the official organ, declaring that the party has forfeited his amateur status, and warning all amateurs not to compete with him; and such official declaration shall carry with it expulsion from the League, if the person concerned is a member thereof.

(d) The racing board shall have the right in considering and determining questions that affect the amateur status of any cyclist, to act upon any kind of evidence, circumstantial or direct. At the termination of the investigation by the member in charge, his findings shall be submitted to the chairman, who, upon direct evidence may expel, and upon circumstantial evidence order a vote of the entire board, a majority vote of which shall expel.

(e) Whenever permission is granted to an amateur to compete at a greater distance from his legal residence than is allowed by the rule, the member of the racing board shall require a certified, itemized statement of expenses, with receipts and vouchers, and shall notify the chairman at once that said permission has been granted.

(f) Any wheelman who has been declared a professional, or suspended for misconduct, shall have the right to appeal only to the national assembly of the L. A. W., and shall be reinstated only upon recommendation of the racing board, and by the unanimous vote of the assembly.

(g) The racing board, through its chairman, shall have the right of censorship over the character of prizes offered in cycle races, and may withhold or withdraw the sanction to race promoters, providing its decisions in excluding any prize is not complied with.

(h) It shall be within the province of the racing board to suspend from the race track, for such a time as it may deem proportionate to the offence, any wheelman guilty of unfair dealing in connection with cycle racing, or ungentlemanly conduct on the track, or any wheelman who competes in a race not governed by the rules of the L. A. W., or those that may be approved by the racing board. Any wheelman who knowingly competes with one who has been suspended, will render himself liable to a like penalty.

(i) The racing board shall have the power to make such rules for its government, and the government of cycle race meetings, as may be deemed expedient, and may appoint one or more official handicappers at its discretion.

The following will be considered as unfair dealing and ungentlemanly conduct, and render the offender liable to a suspension:

1. Entering a class race to which his record does not give him the right of entry.
2. Suppression of true figures and rendering of false figures to the official handicappers.
3. The use of obscene language on the track.
4. Swearing at other competitors and at race officials.
5. Any other act which tends to disturb or obstruct a race meet.
6. Failure to pay entry fees.

ARTICLE V.

PROTESTS, SUSPENSIONS, REMOVALS AND EXPULSIONS.

SECTION 1. (a) Any member holding a position in the League, either as an officer, member of a committee, or member of the National Assembly, who shall be charged in writing by ten members of the League with malfeasance in office or with conduct prejudicial to the interests of the League, may be suspended by the president pending an investigation of the charges.

(b) Any member against whom charges have been preferred as above, shall be furnished with a copy of the charges, and shall be heard in his own defence, after not less than twenty days' notice, before a committee consisting of the president and the chairmen of the committees on rights and privileges, rules and regulations, membership and improvement of highways, and if found guilty of the charges preferred may be reprimanded, suspended for a specified time, removed from his position or expelled from the League.

(c) In case the charges are made against the president, the first vice-president shall have the powers and duties given to the president in clauses (a) and (b) above.

(d) Any member found guilty and sentenced as above shall have the right to appeal to the national assembly, a two-thirds vote of which shall be necessary to overrule the decision of the committee. Such appeal shall be filed with the secretary within twenty days after the finding of the committee, and until it shall be decided the judgment shall stand.

SECT. 2. Any member of the League, not holding a position, charged with conduct prejudicial to the interests of the organization, may be protested in writing by four members of the League. In case of such protest the charges and specifications shall be sent to the secretary, who shall make a record of the protest and forward all the papers to the membership committee. The membership committee shall furnish the protested member with a copy of the charges, and hear him in his own defence. If, after a full hearing, the committee shall find that the charges are sustained, it may impose a penalty of reprimand, suspension or expulsion, but in the latter case an appeal may be taken to the rights and privileges committee.

SECT. 3. A member of the League charged with being a professional wheelman may be protested in writing by any member. In case of such protest the charges and specifications shall be sent to the secretary, who shall make a record of the protest and forward all the papers to the racing board. In a case of this nature the racing board shall proceed as provided in Article IV., Section 7 of these by-laws, and its judgment shall be final and without appeal.

SECT. 4. An applicant for membership may be protested in writing by any member, but the protest must be in the hands of the secretary within two weeks from the date on which the applicant's name is published in the official organ. All such protests shall be regarded as confidential, so far as a disclosure of the protesting member's name is concerned. The secretary shall make a record of the protest, and forward all the papers to the membership committee. If after a full hearing the committee shall find that the protest is a just one it shall sustain the charges and deny the applicant admission. If the protest charges the applicant with being a professional, the committee may refer the protest to the racing board for investigation, and in such case shall abide by the decision of the board in its finding for or against the applicant.

In case an applicant is denied admission his fee shall be returned.

SECT. 5. Expulsion from League clubs shall entail expulsion from the League provided the membership committee concur therein. When a member has been expelled from a League club and the club desires his expulsion from the League, the secretary of the club shall forward to the secretary of the League a full statement of the circumstances which led to the expulsion. The secretary shall make a record of the case and forward the papers to the membership committee. If the membership committee shall find that the offence against the club was also an offence against the League, or if they shall find that the best interests of the League call for the expulsion of the member, they shall direct the secretary to expunge the name from the books.

ARTICLE VI.

SECTION 1. Members removing from one division to another may obtain membership in the latter division by filing with the secretary of the League and the secretary-treasurers of both divisions notice of intention of such change, accompanied by a fee of twenty-five cents. Upon receipt of such notice the secretary of the League shall forthwith transfer the applicant as requested and shall debit the old and credit the new division with an equitable share of the fee and dues paid to the League during the year current by the member asking for the transfer.

ARTICLE VII.

ASSESSMENT OF DIVISIONS.

The national assembly may at any meeting, by a vote of the members and proxies present, lay a per capita assessment upon the divisions.

ARTICLE VIII.

UNIFORM AND BADGES.

The uniform of the League shall be of cloth adopted by the national assembly, or by a special committee on uniform, and shall be made as follows:

The coat shall consist of a single-breasted sacque, square front, to button up close to the chin, with six L. A. W. buttons; falling collar, fitting closely around the neck; no inside lining; a facing of the same goods back to the arms and over the shoulders, double-stitched edges, and welted seams; four outside patch-pockets; two small buttons on each sleeve at the underseam.

The knee breeches shall button at the bottom on the outside with three small L. A. W. buttons; reinforced seat; two hip pockets and one watch pocket; French fly; five loops for belt of same cloth on the waist band; the V notch at the back to adjust with lace eyelets.

The vest shall be single-breasted, six L. A. W. buttons, no collar, four outside pockets.

Cap; L. A. W. cloth, flat top, soft crown, silk lined, falling visor, L. A. W. buttons, black silk velours band, and silk cord, four ventilators in top.

Hose: Ribbed woolen, of color to match suit.

Shirt: Gray flannel, to button in front; one breast pocket.

SECT. 2. The executive committee may appoint a national tailor for the League, and each chief consul may appoint a division tailor for his division under such regulations and restrictions as the committee on uniform may make and impose.

SECT. 3. The emblem or badge of the League shall be a wheel, having upon its side three wings radiating from the hub to the rim at equal distances apart, and the letters "L. A. W." on the spokes between the wings.

(b) The emblems of the officials of the League shall be such as are established by the executive committee.

SECT. 4. Wearing the uniform or the badge shall not be compulsory, nor can they be held to indicate membership in the League, the League ticket being the only reliable certificate of membership.

ARTICLE IX.

SEAL OF THE LEAGUE.

The seal of the League shall be a fac simile of the League badge surrounded by the words "League of American Wheelmen, Organized 1880."

ARTICLE X.

ELECTION BY BALLOT.

All officers of the League shall be elected by written or printed ballot, and a majority of all the votes cast shall be necessary to elect. Each officer shall be elected by a separate ballot.

ARTICLE XI.

ADDITIONS AND AMENDMENTS.

SECTION 1. The executive committee may amend these by-laws at any time when the national assembly shall have amended the constitut tion and rendered these by-laws inconsistent therewith. But this power to amend shall be limited to such changes as shall remove the inconsistencies. Announcement of all such amendments shall be published in the official organ.

SECT. 2. Additions or amendments to the by-laws may be made by the national assembly, by a two-thirds vote, but it shall make no amendment unless thirty days' notice thereof shall have been given through the columns of the official organ.

NATIONAL ASSEMBLY PICTURE.

A successful photograph of the members of the national assembly, L. A. W., was taken on the lawn in front of the Royal Arcanum building, by Mr. Kirkness, an expert photographer of this city.

Mr. Kirkness has gone to the expense of making this picture upon the assurance that we would aid him in securing a certain number of orders; and as he has made the price very low, ($1.50) on this lot, I write to say that anyone can get an 18x22 copy of this picture by sending the order to me.

ROBT. H. CARR, JR.,
Sec.-Treas Md. Div., L. A. W.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 22, 1896.

MISSOURI COMMISSIONS.

The board of officers have fixed the rates of commissions for '96 as follows: For each new member, 20 cents; for each renewal, 5 cents. Please recall this in remitting and further remember that commissions are not payable in advance but at the end of the quarter, during which the remittance was sent in.

WILLIAM M. BUTLER, Sec.-Treas.

OHIO DIVISION.

The following local consuls have been recently appointed: M.G.Gill, 410 Wisconsin Street, Toledo; A. E. Chase, Toledo Blade, Toledo; E. J. Northrup, 440 Parker Street, Toledo, (for East Toledo) C. H. Yaxley, Willoughby; W. H. Bann, Batavia; C. W. Murphey, Lee; and also the following League hotel: The Kingsley, Willoughby, $1.50 per day, meals 40 cents.

ARTHUR B. HOWSON, Sec.-Treas.

CHILLICOTHE, O., Feb. 25, 1896.

NEBRASKA.

I hereby announce the following appointments of local consuls in the Nebraska division: Geo. M. Randall, Omaha; J. B. McDonald, North Platte; L. T. Brodstone, Superior; Frank M. Tessier, Sutton; D. C. Eldredge, York; H. Hapeman, Minden; S. F. Balliet, North Bend; Frank A. Bodinson, Kearney.

A. R. EDMISTON, Chief Consul.

LINCOLN, NEB., Feb. 25, 1896.

MEMBERS OF THE IOWA DIVISION.

The tags are now ready for your wheels. If you wish to avail yourself of the reward of $30.00 for recovery of your wheel, if stolen, and secure the $25.00 payment to yourself in case wheel is not recovered within sixty days apply to me enclosing 2 cent stamp giving name of and number of your wheel and I will forward to you blank contract and tag. Wheels must be registered with me.

A. C. MILLER, Sec-Treas.,
Iowa State Division, L. A. W.

DES MOINES, Feb. 17, 1896.

KENTUCKY ROAD BOOK.

The supply of road books of Kentucky division is exhausted. The book is in process of revision, and as soon as the work can be completed the new edition will be issued in enlarged and improved form.

OWEN LAWSON, Sec. Treas.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Feb. 26, 1896.

KENTUCKY VICE-CONSUL.

John M. Cromwell, of Cynthiana, is appointed vice-consul of Kentucky division, L. A. W., vice Marmaduke B. Bowden, resigned.

By order of the chief consul. OWEN LAWSON, Sec. Treas.

LOUISVILLE, KY., Feb. 27, 1896.

NEBRASKA DIVISION.

I shall be glad to have recommendations for appointments of local consuls in this division at as early a date as possible. Our division must show a handsome gain in membership in 1896, and it can only be done by the active co operation of our members.

Any other suggestions as to League work will be gladly received. I trust that Mr. L. T. Brodstone's request for information for our new road book will meet with a hearty response. Mr. Brodstone's address is Superior, Neb.

A. R. EDMISTON, Chief Consul.

TO ALL NEW YORK MEMBERS.

THE ARMSTRONG BILL in the assembly at Albany, needs the hearty and immediate support of every loyal member of our division. On Tuesday, February 25, at a hearing before the railroad committee, two members of "The Cyclists Federation" of New York, ignoring the sentiment of that organization, presented arguments in opposition to the bill and suggested a "compromise" allowing the railroad companies to make specific charges for carrying bicycles and insuring to the companies the right to collect thousands of dollars each year from touring wheelmen in addition to the regular charge for passengers and baggage. The Armstrong bill was introduced at the request of the L. A. W., and has the substantial approval of wheelmen in all of our sixty counties. Without commenting on the discourteous conduct of the two gentlemen who claimed to represent "The Cyclists Federation," I ask my fellow members of the State division to try by every proper means to overcome its hurtful influence, and to take prompt measures to secure all the legislative support possible to insure the passage of this bill. Circulars containing hints and instructions will be sent on receipt of postal card request.

ISAAC B. POTTER, Chief Consul.

VANDERBILT BUILDING, N. Y. City.

TO BROOKLYN MEMBERS.

The Cycle Show to be held at the old 13th Regiment Armory (Hanson place and Flatbush avenue) next week under auspices of "The Cycle Club of Brooklyn," will contain a booth devoted to the purposes of the L. A. W., and I earnestly hope all our members in and near Brooklyn will be present. Thursday, Mar. 12 will be "L. A. W. Day" at the show, and every effort should be put forth by our members to insure a large and representative attendance. On the evening of the 12th inst., I should be pleased to meet all Brooklyn consuls at the show and to talk with them about League affairs for 1896.

ISAAC B. POTTER, Chief Consul.

ATTENTION, CHIEF CONSULS.

Local Organization.

At the last meeting of the national assembly on motion of Mr. Potter it was voted to establish a new committee which should consist of all chief consuls from divisions having over one thousand members.

The object of this committee is to perfect a system of local organization throughout the country which may act in harmony with the League to the end that street sprinkling, street cleaning and street improvement may be more carefully looked after than at present; also for any other appropriate purpose.

This committee has, as yet, held no meeting. We would suggest that chief consuls of all divisions having more than one thousand members communicate with this office giving their views as to what action should be taken; the first and most important move being the election of a chairman, which may be done by a mail vote.

Will such chief consuls please consider this an official call for a vote on the office of chairman and at once communicate their preference to me?

STERLING ELLIOTT, President L. A. W.

NEBRASKA.

I hereby announce the following appointments of local consuls for the Nebraska division: H. B. Sabin, Beatrice; E. L. Laycock, McCook; Jno. D. Forbes, Ponca; G. Kramer, St. Paul; H. A. Graff, Seward; J. H. Haldeman, Weeping Water; W. A. Kinnamon, Fairbury; D. B. Potter, Fairfield; Fred. W. Hayes, Broken Bow; F. S. Thompson, Albion; B. M. Mason, Hastings; Albert C. Hiser, Lexington; L. H. Blackledge, Culbertson; O. R. Schroeder, Elwood; H. A. Hardin, Liberty.

A. R. EDMISTON, Chief Consul.

LINCOLN, NEB., Feb. 20, 1896.

NEBRASKA.

Pursuant to the constitution and by-laws of this division, a meeting of the board of officers of the Nebraska division is hereby called to meet at Lincoln, Neb., at the Linden Hotel, on Saturday, May 9th, at 8 P. M.

A. R. EDMISTON, Chief Consul.

LINCOLN, NEB., March 2, 1896.

IOWA BUTTONS.

All new members in Iowa will be furnished with buttons by secretary-treasurer, A. C. Miller, E. 6th and Locust streets, Des Moines, Ia.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to Monday preceding this date, and published in accordance with Article III of the constitution.

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published and to report errors and omissions to the secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at noon on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

QUERIES AND ANSWERS

Twenty-six inch wheels:

In reply to several correspondents we would say that for extremely smooth roads the 26-inch wheel is very satisfactory, though for ordinary "going" 28 inches is better.

No. 62,597 and others:

The inconsistency noticed in the L. A. W. ticket was confined to a very small number which were first printed. The ticket as at present made is all right.

No. 68,514, New Brunswick, N. J.:

We do not, ordinarily, recommend the rebuilding of a wheel which is several years old, however good it may be, though such remodelling is sometimes done successfully. It is usually better to "swap" the old wheel in to the agent and get a new one which is adapted to all requirements.

No. 74,445:

Your clipping is good. We have published the same matter in different form, several times.

R. W. J., Brooklyn:

For information regarding the Century Road Club of America address the secretary, C. M. Fairchild, 334 Dearborn St., Chicago.

No. 89,634:

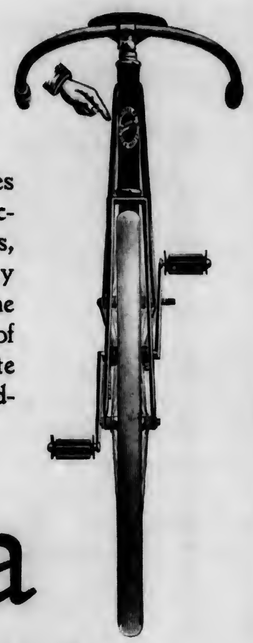
For information concerning European tours secure the Continental Hand Book, issued by the Cyclists' Tour Club of London.

S. D. Baird, Neenah, Wis.:

It ought not to be difficult for you to find a companion for your proposed trip through England, Scotland and Ireland. Many Americans will make bicycle tours through those countries this year.

A TOURIST WANTS A COMPANION.

Fred. D. Osborn, 367 West 56th street, New York City, contemplates a three weeks' trip to Montreal. Would like a companion.



WHAT'S YOUR NAME?

No. 86,736:

Yours of Feb. 27 received. Statements made in reference to baggage were correct as applied to a great many railroads. The railroad to which you refer, however, is one of the exceptions.

Do not hesitate to sign your name; it need not be published unless you desire.

CORRESPONDENCE

THE DOG AND THE LAW.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

In last week's issue the question was asked "has a rider the right to shoot a dog that attacks him on the public highway?"

In Massachusetts, no. Our statute provides ample security from the attacks of the ruthless cur. A good dog will know his place and keep it, others can be made to.

Let the members of each locality of L. A. W., canvas their own town or city, and wherever a vicious dog can be found, enter a complaint against his owner, with the town or city clerk, who will furnish a certificate to the complainant, who shall hand it in person to the owner of the dog, a duplicate of this certificate is placed on file by the clerk.

When this has been done the owner will at once go to the city or town clerk and ask what it means, when he will be informed that if the dog after the date of the certificate is caught outside of his enclosure without a muzzle he may be killed by any one.

The result will be in nineteen cases out of twenty the dog will be taken care of.

My boy was pulled off his wheel by a dog, his clothing torn, and flesh so lacerated as to need a doctor; I applied the above remedy and the dog has not been seen in these parts since, and his owner has not spoken to me since, which of course does not trouble me much.

I would suggest that a copy of the statute referring to the above be published in the L. A. W.

PITTSBURG TO LOUISVILLE.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Answering F. P. D., of Pittsburg, for best route to Louisville, Ky., take national pike via Uniontown, Pa., to Wheeling and Columbus, O., and write me for detail of route from that point, also if H. A. L., of Grand Rapids, will send his address I can give him shortest and best route from Fort Wayne, Ind., to Louisville. I covered both these routes last summer.

THE DOG IN OHIO.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I have been reading this "dog question" in the BULLETIN and feel like giving my opinion, for what it is worth. As a wheelman and one that rides constantly, I can speak from experience, not theory, on this subject.

We have dogs here in Ohio by the wholesale, retail, and without any tail, too numerous to mention. Here in our little city of ten thousand inhabitants, we have fully one third this number of canines, good, bad, and indifferent, and in my opinion they are a superfluous nuisance that should be done away with. They are, in a great many instances, a burden to their owners, and I am sure they are a nuisance to the public.

I have had several narrow escapes in the performance of my official duties as a letter carrier, with this friend of the few (the dog). Not later than yesterday, I had the misfortune to come in contact with a large spaniel that threw me to the ground with such violence that it turned my handle bar, tore the tire half off my wheel, and gave me a badly sprained wrist. I am sure it was no fault of mine, but the fault of the dog.

There is no wheelmen that is going to run over a dog or anything else, if they can prevent it. And it is my opinion that the time has come when the State divisions and the locals under them must take some kind of action in regard to this public nuisance. No. 72,924 states that he has ridden three thousand miles in New York, Conn., Mass., R. I., and Maine, and has not been bothered with dogs. In my opinion this is speaking very highly of these States, and I will venture to say, if he was to come to this section of Ohio, he would encounter danger before he had ridden ten miles.

We have a law here that prohibits dogs from running at large, unless accompanied by their owners, and wearing a collar. The law is:

The owner or harborer of any animal of the dog kind who permits such animal to be at large, away from the premises occupied by him, unaccompanied by any person, shall be fined five dollars; and any person may kill any such animal found so running at large.

Sec. 7008 R. S. of Ohio, 1891, vol. 2.

I will further say there is not one dog in twenty-five that is given in to the assessor for taxation. So taking this fact into consideration, we as a body of wheelmen are to be blamed for this state of affairs. It is just as essential to the L. A. W. to get rid of this dog question as it is for them to improve the highways. The better the roads the more speed, consequently in case of collision with a dog the greater the danger is of life and limb. What say you, L. A. W. members?

A Dollar's Worth of Guaranty, and a Cyclometer "thrown in."

When you buy a No. 1 "Standard" Cyclometer, your dollar not only pays for the undisputed best 1,000 mile cyclometer to be had, but pays also for a guaranty which doubles the value of your investment. This is the only cyclometer in which first cost covers final cost. You puncture your tire, and must add the cost of repairs to the original cost of your wheel; and similarly, if you break your chain, or knock the glass out of your lantern, or fracture your handle-bar or what not. If your "Standard" Cyclometer is injured in any accident to the bicycle, send it to us by mail and you will receive another without charge. Such a guaranty can only be afforded when the Cyclometer is preeminently fit. Such is the unique "Standard" guaranty. A thousand unfortunate (but fortunate) wheelmen, victims of accidents in 1895, have testified, in letters to us of enthusiastic praise, that ours is the guaranty that guarantees.

CATALOGUES.

We take pleasure in making mention in this column of any bicycle catalogue which may be sent us. If our readers who send for any of the catalogues mentioned will kindly say that the notice was seen in the L. A. W. BULLETIN it will be appreciated by us as well as by the manufacturer.

Crescent.

Keating.

The Keating Wheel Co., Holyoke, Mass., issue a neat little booklet concerning the "Keating" wheel, in which it is announced that two two-cent stamps will bring their larger illustrated art catalogue.

Rock and Ore Breakers.

The Gates Iron Works, 650 Elston ave., Chicago, has issued a catalogue of interest to makers of ballast and macadam, as it contains information regarding rock and ore breakers.

Bicycle Repair.

"The Bicycle: Its Care and Repair," by C. Van Culin, Delaware City, Del., is a pocket booklet that every wheel rider and repairer will find of much practical worth. It sells for 25 cents.

LEAP YEAR HINTS.

Dear girls, with leap year now at hand you have a splendid chance
To catch one of those bipeds of the sex that wears the pants:
So here are just a few plain rules we have designed for those
Of you who are not fully up on how you should propose.

If you would win a poet, take him by the finger tips
And very gently press them to the roses of your lips,
And rave about two kindred souls and hearts in perfect rhyme;
Swear by the sun and moon and stars — 'twill fetch him every time.

A widower is easy and he must have been a l——r
Who started that old fib that says "a burnt child dreads the fire,"
For men who know the meanness of deceitful woman's ways
Would all get swindled if they could once every thirty days.

But if a practical young man you think you'd like to snare,
One who has lots of good, hard sense, but not a cent to spare,
Don't reach for him with poetry or any silly slop,
But jingle dollars in his ears — you'll get him every pop.

IT isn't always modesty that keeps people from telling the naked truth.

LET'S PULL TOGETHER.

The above picture, which our country readers will recognize as having been taken from life, is respectfully dedicated to the Cyclists' Federation and the L. A. W. of New York.

A bill is before the legislature of that State having for its object the carrying of bicycles by the railroads as baggage. This bill is backed by the New York division of the L. A. W., with a membership of over ten thousand. The Cyclists' Federation of New York city, a local organization, sent two of its members to Albany to work for the bill. Being satisfied that the bill could not pass, these two men took the responsibility of publicly advocating an amendment which would fix for the railroads a legal right to charge for carrying wheels, a right, by the way, which at present has no good foundation.

Total number printed this week, . . . 43,500
Sent to paid Subscribers, ... 41,677
Samples to Advertisers, Exchanges, etc., 1,823

This placed the wheelmen in the exceedingly weak position of being divided against themselves, with the inevitable result that their force was wasted in pulling against each other, instead of using their united efforts toward the accomplishment of the end in view.

It looks at this distance as though there are people in New York who think more of "downing Potter" than they do of the interests of wheeling. Our sympathies are naturally with the L. A. W. and we may be permitted to remark that Chief Consul Potter occupies a position as a League worker which cannot be successfully assailed. It is true that no man is perfect, and at best we can only count the balance that remains after subtracting his faults from his virtues, but if those who are clamoring for the downfall of what they are pleased to term "Potterism" could be induced to "take account of stock" and examine carefully their own claims to the consideration of wheelmen before throwing stones at Mr. Potter, we believe the result would justify the effort.

Petty personal spite is one of the strongest evidences of the correctness of the Darwinian theory.

Men are only civilized in proportion as they outgrow the instincts of the lower animals.

When a plain private citizen exhibits his teeth and utters the ancestral growl, we think but little of it, because the effect is limited, but when a partially civilized man happens to have access to the columns of a paper which multiplies the corrosive effect of his dyspeptic barbarism, then the harm becomes more apparent and the spectacle is one which all thinking people regret.

To criticise is easy.

To suggest is more difficult.

Let us look for general results rather than to waste valuable time in finding fault with men or methods.

If we wait until all conditions are exactly right we shall do nothing.

United action is what counts.

Let us waive personal feeling, or if we cannot do that, let us ask some kind friend to pull us out of the race.

Let us not be oxen.

ADVANTAGES OF NOVELTY.

'Twas not the most heroic ones in any age or clime
Whose names have come resounding through the corridors of time,
But rather those who n fate hath linked to something quite unique,
And forced upon them unawares renown they did not seek.
George Washington could not have won the niche he occupies
Had he like many other boys began by telling lies.
Columbus found our native land, no sailor could be truer,
But 'till he stood the egg on end his fame was insecure.
The advertiser who would have the public of him think
Must go outside the beaten track, then use the printers' ink.

Points Worth Remembering...

Keep your wheel clean.
Oil your chain.
Don't oil the enamel or tires.
Don't attempt to "true up" your wheel—it's a "trick" to do it.
Keep your tires inflated hard.
Tighten every nut in your wheel when its new.
Never loosen a nut if you can help it.
Don't lend your bicycle. If you get a saddle that fits, keep it.
Never tell a maker that it "broke down on a perfectly smooth road." He knows that.

NEW CLIPPERS...

THE ARMSTRONG BILL.

At present there is no law which says that a bicycle is not baggage.

The railroad companies, a few of them, insist that wheels shall not be carried except when paid for.

One hundred and thirty-two transportation companies in this country now carry wheels without extra charge.

We of the L. A.W. claim that all roads should.

We must oppose anything which "progresses" (?) in the wrong direction.

The Armstrong bill, as "amended," would give to the railroads a legal right which at present is at best an open question.

If the courts should decide that bicycles may be charged for, the question of how large the charge shall be may be left for the present.

What we must avoid is the passage of any law which will take away the chance of success which we now have.

The bill at Albany as originally drawn is a good bill to push.

Nothing can be gained by an amendment which amends all the virtue out of the bill, and places us farther back by several miles than we were at the start.

Wheelmen every where should support the Armstrong bill, but in any event a small minority should not openly oppose the will of the ninety and nine at this stage of the game.

LOOK AT YOUR WRAPPER.

We refer to the wrapper in which this paper is sent. You will notice that your name is printed on a little pink slip and after the name is a date.

As in the following sample:

John Smith 17May96
12 Pearl St Boston Mass

(and we ask the pardon of Mr. Smith for thus dragging his name before the public gaze) the wrapper of each copy sent shows that John Smith subscribed for the L. A. W. BULLETIN on the 17th of May and that he will not receive any paper after "17 May, '96." If you wish to renew, and of course you do, you should attend to the matter before your present year runs out so as not to cause an unpleasant hiatus (see Standard Dictionary, page 846).

A large number of subscriptions will expire at the end of this month.

So far as the L. A. W. membership is concerned it may be renewed any time before June 1st, but the L. A. W. BULLETIN cannot be sent to League members after the expiration of membership.

To those who renew later and want back numbers of the L. A. W. BULLETIN, we would say that we cannot agree to furnish them, as we are unable to foresee the demand and do not regularly print but a small number of extra copies.

Watch the date of expiration on wrapper and renew at least two weeks before that date.

TIM and I were friends, until one day
He bought himself a wheel—a Sterling, by the way;
From that time on we seemed to drift apart,
For every evening after work he'd start
To scorch away along the road and pike
Until he had me crazy for a bike.
Now, while Tim's wheel was elegant to see—
A dream of beauty, grace and symmetry—
Yet to its points I did not seem to take
And so: went and bought another make.
Time rolled along as time is apt to do,
And every year I purchased something new.
I always had to give a heap to boot
And fondly dreamed that each would surely suit;
Meanwhile, upon that selfsame steed,
Tim still continued all to lead.
During these years a single copper cent
Has never yet upon his wheel been spent.
There is no lamp, a learned man doth say,
Like to experience to light our way;
And so at last true happiness I feel,
Mounted upon a peerless Sterling wheel,
Riding along beside my old friend Tim
No more I have to groan and envy him.

Take Tim's advice and ride a SOLID STERLING in '96. Send for Art Catalog.

RECRUITING IDEAS.

W. L. Baldrige, local consul at Hollidaysburg, Pa., has issued a well-printed card having for a heading the names of the bicycles for which he is agent, followed by this announcement.

Mr.....

Dear Sir,—Having been appointed local consul for the L. A. W., I take pleasure in soliciting your application for membership.

The good work done by the League is recognized by all, and it deserves the hearty and continued support of all cyclers.

From two to three weeks elapse between the receipt of applications and the issuance of membership cards, hence I would urge early attention. Kindly fill in the blank on the reverse of this card and leave at our agency.

Yours fraternally, W. L. BALDRIGE,
Local Consul, L. A. W.

On the reverse side is a neat application blank, which certainly ought to be numerously signed.

READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS.

We often receive letters asking us which is the best pneumatic tire, bicycle, pedal, puncture proof device, etc., "and so on." We cannot undertake to recommend any particular goods except to say that all advertisers in the L. A. W. BULLETIN are reputable people and are deserving of patronage.

There, little by-path, don't you cry,
You'll be a highway by-and-by.

THE CYCLISTS' FEDERATION OF NEW YORK

Offered as one of the inducements to people to join that organization, that they were working to get bicycles carried as baggage. In line with that idea, they sent two members of their law committee to Albany to work for the Armstrong bill.

Those two members took the responsibility of opposing the bill, and thus opposing the will of the people who had created them a committee. The third member of that law committee, however, objected, he was unavoidably prevented from attending the meeting of the federation last Saturday, but sent in the following letter:

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE CYCLISTS' FEDERATION OF NEW YORK:

As you are aware I strenuously opposed the "approval" of the action of our Albany committee at the executive meeting on Tuesday evening last, and have had no reason since then, to change my opinion.

I believe its action was not alone discourteous toward the Federation, toward the L. A. W., but also to Mr. Armstrong, the mover of the bill, who had devoted many weeks of careful preparation in the formulating of this most desirable Act.

I believe, too, that its action will afford the enemies of "Bicycle Baggage Bills" throughout the United States, a ready pretext, a precedent and a reason to avoid the granting of this much desired relief to cyclists.

I cannot agree with the views of our Albany committee that it had "power" to change the express commands of the Federation, which were "to support the Armstrong Baggage Bill.

This view finds confirmation in the enumeration of the "Objects of the Federation" as set forth on our membership blanks, viz: "Bicycles to be accepted as baggage."

I believe that it was not within the scope of the sub-committee's powers or within the purview of their duty "to agree" to the amendment to the "Armstrong baggage bill," a copy of which is set forth in the notes from the secretary's desk."

There are three "bicycle baggage bills" before the legislatures of three different States, and a fourth bill before the house of representatives at Washington

The action of the federation this evening will favorably or unfavorably affect these pending bills.

My personal regard for the Albany committee ought not, does not blind me to the dangers to present and future bicycle legislation that lie ambushed behind the terms of the amendment.

Nothing but my deep interest in our own federation and in legislation favorable to cyclists' interests impel me, as a member of the law committee, to give expression to my views and to sound this note of warning.

With assurances of regard and esteem, and in the earnest hope that our members will in positive terms disapprove of the amendment, I remain WM. GEO. OPPENHEIM.

PURE WATER.

The article in this number relating to polluted well, spring, and other drinking waters, by George F. Kunz, special agent in charge of precious stones U. S. geological survey, is worthy of careful consideration by all wheelmen. Mr. Kunz was honorary commissioner of mines, Cotton States and International Exposition, Atlanta, Ga.; special agent, United States, in charge of mineralogy and metallurgy at Paris Exposition in 1889, and special agent at the World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, 1893. That the writer of the article appearing in this number knew whereof he wrote, is evidenced by the fact that soon after he began preparing it he was taken down with typhoid fever, brought on by the unhappy causes his article aims to remove.

A TEMPERANCE REFORMER.

THE drinking habit is being lessened in a noticeable degree, so some saloon-keepers say, by the widespread use of the bicycle.

Now and then there is a man who can get so much liquor in him it would drown him if he were in it, and yet he can walk home and convince his wife that the peculiar scent on his breath comes from taking cough syrup the doctor prescribed, or from eating a perfectly innocent clove. He may even be able to glibly repeat the words "Truly rural," or "She sells sea shells," but the chances are he could not, though he were an expert bicyclist, mount and ride a wheel under the then existing conditions.

The bicycle, itself, is a born wobbler. Left to its own inclinations, and it will lie down, if it has anything like a fair chance. It doesn't like the smell of liquor so they say. Just the minute liquor is breathed on the front tire and handle bars of a bicycle it begins to waver and wiggle and wobble. It is looking for trouble. Under such conditions it is very likely to run into a lamp post or a stone wall, or plunge into a ditch and lie there till it sobers up.

The bicycle is, by its very inherent nature, a teetotaller. It is great on curves but is no good in rye-tangles. Next to having sound lungs, a bicycle must have a clear brain and an easy conscience.

But the bicycle is an advocate of temperance, not because it cannot drink, but because the whole atmosphere of its surroundings tends to make it desire temperance.

The bicycle is the very embodiment of healthful exercise, pure country air, happy fields, whispering forests, shady lanes, smiling sunshine, and all the gracious sights and scents and sounds of glen and glade.

Would anyone forego these to loiter about in the distressed atmosphere of a dram shop, or trade the joy of them for a befuddled brain. The sermons which the fields and flowers, the brooks and the birds, the sea and the shore and the sky preach get into the blood. Their medicine is the very best when properly taken — on a bicycle.

THE first lady cyclist to receive permission from the prefect of police to ride in the streets of St. Petersburg, secured her permit last month, after first undergoing an examination of her riding capacities. The fact of the permit being granted was considered sufficiently remarkable to warrant a special cable on the subject.

CONCERNING COAT BUTTONS.

We learn from a correspondent that the buttons which men wear at the intersection of their coat-tails did, at one time, have a use which is explained as follows.

The reader will kindly understand that we do not vouch for the correctness of this explanation.

He says: "At one time men wore coat-tails which were so long that they nearly touched the ground and that when they danced it was necessary to button them up to keep them out of the way of their legs, and for that purpose these two buttons were used."

Perhaps the printing of this legend may suggest to the enthusiastic dress reformer some interesting possibilities.

THE wheelmen of Newark, N. J., have an opportunity to work for the nomination and election of a brother League member, Abram P. Cooper, who as a member of the board of street and water commissioners would be in a position to greatly further the cause of bicycling and properly kept and sprinkled streets. A fair-haired midget speeding by — Little girl, not three feet high.
Papa's Darling, Mamma's Sweet,
All alone on crowded street.

Without guardian, without maid,
Little woman, calm and staid;
Quick of action, cool of nerve,
Danger 'scaping by deft swerve.

Even when there scarce seems way
For horses, wagons, carriage, dray,
Papa's Darling wheels along,
Deftly threading through the throng.

'Neath horses' heads and carriage pole,
'Twixt loaded trucks and carts of coal;
Now close pursued at reckless speed
By dudish driver's prancing steed.

But oh! She's down! Death she will meet
'Neath cruel wheels and steel-shod feet.
Ah, joy! Out rings a merry peal —
Out flashes little girl and wheel

With laughter, calming others' fears,
As she will do in coming years,
When, quick of thought and cool of hand,
Nerves, muscles, wits, in full command,
Life's dangers, with same tact, she'll meet,
As those now met on crowded street,
And, as she guides her steed of steel,
She'll others guide, through woe and weal.

THE Philistines of coarse criticism and jealous censure have turned loose upon Mr. James B. Townsend, one of the most active of the local consuls of the New York State division, on account of a statement made in his masterly address before the national assembly at Baltimore, on the evils of racing, to the effect that "Society had made bicycling popular."

Now, everybody and all their friends are coming out and expressing his or her individual opinion and contempt of and for society, and society's doings and edicts generally. But all the world and all its friends seem to forget that before the Michaux club was formed, and society in New York, and later on, in Newport, took to wheeling as the proper thing, and an excellent means of exercise, and substitute for horse-back riding, the number of women of standing and prominence in society who rode bicycles could be counted without much effort.

But, presto! as soon as these social leaders took it up, all made haste to purchase bicycles and a proper dress therefor. Then began in earnest the dress discussion, and the sayings and doings of the fashionable people on the subjects of wheeling and wheeling dress were published, quoted and re-quoted, as pearls of wisdom from the fairy godmother's lips. Society almost at once tabooed bloomers and knickerbockers (even though some of the ultra fashionable had the most beautiful and artistic of garments made after this style, and imported direct from Paris), and, like magic, again, women who had heretofore worn them exclusively, and had actually subjected themselves to the woes and miseries which always follow in the wake of the reformer or pioneer in any movement, and whose better halves were loud in their praises and protestations in favor of bloomers and knickerbockers, and who had made vows that never again would they ride with a woman who wore a skirt, because she kept them back, insisted that she immediately lay them aside as very improper and immodest, and don the short, leather-bound skirt, introduced and worn by the "400."

Regardless of all that can or has been said for or against society, not necessarily the "400," the great mass of good, responsible, self-respecting people to whom Mr. Townsend referred when he spoke of "society," did make wheeling popular when they set the stamp of their approval upon it by taking to it. And if the New York State division and all the other divisions had more men connected officially with it and them, like Mr. Townsend, they would guide the League of American Wheelmen as safely into established prosperity and permanence, as "society" has guided bicycling into lasting and unquestioned popularity.

APROPOS of this "society" discussion, we quote Mr. Worth, son of and successor to the great Parisian authority on fashion and artistic dress: "We believe that fashion is in some way a synthesis of ideas, at first vague, which having arrived at maturity, are co-ordinated under the influences of numerous impressions of the same order. We always find in the prevailing mode a trace of that which preceded it, hence it is impossible to introduce an absolutely new style of dress or anything else; all things work themselves out through the power and process of evolution, and in order to establish a new fashion, or a new means of enjoyment, it is necessary that it should be taken up or adopted by a man or a woman whose reputation for correct elegance, and whose social position is such as to permit of any innovation."

So it was with bicycling dress and the bicycle. The woman outside the pale of fashionable society, seeing the women of the swell and exclusive sets in their perfectly fitting and artistic garments, ordered one like it.

There is an old and trite saying that "it is a poor rule that won't work both ways." Now the rule governing cycling dress, contrary to the working of most rules, has worked forward from the "ridiculous to the sublime," rather than from the "sublime to the ridiculous." Usually the dress and manners of fashionable people are so aped and exaggerated, that what was once graceful and elegant becomes loud and ridiculous, and is abandoned by people of good taste. But in wheeling dress the reverse has been the case, as from ridiculous, ungraceful, clumsy, ugly, and in many instances coarse and vulgar, it has worked itself forward through the sanction and guidance of the fashionable, refined sets, to graceful and elegant beauty, and appropriate harmony.

THE battle in the ranks of the cyclists' federation, over the miscarriage, on account of the peculiar action taken by their representatives, of the Armstrong bill, waxes hot and furious. All sorts of rumors are afloat concerning the outcome. The one point upon which all the members seem to agree, is, that unless the two gentlemen who took it upon themselves to settle matters to suit themselves, can give most excellent reasons for their actions, they will be asked to resign from the organization.

Mr. James B. Townsend, first vice-president, says, in a telegram to Mr. Armstrong: "Law committee of the cyclists' federation has adopted a formal resolution, disapproving of the action of Tinsdale before the railroad committee, and calling for the withdrawal of the proposition for compromise amendments."

A prominent lady member said, when approached upon the subject: "I cannot imagine what they were thinking about to have done so iniquitous a thing, after all the work and time that has been spent upon the pushing of that bill. Many things have been said, among them, that railroad influence was brought to bear upon them, or, at least, upon one of them. As to that, I cannot say, not knowing. But what I can and do say is this — the League will be upheld. Mr. Potter was right. In fact we consider him always right. He, and he alone, has been the direct means of making the New York State division what it is to-day, a body with which no man or woman, no matter what their standing or position in life may be, need be ashamed to be connected with. We are of the League and with it in all that concerns the best interests of cyclists. Our Albany representatives will be given every opportunity to explain, but it requires quite a stretch of the imagination to figure out how they will do it."

THE BICYCLE AS A LIFE SAVER.

We hear so often and so seldom see the clamorous pedestrian who has been juggernauted by the bicycle fiend, that it is refreshing to read in the Review of the touring club of France an instance of the wheel acting as a guardian angel instead of skurrying about as a destroying demon.

So that the statement may be verified by any doubter, time, place and names are given.

Mr. Talamon, of 14 Rue Richelieu, Paris, and his son-in-law, Mr. Wallaert, were on the 11 January, 1896, in a close carriage. The coachman had been thrown from the box, and a runaway horse with the bit in his teeth, was, as a dime novel would say, rushing them madly to destruction, on the Cours de la Reine and near the Palais de L'Industrie. Mr. Henri Chailloux on his faithful bike set in pursuit, overhauled the horse and seizing the bridle succeeded in checking speed so that Mr. Wallaert could jump out and stop the horse. Such instance of coolness and courage certainly deserves wide mention.

APPEAL TO CONGRESS.

Howard A. Broat, an enthusiastic young bicyclist of Minneapolis, is circulating a petition, which is to be presented to the national congress, and which pertains to the alleged discrimination upon the part of railroads in the matter of imposing what are called exorbitant charges for bicycles carried for passengers. The petition reads as follows:

TO THE HONORABLE SENATE AND THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, IN CONGRESS ASSEMBLED:

We, the undersigned citizens of the United States and residents of the city of Minneapolis, Minn., respectfully petition you to enact such legislation obliging railroad corporations doing business within the United States to cease the discrimination now being practised against that class of passengers known as "bicyclists," who, while having no other baggage and offering their wheels to be checked as such, are charged exhorbitant rates for having their bicycles carried in the baggage cars of trains on which they happen to be passengers.

The petition, of which Mr. Broat has personal charge, is a very lengthy one, and is signed mainly by prominent business men of Minneapolis. There was a very general disposition among leading citizens to encourage the movement. These petitions are also being circulated by others in this city, St. Paul and the State, and are to be forwarded to Congressman Towne, who is specially interested in the subject, and who has introduced in the house of representatives a bill embodying the legislation contemplated in the petition.

Amongst the first ones to whom Mr. Broat presented his petition, and without any design on his part, was the good-natured general baggage master of the M. & St. L. R. R., who laughed and said, "push it along." This was about two weeks ago, and this is what appears in the Minneapolis Journal of March 4.

The Minneapolis & St. Louis will very shortly equip some of its baggage cars with a newly invented bicycle

THE BIRTH OF THE L. A. W.

The following correspondence grew out of our articles anent the organization of the L. A. W. We alleged, and we think we have proved by documentary evidence, that while the New York Club issued an invitation to wheelmen for a gathering at Newport, it was Chas. Edward Pratt, Esq., of Boston, who first suggested the organization of the L. A. W.

The first letter is from Kirk Munroe.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I have just read with great interest Mr. E. J. Shriver's letter in your issue of January 3, and the editorial reply to the same. So strongly does the subject appeal to me, and so vividly does it recall old memories that, though forced to write without the aid of documentary data, of which I have a considerable collection in the North, I cannot refrain from begging a little of your space for the presentation of a few pertinent points.

The statement that the New York Club called a meet of wheelmen at Newport merely for the purpose of a general "hurrah" is very wide of the truth, as is known by all the original members of that club, as well by many outsiders with whom, from the very inception of planning for the meet, they discussed the probability of inducing such wheelmen as might join them there to unite in forming a protective union. On account of restraints imposed upon the bicycle riders of New York at that time, by municipal and park authorities, they, perhaps more than any others, realized the need of such an alliance. So widespread and vigorous was the hostility against the bicycle in those early days, however, that it was deemed best not to include this object in the invitations to a meet, until, by replies received, the approximate strength of the proposed gathering should be ascertained. Later, when this had been done, the question of a League was made the subject of personal discussion between the officers of the New York Club, Mr. Chas. E. Pratt, and other prominent wheelmen, and the duty of issuing a more formal call was assigned to Mr. Pratt as he was president of the oldest bicycle club in America, the best-known wheelman in the country, and editor of our only representative organ.

A name for the proposed association was the subject of earnest consideration for many weeks before the meet. Mr. Pratt's choice was "American League of Cyclists." Mr. Frank Weston* preferred "Bicycle Touring Club of America." From Philadelphia came a desire for "American Bicycle Union," while New York was strongly in favor of "League of American Wheelmen," a title which they claimed would place the letter (s) as well as the spirit of the law on their side. On the afternoon of Sunday, May 30, 1880, — a very rainy day — a dozen or so representative wheelmen met in an upper room of the Aquidneck House at Newport, to prepare for the convention of the morrow. Then and there, after an animated discussion, the designation, "League of American Wheelmen," submitted by the captain of the New York Club, was adopted as the name of the embryo association. This caucus also considered, amended, and finally accepted a constitution drafted by Mr. Pratt, and prepared a list of officers to be submitted to the general assembly.

On the following day I was accorded the honor of calling to order the first convention of American bicycle riders, of stating the objects for which we were met, and of introducing to the meeting the name, "League of American Wheelmen." My friend, Mr. Sam Clark of Baltimore, may have thrown this name into a hat, as you say, though why he should do such a thing I cannot imagine, nor have I any knowledge that he performed the act you so figuratively describe.

Now, in regard to League clubs, for, archives or no archives, there were League clubs, recognized as such, from the beginning. The first to pledge its entire membership was the Boston Bi-Club, and, in consequence, it was *No. 1 until it withdrew from the League. In the same manner the New York Club became No. 2, and remained so until Boston's withdrawal made it No. 1, in which position it was officially confirmed by Secretary Bassett after a thorough examination of the records.

In view of the foregoing facts, while the New York Club cheerfully acknowledges their indebtedness to Mr. Pratt and his associates of the Boston Club for their hearty co-operation and untiring efforts in forming the League, its members will always claim that the movement which resulted in that formation originated with them, and was first suggested by their presiding officer.

All of which is respectfully submitted by yours truly and fraternally,

KIRK MUNROE,
Ex-Captain New York Bi-Club.

MY DEAR ———

Pray pardon this delay in answering your request of the 27th ult., as I have been lately too ill even to write letters, and am yet only convalescent enough to sit up to it a little at a time — with a stack of neglected things before me.

I had already read your article referred to, and Shriver's, in the BULLETIN, and have now looked thro' Kirk Munroe's, in manuscript, which you sent me, and which I return herein; all of them interesting to me, of course.

You are perfectly right. The New Yorkers don't well discriminate between the Newport meet as a gathering, parade, and banquet of wheelmen at a well-chosen time and place for both its pleasures and its effect then in impressing the public, and the same gathering seized upon and utilized as the opportunity or occasion for the convention for the formation of a permanent, working association for wheelmen themselves, and its protective and promotive machinery. The first part was proposed by the New Yorkers and came to me thro' Munroe; the second part was first suggested and promoted by me, and thro' me proposed to Munroe and many others, not only in the Bi-World of which I was editor, but by correspondence before and after the date you gave.

Munroe is wrong about the names. Weston was in England and had no part in it. I was a known and constant opponent of bicyclist and every word relating to wheeling with an "ist" to it, and so would have been the last to suggest the name he says; but I was a lawyer, was attorney for the importers and for wheelmen, was called on constantly for opinion, arguments, etc., etc., and I did suggest both the name and the play of letters in L. A. W. I drew the constitution and carried it to Newport, and it was adopted as I drew it, certain blanks in the last part only being filled, — and it was a good one! The whole proceedings in the hall of convention were cut and dried in a little room in the Aquidneck House beforehand, largely while Munroe was otherwise engaged in planning and organizing the parade, of which he was commander. In the matter of the League the New York Club was not so prominent or so helpful as some other clubs; and to Parsons, Longstreth, Clark, Hodges it owes much more in the beginning and afterwards than to any member of the New York Bi-Club. The first to join and pay I was, because I not only was the first officer of the League elected, but because, there in the hall, as one of many little nudges of enthusiasm, I stepped up to the newly-elected treasurer and paid my dues. The club did it for me (as well as the rest) afterwards, and so I had two numbers on the list for a while, and at last had to claim the earlier.

The Boston Bicycle Club was in the League matter because I got it there; the New York because Munroe and Putnam (whom I got) got it there; and so on with other clubs; it was men, a few, one here and another there, who formed the L. A. W., not the clubs.

Now there are few things I care to claim as a matter of contention, for my days of controversy are past; but I do claim that I (if any one man, and I know well that no man can do anything alone, and that when he does it is mostly the position he happens to be in, or the opportunity he happens to be at, or seizes, that enables him) was the first to suggest the L. A. W. in fact and name; I shaped its constitution and its first by-laws, its policy. I was too good a politician not to do many things thro' others.

And it was I who founded the Bi-World (in everything but money, and half of that), and who set the — well, several other things, but this is a digression. Most of my children are vigorously living, but some of them hardly know their father now. Yes, I have the pitcher now. When I returned from that first L. A. W. meeting it was to stop off the train at Taunton with Karl Kron, Fairfield, and one or two others, and ride awheel from there to Boston. Kron is right, and you are right.

I did not mean to write more than a brief note, and ought not to have, but enthusiasm still rises in me, like yeast that will have expansion, whenever early bicycling is the theme; and with many memories of you in it, I am

Yours fraternally,

A New York member writes:

His hair was wet with the morning due (he had just got a hair cut and forgot to pay) and in a soft (country) mud-ulated voice he asked the baggageman if the road "charged for carrying wheels."

"Yes, we charge for carrying wheels. By and bye you wheelmen will want this road to furnish a barber."

"Have no fears on that subject" said the 'biker,' "this road shaves close enough without a barber."

IT is easier to find fault than to know what to do for it.

THE entire community is largely indebted to the great army of wheelmen for the great influence which they have exerted upon public sentiment, and also upon legislation in regard to the improvement of our roads. This influence has also resulted in placing before the public simple road maps, furnished at a very low price, another great benefit to the travelling community. There yet remains one very important work to be done, in which probably no single body of men can do more good than the wheelmen, and because this work has not been done before, I am sure that, if perfected, it will result a much less death rate among the members of the different wheelmen's clubs; I refer now to that one subject which has been strangely overlooked or avoided by many State boards of health, that of polluted well, spring, and other drinking waters. The waters of thriving cities are carefully examined by officials appointed for that purpose in the various States, but throughout the entire country, wells and springs that contained pure water less than a generation ago, have been polluted by many contaminations due to carelessness and ignorance.

I would advise that an effort be made through the various States to secure legislation for the examination of all the wells, springs, and other sources of water along the many highways traversed by the wheelmen, so that within a few years it will be possible to take a road map and ascertain not only where the good roads are, but also where pure water can be obtained, and contaminated water avoided. The water supplies could be mapped, an asterisk (*) donating pure water and a cross (†) impure water.

Many people drink beer and liquors only because they are not sure of the quality of water.

In nearly all of our States we have geological surveys and boards of health, and the co-operation of both of these is so important, that such an investigation could easily fall within the province of either of these departments.

At present our State boards of health do all in their power to prevent contamination by smallpox, scarlet fever, and other infectious and contagious diseases, but nothing has been done as yet to protect against typhoid fever, which every year takes away a very large number of lives without warning and without necessity. It would be a simple matter for the various State officials to examine and inquire into the waters of wells and springs, and if they were not found to be pure, samples could be sent to the State laboratories, where the defects of the water could be scientifically determined, and the attention of the proprietor of the farm be called to the fact, and steps taken for remedying it.

It should be considered as great a wrong to use a well of polluted water, as it is to keep a case of diphtheria or smallpox in a crowded house. It is less than one year ago that one of our most brilliant geologists and mineralogists visited a mineral locality in Virginia, with a student, and both were stricken down with typhoid fever, the professor succumbing to the disease.

A case came under my own observation, where a well was situated between an outhouse and a stable, with a cemetery for a background, and in many instances the stable and barns are built higher than the well. Waters of cemeteries have been known to contaminate wells two miles distant. Such things should not be possible in a civilized and progressive country like ours, and no more important need exists for State intervention and protection.

An admirable article on the subject of drinking waters, calling attention to the many sources of pollution, is the recent one of W. J. McGee, on the potable waters of the eastern United States, in the fourteenth annual report of the United States geological survey, J. W. Powell, director, 1892–3. Part II, page 5–47. A LIVE BICYCLE CLUB.

The Radford, Virginia wheelmen have shown many evidences of being fully appreciatve of the business for which wheelmen should labor.

Among the many good things done by this club is the issuing of a blotter, one side of which is smooth and contains the following picture which expresses the date 1896:

At the other end is the following picture taken rom Good Roads with the quotation,

"How camst thou in this pickle?"—Shakespeare.

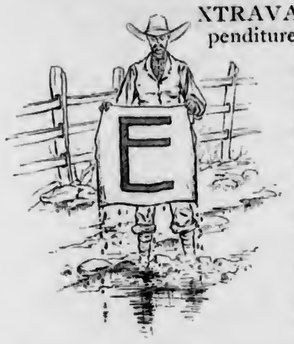
The Leadville (Col.) Press Club writes in regard to the diamond medal recently made for them by John Harriott, the Boston jeweler, "We can assure you that the badge is a gem and was far beyond our expectations."

"A RIGID SPRING FRAME."



Seems paradoxical, doesn't it, but it is practically true of the Hardy bicycle. It has a perfectly rigid diamond frame and yet the rider (pedals, saddle, handles and all) are carried upon a spring, the relative position of the various parts being maintained at all times.

The Fickleness of Fame.

The world has very many lambs
Whose owner's names are hid,
And yet they may have done as much
As Mary ever did.

WASTING MONEY.

EXTRAVAGANCE in the expenditure of money is something that should be frowned down by everybody. Economy is the short road to wealth. It is not what we produce, but what we save that makes us rich.

The management of every railroad in the land should be indicted on a charge of criminal extravagance.

The men in charge buy heavy steel rails when everyone knows that the strips of wood covered with straps of iron, such as were first made, are lots cheaper.

They could also get along with common earth ballast instead of gravel or cut stone. The earth ballast is lots cheaper, to build.

The vast sum of money expended by the makers of railroads in cutting down the grades, could be saved to a large extent by leaving the grades very much as nature designed them.

What's the use of going to all this expense in building a railroad? They didn't do so at first. They used to tie a rope to the cars and pull them up a mountain side with a stationary engine planted at the top of the hill. Now, the new-fangled way would be to cut a tunnel under or through the mountain at an enormous expense.

The railroads are badly managed. They should be placed in charge of farmers who know the meaning of the word "economy."

Farmers are satisfied to let well enough alone. No new-fangled extravagance carries them off their feet. Highfalutin folderal can't phase them. They "build" roads just as their grandpas did. Dirt roads were good enough for their forefathers, and they are not going to set themselves up as being better than their sires.

As for cutting down the everlasting hills to do away with grades, they feel it would be flying in the face of Providence. The Lord knew where he wished the hills and so he put them there. Let them so remain.

City folks can howl about macadam streets and tell the farmers what they should do to improve the highways, till the cows come home, and it won't cut any pie.

The farmers know their business. They are not going to be fools enough to cut down the grades and make hard and smooth the roads over which they must haul all their farm produce, and then, like as not, see some bicycler riding over it.

No sirree! The farmer is on to his job. He could give the railroad manager lots of points on how to save money.

Still it won't do to bet too much on the prudence and stability of the farmers, for a large and increasing number of them are said to be really affected with the road improvement fever and are bent on wasting money along the same lines as the railroad builders do.

Well, well! What are we coming to!

GRAVEL then is the secret of good roads in a prairie country. But care is needed in preparing the road to be graveled. It should be carefully and scientifically drained and graded; not too wide — not wider than is necessary for two teams to pass — and then the gravel should be laid on to a depth of from six inches at the sides to twelve inches in the center of the road; and the whole carefully and frequently rolled until it settles into a hard, compact mass. If rock be available, there should be a macadamized foundation, with gravel on top, in which case a lighter dressing of gravel would be needed. Care should be taken to keep the road in good repair for the first year or two, until the gravel forms a sort of conglomerate, through the action of the lime it contains and the elements; after that the repairs needed will be slight.— Bloomington (Ill.) Leader.

THE Minnesota good roads convention will be held March 31 and April 1. A. B. Choate, one of the leaders of the movement, says: "One of the principal objects of this convention is to impress on our law-makers the need of legislation looking toward the building of permanent roads in the State. It ought to be made a matter of State control by commissioners, such as the dairy business, railroads, and some other matters of even less importance. Something of this sort will probably be recommended by the convention when it meets."

THE Arkansas good roads convention held recently was largely attended and splendid results are expected from it.

THE Good Roads party will carry the elections in all the more-civilized "deestricts."

A ROAD if rightly made will stay made.

"NEGLECT" is the one thing that makes most bad roads bad.

ADAM was the first man, but Macadam stands first as a road-maker.

IF better roads would be of no advantage would worse ones be a disadvantage?

GOOD drainage, top and bottom, will do much toward making a road good and keeping it so.

THE spring rains are near at hand, when farmers will again climb fences to town and back.

EVERY farmer should take "a half day off" and plant trees along his highway. And then look after them.

FIX the road leading past your farm. If it is too much for you to do alone, insist on having the neighbors, the township, or the county assist you.

THE people of Sea Cliff, L. I., are petitioning for a special election to vote on the question of bonding the village for $20,000, with which to make a beginning of a system of permanent street and sidewalk improvement.

GOOD ROADS IN CALIFORNIA.

The State highway commission is personally inspecting the country roads and holding public meetings at the county seats. Commissioners Maud and Irvine visited Ventura, January 17, then drove to this city, and on to Santa Ana, where a meeting was held on the 21st ult., then on to San Diego, where the meeting was called for January 26. Leaving San Diego three days was necessary to reach Riverside, where the meeting was held on January 30th, and the next day at San Bernardino. Then the prairie schooner headed in this direction, where Messrs. Maud and Irvine arrived February 4th. The next day was spent inspecting the suburban highways and looking up the records. After a meeting here on February 6th, the commissioners started on the long drive to Bakersfield in the great San Joaquin valley. Then the route was through Delano (14); Tulare, Visalia, (15); Hanford (17); Fresno (21); Madera (24); Merced (25); Modesto (26); Stockton (27); Sacramento (28).

Commissioner Manson was "doing" north California, while commissioners Maud and Irvine were covering below the Tehachapi. The north California division of the L. A. W. is working constantly with the State, in fact it is expected that the chairman of the highway improvement committee of the L. A. W. in San Francisco will be a candidate for street commissioner of Frisco at the next election. Down here the L. A. W. is doing next to nothing.

It looks now as though work would soon begin on the road between this city and Santa Monica on the proposed boulevard, which was first to be a cycle path. The association formed for the work has already secured by subscription $600.

Application for Membership in the L. A. W.

ABBOT BASSETT, Secretary, L. A. W.
12 Pearl Street, Boston, Mass.

DEAR SIR:—Enclosed find the sum of TWO DOLLARS, one dollar of which is for my initiation fee in the L. A. W., seventy-five cents for one year's dues, and the remaining twenty-five cents I hereby authorize and direct you to pay to the publisher of the L. A. W. BULLETIN AND GOOD ROADS, and request that he enter my name as a subscriber under the provisions of Articles III and VII of the L. A. W. constitution.

I certify that I am eligible to membership in the L. A. W. under the provisions of the constitution, and I refer to two League members (or three other reputable citizens) named below.

Name,.....

Street or Box,.....

City or Town,.....

State,.....

Cycle Club,.....

☞Write plainly, printing preferred, or enclose personal card.

(COMBINATION BLANK).

RENEWAL BLANK.

ABBOT BASSETT, Secretary L. A. W.,
12 Pearl Street, Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I enclose One Dollar for which please renew my membership and subscription to the L. A. W. publication for another year.

Number .....

Date of Expiration .....

Name .....

Street and No. / or P. O. Box. \ .....

City ..... State .....

City and Division in which my home is and to which I should be attached. \ .....

Bulletin will be stopped at date of expiration.
You have 60 days in which to renew.

☞ If you want a waterproof ticket holder, made of the best calf skin, with a receptacle for ticket, where it can easily be exposed to view, and a pocket for personal cards, send 25 cents. If you want your name in gold, stamped on the holder, send 50 cents.

RENEWAL SEASON.

The renewal season is now open and we are ready to receive the annual dues of those members whose membership expires during April.

There may be some delay in issuing the tickets as we are getting up a fine ticket this year and they will not be in hand much before Apr. 1.

We publish in this issue a renewal blank which we hope will be universally used. A blank of this kind is more satisfactory for filing than a notice of renewal written in letter form. If a member has no blank and does not care to mutilate his paper, he will oblige us by sending the renewal on paper the size of the blank and made out after the same form. The same applies when two or more names are sent.

TO REGAIN MEMBERSHIP.

The following provision of the L. A. W. Constitution is self explanatory.

Art. III. Sect. 6. A member may renew his membership at any time within sixty days from the date of its expiration by payment of the annual dues of 75 cents. ($1.00 with BULLETIN and GOOD ROADS.) If he shall postpone the payment of his dues beyond the sixty days he shall pay in addition to the annual dues the sum of 15 cents for every month or fraction of a month he is in arrears, except that he shall pay no more than $1.00 in fines for a full year.

Officials and recruiting agents should call this rule to the attention of those who are out of the fold and invite them to return.

VETERAN BAR.

Any member who has been connected with the L. A. W. for ten consecutive years is entitled to wear the bar. The bar is of gold with the word "Veteran" in enamel. All orders must be sent to the secretary accompanied by the price of bar, $2.50. Bar with gold badge attached, $5.50. Members holding numbers less than 2840 may place orders for the bar with their renewals.

LAPEL BUTTON.

We have on sale the official lapel button of the L. A. W. Mailed to the address of any member on receipt of 25 cents. The same button with catch pin for ladies' use, 25 cents.

CAP PIN.

The official cap pin is now on sale. Price thirty-five cents by mail.

PRIZE OFFER TO THE SMALLER DIVISIONS.

Prize. An Eastman No. 4 Folding Kodak, for rectangular pictures, 4x5 inches. Capacity, 100 exposures without reloading. Value, $60. See Eastman catalogue for further description. Will be given to the member of any division, etc., having less than 200 members, April 1, 1896, who sends to this office the largest number of applications for membership from his own division from Apr. 1 to Sept. 7, inclusive. Those who compete for the prize must make claim for record with every application sent in.

RACING BOARD.

In assuming charge of the racing interests of the country the L. A. W. racing board of '96 asks the co-operation and assistance of every cyclist in the country. We promise absolute impartiality in the enforcement of the rules, both for and against the racing man, and the race promoter. Every honest racer, be he amateur or professional, is entitled to our protection and friendship. We shall enforce the rules to the best of our ability and hope for an active season of clean, honest sport.

The new rules for the government of cycle racing are being prepared rapidly as possible; the principal changes are the abolition of class B, riders formerly in that class having been reinstated by the action of the national assembly. In the amateur class the acts that formerly transferred to class B will hereafter professionalize. No rider may compete for a prize valued at more than $35, or more than 100 miles from home, except within the limits of his own division. Professionals may not compete for a prize greater than $100 except by special permit. Both classes are required to see that every meet at which they ride is sanctioned by the L. A. W. Changes have been made in the fees for sanctions, $25 being the amount for national circuit meets, $10 for open meetings, $2 for athletic meetings scheduling but two events; no fee is charged for closed club or school meets, although it is necessary that same shall be duly sanctioned as heretofore. L. A. W. clubs are exempt from all sanction fees.

Chief consuls are requested to send in recommendations for handicappers for their respective States.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 24, 1896.

INDIANA DIVISION.

Special Notice.

We must have more members quick. Each one of us has simply got to get right down and dig between this and next Saturday, March 21. Send in just as many applications to Secretary Bassett, Boston, as you possibly can get. Mail them so as to reach him not later than Monday the 23rd, if you can, in order to have the greatest possible number of names appearing in BULLETIN of March 27, which issue closes the current quarter of the year. Very anxious indeed to make the best possible showing by April 1.

Don't stop to think how many ought to join but get after one and get him or her, then button hole another and keep it up, stick to them. Remember that our new road book will be sent FREE to each member of this division, new and old alike, also keep in mind some of the other advantages, detailed touring information, Indiana League hotels, League protection to members, and, most important of all, the fact that the L. A. W. is working night and day for good roads throughout this country.

MARO R. THOMPSON, Chief Consul.

INDIANA APPOINTMENTS.

The following have been appointed local consuls at points named: Mr. Harry McKee, Sullivan, Mr. C. F. Kinney, Angola, Mr. E. E. Katterhenry, Huntingburg, Mr. Louis Imandt, Washington, Mr. Chas. E. Lacey, Crawfordsville, and Prof. Victor H. Nulle, Anderson.

I hope members at each of these points will do all in their power to aid their local consul in the work of building up a large membership list. Hustle is the word now and keep at it. All local consuls will be kept supplied with printed matter pertaining to division work.

MARO R. THOMPSON, Chief Consul.

INDIANA DIVISION.

Publications Bureau.

Mr. Wallace Sherwood, 27½ South Delaware st., Indianapolis, has been appointed chief of publications bureau and will have the management of that portion of the division work. All correspondence relative to the good roads question or of cycle paths should be addressed to him in order to save delay.

MARO R. THOMPSON, Chief Consul.

Quarterly Review.

Believing a brief resume of division work since Dec. 1, 1895, will interest members, we present same herewith for the perusal, comment, and criticism of each member. While the present board of officers were supposed to have taken office on the 1st of last December it was not until some three weeks later that this was accomplished. The delay was unavoidable.

The first question taken up was the road book, as we felt it was the thing needed by our members. At that time it seemed almost hopeless to attempt getting one out for the riding season of 1896, but we feel perfectly safe in making the assertion that the book will be sent (free) to each member of the Indiana division about April 1. As a rule, road books are generally sent out from six months to a year later than was planned. In this respect the Indiana division can confidently look forward to breaking a record. The road map (in five sections), that is bound in this book, has been proven to be the most accurate ever published of the State.

In the matter of membership the division is taking rapid strides. The outlook in this direction gives us great satisfaction. Our membership, up to and including L. A. W. BULLETIN issue of February 28, shows a gain of a little over 28 per cent. We have, in the past month, worked up and received memberships from half a dozen towns not hitherto represented on the League roll. Our next report will show a number of L. A. W. clubs organized in different parts of the State.

In the matter of League hotels and of local consuls comparatively little final action has been taken. The reason being that the very best hotel in each city and town and the most suitable man for the position of local consul was desired in each instance, and it takes quite a good deal of time to reach a decision upon such matters. The next six weeks will show the results of work that has been done all over the State in this line. There have been thirteen local consuls appointed and six League hotels in addition to what we already had. In this connection will say that once a month, or at least every six weeks, a revised and complete list to date of all League hotels and local consuls will be published and sent to each member in the State.

We have sent out a very considerable amount of L. A. W. matter to the newspapers of the State, and it is gratifying to note the responses obtained. It is evident that the Indiana press is for "Good Roads" first, last, and all the time.

Our bureau of publications is now in operation. As stated before this department of the division work will be self-sustaining. Our first issue from the bureau was the folder "Benefits of a Membership in the Indiana Division L. A. W." Fifteen thousand of these were issued and the way they are going makes it probable that we shall have to issue a second edition. The next matter that will be sent out will be a folder on "Side Paths," by Mr. Wallace Sherwood, chief of the publications bureau. This is quite an exhaustive article on this interesting and timely subject, and it will be sent to each member. The other publications that will be gotten out by this bureau will be outlined and notice given of them in these columns from time to time.

In conclusion I wish to urge every member of the Indiana division to take a personal interest in the work of gaining new members. Get outsiders interested, talk League work over with your friends and do your part in assisting us to reach the three thousand mark. Bear in mind that every member gained is so much added to our working force. Everyone acknowledges that Indiana will soon be in the front rank, but what we are after is to get there just as quickly as possible. There is nothing at all to prevent our having over seven hundred members by April. See that each one of your friends and acquaintances has a copy of our recruiting matter and the necessary application blanks. Secretary-treasurer Mueller will be only too glad to supply anything needed in this line.

MARO R. THOMPSON, Chief Consul.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 5, 1896.

NEW JERSEY DIVISION.

The new road book in course of preparation by this division will be one of the finest road books ever published in the United States. It will contain the maps in slightly reduced form but arranged the same as in previous years, every copy bound, and in addition will contain one hundred and twenty-five pages of the more popular routes in every section of the State. Many of the tours arranged in this tabulated form will run into the adjoining States of New York and Pennsylvania. Wherever a road is not covered by the tabulated form of routes reference to the maps will surely find it, and give the grade and condition of the road as complete as can be. This will be a great year for the New Jersey division. It is the express wish of all the officers that the division, at least, double their membership before next October.

Do your share. The list premiums are well worth the slight trouble to secure new members. Don't forget that every new member is entitled to the new road book and it will be mailed as soon as the applicant's name appears in the BULLETIN.

JAMES C. TATTERSALL, Sec.-Treas.

NEW JERSEY DIVISION.

Premiums for Membership.

Members having joined since March 1, will not receive their road books till the new book is out which will be in the neighborhood of April 15.

The supply of the last edition of the book, in map form, unbound, is exhausted and the new book will be mailed as soon as received from the printer.

Members preparing routes and securing other information will kindly address the Secretary of the division as soon as possible, in order that there will be no further delays in publishing the new book.

There is about seventy-five copies of the old road book left in the hands of the secretary. These books have been given as premiums for three new members, in order to dispose of them, a copy will be given to every member securing two new members until the supply is exhausted.

Premiums.

Any member of the division securing three new members, residents of this State will be given a bound copy of the new road book free. Cap pins and lapel buttons are also in the engravers hands and will be ready in two weeks. The former will be given to any member securing two new members and the latter for one new member. They are beautifully decorated and inscribed, "New Jersey Division" with the L. A. W. emblem in the centre. Forward all applications where premium is desired to the secretary and carefully state which premium you are working for.

The duties of a local consul are embodied in Section 4, Article I, of the by-laws of this division, which is as follows:

"The consuls shall acquire and give any information as to roads, hotels, laws and other matters of interest in their localities to members of the League calling upon them in person or by letter; keep their State officers informed from time to time by report; perform such duties as the latter may require of them, and generally promote the interests of the League and its members.

They shall recommend to the chief consul such hotels in their vicinity as they may wish to have appointed League hotels, giving rates, etc., on blank agreement which this officer furnishes.

Consul's term of office shall expire June 30, of each year, but they may be removed for cause by the chief consul, whose lieutenants they shall be considered."

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to Monday preceding this date, and published in accordance with Article III of the constitution.

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published and to report errors and omissions to the secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at noon on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

We are glad you find so many "memory gems" in these pages. Such things are aids to good behavior and philosophical thinking. We know a man who, whenever anything wished for seems in doubt, derives quiet satisfaction in repeating:

There was an old man went riding by.
Says I, "Old man your horse will die."
"Well, if he does I'll tan his skin
And if he don't I'll ride him agin."

In stating your age and asking our opinion regarding the worth of the wheel as a husband-catcher you exhibit a degree of frankness that is admirable. The wheel is said to promote good health and pleasant thoughts. Every man admires these in a woman. We cannot say whether or no you should wear bloomers. Such a costume might "increase your chances," and then again—

A STATEN ISLAND member, enthusiastically in favor of bloomers, writes a letter that is a trifle too rugged for publication, the concluding of which is as follows:

Girls when you read this to your friends please say we don't care for Bloomer Cranks but on our wheels feel gay
when we wear our Bloomers

CORRESPONDENCE

THE SWEATER.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

To clean a sweater, don't send it to a steam carpet cleaner, but get some of your folks, say, your wife, mother or sister to clean it for you. If you have none, tackle the job yourself if you think you feel strong enough. I will endeavor to make my instructions as clear as possible.

Take one-half cake of soap and cut it up into small pieces; put it in a kettle with about a quart of water; let water boil till soap is dissolved; then fill a tub half full of hot water (if you wish to shrink the sweater at the same time, use boiling water), put in the sweater and pour on the dissolved soap. Now get a washboard, and with a little elbow grease your sweater will come out as fine as silk. Don't rub any soap on the sweater as it will appear in streaks and spots.

After the sweater is washed, lay it out to dry on something flat; hanging it up causes it to stretch. Hoping you will be successful, I remain

Souse it and squeeze it a short time, press out the excess gasoline, hang on line in sun or wind and in a short time it is ready for use. I have washed my entire suit a number of times and it always comes out as bright and clean as new. Will wash fine silk waists, neck scarfs, in fact anything. Try it, and you will never use water, cold or warm."

F. M. Fortune, of Pine Bluff, Ark., writes that his right arm is amputated near the shoulder and he has been riding a bicycle for about three years and has made long tours through the country and finds that he experiences no trouble in keeping pace with the best of riders. Men with but one arm need not hesitate to ride the wheel.

A New York member writes: "I am one of a very large number of wheelmen who would find riding very much more enjoyable were it not accompanied by the disagreeable and unpleasant feature of a perspiration bath. This, I know, is to be expected when one rides hard in extreme warm weather; but on Washington's Birthday, with the thermometer probably between forty-five and sixty, riding only at an ordinary rate over a level coun-

A NEW YORK member in endorsing a suggestion for a code of road signs and signals says there should be some sign or signal whereby wheelmen could let one another know if they are League members. He suggests, also, that the movement to build a path along the route of the old post road from New York to Albany, by having local consuls along the route, interest all wheelmen in the movement.

BERNARD H. DORSCH, 376 22d Ave., Milwaukee, Wis., would like a companion to accompany him on a trip to Denver, Col., and to hear from someone who has made a Colorado trip.

A NEW YORK member asks why no public protest has been made by New York wheelmen against the killing of the bill to make the crest of the old aqueduct a public path for wheelmen.

When the bill was pending in the legislature the leading newspapers devoted many columns of space to descriptions and pictures of scenery and maps of the route capped with enthusiastic headlines. The bills passed both houses of the legislature almost unanimously, but Gov. Morton allowed it to die by failing to act upon it within the prescribed thirty days after adjournment.

The correspondent writes that if this bill had been passed a half day's work by a good man would have opened this fine natural bicycle path nearly five miles long, to the thousands of lovers of the sport and the failure or neglect to give this permission seems almost a crime.

A New Jersey member writes that he has worked "L. A. W. 90,899" in gold on the top bar of the black frame of his bicycle. The work is done in bold black lettering and measures eight inches in length. He thinks it would be a good plan if all League members were to do likewise, as it would serve as an introduction between members, enable League hotel keepers and others to distinguish League members and help to identify the wheel if lost or stolen.

THE Rev. Father David J. O'Hearn of St. John's Catholic Cathedral, Milwaukee, says:—

I enjoy a trip on my wheel very much, and believe it to be the healthfulest kind of exercise. It is the cheapest as well as most pleasant mode of travel that I know of. I use the wheel simply for recreation.

THE salt cellar is our friend in season and out, though we all give it the shake.

A NATIONAL HIGHWAY COMMISSION.

There is a bill before the United States Congress which, if passed, would provide a national highway commission, consisting of one United States senator to be appointed as the senate may provide, two members of the house of representatives appointed by the speaker of the house, the chief engineers of the army, the director of the geological survey and the chief of road inquiry of the department of agriculture. This commission to report, from time to time, by bill or otherwise and to continue until the final report is made but not beyond the present congress.

The duty expected of this proposed commission is to inquire generally how the government may further promote the improvement of highways and among other things to consider the best method of providing for scientific location of highways on the public domain; the employment of the geological survey in the discovery of road materials and the free testing of all road materials offered. This commission should investigate the advisability of constructing model roads and the establishment of classes in road making at the agricultural colleges and experiment stations. Also at the military academies and when practical at all institutions having a military instructor.

This proposed bill is before the committee on agriculture, the final hearing of which was held on Thursday, March 12.

In the interest of the L. A. W., I attended this hearing and used such arguments as I could, tending to show the great importance to the United States government of establishing such a commission.

The present bill does not contemplate the expenditure of any money beyond the amount already saved from previous appropriations. I expressed my belief to the committee that this amount (some $10,000), while it was sufficient for the present, was an extremely small sum for the United States government to spend yearly in a cause of such far-reaching importance as that of road improvement.

The proposed temporary commission should certainly be established, and beyond that a permanent commission which should expend not less than $100,000 per year in the direction indicated.

We have reason to believe that the bill in question will not meet with any opposition in the senate but there is some opposition to it in the house of representatives, and I desire to urge upon all League members the importance of communicating at once with their representatives in Washington and urging upon them the importance of voting and working for this extremely desirable measure.

Short, well-written letters, addressed directly to individual members are more effective than petitions, though petitions are also good if addressed to individuals and signed by voters in the district from which the member was elected.

A representative is sure to be influenced by a petition which is signed by his constituents, whereas a general petition addressed to congress as a body does not have so much effect.

This is an important matter and I trust all League members will give it attention at once.

After consultation with a number of the national political leaders, I am satisfied that we can ask and receive recognition in the national platforms of the two great political parties. The road movement is becoming too vast and of too much interest to the average citizen to be longer treated as a side issue. There is nothing before the country of more importance and we believe that this question should be placed in the position which it deserves.

A plank will be offered for insertion in the platform of the republican party at St. Louis, pledging that party to support in every practical fashion the movement for better roads.

Although I have not yet conferred with the leaders of the democratic party, yet I have no reason to suppose that they will be less willing to consider this great subject.

Mr. Bicycle Buyer,

Perhaps you've been told that New Clippers are "Cheap Bicycles." They are. We have no desire to contradict it. They're the cheapest bicycles (in the end) that you can own; cheap because they are sold at legitimate profits and at one price to all; cheap because the material and workmanship are of the best, and consequently your repair bills are cheaper than when you had a so-called "high grade"; cheap because you don't pay any commissions to "influential pluggers" who are paying for their own mount in commissions allowed them for "steering" the uninitiated buyer onto wheels with big profits. Ask these dealers to show you the difference in quality; that's what you want and what you get in Clippers.

"JOE" MANLEY ON ROADS.

Maine's most famous political manager in a letter recently addressed to the chief consul of his State has this to say in reference to highway improvement.

After expressing himself as decidedly in favor of the present bill which is before congress, and which contemplates the establishment of a national highway commission, he said: "The question ot good roads is one of the most important that now confronts the American people, it means so much. It means the stimulating and increasing of business. It means the promotion of the welfare of all the people. It means improved social intercourse. It means good government. We want to fight under the banner of good homes, good government and good roads. This means good citizens.

"I need not assure you that I shall aid in every way in my power in the passage of this bill. Certainly there is no work in which anyone can engage which will render more lasting benefits to all the people in this country than the construction of good roads.

"Let us by all means use every effort in our power to carry on this good work, until it is an accomplished fact."

That when death claims our strength,
The funeral procession will

THE POWER OF PUBLIC OPINION.

We are asked how to proceed to get a road improved when the town road commissioners will not attend to it.

We would suggest an appeal to the people who elect the commissioners.

If it is an urgent case, and still the men in charge of such things will not act, it is well to call their attention to the matter through the local papers, or by petitions signed by good representative citizens.

Just before election is the best time to go about it, for then the mind of the road commissioner is in the most impressionable state.

THE City Streets Committee of the St. Louis L. A. W. has issued a neat book on "Good Streets, the Ways and Means of Obtaining and Preserving Same." The mayor of the city and other officials give their views, the whole forming a very able treatise. The St. Louis wheelmen are up and doing.

DOGS IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Your correspondent, A. L. B., in your last issue says that in Massachusetts a rider has no right to shoot a dog that attacks him on the public highway. In this he is in error. The Public Statutes of Massachusetts, ch. 102, sec. 94, provides that "Any person may kill a dog that suddenly assaults him while he is peaceably walking or riding without the enclosure of its owner or keeper; and any person may kill a dog that is found out of the enclosure or immediate care of its owner or keeper, worrying, wandering, or killing neat cattle, sheep, or lambs." There are other provisions regulating the care or keeping of dogs, but the above section shows that A. L. B. is in error in his positive statement. J. S. DEAN.

OHIO GUIDE-BOARDS.

A bill is now before the Ohio legislature which would enable "any five freeholders in a township to ask for the erection of guide-boards at any designated intersection of the public ways of such townships, naming the inscription desired thereon, and the trustees shall forthwith cause same to be erected, and failing or neglecting to do so for a period of sixty days the petitioners may cause same to be erected and collect the cost thereof, not exceeding ten dollars for each post so erected, from the township trustees."

This bill is by the approval of Chief Consul Reed and Secretary-Treasurer Howson of the Ohio Division.

TO BULLETIN NON-SUBSCRIBERS.

Heretofore the names of the L. A. W. members who did not take the L. A. W. BULLETIN have been printed separately at the end of the list, for the benefit of secretary-treasurers as fully explained on page 293, of our issue of Feb. 28. We find on investigation, that the secretary-treasurers, as a rule, do not care to go to the extra trouble necessary, to send out circulars, ballots, etc., to members whose names are not on the League mailing list. Others have expressed themselves as being a little sensitive about being on a list with such a small minority, and yet, who for very good reasons, did not care to subscribe for the L. A. W. BULLETIN.

We have carefully canvassed the matter with Secretary Bassett, and have decided to discontinue publishing these non-subscribers separately. Hereafter all names will be printed together on the lists, regardless of whether they subscribe for the L. A. W. BULLETIN or not.

Only those who take the L. A. W. BULLETIN can be placed on our mailing list, and members who are not subscribers, and who still would like to receive notices, etc., should write to the secretary-treasurer of their State Division to that effect.

We are taking this action with a view to the accommodation of a few, who evidently would prefer to have it done in that way. This will enable state secretaries to check up their lists all right, but will not enable them to send ballots, etc., to non-subscribers. unless requested by the non-subscribing member.

Should this newly-adopted plan give better satisfaction than the old way, we will adhere to it, otherwise, it will be an easy matter for us, at any time to return to the old method.

SHOULD WAGONS CARRY LIGHTS?

And if they should, why shouldn't pedestrians?

The Massachusetts legislature is asked to compel all cyclists to carry lamps after sundown.

Why cyclists?

Why not also express wagons?

Why not also people who walk?

Why should a carriage be allowed to go through the streets without a bell?

Of course we know all the old arguments, but it will require something new to win.

If lamps are a good thing, we can't have too many of them and besides what's sauce for the goose, etc.

A "ROAD HOG" MULCTED.

In the common pleas court at Harrisburg. Pa., the suit of David C. Burnite against James Russ, owner of the Commonwealth Hotel cab line, attracted considerable attention among wheelmen, because it demonstrated the right of a wheelman to his part of the roadway.

Burnite and his witnesses proved that he was proceeding down Third street about 2 P.M., on Aug. 2, '95, when one of Russ' cabs ran into and demolished his wheel, the cab driver failing to keep on the right side of the street. Judge Simonton charged in favor of the wheelman and the jury found a verdict of $67 in favor of Burnite. Truly, "the way of the transgressor is hard."

E. D. TRUMBO, in a letter requesting that his copy of the L. A. W. BULLETIN be sent to Johannesburg, South African Republic, says: "There are a great many bicycles here, mostly of English make. Only one make of American wheel is sold here. The roads here are fine."

DICKENS isn't so popular now as when people used candles and had more occasion to pick-wick.

A PROGRESSIVE RAILROAD.

Howard A. Broat, of Minneapolis, and his brother wheelmen, have been securing thousands of signatures to petitions headed as follows:

TO THE HONORABLE SENATE AND THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, IN CONGRESS ASSEMBLED:

We, the undersigned citizens of the United States and residents of the city of Minneapolis, Minn., respectfully petition you to enact such legislation obliging railroad corporations doing business within the United States to cease the discrimination now being practiced against that class of their passengers known as "bicyclists," who, while having no other baggage and offering their wheels to be checked as such, are charged exorbitant rates for having their bicycles carried in the baggage car of trains on which they happen to be passengers.

So your petitioners will ever pray.

Hope on.

POOR weak and sinful souls, O don't
On hope release your hold,
For when from earth you go, you won't

GROWING IN POPULARITY.

We have it from pretty good authority that there is a time for everything.

There is a time to hold on and a time to let go.

The man who never changes his mind might just as well be made of baked mud. He's fixed. He has "staying qualities." So has a wart.

Progression means the discarding of our errors of yesterday. The wise man changes his mental habit as he does his clothes. He wants something fresh and new once in a while.

If there is no growth there is decay.

The water in the running brook is pure and sparkling. The pool is stagnant and unhealthful.

If man is an intelligent being and experience really counts for anything, we ought to "stamp improvement on the wings of time." We should learn to do things a little better than we used to do them.

If our fathers had been forever joined to the idols bequeathed them, we should still be living in huts or caves.

And we would still drive ox-carts and ride in stage coaches. But we have changed our notions about some things, and many of us ride bicycles.

Some of the baked clay men still refuse to change their minds concerning the bicycle, and insist it is a toy, a fad and "nuisance."

Let us be patient, for the world is broad and wide. Even though men refuse to change their minds, men themselves are changed every generation.

And I doubt not through the ages one increasing purpose runs,
And the thoughts of men are widened with the process of the suns.

THE Brooklyn Cycle Show has followed in the wake of all the other cycle shows, into cycle show history. But it was a success from start to finish, and one, if not the very prettiest feature, (on the part of the management), of the whole show, was the thoughtfulness shown in inviting the school children for Saturday afternoon. The little wheelers are a large proportion of the cycling public nowadays, and should have a place and recognition in all such functions.

Miss Risley was awarded a beauty for having attended the most club runs.

MISS JEANETTE GILDER, one of the editors of The Critic, writing in the New York World, says of Mrs. Lynn Lynton, who has gained the unenviable reputation of "talkin' to be a-talkin'," regardless of any personal knowledge of her subject, and who is so great an "I AM," as to be far above the vulgar exertion of research, says: —

"Mrs. Lynn Lynton, who is never so happy as when she is 'going' for something or somebody, has an article on 'Cranks and Crazes' in the December North American Review. There are enough of both cranks and crazes in these days to keep a woman of Mrs. Lynton's temperament busy. Among those that she impales in this article, are theosophy, spiritualism, foreign missions, the bicycle, coster songs, the higher education for the working classes, and a few others. One of the 'lowest' crazes, she thinks, is that for the bicycle. 'Walking, riding, skating and dancing,' she can understand as 'fit exercise for the vigorous and young.' But 'cycling seems to be such a doubtful kind of amusement — such a queer cross between the treadmill and the tight-rope — demanding such a constant strain of attention to keep your balance, with such a monotonous and restricted action of the limbs as to render it a work of penance rather than of pleasure.' I don't believe that Mrs. Lynton has ever ridden a bicycle, or she would not speak in this way of it. There is nothing of a 'penance' about this form of locomotion, and I don't think that anyone who knows anything about it will say that there is. I fancy, however, that Mrs. Lynton's bark is worse than her bite, if I may be excused for speaking in this way of a woman of her position, but I find the expression comprehensive."

It does seem a pity that a woman of such acknowledged intellect in certain lines, as Mrs. Lynton, should make herself not only obnoxious, but ridiculous, by her shocking display of ignorance on many subjects upon which she would pose as an authority, and might, if she understood what she was talking about.

WINTER CYCLING IN GEORGIA.

OF all places in the Atlantic States south of the snow belt Thomasville, Ga., is par excellence, and by natural selection, very nearly a wheelmen's paradise. It is situated well inland, yet, but fifty miles from the Gulf of Mexico, and almost daily receives a breeze from that source which is modified to a degree that makes it a positive delight. It has an elevation of three hundred and twenty-five feet, and is the highest land between Savannah and New Orleans.

From January the first to the middle of April the climate is delightful, as it receives but a modicum of the enervating heat of the further south. It is not south of the frost line, and an occasional visit of "Jack" being foreseen, is properly provided for by excellent heating arrangements in the hotels, boarding houses and private dwellings. The cool spells are of very short duration. The soil, a top layer of gray, sandy loam, underlaid by a red loam of firmer quality, reminding one of southern California, is so very porous that, after three days of an incessant downpour followed by a half day of sunshine, the walks and roads become so dry that a wheelman from the north can scarce believe his senses.

Starting of a morning from this fine hotel, the Mitchell House, or from some one of the other hotels or boarding houses, the outskirts of the "city" are soon reached. As we bowl along over the paths made smooth and hard by nearly a century of travel by whites and negroes, the latter rival in their fragrance the orange blossoms of the further south.

On we go through the beautiful pine woods by suburban private dwellings and large plantations of "the cotton and the corn" dotted at intervals with picturesque negro cabins where a sow and many little pigs of the typical southern type scurry away apparently in much wonderment at the flying apparitions. Here and there as we turn in a path through the woods the layers of long pine needles convey the sensation of wheeling over a carpet of velvet. Still on we go, gladly missing the monotony of a long level ride, for there seems to be just the right amount of up and down grade intermingled with level riding. Rarely a grade is encountered too steep for a fairly strong rider to ascend with comparative comfort, while the coasting, for those who enjoy it in its fullness, is safe and excellent.

Unlike many parts of South Georgia the scenery is not at all monotonous. Here a hard and level path through the woods; another skirting a fine old plantation, managed, except perhaps for slavery, much as in the days before the civil war. Again we pass along in the shade of long rows of live oaks on either side, whose branches nearly touch each other above our heads. Now and then a fine old home almost hidden from view by a row of beautiful cedars; miles upon miles lined upon either side by a natural growth other than the pine. The live oak; the acorn oak; the plum, the persimmon and the magnolia, together with other though unfamiliar varieties, are intermingled here and there with the handsome holly, well besprinkled with its scarlet berries. invite repose. If so a soft bed of pine needles on which to rest, and sleep if so disposed, or, a seat under a spreading oak or pine, where paper, magazine or book can be enjoyed, are always near at hand. The arrangement of the roads about Thomasville is peculiar. Radiating from the city, roads lead out in every direction like the spokes from hub of a wheel. At points varying from two to two and a half miles from town, these roads are intersected by a boulevard surrounding the place, which is about fourteen miles in length. This arrangement affords strangers a chance for plenty of exercise without getting lost, as, turning in from the boulevard on any road, the direction being indicated by a sign, one is sure to get back to town. Furthermore, this arrangement of roads, with their many intersections, both before reaching and after passing the boulevard, admits of hundreds of miles of cycling without going over the same road twice, or in getting more then ten miles from Thomasville.

The people who reside here and their local representatives are fully alive to the wants of visiting wheelmen. In all parts of this city of between six and seven thousand inhabitants, wheelmen are allowed the freedom of the sidewalks, except on a few blocks of the business portion, and a few streets leading therefrom. This fact cyclists can better appreciate when it is understood that, except on the streets mentioned, curbing and paving are not used. Thus the cyclist can ride on the sidewalks many miles within the city limits, affording all an opportunity for much of the easiest riding, and still remain within a short distance of their temporary home. The city council have constructed a half mile cycle path within the corporation, affording an excellent place for both beginners and the scorcher with happily but a few of the latter to interfere.

A few words expressing the desire for a special path to Glen Arven, the home of the Country Club of Thomasville, where trap shooting of all kinds, golf, tennis and other popular sports and pastimes are held was acted upon at once, and within ten days that, too, was added to the wheeling facilities. Much praise should be given to the resident people through their mayor and board of aldermen or council for their prompt and satisfactory action in thus recognizing the cyclists' wants.

Having visited nearly all of the winter resorts south of this place, we have not seen one where cycling can be so thoroughly enjoyed.

GUIDE-POST DAY.

BY ROBERT GENTLE.

(Chief Consul N. J.)

The Governor of New Jersey will shortly designate a day in the month of April which will be known as "Arbor Day," to be celebrated by planting trees along the public highways. This is a grand work and wheelmen, good citizens as they are, will heartily co-operate in it.

But wheelmen can do more on this day. The law of New Jersey provides:

"That each and every township in this State shall . . . erect and maintain guide-posts on the several roads, turnpikes and highways within each township, at each and every place where such roads, turnpikes or highways intersect or cross each other."

The law further provides that it shall be the duty of the overseers of highways to report to the township committee where guide-posts are necessary, and that on receiving such report the township committee shall cause posts to be erected, in the manner prescribed by the act, and that every township which neglects to do this shall pay into the county treasury the sum of ten dollars for every guide post so neglected to be erected or maintained.

Thus it will be seen that the law requires not only the erection of guide-posts at all intersections of roads, but also the proper maintenance of them.

The chief consul of the New Jersey division of the League of American Wheelmen recommends that the wheelmen throughout the State take steps, in connection with "Arbor Day" exercises toward seeing that the guide-posts in their particular localities are properly erected and maintained. That where posts have not been erected they see that the law is enforced and that where guide-posts already exist, but require fresh painting or lettering, or where the distance is improperly designated, they call the attention of the township committee to these defects and have them remedied. He urges wheelmen to act upon the suggestion at once; not to assume that others will do it, but to take the lead in the movement and see that the law is carried out.

If this is done New Jersey will not only maintain her position as one of the leading States in the good roads movement, but will have the further distinction of inaugurating and putting into effect "Guide-Post Day."

The result of this work would be beneficial not to wheelmen alone, but to every one using the public highway, and while it is the duty of all good citizens to see to it yet it seems particularly a work for wheelmen.

The League of American Wheelmen is an organization over forty thousand strong, and the New Jersey division will take action upon the above suggestion. It is urged that all wheelmen join the organization for which purpose application blanks can be had from the local consul in every city, town or village, the secretary-treasurer, James C. Tattersall, Trenton, N. J., or Chief Consul Gentle of Elizabeth, N. J. Pending action by the division, however, is suggested that bicycle clubs in every district in the State arrange for the celebration of "Guide-Post Day" by an inspection of the guide-posts in the different vicinities, and if defects or deficiencies be discovered they either take action in the matter themselves or refer it to Chief Consul Gentle. It is furthermore suggested that "Guide-Post Day" and guide-post inspection be made a permanent annual run by all wheeling organizations.

COMMON CARRIERS AND THE BICYCLE.

I.

IT cannot be said that the shipper of a bicycle (or of any goods or chattels) and the common carrier stand on equal terms in the making and delivery of a release of all claims for damage to his wheel or his goods or chattels while in course of transportation by the carrier. The shipper in most cases from motives of convenience, necessity or apprehended injury feels obliged to accept the terms proposed by the common carrier and practically the contract is made by one party only and should therefore be construed most strictly against that party. Hence the carrier should not be released from the consequences of its own wrongful acts by words of general import or by implication.

II.

A common carrier is subject to two distinct classes of liabilities: one in which it is liable for loss and damage as an insurer without fault on its party; the other in which it is liable for default in not exercising proper care and diligence (viz. negligence). Now the question arises, can this common law liability be limited or avoided by contract or agreement between the carrier and the shipper?

The answer is, as to the State of New York, yes, it can, and the rule is settled in the jurisprudence of the State of New York.

But to release the carrier from liability for its own wrongful acts, no language however general or comprehensive will suffice; the release must be special and cover the particular risk intended.

Every presumption is against an intention to contract for immunity for not exercising ordinary diligence in the transaction of any business and hence the general rule is that contracts will not be so construed when expressed in general terms.

EXAMPLES: The defense rested solely upon a claim of exemption from liability contained in the "contract of shipment," by which in consideration of a reduced rate of charge the shipper agreed "to release and discharge the R. R. Co. from all claims and demands and liabilities of every kind whatsoever for, or on account of, or connected with any damages or injury to or loss of said stock or any part thereof from whatever cause arising."

Literally these words would cover a loss arising from the gross negligence or even from intentional or wilful, wrongful acts of the carriers' agents.

Held, by Chief Justice Church, Court of Appeals, 71 N. Y., p. 180, that the railway company was liable to the shipper for damages incurred.

The rule laid down in this case has been followed in New York State.

In the well-known Steimoeg case, the contract released the carrier "from damage or loss to any article from or by fire or explosion of any kind."

The Court of Appeals, 43 N. Y., p. 123, held that the release did not include a loss by fire occasioned by the negligenee of the carriers' employees.

III.

It will thus be seen that in the State of New York no language however broad or comprehensive can operate as a release for the negligence of the common carrier unless such negligence is specially mentioned in the release and then only to the extent specified.

IV.

The rule in the United States Supreme Court is different. That court holds in a persuasive opinion, 17 Wallace Rep. p. 35, that a common carrier cannot limit its common law liability by any agreement however specific.

A tendency towards the doctrine of the New York cases was shown some time ago in England, but was soon remedied by legislation, and legislation is the only thing to which we wheelmen can look to in order to hold our common carriers to their strict common law liability.

There is one more point to be considered particularly, arising out of the fact that the parties do not stand on equal terms which is, that the contract thrust upon the cyclist must not be in such small type different from the body of the contract. as to deny him a reasonable opportunity to read it.

TOURING IN EUROPE

By the Foreign Marshal.

IT may be thought, by the members of the L. A. W., if the matter has been considered at all, that I should say something on this subject, as I am supposed in some fashion to look after the interests of members touring over here. I have, however, for some years hesitated to say anything in the BULLETIN for two reasons, first because I have, when I have written, been overwhelmed with correspondence, and secondly because I have not known whether any remarks or observations of mine were wanted. At present, however, there seems to be a rapidly growing interest in the subject and a few facts may assist prospective tourists.

The first thing, anyone thinking of cycling through Europe should do, is to plan his or her trip, make up their mind what countries they wish to visit, trace out roughly their route on a map, marking the large towns through which they wish to pass. Then purchase by joining the Cyclist's Touring club, 139 Fleet street, London, the road books for England, and the maps of the different countries published by Iliffe & Stunney, Coventry.

For France there are the road books of the Baron Baroncilli, and the publications Voloce Sport of Bordeaux, France. For Germany those of the Radfash Union, and for Europe generally the Cyclist's Touring Club Foreign Road Book, which is not so bad as it is said to be, now that it has been revised.

But map out your tour roughly, my plan is not to adhere to closely to a route, interesting things crop up all the time, turn aside to see them. Be much more careful about selecting your fellow tourists.

Now as to machines, anything that does not occupy more than twenty cubic feet, and is boxed in a trunk or crated goes free on a steamship. But why not order your machine to be ready for you when you arrive in England, at Liverpool, Southampton or Queenstown. This would save trouble, if you know about makers and what you want. Such a plan would, however, on the continent be expensive and unreliable. But with or without a machine you arrive at any English, Scotch or Irish port, there is no duty to be paid. There is a duty in every continental country, and it is exacted more or less vigorously. If in France you can prove you are touring and your machine shows signs of wear, and you can speak the language you may get off free, or if you belong to the Cyclist's Touring club, and show your badge; but your money, if paid, will be refunded on leaving the country, in every case, provided you get a receipt. If you are going out of France to return, awheel, in a few days or even months, you should get a passavant descriptif, which saves bother, allowing you to go out and come back freely. In Italy, Switzerland, Spain and Belgium I have been much annoyed, but patience and a little knowledge of the language work wonders, much better are they than bribes and less expensive.

Germany, Holland and Austria are indifferent, you are rarely bothered by customs people. Russia, Bosina and Herzegonna passports, formalities, cash down. Turkey and Greece, are roadless virtually. Norway and Sweden and Denmark, I think, scarcely trouble one. But at any rate if travelling alone or sketching or photographing bring a passport.

And if you don't know a word, anything save good American, don't be astonished if you don't get things done just as you would at home.

Many of the faults we find so conspicuous in foreigners are the result of our ignorance of their language and their customs. Their way may be as good as ours, even if quite different. For example, if your machine is sealed with a lead or wax seal don't pull it off, without that, your receipt, you won't get your money back.

As to taking machines on railways, every country and almost every line has different laws. Generally in France they go for two cents, the fee for checking. Fifty-six pounds are allowed each first-class passenger, free; everywhere else you pay.

in the BULLETIN as to price in English hotels is about right, but one need not spend so much and may live better by dining in restaurants. Twelve shillings a day should cover everything, eight or ten are certainly all one need spend, $2.00 to $2.50, on food and lodging, and one could easily travel very much cheaper.

I disagree, however, entirely with his statements about the continent. And I have had much longer and more varied experiences than he has. I can see Europe much more thoroughly alone or with some congenial companion. But to travel well and easily on the continent one must conform to the ways of the natives, and know the language of the country. What we call comfort is unknown. Sanitary affairs are primitive, social and domestic customs absolutely different, and you cannot get along well if you try to impose your own fashions on a foreigner, I mean easily and cheaply.

He says the middle class commercial hotels are just as good and as cheap as at home. If for two dollars a day one can live anywhere in America as one can in Europe, I am glad we have so greatly improved during the last eighteen months. Can you for that price, get two square meals, two bottles of wine, a bed, coffee and rolls? I think not.

Still I think from what I have seen of my fellow countrymen awheel in Europe, $3.00 a day is about the right sum. It can be done for less, but to do it comfortably requires more knowledge of a country than the visitor is likely to have.

As to returning it's easy enough to get out of a country or a hotel if you have paid up, only remembering that a small tip to the crowd who clamour for it is better than a larger one, but when you arrive in New York with your wheel the fun commences. Oh, that custom house!

Humber 1896 Roadster.

24-inch frame; adjustable handle bar, in drop position; weight, 24 to 25 lbs. Price, $110.00.

MANY cycle makers are blowing trumpets, and proclaiming, through megaphone catalogues, and glaring advertisements, that they manufacture the "standard of the world," "the only high grade," "the best on earth," "the fastest," etc., expecting the uninformed to believe them; but it is a matter of history that Thomas Humber is the pioneer cycle maker of the world, and a fact of to-day that HUMBER companies employ a larger cash capital, and a greater number of skilled mechanics, than any other cycle manufacturers in the world; that HUMBER Cycles hold every accepted World's Record from two-thirds of a mile to eighteen hundred miles; that every experienced cyclist who has ever ridden a HUMBER pronounces HUMBER QUALITY superior to any "high grade" make.

THE following is an extract from a letter received as we go to press from an old Cyclist whose experiences began with the old "bone-shaker," a resident of Boston, prominent in his profession of architecture, whose opinion on practical and scientific subjects is sought by fellow members of many societies and clubs of which he is a ruling spirit. This letter voices the sentiments expressed by HUMBER riders all over the World, whose education and experience have been laid in the line of mechanical science, and it seems a fitting opening of an address to the American public, in presenting for consideration the merits of 1896 HUMBERS:—

"I suppose I must keep pace with the style and fashion, and must follow my usual custom of buying a new Cycle each year. You may therefore enter my order for an 1896 HUMBER ROADSTER; but, frankly, I do not experience the enthusiasm of past years in anticipating the receipt of a new mount, for I hardly believe it is possible that even Humber & Co. can make an easier propelling or smoother running machine than my 1895 HUMBER, which I have sold to a neighbor for $75.00. It is entirely unnecessary to send it to your factory to be examined and overhauled, as you suggest. It is in as perfect condition as when I received it, slight marring of the enamel and wear of the tires by the season's use excepted."

Catalogues of manufacturers are an appeal, a petition for patronage, in which the publisher usually claims his particular goods "The best of the kind," or "The greatest value for the price." Some do so honestly, measured by their intelligence; others, influenced by greed, care naught for truth.

THERE is a best of every kind, but how to find the best is often a puzzling question, especially in cycles, engaged in the manufacture of which is a mushroom growth of makers; many (failures in other lines of manufacturing industry, or driven by skilled competition into new fields), before their plans are developed or their machinery set in motion, proclaiming with brazen trumpets, glaring advertisements, and showy catalogues, that they are makers of "The Standard of the World," "The Only High Grade," "The Best on Earth," "The Best in the World," "The Only Perfect," "The Fastest in the World," etc.

The best of the kind in a country is usually known by the class of its patrons, and the firmness of the price at which it is continuously sold in the market. The best in the world is the article purchased and used by the most intelligent and prosperous classes of the world, to which makers of every country pay homage, flatter by imitation, and which honest makers cannot disparage or criticise.

Until a HUMBER factory was established in America, and so long as the tariff was thought prohibitory of importation of quantity, Cycle Manufacturers of the United States advertised without license HUMBER bearings, HUMBER frames, HUMBER fork crowns, HUMBER patterns, and HUMBER chains, admitting that within the walls of their factories, HUMBERS are the best product in Cycle construction which inventive genius, skilled mechanism, precise methods, and unlimited facilities have produced.

TO examine a HUMBER, scrutinize critically every part, every principle of its construction, is to find demonstrated practical skill, practical worth and economy in a complete whole.

From the inception of the cycle business more than a quarter of a century ago, when Thos. Humber constructed the first cycle manufactured in England, HUMBERS have stood unequaled in quality, unrivaled in design, pattern, finish, strength, speed, ease of propulsion, service and durability.

Established in 1868, it is a matter of history that Humber & Co. are the pioneer cycle manufacturers of the world, and facts of to-day that Humber Companies employ a larger cash capital and a greater number of skilled mechanics than any cycling manufacturing firm or corporation in the world; that their product commands a higher price than any other make of cycle; that every cyclist who owns a HUMBER pronounces HUMBER QUALITY superior to any "high grade" make; that HUMBER Cycles hold all accepted world's records at standard distances, from two-thirds of a mile to eighteen hundred miles.

HUMBER QUALITY is only obtainable by day labor; no piece or apprentice work is done in the factory of Humber & Co., America, Ltd.—skilled, careful, painstaking mechanics are employed. Rigid examination and critical inspection from the crude material, is made of every part, after each process of manufacture, and followed through its several operations and processes, then critically inspected and tested, and measured to a thousandth part of an inch before entering the complete cycle.

Slow workmen, if skilled, are more desirable in HUMBER factories than quick workmen, inclined or disposed to slight their work to produce quantity. The motto in every department of HUMBER factories is: "Is this absolutely perfect?" not

HUMBER dust-proof bearings throughout; HUMBER twenty-two or twenty-four inch frame; forty-four and one-half inch wheel base; eight inch head, 1896 adjustment; HUMBER lower rear fork stay; HUMBER double fork crown reinforced; HUMBER oval fork sides, tapered in width and tapered in gauge; HUMBER crank hanger (with sluice hole in bottom), two and one-half inch drop below center line of wheels; HUMBER solid crank axle; six, six and one-half or seven inch HUMBER cranks; five inch tread between cranks where pedal axles are inserted; HUMBER rat-trap or rubber pedals; HUMBER crank sprocket, new attachment; HUMBER eight-tooth rear sprocket; sixty-three, sixty-six and one-half or seventy gear; HUMBER touring chain; twenty-eight inch wheels; cold swaged, nickeled tangent spokes, thirty-two front, forty rear, fitted with HUMBER Patent red tread non-slipping reinforced tread hose pipe touring tires mounted on wood rims painted royal purple with Quaker grey stripe, or Simplicity 47 detachable touring tires mounted on steel rims painted royal purple with Quaker grey stripe; HUMBER touring upturned handle bar, tapered gauge and tapered ends; 18-inch spread; fitted with corkaline grips with tortoise mottled tips; HUMBER touring saddle, mounted on T or L post; HUMBER detachable brake, concealed plunger rods; detachable step fitted for rear axle; mud guards over either rear or front wheels, painted royal purple; frame finished with HUMBER black enamél, bright parts nickeled; tool-bag, wrench, lamp-bracket, spanner, oil can, pump and tire repair outfit.

Unless otherwise specified the regular equipment of the HUMBER Tourist will be twenty-four inch frame, seventy gear, six and one-half inch cranks, rat-trap pedals, HUMBER hose pipe touring tires mounted on wood rims, HUMBER stationary upturned handle bars, fitted with brake; weight twenty-five pounds. Price $112.50.

When brake is supplied, stationary handle bars are necessary, as adjustable handle bars and brake cannot be combined.

Rubber pedals add one pound weight. If wheels are mounted with Simplicity 47 detachable tires on steel rims, the weight of the HUMBER Tourist, including brake and rubber pedals, is twenty-seven pounds.

We make a HUMBER Tourist with 26-inch frame — specifications same as above, excepting the length of head is 10 inches.

We also make a HUMBER Tourist with 20-inch frame — specifications same as above, excepting the length of head is 6 inches.

We make an extra charge of $15.00 for Tourists of especially heavy weight, and an extra charge of $15.00 for other than twenty, twenty-two, twenty-four or twenty-six inch frames.

We recommend the HUMBER Tourist to riders weighing 200 pounds or over, and for all riders desiring a brake on their Cycle.

We will only sell 1896 HUMBERS fully equipped, and according to our specifications. No other tires, saddles, pedals or other parts substituted.

HUMBERS are only HUMBERS as HUMBER Companies build and equip them.

"Can it, or will it pass?" It is an old saying in England that an ordinary workman in a HUMBER factory is fit to be a foreman in other factories, and it is the testimony of every mechanic who has been employed in HUMBER factories, that greater skill is required and greater care maintained in the processes of manufacture in HUMBER workshops than they have ever witnessed. A mechanic once employed in a HUMBER factory, whenever seeking employment elsewhere needs no other recommendation than to establish the fact of once having been a HUMBER employee.

The value of the quality of HUMBER bearings is often evidenced by the eagerness with which repairers and small manufacturers have for years purchased old HUMBERS, cast aside for newer patterns, for the sole purpose of procuring the bearings for making cycles for their own use, or on special orders for customers.

We manufacture only one grade of cycle. It is not our policy to make goods to meet popular prices, or at a price set by "high grade" makers; but to make only and always HUMBER QUALITY, and sell it at the lowest price consistent with its cost, the obtainment of which is the result of exhaustive research and experiments by a corps of experts, skilled by years of study and practical experience to cull out impractical ideas, and to invent and scientifically test improvements.

That we have succeeded is the verdict of cyclists and practical mechanics the world over, often attested by the adoption of HUMBER ideas by cycle makers who recognize that any new feature appearing in a HUMBER Cycle has been proven practical by exhaustive and thorough tests, knowing that HUMBER Companies do not experiment on the public, nor make either freaks or fads.

TO retain same weight and use large tubing, it is necessary to use thinner tubing than has been used in the past. Our experiments and tests have proven there are mechanical objections to the use of lighter or thinner tubing than employed in the construction of HUMBERS. Thin tubing endangers the strength of the frame and the safety of the rider.

HUMBERS are made for practical use, every part made for a practical purpose, as elegantly finished as it is practical for the use intended. To main tain HUMBER QUALITY throughout, and that no reflection may be cast upon its reputation by the use of other than HUMBER parts, and to facilitate the prompt execution of orders, we shall decline during the season of 1896 to equip HUMBERS with other tires, saddles or pedals than those we furnish, and to protect ourselves against the accumulation of excess stocks of parts and consequent loss thereby, we shall decline to sell any HUMBERS unless fully equipped according to our specifications. We will not, therefore, credit any parts, saddles, tires, pedals, mud guards, chain guards or brakes removed after the cycle has left our factory.

The price of each style of 1896 HUMBER is based upon its cost of construction, and is set at a figure which will not admit of supplying extra parts without additional charge. It would be palpably unfair and unjust to those who do not desire a brake, chain guard or mud guard to charge them the same price we find necessary to list cycles fitted with these extra parts. We therefore catalogue each model with the equipment usually desired with it, and charge for any extra parts wanted, not covered by the price.

IT has always been the policy of Humber & Co., and is impressed upon every employee, that it is our aim to deal honestly, truthfully, fairly, justly, equably, and honorably with every patron. To this end, and for the purpose of protecting our patrons, our agents and ourselves, and of maintaining our catalogue prices, we require of every one whom we appoint an agent, a guarantee under a forfeiture bond, that he will not, under any circumstances or conditions, sell a HUMBER at less than the price published in our catalogue. Any agent violating this agreement imprints his character upon the mind of the purchaser, and immediately it becomes known to us forfeits the agency and becomes liable to us for $100.00 for any and every HUMBER Cycle sold by him under our catalogue price. As a further precaution against the cutting of price, and in further protection of our patrons, we here give notice that we withdraw our guarantee from any HUMBER purchased under catalogue price. It is the policy of Humber & Co., and is required of their representatives, and urged upon their agents, to refrain from discussing or criticising the construction or comparative merits of other makes of cycles. HUMBER QUALITY is the result of twenty-eight years' experience, the employment of the most skilled workmen obtainable, and unlimited facilities and capital, and to describe or discuss the processes, methods or metals employed in the construction of HUMBER Cycles would reveal, without equivalent remuneration, secrets earned by HUMBER Companies through the expenditure of vast sums of money. HUMBER reputation is a guarantee of HUMBER QUALITY. All questions regarding processes, methods employed, quality of material used, and their application in HUMBER factories, and all controversies relating to cycle construction, are answered and decided in the words — HUMBER QUALITY.

COMPLAINTS made to us during the season of 1895, regarding the attempts to shift responsibility, excuses made, and the delays in repairing by tire manufacturers, decided us to deal directly with our agents and with purchasers of HUMBERS, in the matter of TIRES. In future, all complaints of tires, and all defective tires can be sent direct to us, and will receive prompt and courteous attention. We have not facilities for the manufacture of tires, nor could we manufacture

The 1896 Lady Humber.

Weight twenty-five to twenty-six pounds. Price with brake, chain-guard, and mud-guard over rear wheel, $117.50; price with brake and without mud-guards, $112.50; price with brake, chain-guard, and mud-guards over front and rear wheels, $120.00; price without brake or guards, $110.00.

SPECIFICATIONS. — Frame connections throughout are made of wrought metal; no castings whatever, either steel or iron, are used in the construction of American HUMBERS.

HUMBER dust-proof bearings throughout; HUMBER twenty, twenty-two or twenty-four inch frame; forty-four and one-half inch wheel base; eight-inch head, 1896 adjustment; HUMBER lower rear fork stay; HUMBER double fork crown reinforced; HUMBER oval fork sides, tapered in width and tapered in gauge; HUMBER crank hanger (with sluice holes in bottom), two and one-half inch drop below centre line of wheels; HUMBER solid crank axle; six or six and one-half inch HUMBER cranks; five and three-eighths inch tread between cranks where pedal axles are inserted; Lady HUMBER rubber pedals; HUMBER crank sprocket, new attachment; HUMBER eight-tooth rear sprocket; sixty-three or sixty-six and one-half inch gear; Lady HUMBER chain; twenty-eight inch wheels; cold swaged nickeled tangent spokes, thirty-two front, forty rear; fitted with HUMBER Patent red tread non-slipping reinforced tread hose pipe tires mounted on wood rims painted royal purple with Quaker grey stripe, or Simplicity 47 detachable tires mounted on steel rims painted royal purple with Quaker grey stripe. Lady HUMBER upturned handle-bar, tapered gauge and tapered ends; eighteen-inch spread; fitted with corkaline grips with tortoise mottled tips; Lady HUMBER saddle mounted on T or L post; HUMBER detachable brake, concealed plunger rods; chain-guard, mud-guards over either rear or front wheels, painted royal purple; frame finished with HUMBER black enamel, bright parts nickeled; tool bag, wrench, lamp bracket, spanner, oil can, pump, and tire repair outfit.

Unless otherwise specified, the regular equipment of the Lady HUMBER will be twenty-two inch frame, sixty-three gear; six-inch cranks; HUMBER hose pipe tires mounted on wood rims; brake; chain-guard, and mud-guard over rear wheel. Weight, twenty-six pounds. Price, $117.50.

Fitted with Simplicity 47 detachable tires, the weight of the Lady HUMBER is twenty-seven pounds.

When brake is supplied, stationary handle bars are necessary, as adjustable handle bars and brake cannot be combined.

We will only sell 1896 HUMBERS fully equipped according to our specifications; no other tires, saddles, pedals or other parts substituted.

HUMBERS are only HUMBERS as HUMBER Companies build them.

the quantity required for our own use upon an economical basis. We have, therefore, arranged with the Spaulding & Pepper Co., who have recently erected an extensive plant, and equipped it with all the latest improved machinery for the manufacture of pneumatic tires, to manufacture under our direction and supervision, and for us exclusively, HUMBER Hose Pipe Tires. Employed in Spaulding & Pepper's factory are expert rubber workers, who have been engaged and interested in the manufacture of pneumatic tires since they were first introduced, and we are confident that the tires which will be mounted on 1896 HUMBERS will render satisfaction to all our patrons. A reinforcement of specially prepared cloth is laid on the rim side of the tire to protect the main fabric of the tire from wear by contact with the rim. Our racing representatives pronounce these tires as speedy as any they have ever used, and cyclists who have been making for us practical tests on the road, pronounce them as resilient, substantial and durable, and as easy of repair in case of puncture as any, and more easily repaired than many hose pipe road tires in the market. The reinforced tread on the HUMBER Hose Pipe Tires is roughened for the purpose of making it non-slipping, and is made of red rubber, the sides being made of gray rubber under HUMBER patents for striping pneumatic tires in colors, for the purpose of distinguishing HUMBER Tires from other makes.

To meet the popular and growing demand for double tube tires, we will supply, when specified, the well known detachable tire, Simplicity 47, manufactured by the Manhattan Rubber Manufacturing Company, whose reputation is a guarantee of quality. Repair of this tire by the cyclist is always easy, sure, and certain. All HUMBER riders who have used it prefer it to any other make of tire.

We warrant all HUMBER Hose Pipe Road, and all Simplicity 47 detachable tires, free from any imperfections of material or manufacture. We guarantee that any ordinary puncture they may receive can be repaired by the cyclist, or we will immediately repair or replace, providing the tire is sent to us during the year 1896, bearing a tag on which the name of the sender is plainly written, and on which express charges have been paid.

We cannot warrant tires will not wear out, but HUMBER bearings never wear out.

REPAIRS.

Every cyclist should become familiar with each part of the machine and its functions before attempting any adjustment or alteration, and in case repairs are needed, the cycle should only be placed in the hands of the maker or a skilled mechanic. A machine well cared for will wear better and last longer. We request buyers of HUMBERS to send to us, mentioning the number of their machine, which is stamped on bottom of crank hanger, for a descriptive part list with instructions for its care.

CHAS. M. MURPHY.

FROM the moment our racing representative, Charles M. Murphy, entered the first American HUMBER at Waltham, May 30th, 1895, where he broke the then existing World's record for one mile in competition, winning in 2.01 2-5, and which record he repeatedly lowered during the season, finally placing it at Denver, Oct. 18th, 1895, at 1.55 1-5, to the present date, every revolution of an AMERICAN HUMBER Cycle wheel has proven it the equal of the celebrated BEESTON HUMBER and its superiority over other makes of Cycles, and has demonstrated the value and merit of HUMBER QUALITY.

When it is considered that the racing talent of the World has for years been in competition with but a handful of racers on HUMBER Cycles, and that HUMBERS hold more World's records than all other makes of Cycles combined, it seems wonderful, but clearly demonstrates that there are good and substantial reasons, proving the superiority of HUMBER QUALITY. Convincing, indisputable evidence of the merit of HUMBER QUALITY is shown by the racing record of Charles M. Murphy during the season of 1895. Murphy, as the racing representative in 1894, of and riding a Cycle claimed by the maker "superior" to all others, was, because of his age and performances in competition, dubbed a "has been," and ranked as a seventh or eighth rater, comes out in 1895, and with the speed of the HUMBER placed to his credit World's records, and was only prevented from taking first rank by unjust and untruthful charges presented to the racing board of the L. A, W., which interrupted his racing in the middle of the season and stopped his racing before the season was ended. Who among racing Cyclists. or among Cycle manufacturers during the Cycle Shows last January would have regarded the "Veteran" as a likely champion of 1895?

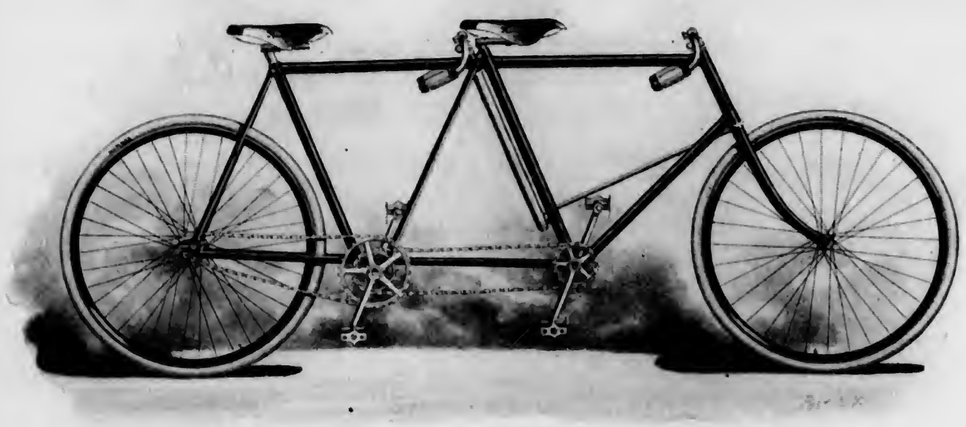
Humber 1896 Racer for Track or Road.

Weight twenty-one to twenty-two pounds. Price $125.00.

SPECIFICATIONS.—Frame connections throughout are made of wrought metal; no castings whatever, either steel or iron, are used in the construction of American HUMBERS.

HUMBER dust-proof bearings throughout; HUMBER twenty-two or twenty-four inch frame; forty-four and one-half inch wheel base; eight inch head, 1896 adjustment; HUMBER lower rear fork stay; HUMBER double fork crown reinforced; HUMBER oval fork sides, tapered in width and tapered in gauge; HUMBER crank hanger (with sluice hole in bottom), two and one-half inch drop below center line of wheels; HUMBER solid crank axle; six, six and one-half, or seven inch HUMBER cranks; five inch tread between cranks where pedal axles are inserted; HUMBER rat-trap pedals; HUMBER crank sprocket new attachment; HUMBER eight-tooth rear sprocket; seventy-three and one-half, seventy-seven, or eighty and one-half gear; HUMBER racing chain; twenty-eight inch wheels; cold swaged nickeled tangent spokes, thirty-two front, forty rear; fitted with HUMBER Patent red tread non-slipping reinforced tread hose pipe racing tires, mounted on wood rims, painted royal purple with Quaker grey stripe; HUMBER adjustable racing handle bar, fitted with corkaline grips with tortoise mottled tips; HUMBER racing saddle mounted in T, L, or direct post; frame finished with HUMBER black enamel, bright parts nickeled; tool bag, wrench, spanner, oil can, pump, and tire repair outfit.

Unless otherwise specified the regular equipment of the HUMBER Racer will be twenty-four inch frame, seventy-three and one-half gear; six and one-half inch cranks, HUMBER racing tires, HUMBER racing saddle.



The HUMBER Racer is built for path or road racing, and not intended for general use, or for heavy weight riders.

An extra charge of $15.00 will be made for Racers of especially light weight.

We do not approve of racing frames exceeding twenty-four inches in height, and will not build racing frames higher than twenty-four inches. It is our experience that greater rigidity and speed is obtained with a frame of moderate height because of its stiffness and stanchness. A higher frame is liable to lateral twist unless the frame is made of heavier tubing.

We will only sell 1896 HUMBERS fully equipped and according to our specifications—no other tires, saddles or other parts substituted.

HUMBERS are only HUMBERS as HUMBER Companies build and equip them.

Humber 1896 Road Tandem.

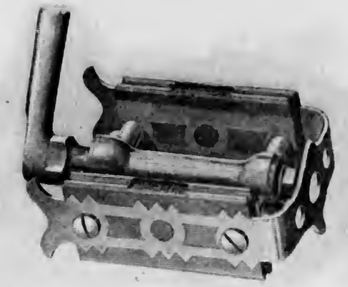
Unless otherwise specified, the regular equipment of this model will be twenty-two inch frame, sixty-six and one-half gear, six inch cranks; Lady HUMBER rubber pedals; HUMBER hose pipe tires, mounted on wood rims; Lady HUMBER adjustable handle bar; Lady HUMBER saddle. Weight, twenty-four pounds. Price, without brake or mud-guards, $110.00.

We also make a twenty inch frame — specifications same as above, excepting length of head is six inches.

When brake is supplied, stationary handle bars are necessary, as adjustable handle bars and brake cannot be combined.



Rubber pedals add one pound weight. If wheels are mounted with Simplicity 47 detachable tires on steel rims, the weight of the Knickerbocker Lady HUMBER, including brake and rubber pedals, is twenty-six pounds.

We will only sell 1896 HUMBERS fully equipped, and according to our specifications — no other tires, saddles, pedals or other parts substituted.

HUMBERS are only HUMBERS as HUMBER Companies build and equip them.

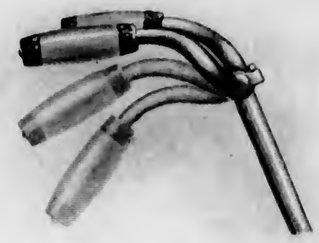
Humber Rat-Trap Pedal.

Humber Combination Rat-Trap and Rubber Pedal.

The Pedals mounted on 1896 Humbers are of pattern which we were unable to complete in time for our 1895 models. They are of our own manufacture, fitted with Humber dust-proof bearings, and will be found substantial, durable, easy running and true.

Humber Saddle.

IT is the opinion of our experts, and all who have made practical tests of the HUMBER SADDLE, that it completely fills the requirements of all classes of cyclists, being equally desirable and comfortable for women and men,—the tourist or the racer.



It is constructed with a tilted cantel, the leather cover supported with non-stretchable leather thongs, which we have found to be stronger and more durable than other materials. This saddle conforms to the shape of the rider at once, whatever the weight, and completely overcomes the medical objections found in saddles of other construction.

THE HEAD ADJUSTMENT of the 1896 Humber permits loosening of the handle bar clamp, and removal of the handle-bar post, without disturbing the adjustment of the head bearings.

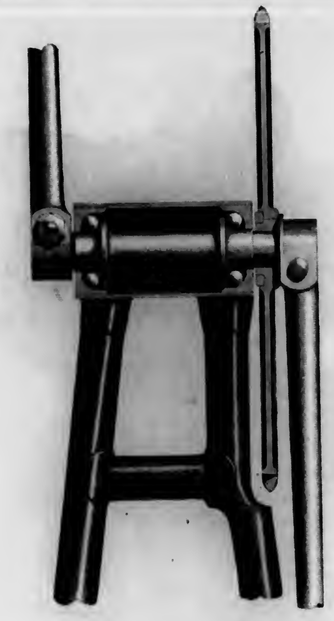
Humber Handle-Bar Post.



The handle-bar post of the 1896 Humber is grooved front and rear. The inside of the head of the cycle is fitted with a lug which fits into the grooves in the post, preventing the post from turning except very slightly in the head, should the cyclist neglect to tighten the handle-bar clamp sufficiently.

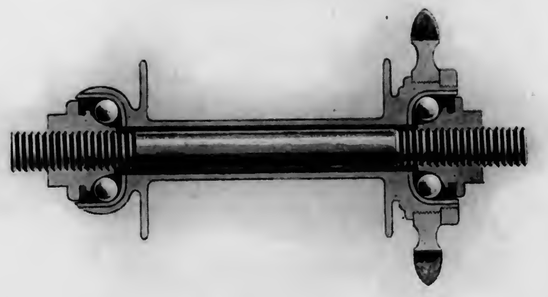
Humber Crank Bearings.

THE RECESS in the rear stay of the 1896 Humber, on the chain side of the frame, is made with a solid forged connection, and enables us to make a narrow tread, using large sprockets, and obtain width sufficient for the tire to run between the stays with ample clearance between the cranks and stays, bringing the wheels and pedals EXACTLY IN LINE CENTRAL WITH THE FRAME.



The CRANK SPROCKET of the 1896 Humber is attached to the crank upon the same principle which has been used in attaching the rear sprocket to Humber hubs for several years past.

The only genuine HUMBER CHAINS made are those manufactured by HUMBER Companies bearing the name of HUMBER only. All parts of our chains are gauged to the thousandth part of an inch. We only sell to the trade the limited excess product of our chain machinery over what we require for HUMBER cycles.

PETER J. BERLO.

FOR the purpose of demonstrating to the world the speed, strength and durability of 1896 HUMBER Quality, after the racing season of 1895 in the Northern States, East of the Rocky Mountains, had ended, and various Cycle and Tire manufacturers had selected from the racing Cyclists of 1895 those thought to be most capable of reducing World's Records, we engaged, November 1st, Peter J. Berlo, the oldest racing man in America, a cycle manufacturer himself, acknowledged by the trade as one of the most expert and ingenious Cycle mechanics in the country, to make record trials on an 1896 Humber Roadster weighing 24 pounds, fitted with HUMBER Hose Pipe Tires.

During the six weeks Berlo was training, the racing fraternity and Cycle manufacturers of the country were laughing at the absurdity of our expending money on a "back number" racing man; but as we go to press we are in receipt of telegrams from New Orleans informing us that on the quarter-mile track, under the auspices of officials appointed by the Racing Board of the L. A. W., in weather so cold the officials and audience were obliged to wear overcoats, the following new World's Records have been placed to the credit of HUMBER Quality:

	mile	.59⅘
	"	1.07
	"	1.17
1	"	1.40⅔
2	"	3.43
3	"	5.50⅘
4	"	7.50
5	"	9.51⅔

HUMBER Quality on a quarter-mile track establishes World's Records while others fail on larger tracks. — Why?

HUMBER Quality now holds all accepted World's Records at recognized standard distances from of a mile to 1800 miles. Records on HUMBERS are never claimed or advertised except those made in the presence and under the auspices of proper racing authorities.

Fakes, like riding down hill with a gale of wind, are not HUMBER methods.

A GROWING DEMAND.

GOOD ROADS conventions are being held in every part of the country, towns, counties and States being actively interested in working up a sentiment for improved highways, and discussing the best means of getting them.

It would be idle to say that all of these discussions will not result in advancing the cause of good roads. All that should be required to make a community look after its highways would be to point out the vast advantages of good roads over poor ones.

Every good road is a monument to itself. Every bad road is its own destroyer. People who know a good thing when they see it like pleasant, serviceable roads.

The Galesburg (Ill.) Republican Register of March 7 said: "The Santa Fe accommodation brought in about seventy-five persons to-day, who came to trade. The bad roads caused the farmers to travel by the railroad.'

The country newspapers are all the while talking of poor business in the country towns because of poor roads that prevent farmers from getting to market.

The people are learning to wish for good roads. This is the very important step in the movement for better highways. "Where there's a will there's a way." When the people must have good roads the way to get them will follow

We want the people to want good roads.

NATURE was kind enough to fix it so water will not stay in the middle of the road if it has a chance to get to a lower point.

A POOR road makes poor horses.

WHAT IS A ROAD?

A "road," as the name is applied to the public highways, so called, may mean most anything from a strip of mud or stones between two farms, to a perfectly smooth, hard and beautiful thoroughfare.

At the present time, the latter class is not so large as the former but the good roads movement, backed by the L. A. W., is writing the word "improvement" all along the highways of the land. There isn't a farmer living so far from the world's main road of progress, that he hasn't heard of the purpose to make highways better.

That there is much to be done is shown by roads to be found in nearly every community. The illustration published herewith is of a so-called road in a populous district in Pennsylvania. The League member who forwarded it to the BULLETIN sent the following lines:

The roads are very bad, of course, about this time of year:
It spoils the "biking" pleasure, which we hold most dear.
However, Father Time will have Old Sol, his dear old friend,
Bring forth the direct rays and Winter will then end. ʊʊ

ANY town can afford to borrow money for road improvement.

DON'T vote for any candidate who isn't a road reformer.

AN OREGON ROAD.

The Oregon Road Club two weeks ago took the necessary steps to secure reliable information concerning the condition of roads in various parts of the state, appointing a committee to take the work in hand. Those entrusted with that duty are hearing from county courts and county judges, but the following letter, in its humorous vein, is the most characteristic of the letters thus far received. It is written from Damascus, Clackamas county, and the writer displays more than ordinary knowledge on the subject. He says: —

"I see in The Daily Oregonian of February 1, a desire for information as to our roads. The honorable county court of this county is at present very busy harmonizing the county expenses and the political situation: so, perhaps a little expert testimony may be agreeable, though not coming from the honorable county court. In regard to the best mile of road, it is somewhat of a puzzle to determine that fact, so I will take the road leading from this city (Damascus), to Portland, via Johnson creek, seven miles of which is in this county, and a fair sample of Clackamas county roads. You ask: —

"'First. What is the width of the graded part?'

"Owing to the numerous piles of dirt, stumps, logs, etc., the grading has been materially hindered. I should say perhaps about eight feet would be about an average width. In behalf of the honorable county court, allow me to say that the above road has been laid out and opened to travel for about 50 years, and we should not expect too much in so short a time.

"'Second. What is the rise of the centre of the graded portion?'

"'Third. What is the depth of side ditches below the crown?'

"The answer to these two questions depends on the weather. In summer time the crown and ditches are on a level, but, at the present time, the crown is about 2½ feet below the ditches.

"I cannot answer the fourth, as the ditches are all in the middle of the road.

"'Fifth. Is it ballasted with rock or gravel?'

"We use water ballast altogether.

"'Sixth. How thick is the rock or gravel?'

"About one gravel to each half-mile, no rock.'

"'Seventh. How wide is the ballasted part?'

"Full width of the road, and where the lay of the ground permits, much wider.

"The people here are somewhat divided as to the feasibility of fixing the road or hiring a dredge and converting our city into a seaport, through the agency of ship canals. However, we await your action before committing ourselves on either."—Portland (Or.) Oregonian.

THERE can't be much mud without some water. Drain the road.

Bicyclists in Tacoma, Wash., have petitioned the city council to impose a tax of $1 a year on bicycles, and to devote the fund thus raised to laying out and maintaining a certain road in the city as a bicycle path. The council has agreed to the proposition.

EVERY narrow-tired wagon makes the road to town just so much longer.

(COMBINATION BLANK.)

Application for Membership in the L. A. W.

ABBOT BASSETT, Secretary, L. A. W.,
12 Pearl Street, Boston, Mass.

DEAR SIR: — Enclosed find the sum of TWO DOLLARS, one dollar of which is for my initiation fee in the L. A. W., seventy-five cents for one year's dues, and the remaining twenty-five cents I hereby authorize and direct you to pay to the publisher of the L. A. W. BULLETIN AND GOOD ROADS, and request that he enter my name as a subscriber under the provisions of Articles III and VII of the L. A. W. constitution.

I certify that I am eligible to membership in the L. A. W. under the provisions of the constitution, and I refer to two League members (or three other reputable citizens) named below.

Name, ...

Street or Box, ...

City or Town, ...

..... State, .....

Cycle Club, ...

References, ...

.....

☞ Write plainly, printing preferred, or enclose personal card.

(COMBINATION BLANK.)

RENEWAL BLANK.

ABBOT BASSETT, Secretary L. A. W.,
12 Pearl Street, Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I enclose One Dollar for which please renew my membership and subscription to the L. A. W. publication for another year.

Number .....

Date of Expiration .....

Name .....

Street and No. or P. O. Box. .....

City ..... State .....

City and Division in which my home is and to which I should be attached, ...

Bulletin will be stopped at date of expiration.
You have 60 days in which to renew.

☞ If you want a waterproof ticket holder, made of the best calf skin, with a receptacle for ticket, where it can easily be exposed to view, and a pocket for personal cards, send 25 cents. If you want your name in gold, stamped on the holder, send 50 cents.

RENEWAL SEASON.

The renewal season is now open and we are ready to receive the annual dues of those members whose membership expires during April.

There may be some delay in issuing the tickets as we are getting up a fine ticket this year and they will not be in hand much before Apr. 1.

We publish in this issue a renewal blank which we hope will be universally used. A blank of this kind is more satisfactory for filing than a notice of renewal written in letter form. If a member has no blank and does not care to mutilate his paper, he will oblige us by sending the renewal on paper the size of the blank and made out after the same form. The same applies when two or more names are sent.

TO REGAIN MEMBERSHIP.

The following provision of the L. A. W. Constitution is self explanatory.

Art. III. Sect. 6. A member may renew his membership at any time within sixty days from the date of its expiration by payment of the annual dues of 75 cents. ($1.00 with BULLETIN and GOOD ROADS.) If he shall postpone the payment of his dues beyond the sixty days he shall pay in addition to the annual dues the sum of 15 cents for every month or fraction of a month he is in arrears, except that he shall pay no more than $1.00 in fines for a full year.

Officials and recruiting agents should call this rule to the attention of those who are out of the fold and invite them to return.

VETERAN BAR.

Any member who has been connected with the L. A. W. for ten consecutive years is entitled to wear the bar. The bar is of gold with the word "Veteran" in enamel. All orders must be sent to the secretary accompanied by the price of bar, $2.50. Bar with gold badge attached, $5.50. Members holding numbers less than 2840 may place orders for the bar with their renewals.

LAPEL BUTTON.

We have on sale the official lapel button of the L. A. W. Mailed to the address of any member on receipt of 25 cents. The same button with catch pin for ladies' use, 25 cents.

CAP PIN.

The official cap pin is now on sale. Price thirty-five cents by mail.

PRIZE OFFER TO THE SMALLER DIVISIONS.

Prize. An Eastman No. 4 Folding Kodak, for rectangular pictures, 4x5 inches. Capacity, 100 exposures without reloading. Value, $60. See Eastman catalogue for further description. Will be given to the member of any division, etc., having less than 200 members, April 1, 1896, who sends to this office the largest number of applications for membership from his own division from Apr. 1 to Sept. 7, inclusive. Those who compete for the prize must make claim for record with every application sent in.

ABBOT BASSETT, SEC.

MASSACHUSETTS DIVISION.

This year promises to be one in which a substantial increase in L. A. W. membership will be the order of things all over the country; many States which had heretofore kept a dignified, and, in some cases, a funeral pace, promise in the year of '96 to literally boom things. Many of the smaller divisions will more than double.

Now, of course it is just as easy for a large division to double as for a small one. The effort required of any one member is no greater, in fact it should be easier for Massachusetts with six thousand members to make it twelve thousand, than for Vermont with sixty-eight to raise it to a hundred and thirty-six. There is a certain impetus that goes with success. It is easier to march when the band plays and when a large number are in line.

Massachusetts is gaining as never before. More new names are being received each week now than came in last year from January 1 to April 1, inclusive.

Special inducements are offered to local consuls. Cash prizes and cyclometers are offered to all members, whether consuls or not. Prizes are also offered to those sending in the largest number of renewals.

In order to be credited to the sender, names, whether renewals or application, must be sent to the chief consul instead of to Secretary Bassett.

Any Massachusetts L. A. W. member may enter the competition by mentioning his wish in a letter, to be sent along with his first instalment of names.

STERLING ELLIOTT, Chief Consul.

12 PEARL ST., Boston.

MINNESOTA DIVISION.

New members have been coming in fairly well of late, considering the time of year, but I notice that they are nearly all secured by the same few good workers who have done so much before.

It is not fair that a few should do all the work. There is no member of the division who could not secure at least one recruit if he would try. This would mean doubling our numbers at once, and the impetus of such a boom would probably result in doubling up again during the season.

Let us go about this at once. Don't wait for anyone else, but let each member resolve to secure a recruit within a week, and then go after him.

If you haven't application blanks, send the names and addresses to me with two dollars, and I will do the rest.

M. L. KNOWLTON, Chief Consul.

VERMONT.

M. C. Grandy, secretary-treasurer of this division has withdrawn from that office and Mr. G. W. Hurlbut of Burlington will act as same this year.

B. C. ROGERS, Chief Consul.

BURLINGTON, VT., Mar. 11, 1896.

ATTENTION — OKLAHOMA WHEELMEN.

Some time last year I offered a 1000 mile L. A. W. standard cyclometer to the member getting the most new names for the League by Jan. 1, 1896. I saw no new names up to that time and I will extend the time on this offer until May 1, 1896, and I hope some one will secure it. Now another question, to every new L. A. W. member and every old member renewing, we will furnish free a very neat lapel button and I hope these will be called for at a lively rate.

CHAS. L. WENNER, Chief Consul.

PERRY, OKLAHOMA, Mar. 9, 1896.

THE ARMSTRONG BILL.

TO ALL NEW YORK STATE MEMBERS:

I appeal to every individual member of our division. What have you done to help the passage of this bill at Albany? We have sent you a copy of this bill and a list of all senators and members of assembly at Albany, (will send you another if you send postal card requesting it). Your most important duty is to write at once to the senator and member of assembly representing your district and ask them in behalf of the wheelmen of your town to actively support this bill by their votes and influence. Under our present law every passenger, on payment of the lawful rate of fare is entitled to the transportation of his person and 150 pounds of baggage. The Armstrong bill prevents the railroad companies from charging an extra sum for a twenty pound bicycle and provides that bicycles may be carried as baggage under the general law. It is fair, reasonable and equitable. Are you willing to aid its passage? The Senator and the member of assembly who represent your district are waiting to hear from you. They want to know that you are in favor of this bill. Write them each a reasonable, manly letter and tell them we want the Armstrong bill passed without amendment, without the "compromise" proposed on behalf of the railroad companies. I urge you to do this at once. The session at Albany is drawing to a close. There is no time to be lost.

ISAAC B. POTTER, Chief Consul.

VANDERBILT BUILDING, NEW YORK CITY.

INDIANA REPRESENTATIVE.

Owing to his removal to another State, Mr. Geo. W. Heller of Fort Wayne, has tendered his resignation as representative of this division. We regretted very much to lose Mr. Heller as he has taken great interest in L. A. W. affairs. Dr. W. W. Mungen, 2 East Columbia street, Fort Wayne, is hereby appointed as representative to succeed Mr. Heller.

Fort Wayne members are earnestly requested to unite with Dr. Mungen and Mr. H. R. Pickard, local consul, in making a large increase in the enrolment of that city.

MARO R. THOMPSON, Chief Consul.

INDIANAPOLIS, Mar. 13, 1896.

INDIANA APPOINTMENTS.

The following local consuls have been appointed: Mr. James B. John, Huntington; Mr. Geo. V. Dawson, Rochester and Mr. Nat M. Lacy, Franklin. A consul's most important work now is to increase the membership at his point and as all consuls are very much interested in this part of their League work I hope members will give every possible aid by distributing our recruiting matter, talking League advantages and benefits over with non-members, explain to them that by joining they get a copy of the new road book free. Also give your local consul the names of such riders as you believe would make desirable members and do all you can to make them members. Get them to join right away, keep things moving. Very necessary we reach the one thousand mark in fewest possible number of weeks.

MARO R. THOMPSON, Chief Consul.

INDIANAPOLIS, Mar. 13, 1896.

INDIANA DIVISION.
L. A. W. Union Run.

It being Vice-Consul Krietenstein's suggestion to hold a mammoth L. A. W. union run early in the season I have asked him to accept the entire management of the affair. He has kindly consented to do this.

In brief his plan is to set some certain date on which all riders within 100 miles, or more, of Indianapolis will make the run to this city. He expects to appoint lieutenants at the various points with whom he will outline his plans in detail. Arrangements will be made to give the visiting wheelmen a thoroughly enjoyable time in this city. Due notice will be given from time to time of the various plans to be carried out in connection with this run. All wheelmen whether League members or not will be cordially invited to participate.

MARO R. THOMPSON, Chief Consul.

INDIANAPOLIS, Mar. 13, 1896.

A. D. Peck, Sec.-Treas.

NEBRASKA.

The hand book committee is anxious to get all the most important routes throughout the State, and wishes you to give distance between the different places and each town on route and class the roads as follows:

If level and good, "a"; if hilly but good, "b"; if level but sandy, "c"; if hilly and sandy, "d."

For instance, route R to V:—

R to S, distance, 6 miles; class of roads, "a."
S to T, distance, 5 miles; class of roads, "c."
T to U, distance, 4 miles; class of roads, "d."
U to V, distance, 9 miles; class of roads, "a."

Hoping you will favor L. A. W. with your kind reply I am respectfully,

L. BRODSTONE, Chairman.

SUPERIOR, NEB.

Routes can be sent to A. R. Miller, Columbus, Neb., who has charge of the routes.

NEBRASKA.

I hereby announce the appointment of Mr. C. L. Shader to be vice-consul of this division, vice R. M. Simons, resigned. Mr. E. K. Milmine of Lincoln, and Mr. J. W. Vieregg of Central City are appointed local consuls for their respective towns.

A. R. EDMISTON, Chief Consul Nebraska Division.

LINCOLN, NEB., Mar. 11, 1896.

NEBRASKA CLUB REPRESENTATIVE.

Capital City Cycling Club, Lincoln — W. L. Hunter.

Fraternally, W. M. MCCALL, Sec.-Treas.

VERMONT.

Secretary-Treasurer M. C. Grandy has resigned, and Chief Consul Rogers has appointed G. W. Hurlbut of Burlington to fill the place.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to Monday preceding this date, and published in accordance with Article III of the constitution.

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published and to report errors and omissions to the secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at noon on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

A BICYCLE FACE...

AT NIGHT is largely due to the mental state of fearful uncertainty on the part of wheelmen who carry flickering, weak-rayed lamps They cannot see what danger lurks in their paths.

Unseen horrors haunt them.

Tally-Ho MEANS SAFE NIGHT RIDING.

Throws the brightest and widest light of any cycle light made and obstacles or approaching riders are seen yards away, in time to avoid accidents.

Burns Kerosene. Made of Brass, Riveted. Patent Devices for—Locking to Head, Adjusting Bracket, Scratching Match close to wick. Patent Removable Reflector.

Our Free Booklet, "EVERYTHING FOR THE BICYCLE." Tells all about Bicycle Sundries.

A Sensible Crank.

The Remington.

Easily detached.

Among the many improvements exclusively Remington is the well-known bayonet pattern, spring-tempered crank, conceded to be the strongest and most scientifically constructed crank used. The method of attaching the crank to a triangular axle is both simple aud effective, admitting of a quick and easy adjustment.

QUERIES AND ANSWERS

FELIX O'D., Brooklyn: George Washington crossed the Delaware in a boat. He never rode a bicycle. But it was not his fault.

W. W. K., Floridaville, N. Y.: A bicycle costs much less to buy or to keep than a horse and buggy.

No. 45,874:

Clipping sent is good but too long to reprint. The shorter a "poem" is the better. Many persons can exist without poetry. Poetry is like money invested in postal cards, a little of it goes a good ways. Thanks for your kindly interest.

A. G. WOODBURY, of "The Woodbury Stores," Danville, Ill., publishes the application for membership blank on the back of his business cards, and on the front he asks this pertinent question, "The happiest man is he who helps pay for the privileges he enjoys. Do you help? Join the L. A. W."

If all the jails were hospitals
And every judge a nurse,
We'd "cure" instead of "punish" men
We drive from bad to worse.

NUMEROUS ENQUIRERS:

THE height of a bicycle frame may vary several inches and still not be wrong. Ordinarily it is enough that the frame be of such a height as to leave from one to three inches of the seat post projecting above the frame.

DIVISION officers are elected by a mail vote of the State membership.

MEMBERS do not forfeit their amateur status by competing for prizes in a parade.

THE color, adopted some years ago as the League color, is royal purple.

THERE is no hard and fast rule as to just what difference in gear is admissible for a given reduction in weight of machine. It is best determined by experiment. Of course a lighter machine will stand a higher gear, but how much will depend upon the rigidity of the frame and the kind of tires, bearings, etc.

DON'T hesitate to confide your name to the editor, it may make a difference.

F. E. COREY, Westboro, Mass., wishes the address of some one competent to go over the highways of that or other towns and prepare specifications by which roads may be intelligently repaired.

DO common things well. The size of a diamond has nothing to do with its quality.

"In the multitude of counsellors there is safety."

A board of 21 expert engineers and mechanics, every one wise in bicycle building, passes upon each detail of Columbia construction. These men are all workers in bicycle improvement. Little of value can escape their watchful search. Few mistakes of construction can pass the scrutiny of their combined wisdom.

You are buying the safest bicycle in the world when you buy a

CORRESPONDENCE

THOSE TWO BUTTONS.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

Noticing your correspondent's statement regarding the two buttons on the back of the coat, I would state my belief on the subject, on reliable information, is that they were placed there for the support of the sword-belt, and are so used at the present time in the army and navy, also in the constabulary forces. If the buttons had been solely for the support of the coat-tails they would have appeared only on the coats of fops instead of on all of the men's coats. It might be of interest to note here also, that the slash in the lapel of the coat, just below the collar, was first made by the adherents and supporters of Napoleon, during his first banishment to Elba. The slash will be found to be the letter "N," put there as a mark of recognition between the Napoleonists without the necessity of exchanging words or signs which might betray them. No. 91,817.

PHILADELPHIA.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

It is said that the placing of the two buttons on the back of the coat at the waist line is a relic of the time when all gentlemen wore swords. They were of use then, as they prevented the sword-belt from slipping down. The use has been continued, partly from custom and partly as a neat means of covering the junction of the seams at that point.

DAYTON, O. No. 83,132.

A MEMBER writing from Paterson, N. J., expresses the belief that if the authorities of the Brooklyn cycle path would give cyclists a hint of warning in the shape of a few signs in regard to the limit of speed, it would save many cyclists the annoyance and time of being arrrested, also the $5 or $10 fine which is the usual punishment.

"SHOULD the chain be oiled?" is the question a St. Louis member wishes to have discussed. He believes it would be interesting and instructive for us to read first the experience of a numerous class of riders who do not oil their chains, and then read the bitter sarcasm of the chain-oilers-and-dust-collectors, and decide for ourselves, as impartial judges, which is better, or rather, which is the least bad.

"God bless the man who first invented sleep;"
Thrice blessed be he who clean our chains will keep!

Dear Sirs:

Please accept my thanks for the tires. I am well pleased with them. I am glad I own a Rambler because it is made by a responsible company. I told one of the boys to-day that I had to pay good price—$100—for a Rambler wheel, but the makers were a responsible company, and it was the cheapest in the long run. He owns a —— and used the —— tire about two months, sent it to the factory for repairs, and they told him it was worn out. He hadn't run it over two months. I rode my tires for 6½ months, and never got a puncture. I want to say again, accept my thanks for all the favors.

Yours, W. RUFUS GLEASON

A ST. LOUIS member writes to endorse the pure water article by Mr. Kunz, in a recent number of this paper, and says legislation should be encouraged and secured. He is now using a tourists' pocket filter made especially for the use of wheelmen which he finds an excellent corrective for muddy and tainted water, as he can get a drink of crystal water through it in three minutes. The filter can be made germ proof by boiling it in hot water before starting on a trip.

WM. N. MORRISON of St. Louis sighs for something his size. He insists that the manufacturers have all gone to the extreme in reducing the size of wheels. "I would as soon be mounted on a set of casters as on some of the wheels offered in the shops. I have been waiting for several years for what I think would be an ideal, having the rear wheel 36 or 38 inches in diameter, or as high as would run up to the saddle, using all that lost space and propelled by League chainless gear, about 80 or 84. The front wheel to be 28 or 30 inches in diameter. I would expect to walk up steep hills, but for ordinary roads, and over small ruts and slight inequalities it would be a very comfortable machine. Weight about 20 pounds to carry 160, aluminum frame, dust proof ball bearings, running in oil. Where can I get such an one?

OSCAR E. WALTER, New York City, is a local consul who proposes to correct the evils that come under his notice. The young "toughs" who have been in the habit of thrusting sticks through the spokes of bicycles and doing and saying all sorts of rude things along the boulevards are warned to desist. On Sunday, March 8, Mr. Walter picked his man from among a crowd of offenders and saw him safely landed in the hands of the law. He is going to keep up the fight and asks all New York wheelmen to assist him in doing away with these street pests by seeing to it that offenders be brought to justice no matter what the trouble or expense of doing so. By taking up arms against these trials is the only way to overcome them.

A BROOKLYN member writes that his club has used the following signals on outing tours since 1892 with no cause for complaint. The formation is by twos. Captain on left, pacemaker on right. Lieutenant on left, rear of line. Orderly on right, rear of line. One whistle by captain, stop; two, single file; three, mount; two whistles by lieutenant, slow up; danger, a quick succession of blasts from whistle, or raised hand on preceding wheel. Other road rules of club are strictly enforced. Mounting: No mounting of rear file until front files are in saddle. Dismounting: Starting from rear of line and extending to front. Pedestrians and vehicles: Meeting, keep to right; passing, pass to left; crossing, pass to rear. Sidewalks: Riding on them discountenanced at any time. Sidepaths: In country are used if roads are bad, but wheels must give way to pedestrians. Roads or streets: If bad or crowded, dismount, take sidewalk, walk your wheel on side nearest the curb in single file. Single file: Wheel on right leading, wheel on left to fall in rear.

An Illinois member says the way to wash a woolen sweater properly is to put a little ammonia and soft soap in rain water and wash the sweater briskly therein. If convenient, wash it with a washing machine, which will stretch it. Another member says a good way to clean a sweater is to let it soak in a bath of borax water for twenty-four hours. Rinse gently in clean water and hang up to dry. Still another member writes: "When my sweater first came home from the wash it was yellow and spotted, and the neck was almost decollete. I took the thing and treated it exactly the opposite of the ordinary way of washing woolens. After wetting it, I rubbed soap all over it, not the common yellow washing soap, but a toilet soap that made a white lather on it. Then I rubbed it and squeezed it with my hands, and rinsed it till it was snow white. (I should have boiled it had I the facilities.) I then hung it over a hot radiator, and while it was drying squeezed and pulled lengthwise its neck, so that afterward when I put it on, it was tight around my neck, even after pulling it over my head. It has been washed several times in the same way — sometimes in cold water, sometimes in hot — with always the same good results. I might mention that I bought a sweater six times larger than my ordinary size."

Robert L. Hughes, of Fon du Lac, Wis., writes that they have a very effective way of "discouraging" the road hog habit in that State of delightful dells and beautiful belles. He and a friend met two men in a cart who refused to give a foot of the road. Hughes barely escaped being run over, while his friend was knocked into a ditch. But he didn't remain there. He grabbed a whip that was in the cart and while Hughes held the horses by the bits his friend gave the two road hogs a terrible whipping. It might be well for the League to employ a "Jack-the-Whipper" to go through the land and "cure" road hogs, but it is to be hoped that they can be won over (to one side of the road) with love.

Herbert S. Cunningham, local consul L. A. W., Riverside, Cal., prints the application for membership blank on the reverse side of his local consul address card and suggests that others do likewise. It's a good thing.

THE PEOPLE'S CARRIAGE.

If the gods will supply us with all the luxuries of life we shall try to get along without the necessities.

Granting that they do this, we shall then be in possession of a bicycle, for the bicycle is both a luxury and a necessity.

There is no other mechanical creation that is at once so beautiful and so businesslike, so poetic and so practical, so ethereal yet so substantial as is the winsome, willing wheel.

It combines the blitheness and beauty of the butterfly with the practicality of the honey-gathering bee and lends itself as lightly to the primrose path of dalliance as it does earnestly to the sterner highways of duty.

It is the combined flute of pleasure and tack-hammer of toil. A rose-tree and a bread-tree in one. The crowning luxury of the common people and the necessity of the well-to-do.

It is the airy pleasure carriage of the sprite and the street car and parcel-cart of the artisan.

It the possible, practical phaeton that makes princes of poor men, and brings grace and health and beauty to the working women of the world.

The wheel is the destroyer of caste and the annihilator of age. Rich and poor, old and young, meet on the high level of joyousness it has established and in a common bond of unity enjoy a nearer fellowship of men.

But few are too poor to ride the bicycle. The rich are unable to ride anything better.

THE OUT-OF-DOOR WOMAN.

The out-of-door American woman is becoming less a cherished dream and more of a happy reality.

The clinging baby-girl sort of a woman, so weak she can hardly raise her voice, is going out of style, so they say. The woman who used to wither before ten o'clock, unless she was carefully guarded and kept on the shady side of the house, has passed, or is passing away. With her is vanishing a whole lot of attributes once thought to belong to every really cultured lady, such as nervous headaches, weak stomach, faint heart and torpid liver.

The new out-of-door woman does not have to be kept on ice during the summer nor in a hot room during the winter. And she doesn't mind confessing to the world that her health is all right. The blush in her cheek comes from the inside. Her appetite is good and her heart is in the right place. She rides the wheel and can accompany her husband or friends on a pleasure outing, or she can lend a hand in transacting any sort of business. She is handsomer than she used to be and lots more useful. Instead of patent medicines she takes gentle exercise in the open fields and sunshine. She is no longer a wan lily. She is an American beauty rose. She can eat, sleep, work or play just like a perfectly normal adult. She possesses the one great charm of all charms — health. Home is no longer a hospital. It is a haven wherein is gathered the mementoes and the memories of a thousand joyous outings. It is a castle of content whose owners capture and confine therein the gleam and glory of summer's sights and sounds.

The out-of-door woman is one of the happiest productions of the age. Last week 58 women joined the L. A. W. and this week 35. May the number become legion.

Superfluous.

The law said her wheel must be armed with a bell,
But the gay bloomer girl didn't heed it,
For the suit she was wearing, she knew very well,
Was so loud that she never would need it.

For a long while bicycles were not kindly and intimately known to the great mass of the people, but now most everybody is getting on to them.

The only dissatisfied bicycle dealers or riders that we ever hear of are those who don't sell or ride New Clippers. Our dealers' competitors will, of course, tell you that a clipper is "not so good" as the wheel they want to sell you; that's because they can't sell the Clipper, though most of them would like to have it. The strongest argument in favor of the Clipper is the big fight against it by local competitors, which would n't be necessary if the wheels were no better than claimed by those who don't sell or ride them. Over a thousand satisfied customers who live in this city can and will testify to the merits of our product. A thousand dissatisfied riders would give us a terrible "black eye." If you are looking for satisfaction, buy a New Clipper, any model; they're all good and worth the price you pay.

A MISGUIDED SENATOR.

At the recent hearing at the Massachusetts State house on the "lantern bill," the bill was championed by a State senator, who, among other startling things, said, "This State is expending over $400,000 annually to improve the roads for the benefit of the wheelmen, in view of which it seems unreasonable that they should not be willing to carry lamps for the benefit of the tax payers who are assisting them so handsomely."

We have not the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with the senator referred to. Would say, however, that he had every appearance of being an intelligent, educated gentleman, in view of which the above statement causes us to wonder what his motive might have been.

Massachusetts is noted for many good things, but we fear it will tax the credulity of even a Massachusetts man to believe that our legislators are voting away the public money to such an alarming extent "for the benefit of the wheelmen."

Don't forget to renew.

At a recent hearing before the committee on highways, the object of which was to enable the committee to determine the proper amount to be appropriated this coming year for the use of the highway commission, there were present some 430 citizens, mostly tax payers, and very few of them wheelmen.

The chairman of the committee very shrewdly proposed a written vote by the people present, to bring out individual opinions as to the amount of the proposed appropriation. Accordingly, slips of paper were distributed throughout the audience and amounts were written upon them. The minimum appropriation suggested was one million dollars, and the amounts ranged from that to five millions.

The fact is that it has been very generally discovered that while good roads are desired and enthusiastically worked for by the wheelmen, the wheelman, as such, is much less benefited by highway improvement than are citizens who are not wheelmen. Or, to put it another way, the wheelman, as a citizen, receives much more benefit from good roads than he receives as a wheelman and it is very difficult for us to believe that this fact is misunderstood even by the senator referred to.

Please pause a moment! Shouldn't you

From Actual Observation

of bicycles and how they are made, one Sterling agent talks as follows:

"During the past year I have personally visited the workshops of the great bicycle manufacturers.

I have seen with my own eyes just how the different wheels are made, and just what they are made of.

The main idea in most of the factories seemed to be 'how many' instead of 'how good.'

I give my opinion honestly and broadly when I say the Sterling is the best and most expensively constructed bicycle on this earth.

I want to be known as the man who sells the Sterling.

The price is $100. It is worth $100.

L. A. W. BUTTONS.

The question has often been asked whether the national L. A. W. should furnish each member with a badge or button.

This matter has been considered by the executive committee and while the expense would be considerable the principal objection raised is that but a comparatively few members would be likely to wear such a badge, as the different State divisions provide a variety of badges already.

RED-HEADED GIRLS.

The L. A. W. BULLETIN editor has been asked whether a young lady having Schenectady* hair should necessarily ride a white wheel.

We would say that while this is not absolutely necessary it would seem that the populace would appreciate the appropriateness of such a combination.

* It might, perhaps, be necessary to explain that "Schenectady is a little beyond Auburn."

In case of doubt renew your membership now.

Don't forget to renew.

NOT MUCH OF A REASON.

In asking wheelmen to join the L. A. W. we often met with the remark that the good things which the L. A. W. has done and is doing, are enjoyed equally by wheelmen who are not members of that organization, and hence there is no good reason why the party addressed should join.

This argument hardly needs an answer. A man who advances the above argument (?) is not likely to be appealed to on other than selfish grounds. When he has got so far, however, as to admit that the League is doing good work in behalf of wheelmen, he has admitted enough. Then it is only necessary for him to allow his selfishness and reasoning powers to follow the subject up, and he will discover that an organization can help wheelmen in proportion as it has influence through its numbers, and that for two cents a week the selfish wheelman can feel that he is not only getting the benefit of the work done by the organization, but that he is doing his full share toward the expense, and there is no man who does not feel better to know that he is paying at least something toward the privileges he enjoys.

EVERYTHING goes in circles or cycles they say,
And the truth of it all will allow,
For we see, as we view our surroundings to-day,
It's the bicycle's cycle just now.

We have no "Quick Repair" Outfit.

COLUMBIA, S. C.

AMERICAN DUNLOP TIRE COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

DEAR SIRS.—While at the Cycle Show in New York, the writer thinks he remembers seeing an exhibition of quick repairing on the Dunlop Tire at your booth. He intended purchasing one of the repair kits, but the crowds were so great that he put it off until later, and did not then have the opportunity.

We are in need of one of these repairing devices, and if you will send us one with bill, we shall honor same at once.

Very truly yours,
J. W. GIBBES & Co.

NEW YORK.

MESSRS. J. W. GIBBES & Co., COLUMBIA, S. C.,

GENTLEMEN.—Replying to your favor, we have no special quick repairing device for use with our tire, as it is not necessary. It is hardly possible to make any other kind of a repair to the Dunlop than a "quick one."

You do not need any complicated tools, or plugs of rubber, or squirt guns, nor is it necessary to carry with you a surgeon's outfit. With your ten little fingers you can take the tire all apart in less time than you can get the average quick repairing device into working condition. All that is necessary is to have a little material and ABSOLUTELY NO TOOLS.

The material consists of a tube of cement and a bit of patching rubber, and in accordance with your request we are mailing you one of these repair outfits without a bill. There is so very little to the Dunlop repair outfit that we hardly have the check to charge for it.

We give one of these free with every pair of tires. You should have received one with every pair of Dunlops you have had this season.

Yours truly

LONG TIME RENEWALS.

It frequently happens that League members desire to renew their membership for more than one year in order to save the annoyance of having the subject come up annually.

There is no objection to this, as the secretary provides for such cases and enters them for any length of time.

If you believe you want to remain a League member for five years or ten, send your five or ten dollars to Secretary Bassett and he "will do the rest."

There was a time years ago when a member might be excused for wondering if the League would outlive him, but that time is passed.

A hundred thousand members before February 1, 1897, now looks more than possible.

A HISTORY OF THE BICYCLE.

A history of the bicycle from its first inception down to the present time has often been called for. Although such information has been repeatedly published, we realize that many members of the L. A. W. have taken up the wheel but recently, and in view of this we will print at no distant day an abridged history of the "silent steed."

THE time to join the L. A. W. is now.

Don't forget to renew.

A GOOD THING FOR A CENT.

A. G. Woodbury, of Danville, Ill., one of our most effective good-roads hustlers, has issued a pocket memorandum book of 36 pages devoted to advertising the L. A. W. It also contains, incidentally, an advertisement of Mr. Woodbury's business with some interesting good-roads statistics, a number of blank leaves for memoranda, a calendar, and it might have contained an application blank (we presume Mr. Woodbury overlooked this important part).

We are informed that these books were made at a cost of one cent each.

It is a very desirable form of advertising for any business man, while the advantage to the League is well worth considering.

THE ROAD TO RUIN.

Representative Seth L. Milliken of Maine in writing to Chief Consul Hichborn says: "I shall give my hearty support to Bill H. R. 3,339.

"I am in favor of the improvement of all roads except the road to ruin."

THE members of the Indiana division, and others, will be interested in a poem that appears in the official department of this number. Read it.

CATALOGUES.

We take pleasure in making mention in this column of any bicycle catalogue which may be sent us. If our readers who send for any of the catalogues mentioned will kindly say that the notice was seen in the L. A. W. BULLETIN it will be appreciated by us as well as by the manufacturer.

Andrae.

Julius Andrae & Sons Co., Milwaukee, have issued one of the neat catalogues of the year describing their make of wheels, in prettily printed pages illumined with many neat little half-tone pictures. The cover page design in green and gold is an artistic piece of work.

Transit.

Albert and J. M. Anderson, 44 Columbus ave., Boston, have incorporated much beauty and really effective art in their 20-page catalogue, most of which is devoted to reproductions of brush and pen drawings. The cover page design in blue and gold is very pretty.

Sundries.

Robt. W. Ingersoll & Bro., 65 Cortlandt st., New York, have issued a 34-page catalogue of bicycle sundries. The list is very complete and comprises everything that concerns a bicycler's comfort and convenience.

Specialties.

Nelson-Hubbell Bicycle Supply Co., Toledo, O., has issued a neat 24-page catalogue of bicycle specialties.

RENEW IN TIME.

The L. A. W. BULLETIN will not be sent after the date on which your subscription expires, as shown by the address label on each copy of the paper which you receive.

All L. A. W. BULLETIN subscriptions to League members expire on even date with expiration of membership.

DON'T BE IN A HURRY.

"All the days of my appointed time will I wait till my change come" was written by Job, good, patient, old Job. How sharper than a serpent's tooth is a fact like this to the modern man who blames the dry-goods store if he has to wait half an hour for his change.

WHEN PEGGY RIDES THE WHEEL.

BY EDWIN AUSTIN OLIVER.

With head erect and downcast eyes,
She glides along the street;
There is no girl in all the town
Who seems to me so sweet.
Far down the road she loves so well
My tender glances steal;
The world seems bright, my heart is light,
When Peggy rides the wheel.

The pedals turn with lightning speed;
She looks demurely meek;
The rose she wears upon her coat
Seems pale beside her cheek.
Oh, if I did but know her well,
I at her shrine would kneel!
I look above, and think of love,
When Peggy rides the wheel.

How most divinely fair she is Within that suit of gray;
I'm even jealous of the winds
That with her tresses play.
I've reached my three score years and ten,
And signs of age reveal,
But, all the same, I'm young again
When Peggy rides the wheel.

A LEAGUE member in writing of Solomon's assertion "there is no new thing under the sun," asks:

Aren't the bicycles shod with something pneu?"

ANOTHER RECRUITING IDEA.

Ray M. Price, of Winterset, Ia., has an envelope upon which is printed his local consul badge, the same as used by the Massachusetts division.

The lines upon which the address is written consist of red type reading, "Be progressive and up-to-date. Join the L. A. W."

Then he sends out a circular letter to those wheelmen who would be desirable L. A. W. members, and proceeds in a logical way to show them why they should join our organization. Along with each circular letter he sends a copy of the L. A. W. BULLETIN

We are glad to furnish extra copies of the L. A. W. BULLETIN, when we have them, to be used as above described.

THE Kansas division has adopted a very pretty design for a local consul pin. It is made of gold with blue and white enamel and is given to every consul who secures five new members for the division. It has also adopted a very pretty design for a League badge made of gold which is given to every member who sends in five new names.

"What will be the outcome of the dissention aroused in the ranks of the Cyclist's Federation of New York City, through the actions of their representative at Albany in connection with the Armstrong Bill?" is being asked on all sides from those within the Federation and those without.

There are a couple of old sayings to the effect that "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," and that "Boughten wit is the best of wit, providing it be not bought too dearly."

Well, when the Cyclist's Federation was formed and started it was composed of two classes of people, both men and women, between whom there could be no possible harmony or affiliation, i.e., those interested in the welfare of the organization, and those interested in self and self-aggrandizement.

The break came sooner than was expected, however, but it was inevitable, and by the "blowing away" of the conflicting, self-interested element good will result to the organization, and the "wit," bought by the L. A. W. officials in New York State, through its neglect to establish local organizations years ago under its sanction and control, will also have the desired effect, i.e., the formation of local clubs. And the place to begin now is upon the prospective wreck of the Federation, which was formed for admirable purposes, but which it has proved itself, as constituted, unable to carry out. Almost every member of that organization belongs to the League, and is with it heart and soul in all good work. We have had many victories in many directions in League and wheeling circles, but, as the "price of liberty is eternal vigilance," we had better not be careless or neglectful of opportunity, lest our victories slay us.

As it now stands, the prize horse of the L. A. W., viz., the Armstrong Bill, was let out of the stable by the expert sent by the Federation to groom and send him winning to the goal. After a hard and exciting chase, he has been recaptured by the head of the New York State division and his able associates, who are now attempting to lock the stable against future unfaithful, careless or malicious trainers. Indeed, entirely too much has been made of this trainer's actions; they were not worth it, as the motives which actuated him were so palpably plain as to call forth the contempt of the committee before which he appeared, as well as

There are several clubs in New York having a mixed membership. The Michaux Club, which holds its meetings at Bowman's Academy; The West End Cycle Club, which meets at The Metropolitan Cycling Academy; The New York Tourist Wheelmen; and The Excelsior Cycle Club, which meets every first and third Mondays of each month at 1786 Broadway during the winter months, socially, and at sixty-sixth (66th) street and Boulevard twice each week during the summer months for club runs.

This latter club awards medals not only for mileage, but for attendance at meetings and club runs, and largest number of members brought into the club.

Application for membership may be made to Mr. T. A. Raishsk, 62 West 66th street, New York.

The club colors of this club are yellow and white. The chief color adopted and used by all clubs is that of the League, gray with black braid trimming.

A girl of fourteen, five feet two inches tall, can wear any of the different makes and styles in cycling costumes worn by women. I should advise that you have a skirt reaching within two inches of the tops of your walking boots. If you desire the divided skirt you can buy it in New York. One has recently appeared that is the most artistic on the market. A pair of silk or sateen knickerbockers or bloomers, the same shade of skirt, should be worn. You can use your own discretion about leggins, wearing them or not as the weather dictates.

In the Bulletin of February 28 you call for an opinion on leggins from the wheelwomen.

I consider the wearing of leggins merely a matter of personal taste. They need not bind the muscles of the leg if they are properly made.

In the summer I wear a suit consisting of bloomers, blazer and leggins of light-weight material (all wool). My leggins open on the side, having a narrow strip of leather on both edges in which are eyelets, and I lace them with elastic. I use the flat hat elastic, it being more elastic than the cord.

Made in this way they can fit perfectly and yet give with every movement of the muscles.

Leggins that do not fit will spoil the looks of any costume, and stockings are preferable in such a case, merely for look's sake.

Mrs. Alice Chamberlain — "Do you think the bloomer costume will be worn more or less than last year?"

Much less, Redfern and Worth have said so, and as wheeling dress has risen to the plane of other fashionable dress, we will see less of the bloomer and knickerbocker, as well as of the diamond frame wheel, than any previous season. Redfern and Worth are the absolute arbitors as regards correct dress in this country and Europe, for the very exclusive and fashionable sets, and what is worn by social leaders will be copied and worn by all the world whether upon the wheel or off it.

A WRITER in a recent issue of Harper's Bazaar says: "Women have finally decided that it is possible to have a costume for bicycling that will be becoming, suitable and inconspicuous; and, indeed, anything smarter and becoming than some of the new costumes it would be extremely difficult to discover. There is no use in women trying to excel men in any sport. Nature, no less than custom, has so arranged it, and while individual women do excel individual men occasionally, they are the exception, not the rule.

The proper length of the skirt is now conceded to be about to the tops of the ordinary walking boots. The fullness is all in the back, but there is so much goring over the hips and width below that the outlines of the figure are becomingly hidden. On the correct cut of the skirt depends the beauty of the costume, which may be made of cheap material, if only it hang well.

SOMETHING ABOUT GEARS.

BY HENRY CLYDE.

In the course of a bicycle tour last summer, the writer crossed, about two hundred miles from home, another tourist, whose wheel (a light-weight, high-grade machine) had, as he remarked, got bewitched; developing a troublesome jerk and creak with each full revolution of the sprocket. The trouble had commenced with the wheel's leaving a repair shop at Boston, and the rider had been unable to find the cause of the trouble. I suggested that the chain fastening was perhaps too tight, and, seeing that the rider did not understand me, examined the chain myself and found, as I suspected, that the check-nut was so closely turned up as to make the link inflexible. A half turn with the wrench remedied the difficulty, and the rider, thanking me heartily, said that he knew very little about the machine; which I easily believed when I found that he had never heard of such a thing as the proper adjustment of bearings, and did not know how to oil his sprocket bearings. I gave him an object lesson in the care of a bicycle, and he went his way rejoicing, on a wheel which had already suffered a good deal from want of proper care.

Among other questions, my friend asked me to explain to him the meaning of the term "gear" as applied to bicycles, and, judging from some of the communications printed in the BULLETIN on the subject of gear there is a good deal of misunderstanding on the subject, even among old wheelmen.

With a wheel of a given diameter, the factor which determines the gear is always the ratio between the circumferences of the two sprockets. And (to repeat what the writer has said in another place) "by the 'gear' of a bicycle is understood that application of chain and sprockets by which the speed of the rear or driving wheel is increased so as to make it the equivalent of a wheel of larger diameter. Thus, to say that a wheel has a 'sixty' gear is to say that the rear wheel is the equivalent of a wheel of sixty inches in diameter run without gear, that is, each revolution of the sprocket sends the bicycle a distance equal to the circumference of a sixty-inch wheel.

"The gear of a bicycle may be determined as follows: Divide the number of teeth in the forward sprocket by the number in the rear sprocket (this is, of course, equivalent to dividing the circumference of the larger by the circumference of the smaller sprocket), and multiply the quotient by the diameter, in inches, of the rear wheel. Thus, supposing the number of teeth in the front sprocket to be seventeen, and in the rear sprocket eight, and the diameter of the rear wheel to be twenty-eight inches,

$$17 \div 8 = 2\tfrac{1}{8} \times 28 = 59\tfrac{1}{2},$$

which is the 'gear' of the bicycle. Multiplying the gear by the ratio between the diameter and circumference of the wheel,

$$59\tfrac{1}{2} \times 3.14 = 186.83 \text{ inches, or } 15.57 \text{ feet,}$$ which is the distance which the bicycle will travel for each complete revolution of the sprocket. It is evident that, with the above gear, for each revolution of the sprocket the rear wheel makes $2\frac{1}{8}$ revolutions.

"With the twenty-eight-inch rear wheel, and the number of teeth in the rear sprocket eight, the application of the above formula gives the following table of possible gears, and the distance which the machine will travel for each revolution of the front sprocket for each gear respectively:

15 teeth, gear	$52\frac{1}{2}$,	distance,	164.85 in.,	or 13.75 ft.
16 " "	56,	"	175.84 in.,	or 14.64 ft.
17 " "	$59\frac{1}{2}$,	"	186.83 in.,	or 15.57 ft.
18 " "	63,	"	197.82 in.,	or 16.48 ft.
19 " "	$66\frac{1}{2}$,	"	208.81 in.,	or 17.40 ft.
20 " "	70,	"	219.80 in.,	or 18.32 ft.
21 " "	$73\frac{1}{2}$,	"	230.79 in.,	or 19.23 ft.
22 " "	77,	"	241.78 in.,	or 20.15 ft.

"It will be observed that the ratio of increase in nominal gear for each additional tooth is $3\frac{1}{2}$, and of increase in distance travelled for each revolution 10.99 inches, or about 0.92 of a foot." (Pleasure Cycling, p. 51).

If the number of teeth in the rear sprocket is seven, applying the formula:

$$15 \div 7 = 2\tfrac{1}{7} \times 28 = 60 \text{ gear.}$$
$$16 \div 7 = 2\tfrac{2}{7} \times 28 = 64 \text{ "}$$
$$17 \div 7 = 2\tfrac{3}{7} \times 28 = 68 \text{ "}$$
$$18 \div 7 = 2\tfrac{4}{7} \times 28 = 72 \text{ "}$$
$$19 \div 7 = 2\tfrac{5}{7} \times 28 = 76 \text{ "}$$
$$20 \div 7 = 2\tfrac{6}{7} \times 28 = 80 \text{ "}$$
$$21 \div 7 = 2\tfrac{7}{7} \times 28 = 84 \text{ "}$$

In this case, the increase in gear for each tooth is 4. The distance travelled is always, in inches, the gear multiplied by 3.14. Like tables may be compiled for any number of teeth in the rear sprocket, but one or the other of those given above will apply to most of the machines now on the market. As the ratio of increase, both in gear and distance, for each front tooth added is invariable, a table may always be computed by simple addition, after the first two gears and distances are obtained.

THE FARMER AND THE BICYCLE.

I STARTED out last fall on a bicycle to visit a man in another part of the State. In trying to reach a macadam road, just built, by a short cut, I came into a stretch of highway as bad as any in a civilized country. In this road I overtook a farmer with an empty wagon and two horses. When the farmer saw me approaching, he let his horses walk, for the purpose, I believe, of more effectually blocking my way.

The road was narrow and uneven and there was no way to get by the farmer unless he turned out. At last I shouted to him

"Won't you let me get by?"

"I ain't henderin' ye!"

"But the road's so narrow I can't go by unless you turn out!"

"Can't help that! I didn't make the rud! Ef I had, I might ha' made it wider, an'—an' I mightn't!"

"But you might turn out!"

"Mebby I might, but—"

"The road belongs to me as much as to you. I'm entitled to half of it!"

"Ye be, eh! Wal, why don't ye take it, I ain't henderin' ye?"

"Yes, you are! You are keeping right in the middle of it."

He made no reply to this and we went on in silence. He drove as slowly as possible, perhaps to make me dismount and walk, but I have learned to ride a wheel under adverse circumstances. Before I saw through the farmer's trick, he whipped up his horses, turned quickly to the right, then to the left, and brought his horses up to a water trough and the wagon across the road. There was no way to go around him except behind the wagon through a mudhole made by the overflow of the trough. This was exasperating and as far as I could see, uncalled for. I dismounted and asked:

"What do you mean? What have I done to be tricked in this shabby way?"

"Don't know's ye've done anything, but some o' your kind o' folks — ye all belong ter ther same crowd — treated me purty mean. Look here, d'ye think ef I'm er goin' ter town with a big load o' wood that I orter turn out fer chaps er ridin' them things?"

"No."

"Wal, that shows ye've got a little sense after all! When I was goin' down this mornin', two fellers on bisuckles cussed and swore dreadful 'cause I wouldn't turn out fer'm."

"And because some man insults you, you insult the first stranger that comes along."

"Wal, wal, that don't seem hardly fair, that's er fact. Look here, there's a piece o' rud a little furder on worse'n anything ye've seen. Put your ridin' thing in ther wagon an' take er seat, I'll carry ye over ter ther new rud."

"How far is it to the new road?" I asked, for this was the road I was trying to find — the new macadam road.

"'Bout er mile furder. It runs by my farm, an' it's the likliest piece o' rud in ther State. I tell ye, it jest saves er sight o' wear an' tear o' all kinds o' gear. When I go ter market, I can carry er third more ev'ry time — jest like slidin' down hill ter go ter town on that rud. I tell ye this rud buildin's great! Ef we'd ruds all through ther State's good's our rud, ther farmer'd be a sight better off!"

"How did you get such a good road out here?"

"Git it? Why, ther town built it."

"But who stirred in the matter, talked and argued? Didn't John Blank have a hand in it?"

"I ruther guess he had both hands an' both feet in it!"

"If Blank had not made a noise about it and used his influence, the road might not have been built."

"That's erbout ther size o' it, I guess."

"What did Blank want ther road for, he works in town, has no heavy teaming, no crops to sell, and keeps only a horse and cow?"

"Can't rightly say, but somebody's got ter do the talkin' an' ther hustlin' er nothin'll be done."

"Exactly, and Blank was the man to do the talking and the hustling. Don't he ride a bicycle?"

"Yis, he doos, an' that's the only thing I got agin 'm."

"Don't his wife and daughter ride, too?"

"Wuss an' wuss! Yis, they do! I see'm er kitin' by my house like sixty; an' ther daughter's ridin's made my daughter erbout crazy ter ride, too, but I tell 'er, I'll see 'er in 'er grave fust."

"Now I'll tell you what will surprise you. I know John Blank and I'm on my way to his place. He wanted to ride his wheel from town. There was no fun in it over the old road. He had influence, persistence, a ready tongue and was popular. He caused the road to be built. If there'd been no John Blank, you might not have had the road, and if John Blank had not been interested in a bicycle, he might not have given any attention to the road, for nothing gives a man such a good idea of a road as to ride over it on a bicycle. You owe this road, that saves you money and time, to a bicycle."

"Wal, wal, never thought o'that erfore. P'raps ye're more'n half right. But here's ther rud ye're lookin' fer, an' there's my place. Come in, ther boys are pressin' out ther likliest cider ye ever saw. Won't ye have er glass?"

As we stood by the press, the farmer said:

"I orter make ye er plum up an' down 'pology fer usin' ye so rough on ther rud. Ef I hadn't hed that scrimmage with them two sassy chaps in the mornin', I wouldn't ha cut up so. But I was jest er jokin. Don't ye think no more on't. I'm glad I fell in with ye, an' durn my pictur', I begin ter think them two wheeld things ain't so bad arter all. Lord, ef my daughter heard me say that, she'd think I was er softnin'. Ef ther bisuckles'll git us rud's 's good's ours we orter put up with'm. Good day ter ye. IT is a noticeable fact that a love for cycling and an interest in road improvement go hand in hand. The newspaper that encourages wheelmen to join the L. A. W. usually contains intelligent, up-to-date editorials on highway improvement. It would be out of the question for a man to be an active bicycle rider and not be in favor of good roads. The use of the bicycle is no longer confined to cities and towns, but is finding its way all through the country. The rural press has taken up its cause and are saying good things for it and the League that in an organized way has done so much to smooth its path. The force is being applied at the right point. Such expressions of interest and influence as the following from the Ridgeway (Pa.) Advocate are evidences that the people are being reached in a more local and more forceful way.

And at last you all are "started" in the race.
In the race.
With a "good send off," you're started in the race.
Now your only "fear" is Jim,
So you keep right close to him,
With your wheels lapped rim to rim,
In the race.

Past the "back stretch" in the last "lap" in the race,
In the race;
The "quarter post" you're nearing in the race.
Of your "grit" you now have need,
For there's Jim still in the lead,
And he is "humping" it for speed,
In the race.

Ah! poor Jones was "never in it," in the race,
In the race;
And Jim one instant "wavers" in the race,
Life is pulsing in the steel,
And you're very senses reel,
But you've won by half a wheel,
In the race.

Congratulations for the "winner" in the race,
In the race.
For the "winner" and his "trainer" in the race.
The spectators wildly shout,
And the "kids" all throng about;
You're the "biggest fellow out;"—
In the race.

THE Bloomington (Ill.) city council has adopted an ordinance making it compulsory for teamsters to provide their wagons with wide tires, as the hauling of heavy loads on narrow tires damages the brick paving.

The Automatic Bicycle Balance

Easy to ride with "Hands Off." The greatest invention yet. Will balance wheel to perfection. Prevents accidents, as it keeps the wheel straight ahead. Greatly increases the pleasure of riding, especially on rough roads; corners and circles can be turned with steadiness and safety. Gives one confidence in their wheel. The rider does the pumping and the balance does the rest.

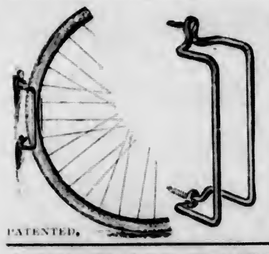
Sometimes It Goes.

BY L. M. R.

THEY say the bike is here to stay,
I don't think that quite true,
For some one stole my wheel away,
Now I'm saving for a new.

DON'T go too near the brink. A good many people fall over every year.

The sun is day by day a little further northward stealing
And day by day we're nearer to the season of good wheeling.



One of Ohio's Good Roads.

THE wheelmen of Cincinnati have presented a written request, signed by thousands, to the board of administration, that a space three feet wide be left unsprinkled next to the curb, and that six feet at crossings be similarly left. The request is considered extremely reasonable and likely to be granted.

THE wheelmen of St. Paul and Minneapolis are organizing for effective work and expect to exert a force in bringing about various reforms. It is their purpose to connect the two cities with a ten-mile cycle path, built of a species of gravel found near Minnehaha. It is said to be of reddish color and to be a combination of gravel and iron ore. It is claimed that two inches of this on a hard clay foundation will wear forever, and it is proposed to build a road six feet wide planked at street crossings. It is also suggested that a deep ditch be dug on each side the track to keep teams off.

"If I should die to-night," ah, me,
Would the earth dissolve in sorrow,
Or be on hand at the same old stand

The Main One.

One reason why so many farms
Cannot be made to pay
Is because their blood is drank by the mud
That lurks in the market way.

MUD AND TRADE.

THE following pertinent paragraphs from a recent number of the Northwestern Miller indicate the close relationship existing between the condition of roads and of trade:

"Mud covers the situation here. The roads are so bad that an empty wagon is a good load for two horses. There is practicably no wheat coming to market. We are running, this week, one-fourth to one-third time for local trade."

"We find business generally dull in this section. Roads, for ten days past, have been very bad."

"Roads had improved some, but rain and snow have stopped all grain from moving."

"The weather having been very fine this week, brought out a little more wheat, and several large lots came out."

"After a fine fall of snow the roads are rapidly becoming passable, and wheat deliveries are increasing."

NOT a single car of corn was received in Atchison during the past twenty-four hours. This shows what bad roads are accomplishing; when the roads were good, the receipts in Atchison amounted to as high as eighty carloads a day. — Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

TRAVELLING men report the country roads in a horrible condition. They say some of the roads in Indiana are in such bad repair and so muddy that hauling over them is almost an impossibility. In view of this fact, farmers cannot get to town with any degree of comfort, so they are just waiting for the roads to become passable. This of course puts a damper on trade in the small towns. "There is some business to get when the weather settles," said an old furniture man, "but when we have seven kinds of weather in as many days, we can't expect much. Just as soon as the roads get good and people begin to move around then there will be some trade, but until that time there is very little of an encouraging nature to look forward to."—The American Cabinet Maker and Upholsterer.

Maurice Thompson, the poet and naturalist, of Crawfordsville, Ind., says: "A successful business man said to me, 'All good roads run down hill'; by which he meant that traffic flowed like water along a pleasant highway. Show me a flourishing town, and I will prove to you that it is a basin into which good highways pour their streams. I know that this is true in Indiana. There is not a genuinely flourishing town within our State which is fed by ill-kept roads. Mud colors whatever it comes in touch with, even the temper and aspirations of men and women. Who can keep in a good humor with clay on his feet?

IT is almost painful to read that some of the recent "good roads" conventions in some of the States, have been failures because the roads are so bad the farmers could not get to the place of meeting.

CHIEF CONSUL POTTER, in his address upon good roads before the League of American Wheelmen, at Baltimore said: "Last year our railroads carried a thousand million tons of freight, but every pound of this freight was carted and carried over our roads and streets before it got to the railroads. And this is not all; other millions of tons were hauled in wagons and sold in the country towns to the local buyer. Think of it, a thousand million tons, and not counting the mud on the wagon wheels!"

AMONG the bills having for object "Good Roads," is one introduced into the legislature recently, for the purpose of building a road along the river front of the island of New York, which when finished, would make a continuous bicycling road from the entrance of Riverside Park to the end of New York Island, by means of its connection with the Riverside Drive and Boulevard Lafayette. The grades of the road would be very easy, obviating the present hill coming down the Boulevard from 110th street, and ascending from 127th to 135th street.

We publish in this issue a renewal blank which we hope will be universally used. A blank of this kind is more satisfactory for filing than a notice of renewal written in letter form. If a member has no blank and does not care to mutilate his paper, he will oblige us by sending the renewal on paper the size of the blank and made out after the same form. The same applies when two or more names are sent.

TO REGAIN MEMBERSHIP.

The following provision of the L. A. W. Constitution is self explanatory.

Art. III. Sect. 6. A member may renew his membership at any time within sixty days from the date of its expiration by payment of the annual dues of 75 cents. ($1.00 with BULLETIN and GOOD ROADS.) If he shall postpone the payment of his dues beyond the sixty days he shall pay in addition to the annual dues the sum of 15 cents for every month or fraction of a month he is in arrears, except that he shall pay no more than $1.00 in fines for a full year.

Officials and recruiting agents should call this rule to the attention of those who are out of the fold and invite them to return.

VETERAN BAR.

Any member who has been connected with the L. A. W. for ten consecutive years is entitled to wear the bar. The bar is of gold with the word "Veteran" in enamel. All orders must be sent to the secretary accompanied by the price of bar, $2.50. Bar with gold badge attached, $5.50. Members holding numbers less than 2840 may place orders for the bar with their renewals.

LAPEL BUTTON.

We have on sale the official lapel button of the L. A. W. Mailed to the address of any member on receipt of 25 cents. The same button with catch pin for ladies' use, 25 cents.

CAP PIN.

The official cap pin is now on sale. Price thirty-five cents by mail.

RENEWAL SEASON.

The renewal season is now open and we are ready to receive the annual dues of those members whose membership expires during April.

There may be some delay in issuing the tickets as we are getting up a fine ticket this year and they will not be in hand much before Apr. 1.

PRIZE OFFER TO THE SMALLER DIVISIONS.

Prize. An Eastman No. 4 Folding Kodak, for rectangular pictures, 4x5 inches. Capacity, 100 exposures without reloading. Value, $60. See Eastman catalogue for further description. Will be given to the member of any division, etc., having less than 200 members, April 1, 1896, who sends to this office the largest number of applications for membership from his own division from Apr. 1 to Sept. 7, inclusive. Those who compete for the prize must make claim for record with every application sent in.

ABBOT BASSETT, SEC.

RACING BOARD.

Southern and Northern California are regarded as two distinct States by the L. A. W. and the racing board, and an amateur resident of either division cannot compete outside of the boundaries of his division at a distance of over 100 miles from his place of residence.

The greatest abuses of the League's rules and the racing board's confidence are committed by those men who obtain their expenses and other concessions, and yet seek to remain amateurs. When men travel far from their homes to race, under the care and direction of representatives of the trade, there can be but one inference. Men in the employ of the trade who are allowed time for training, and travel from meet to meet, enjoy advantages which it was never contemplated the amateur would have. Such men do a great injustice to those who are yet amateurs perforce, and who are struggling to develop themselves with their own resources. Amateurism is the nursery of racing, and when one so develops as to command the assistance of the trade he belongs in professionalism, and there he will be transferred by the board under the general provisions which authorize it to act.

This warning is issued now, that racing men may at once select their proper class. The board will not be satisfied to simply transfer to the professional class riders found guilty of violating the amateur rules, but will also suspend from all track racing riders who enter races under such false pretenses and are detected.

Applicants for sanctions on national holidays should bear in mind the fact that the rules regarding confliction of interests are waived on such days.

Suspended.

E. C. Bald, Buffalo, N. Y., is suspended from all track racing pending investigation of charges affecting his amateur status.

Transferred to Professional Class.

MEMBERSHIP TOTALS.

The first column of figures in the table below shows the total of membership by divisions to date. With this week we close the year 1895 97, and these figures are the final totals.

The second column shows the number of members that each division starts out with for 1896-97. These figures remain after subtracting all those whose renewals are due April 1, and adjusting all transfers, duplicates, protested cases, etc., and they will be added to and subtracted from as new members join and old members lapse.

INDIANA DIVISION ROAD BOOK.

Maud Muller, on a summer's day,
Mounted her wheel and sped away.

Happy was she, and her merry song
Gladdened the air as she pedaled along.

Thro' country lanes, begirt with flowers,
The fearless girl scorched for hours.

Cared she not how roadways crossed
She had no fear of getting lost.

The tortuous windings she defied
For Maud's hind pocket contained a guide

And every turn and every crook
Was shown in that official book.

MORAL.

When Hoosier roads perplex and trouble you
Get the road book of the L. A. W.

TEXAS.

You have no doubt noticed that the renewal season is on hand and perhaps wondered, and some have said, "What good is the League to me? Will it pay me to renew?"

"You may not be the one."

Did you ever stop to think that a successful candidate for office always talks to every one he meets, and tells them what he will do if he is elected.

It is the same way with the League. All persons that belong now should renew at once, and talk League to all that are not members.

Talk good roads, get the people interested in them.

Let us pull together, making a band of workers for good roads, and in a short space of time the L. A. W. will number its members in the one hundred thousands.

Talk good roads to every one you meet,
Especially when it is muddy on main street;
And ask them would they enjoy a ride,
With a sweet girl by their side,
When the mud from the road will splash,
And you say words for which I will make a ——.
Talk good roads, talk them all the time,
Talk not of gold, nor of a dime;
Some people might say you have your gall,
But talk good roads, for they are best of all.

NEW JERSEY RENEWALS.

During the past week renewal blanks have been mailed to all those whose membership expires up to and including April 12. Blanks for the following weeks will be mailed two weeks in advance of the expiration of the membership, in order that the time may be given to forward the renewal to headquarters, and that the BULLETIN may be continued. Renew as soon as you receive a blank. Your BULLETIN ceases with the expiration of your membership. Members have sixty days' grace in which to renew, but all communications will cease when the name is taken from the BULLETIN mailing list.

Jersey members who renew their membership, can, by paying an additional quarter secure a copy of the new '96 road book. The renewal and twenty-five cents must be forwarded to the secretary-treasurer of the division.

L. A. W. Legislation

at the State capital this winter has been on the move. Following is a brief outline of the good work accomplished and a purport of the bills.

The Sidepath Bill

Is an act authorizing the raising of money for the construction of bicycle and footpaths along the public roads of the townships of this State, and setting apart such paths when constructed for the exclusive use of bicycle and foot passengers.

Be it enacted by the senate and general assembly of the State of New Jersey:

1. The persons qualified to vote at township meetings shall be and they are hereby empowered at their annual meetings or at any other meeting duly held for the purpose to vote, grant and raise such sum of money for the construction of bicycle and foot paths along and upon the public roads of the township as such persons by a vote of a majority of the persons voting shall determine, which money so voted, granted and raised, shall be expended in the construction of such bicycle and foot paths by the officials of the township charged with the care and repair of public roads, provided that only one such path shall be constructed along and upon any particular road.

2. Said bicycle and footpaths shall be not less than three nor more than six feet in width, and shall be constructed along and upon such of the public roads of the township, and over such part of any particular public road between the outside lines thereof as the township committee shall determine.

3. Said paths when constructed under the provisions of this act shall be set apart for and to be used by bicycle riders and foot passengers, and every person who shall ride or drive a team thereon, except for the purpose of crossing the same when necessary so to do, shall forfeit and pay the sum of five dollars to the use of the township, to be sued for and recovered by any person who will sue for the same.

4. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and this act shall take effect immediately.

Passed both houses and is awaiting the governor's signature.

Senate No. 28 introduced by Senator Johnson of Bergen has successfully passed both houses and is now a law. The bill regulates the use of bicycles, tricycles and similar vehicles and to require uniformity of ordinances affecting the same.

That the several municipalities of this State shall have power to pass ordinances regulating the use of bicycles on the public streets.

To require all bicycles, when in use on public streets, to have a lamp of such illuminating power as to be plainly seen one hundred yards ahead, attached thereto and kept lighted between one hour after sunset and sunrise.

To require all such bicycles to carry a suitable alarm bell, attached to the handlebar of such machine, which when rung may be heard one hundred feet distant.

To regulate the rate of speed at which it may be lawful to ride such machine, provided that no ordinance or regulation respecting such rate of speed shall be made to apply exclusively to bicycles, but the same limitation shall apply to the rate of speed of carriages and all other vehicles on said public streets.

To permit the authorities of such municipality in their discretion, upon any special occasion, to grant permits to any person or persons to ride such machines during a specified time, at any rate of speed, and may annex such other reasonable conditions to such permits as they shall deem proper.

To regulate or prohibit the riding of any bicycle upon the sidewalks within the limits of any city, town, borough, village, township or other municipality, the term "sidewalk," as used in this act, meaning any sidewalk laid out as such by any city, town, borough, village, township or other municipality, which is reserved by custom for the use of pedestrians and which has been specially prepared for their use, but not including foot paths or portions of public roads lying outside of the thickly settled parts of cities and towns which are worn only by travel and are not improved by the public authorities or by the abutting owners.

To provide that every violation of any such ordinance shall render the offender subject to a fine not exceeding the sum of five dollars for each offence, and that by such ordinance it shall be provided that the justice, police judge, recorder or other magistrate who may have jurisdiction over such offences in violation of any such ordinance, may impose such fine in his discretion as he may think proper, not exceeding the sum of fivy dollars for each offence.

2. And be it enacted, That no city, town, borough, village, township or other municipality shall have any power to make any ordinance, by-law or regulation respecting the use of bicycles or tricycles except as provided in this act; and, except as provided in this act, no ordinance, by-law or regulation heretofore or hereafter made by a city, town, borough, village, township or other municipality in respect to bicycles or tricycles shall have any force or effect.

It should not be understood by the bill that this act makes it compulsory for the different towns and cities, etc., to pass ordinances to conform with the law, but says they may, and under no circumstances can they pass an ordinance in any city or town with restrictions that are not permissible by this act.

Senate No. 112, by Mr. Johnson of Bergen.

An Act for the better protection of travelers, pedestrians, vehicles and animals on the public streets and highways.

Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

Whoever places upon the surface of any public street or highway or upon any sidewalk appurtenant to such way, any broken glass, bottle, metal, loose stones, earthenware, or other substance of a nature likely to cause injury to travelers or pedestrians, or to carriages, bicycles or other vehicles traveling or moving on said way, or which might wound, disable or injure any horse or other animal, or which might injure, cut or puncture any pneumatic tire, shall forfeit for each offense five dollars, to be sued for and recovered in an action of debt by any person who will sue for the same; and shall be further liable to anyone injured in his person or his property by such unlawful act, in a sum double the amount of damages proved to have been caused by such injury, to be recovered in an action of tort.

The bill has successfully passed both houses.

Letter of next week will contain an account of the work accomplished by the legislative committee of the division, in connection with good roads and bicycles as baggage.

JAMES C. TATTERSALL, Sec.-Treas.

PENNSYLVANIA.

We need local consuls in every city, town, borough and hamlet in the State I call upon at least one reputable member in every such place to write either suggesting himself or some one suitable for the office. The season is approaching. Write me at once.

S. A. BOYLE, Chief Consul.

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 21, 1896.

TO MEMBERS OF PITTSBURG ATHLETIC CLUB.

Your League membership will expire shortly. Renewals and applications for membership may be handed to A. R. Darragh, chairman of the bicycle committee.

A membership in the Pennsylvania Division this year offers unusual advantages, which will be announced shortly.

KANSAS DIVISION.

In accordance with the following notice:

"Dear Sir: "TOPEKA, KAN., Feb. 25, 1896.

"At a meeting of the board of officers of this division, held in this city Dec. 30, 1895, the following amendments to the division constitution and by-laws were proposed:

"1. Amend Section 2, Article 2, of the constitution, by inserting after 'events' the words: 'One-quarter mile, one-half mile, one mile, two miles and five miles for safety bicycles. The annual State meet to be entitled to only two of these events, the choice thereof to be determined by the promoter of such State meet, the other three to be run under the direction of the chairman of the State racing board at such time and place as he shall designate. The design, etc., of these medals shall be the same as those furnished at the Ninth Annual Meet at Topeka, held Aug. 16 and 17, 1895, a copy of which is in possession of the chairman of the racing board.

"2. Amend Section 2, Article 3, of the by-laws, by adding after the word 'rules' the words: 'and the constitution of this division.'

"3. Amend Article 3 of the by-laws by adding a new section: 'Section 4. There shall be a transportation committee consisting of three members whose duty it shall be to arrange and secure special rates and agreements for the carriage of members of the League and their wheels; shall have power to represent the division in negotiation with transportation lines, and fix the routes for League travel; and also to arrange for the recovery of stolen wheels.'"

I hereby report that the mail vote shows the adoption of all three amendments as follows:

Amendment 1, for 226 against 27; amendment 2, for 251 against 3; amendment 3, for 255 against 2.

The constitution and by-laws of the L. A. W., as adopted at Baltimore, February 12 and 13, together with the amended code of this division, will soon be ready for distribution to every member of the division. Be sure to renew before your subscription to the BULLETIN expires.

W. C. F. REICHENBACH, Sec.-Treas.

TOPEKA, KAN., March 19, 1896.

ILLINOIS DIVISION.

Office of Secretary-Treasurer.

E. M. Newman, of Chicago, having resigned as a member of the recruiting committee in the first district, Thomas F. Sheridan, of Chicago, is hereby appointed to fill the vacancy.

By order of chief consul.

GEORGE D. LOCKE, Sec.-Treas.

JERSEYVILLE, ILL., March 17, 1896.

UTAH DIVISION.

All members of the League of American Wheelmen are hereby notified that the Templeton hotel, of Salt Lake City, has been appointed the League hotel and all active members will receive a special cut rate only on presentation of their League card.

Also, a meeting of the members of the Utah Division of the League of American Wheelmen is hereby called April 15 1896, at 7.30 P. M., at the Templeton hotel parlors, for the purpose of adopting amendments to the Utah Division Constitution and transacting such other business as may come before the meeting.

C. N. BUTLER, Chief Consul.

RHODE ISLAND DIVISION.

Renewals.

Those of you whose membership expires Mar. 31, are hereby notified to renew immediately, if you desire to receive your L. A. W. BULLETIN after the present issue, as it will not be sent until you do renew, and then only beginning with the first issue of it after your renewal is received. For the same reason those of you whose membership expires later must renew before the date of expiration; and it will be advisable in every instance to renew at least ten days before such expiration, to be on the safe side. All members are requested to send their renewals direct to our secretary-treasurer, N. H. Gibbs, 288 Westminster street, Providence, and he will see that they are forwarded to the secretary of the L. A. W. This will enable the division officers to keep run of the renewals promptly and easily, and save much time and trouble.

A hand book of this division will be issued about June 1, and each member will be entitled to receive one. The old road map is out of print, and a new one made to conform with the road book will be published about the same date and sent to every member.

GEO. L. COOKE, Chief Consul.

ABBOT BASSETT.

KENTUCKY DIVISION.

A committee of five, consisting of W. W. Watts and G. E. Johnson of Louisville, Ky., J. J. Nesbitt, Owingsville, Ky., Thos. B. Dewhurst, Lexington, and E. H. Croninger, Covington, Ky., has been appointed by me to devise and suggest some suitable disposition of the bequest left by our deceased brother, A. D. Ruff, so that it may justly commemorate his memory.

Said committee to report at the next annual State meet of the Kentucky division, L. A. W., for final action.

J. W. CLENDENING,
Chief Consul, Ky. Division, L. A. W.

COVINGTON, KY., Mar. 14, 1896.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to Monday preceding this date, and published in accordance with Article III of the constitution.

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published and to report errors and omissions to the secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at noon on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

Do you know what

OHYLLAT is ?

It is the name, reversed, of the most durable and brighest burning cycle lamp made.

Tally-Ho throws a wide, penetrating glare of light, which may be depended upon to burn with uniform brilliancy and steadiness for nine hours. You see and can be seen. Bores a hole through the blackest night that ever followed day. Made of brass with all parts riveted. Has individual wrinkles for convenience of the user that render it invaluable to cyclists desiring a strictly

GOOD intentions alone cannot build a perfect bicycle. It requires capital, facilities, experience; also, best material and workmanship, regardless of cost. These are factors which have always characterized Remington products and contributed to the universal reputation accorded them for excellence and reliability during the past eighty years.

QUERIES AND ANSWERS

C. H. J., Baltimore:

The official department of this paper affords a means whereby officers of State divisions may address members on topics of special and local interest. If space were unlimited much matter of interest to the few in every part of the country might be printed, but as it is, the aim will be to publish only that of interest to the many. The wheelmen of Ruralville all know what transpires "in their midst" and would learn nothing new were it printed. Others residing elsewhere would not care to know.

E. O. K.:

We have heard nothing of the "flash-light."

L. A. W., No. 487 writes:

In your paper of March 13 you say that Macadam, and not Adam, was the first road-maker, when scripture tells us that Adam made his way out of Paradise. Besides, if this be so, it was the earliest case of convict labor upon highways on record.

W. F. H., New York:

Send your name, and your communication will be considered.

No. 84,644:

Poems sent are good, but we do not reprint matter without giving proper credit. We never "appropriate."

A. H. W., North Attleboro:

Tourists entering Canada simply sign a declaration that their bicycles are being taken into Canada for touring purposes only and will be brought back again. We believe the same holds true with Nova Scotia.

No. 45,608:

If your conscience will not permit you to ask the railroads to carry your 25-pound wheel free on your first-class ticket, put it into a trunk weighing 125 pounds more and occupying as many cubic feet of space as an uncrated wheel, and send the whole thing free. Then you ought to feel no pangs whatever. We recommend this as a first-class "pang" cure. Wheelmen are asking for nothing new, but merely another application of a long-established rule.

BETTER, my dear, be an angel here,
Than wait until you die,
For a pair of wings will be handy things
To carry you to the sky.

Don't forget to renew.

See date of expiration on wrapper.

"Whoso has sixpence is sovereign, to the length of sixpence, over all men."

And he who rides a Columbia is sovereign (to the limit of Columbia possibilities) over all other bicyclists. And the possibilities of a Columbia are almost unlimited. It lords it over all. Everything that enters into Columbia construction has to run the gauntlet of our complete Department of Tests, and with the aid of the most skillful mechanics and artificers in metals, the product is the strongest, lightest and most beautiful bicycle ever built. It is applied wisdom to buy

IT LOOKS EASY; IT IS EASY.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

I send the secretary, to-day, the tenth application for membership which I have obtained during the past week. No special effort was made other than mention of the matter to those whom I casually meet. The argument or rather the presentation of the case was usually as follows: "Are you in favor of the movement for general road improvement?"

"Why, yes! certainly; of course."

"Will you chip in a trifle to help it along?"

"Yes, how much do you want? What shall I do?"

"Join the L. A. W. It costs two dollars the first year, and a dollar a year afterward, if you desire to keep it up."

"All right, here's the money, put my name down."

Some ask, "What will I get in return for the investment?" To which I reply, "You will enjoy the satisfaction of aiding a worthy public cause; and as a wheelman obtain some minor individual benefits, the particulars of which you will find out later."

Surely, Mr. Editor, if I can obtain ten applications in a week, certainly every other member ought to be able to obtain an equal number in a year. Let each one try.

EDITOR L. A. W. BULLETIN:

It seems to me that the arguments for bicycle lanterns are even better arguments for proper street lighting, and I made that point with our representative in the Massachusetts Legislature. Our honored ancestors carried lanterns when walking about their streets, and some of our towns and cities are not so very far advanced even now, as in making their contracts for street lighting they award a very generous slice to the moon, the lowest bidder but unreliable, being off duty rainy nights. Is not better street lighting as legitimate work for the L. A. W. as better roads?

A RAMBLER BICYCLE WORTH $1000.00

The jewel studded, silver embossed, gold and silver plated Model G Ladies Rambler, which was exhibited at the Chicago and New York cycle shows, is worth $1000.00. All the enameled parts of this beautiful machine are embellished with silver embossing in most artistic fashion. The handle bars, pedals, cranks, sprokets, hubs, balls, cups and spokes are silver plated. The brake is covered with gold. The spoke nipples are gold and glisten through rims of highly polished mahogany. The saddle is of highly polished leather, hand carved in fanciful designs with gold mountings. The handles are of solid ivory, turned in neat spiral design, and are tipped with jeweled gold ends. The head is crowned with a circlet of pearls, surrounding an immense amethyst, while in either handle tip are set similar specimens of the violet-blue gems. Turquoise gems are set in the head of the adjustable handle bar set-screw, and at the end of either rear fork diagonal tube.

to the amateur rider who, before November 1, 1896, will have ridden the fastest mile, made in competition, during this season, on a Rambler Bicycle in a regular race, at any race meet in the U. S., sanctioned by the L. A. W.

$500.00 FOR RACE PROMOTERS.

We will also donate $500.00 in gold toward defraying the expense of the meet at which this "fastest Rambler mile" is made.

"$1500.00 EARNED IN . . . (?) . . . MINUTES!"
"WHO WILL GET IT?"

It may take four minutes—perhaps 150—but there is no time limit, no string to the gift. For full particulars, apply to any Rambler agent.

"They Say"

(Haphazard extracts, taken from a pile of over a thousand voluntary testimonials received by us testifying to the guaranteeing guaranty on the "Standard" Cyclometer.)

I owe you cordial thanks for your kindness in sending me a new Cyclometer for the old one which had been injured, and for your promptness in attending to the matter. This proof of the character of your guaranty is very gratifying to me, and I will endeavor to compensate by recommending so good an article wherever I have an opportunity. W. W. WINNER, Newark, N. J. —— The Cyclometer reached me in good order this morning, and your generosity and promptness are fully appreciated by me. I shall never lose an opportunity to put in a good word for you amongst my cycling friends. JOS. W. RUSSELL (Ætna Ins. Co.), Hartford, Conn. —— Received from you to-day Cyclometer and letter that there would be no charge on it, which rather surprised me. I had hardly expected that there would be no charges on it, but shall remember, and anything I may be able to do for you at any time will be gladly done. EDWARD J. THOLENS, Syracuse, N. Y. —— I beg to thank you for your liberality and promptness. The "Standard" seems to be the Cyclometer for which the cyclists have longed. Even in this city a wheel looks incomplete without one. FRED. HARTZELL, Aurora, Illinois. —— I send you my Cyclometer, which got bent out of shape in an accident. You are doing me a great favor indeed in exchanging it. The old one gave perfect satisfaction. JOHN C. DIEHL (Erie High School), Erie, Penna. —— I acknowledge your kindness. The new cyclometer is the most perfect in the market. E. B. REED, Keyport, New Jersey. —— Thank you for prompt exchange. The "Standard" is great company when riding in the country, and is "accurate as a railroad mile." GEO. M. CORAM, Utica, New York. —— Received new Cyclometer all right. I shall always recommend the "Standard," as I highly appreciate your manner of doing business. A. H. FINDLEY, Lynn, Mass. —— We thank you for your promptness in exchanging damaged Cyclometer. We wish you continued success in proportion to the merit of your goods. We sell ten of your Cyclometers to one of any other make. ROWELL BROTHERS, Joliet, Illinois. —— Many thanks for your generous treatment in exchange of my damaged Cyclometer. Yours is truly "a guaranty that guarantees." FRED. S. BURT, Catatonk, New York. —— Much obliged for exchange. Am greatly pleased with the "Standard," shall use no other, and shall recommend it to all my friends and club. R. W. HUTTON (Time Wheelmen), Philadelphia. —— Received Cyclometer in exchange for damaged one. It was more than I expected of a guaranty—even of "a guarantee that guarantees." JOHN H. HALL, Providence, Rhode Island.

THE GUARANTY. — If you injure your "Standard" Cyclometer in an accident to the bicycle, send it to our New York Office (11 John St.), by mail, and we will send you a perfect one by return mail without any charge whatever.

without perspiring. My opinion is that perspiration is the best effect of wheeling; that's what I ride for. I had the misfortune last summer to be ten days at a seaside resort without my bicycle, and I was perfectly miserable because I did not perspire. As soon as I obtained my wheel, and took a ride and got into a perspiration, I felt like a new man. I admit that perspiration may be very unpleasant and very inelegant, but in my experience it is the healthiest condition a man can be in. Let the New York member put on a change of underclothing, go out and get soaked in perspiration, and when he returns home, take a bath and a good rub and put on dry underclothes, and his condition cannot be improved by any other process. When the skin is performing its function of throwing off effete matters, the entire body is in good condition; and when the skin is perspiring freely, it is performing the best function it has except that of looking pretty! Perspiration cleanses the skin, and cleanses the internal organs, and especially relieves the kidneys. I used to live in New York State and I was miserable there because I did not perspire enough; but since I have been in the glorious, perspiration-producing climate of Missouri, I have felt better, eaten better and slept better than I ever did in New York State; so, for gracious sake, don't start a crusade to abolish perspiration or I shall resign from the L. A. W.

W. E. W., Springfield, Mass., thinks it would be well for the League to furnish a tag bearing the L. A. W. emblem and number of the member in the League, at a small expense to the member, which could be pasted on the steering post where it could be readily seen. If the wheel is stolen its description and the member's League number could be advertised in the BULLETIN. He says a bicycle thief would be likely to think twice before taking a wheel when he knew that its owner was a member of the League.

X. CUKIER, New York City, suggests that the wheelmen should follow the good example of other fraternal organizations and have some special form of greeting, and proposes "Good road!" as the proper salutation. The idea is worth consideration, but for wheelmen who meet in a miserable muddy highway to cheerily shout "Good road!" to one another might seem a trifle ludicrous.

The Present Signs are Deceiving.

The road to ruin is so well-laid out,
That men take to it through error.
But if sign-boards were made
And the dangers displayed
The road would lose much of its terror.

When the clock strikes one what should one do about it?

BICYCLE "INSURANCE."

Many members of the League have written to the BULLETIN asking whether or not this organization could adopt some practical means of systematically recovering stolen wheels. I would say that I have been for some time negotiating with a responsible concern, with a view to giving this protection to L. A. W. members at a greatly reduced rate, the result of which is an entirely satisfactory arrangement, which will enable League members to feel that their wheels are protected against theft for the low price of $1.00 per year.

For obvious reasons the L. A. W. could not enter into any business of this sort, but we have made an arrangement with the American Wheelmen's Protective Association, whose address is Marquette Bldg., Chicago, Ill., to give their guarantee policy to L. A. W. members at one-half their regular rates, the regular fee being $2.00 per year. The consideration given for this reduction is the official endorsement of the L. A. W., and the advertising incident to it. I have investigated the financial standing of this concern very carefully, and find that they are perfectly responsible, and will carry out any contracts which they make. Their method of doing business they will be glad to explain on application. At this late hour we are unable to give more space to the subject this week.

THE ROAD TERROR.

"I'll tell you what," said the brindle cur,
And his mouth it watered much,
"The feast I most of all prefer
Is to get a juicy clutch
Of a rounded limb as I see it swing
At the side of a flying wheel;
O, you bet I never do a thing
To a stocking stuffed with veal!"

A WHEEL TAX.

There are hungry people all over the country yearning to tax the bicycle. Not in the general way that other property is taxed, but they wish to levy some "special" tax or license or blight of some sort on it because — well, just because. See?

Supposing a farmer owns a big, heavy, narrow-tired road wagon that is a regular highway paralyzer, one that plows ruts and punctures pavements; and likewise a pneumatic tired bicycle that has a tread so soft and gentle it couldn't injure a road in a million years,

The tax levy man or assessor or whatever you call him comes along and says to the farmer, "your big narrow-tired road wrecker is exempt from taxation under the general law but this velvet footed, dainty thing you use to run errands with I shall have to lay a special tax upon so as to get money to build roads for your other vehicles to destroy."

Wouldn't the farmer howl at such an inconsistent proceeding? We almost feel justified in saying he would.

Why, then, do farmers wish wheels taxed when the law exempts wagons from taxation?

Ans. The farmers own the wagons and the other fellows own the bicycles.

But does that really alter the case materially when viewed from the high pedestal of justice? It does not.

Ah! but wheels should be taxed because they must have good roads to travel over, so they tell us.

Pedestrians must have walks and pavements to travel over. Let us then be consistent and tax men for having feet or wearing shoes, even though the latter are fitted with soft, rubber soles.

We can tax most any old thing if the people are foolish enough to permit it.

But will they?

A Popular Route.

That "the way of the transgressor is hard,"
Doesn't strike us as strange any more;
For nowadays it is traveled so much,
It should be as hard as a floor.

New Clippers

are the kind of bicycles that can be depended upon; you're safe in buying a wheel made by the Clipper people. They know how to make bicycles. Five years ago they didn't know so much about building bicycles as now, but they knew as much as any maker could know with two years' experience. These wheels are to-day the wherever introduced and sold. Every dealer will tell you how much better his wheel is than the Clipper. Why is this? If the Clipper was not a satisfactory bicycle, would a thousand local wheelmen ride and recommend it? Would 200 customers buy '96 Clippers before March 15, if they were not worth the price we get for them? Hardly.

Standards for Comparisons

A MEATY SUGGESTION FOR THE L. A. W. AND ITS TOURISTS.

BY W. S. BEEKMAN.

WHEN bicycling was in its infancy, the all-absorbing question first pressed upon us was, where would we find roads fit to ride upon, and where would we come to if we followed them. The mass of people knew not the ways and by-ways, then, hardly around their immediate vicinity. Now, cyclists innumerable not only know the roads of their own neighborhood, but they are acquainted with those of the State and the nation, and are even learning the roads around the world.

The L. A. W. has given its members explicit directions for travelling from town to town, as well as from State to State, and the cyclist following these routes can feel quite certain of encountering none but the best route. The L. A. W. has done the experimenting, and we profit by the results almost ungraciously.

The work of making the surfaces of these roads all uniformly of the best is now well under way, and all thanks is to be given the L. A. W.

We now have, as a body of wheelmen, directions for getting out of a place, but no particular reasons for getting out. Experience with the wheel has made riding an almost unconscious performance. We are not so eager to find the town pump and quaff of that heavily loaded "Consommé a la bacteria," as we were. Touring parties are so common at the present stage of the game, that nearly every town will entertain wheelmen during the riding season.

It is a poor town indeed that does not offer something of interest to those of a mind to be interested. Not being clairvoyants, we cannot go into a trance and locate all there may be in the town we would like to see. and the native who tours around in his ox-cart may never have seen the pretty little nooks and corners that would gladden the eye of a cyclist, to whom such bits of prettiness are not every-day objects.

It can be easily seen that a glossary of the towns, alphabetically arranged, and a corresponding tabulation of what may be found of all-round interest in these towns, or between them, would be of inestimable value to every intelligent person. These features can be listed in very small space by means of characters similar, perhaps, to the road indications now given in L. A. W. road books.

There can be no question that if the L. A. W. BULLETIN expresses a desire to obtain such data, and there is, as I think there would be, a general response on the part of the members, this matter would be more thoroughly accomplished than would be possible by any other means.

All riders have their favorite spots, and these hidden "gems" and "sequestered nooks" can be systematically arranged, so that the cyclist putting up in the town, can find just that in the place that will most strongly appeal to him.

It will not only open up a new aspect of things to the touring cyclist, but the beauties around home may become known to the home wheelmen. It is unsatisfactory to go into a town and ask for points of interest. Some people delight in looking over epitaphs in the old cemetery; others want to see the oldest house, or the fancy stock farm; others like to visit some particularly wild spot, the lake, or perhaps some little waterfall hidden in the deep recesses of the woods. Others would find no interest in these things, nor even in the soldiers' monument or public buildings.

But there might be some spots where some wild flowers are known to grow profusely, or perhaps there is a geological exposure that is well worth seeing; again it may be an opportunity to work out a mineral specimen, or visit a collection; or again, the chief attraction may depend upon some particular spot for the best scenographical panorama. These items can be obtained, because the L. A. W. is the only organization that can gather in members of all stages of experiences and likings.

Such an effort would not be an expense to the L. A. W., because it could be self-supporting. The final result would have a value.

These "open secrets of nature" have entertained the writer for several years, but it is mostly by accident that many of the most interesting things have been stumbled upon, and often after having visited a place many times have we found things that we would have been sorry to miss finding.

When the novelty of ascertaining how many miles one can travel in a season has worn off, there comes the desire to ascertain how much can be seen. The desire to use the wheel for pleasure becomes paramount.

Touring is the highest art of wheeling, and correct touring depends upon the completeness of our knowledge of our surroundings. I cannot but believe, judging from my experience as a wheelman, and having spent so many pleasant hours in showing up to others what I had found for myself, that an undertaking such as above, could quite creditably and profitably be accomplished

To the Pedestrian.

Whene'er you go to cross a street
And see a wheelman bold and fleet,
Don't go ahead with unconcern,
But dodge, and hesitate and turn;
Saw back and forth, and twist and stew,
And make him ride both sides of you
And never touch a single hair,
Or have him shot right then and there.

THOSE in the penitentiary are living according to their convictions.

each wheel made to be the "best" (as most makers claim).
Suppose each listed at $100. (Most are).
'Twould then be easy to choose;—but
Suppose several of these wheels listed at $100 cost much less to build than others. (Such is the case).
Then how will you choose? Take the maker's word that his product is the best?
Or will you investigate the construction, merits and wearing qualities of the wheel itself?
The past tells you something.

ONE of the most wonderful among the feats of strength by Sandow, is his holding one with each hand, two girls, mounted on bicycles. They make a beautiful picture. Mr. Sandow, confident of his own marvellous strength, and the young girls, absolutely confident of Mr. Sandow. Every face, Sandow's included, beaming with smiles, as he lifts and holds them straight at arm's-length, as easily as a man would pick up and hold a baby.

A NEW YORK bicycle paper is advocating a charming fete for Decoration Day.

The editor proposes that all the wheelmen and wheelwomen meet on that day upon wheels decorated with club colors and flowers, each one carrying loose flowers, and ride up around the hill of Riverside Drive, and pausing before the tomb of General U. S. Grant, pay tribute to his honored resting place by decorating it with flowers.

"Grant's Tomb" has so long been the wheelman's Mecca, that it seems but fitting and just that a tribute should be shown him upon this day, and when one considers the mounted cavalry and hundreds of soldiers, and soldiers' sons and daughters, who ride bicycles, it could be made a fete that would go down to posterity as one of the events of the nineteenth century.

MESSRS. Zimmerman and Bald — so it is said — have been employed by two rival papers to discuss wheeling generally, and women's wheels and dress particularly. Mr. Zimmerman has done some talking about bloomers, but as he calls everything "bloomers" that savors of trousers, one can't tell when he means bloomers and when he means knickerbockers. He says women should wear bloomers and ride diamond-frame wheels, I guess he means knickerbockers, as it requires a very scanty pair of bloomers, so scanty as to lose their identity, to be safe on a diamond frame wheel. I don't believe they will do it anyway, because Worth, and Felix, and Redfern, and a few others have told women that they do not appear to advantage in extreme dress, and such haste as they have all made to change their trousers for skirts would be amazing, were it not in America, where every man, or woman too, for that matter, is as good as any other man and a little bit better, and does just as he pleases till it comes to a question of dress, and then if he or she would be at all correct and fashionable, they will do exactly as the rulers of fashion dictates.

A. A. ZIMMERMAN,

CYCLING EDITOR,

Gives the following advice to a correspondent in his cycling column in the New York World.

"The best wheel for you would be a 22 inch frame, 22 pounds in weight, 68 gear and 6¼ inch crank. The best tire for road work is the hose pipe tire. It is a single tire and can be repaired quickly in case of accident, a feature of great importance. With the double tire repairs are difficult."

"A Wheel within a Wheel," (Fleming H. Revell Co., N. Y.) by Miss Frances Willard, is the prettiest and most comprehensive work yet published upon the subject of wheeling, treating, as it does, of the benefits of bicycling from a physical, mental, moral and spiritual point of view.

Of "Gladys," the bicycle presented to her by her friend Lady Henry Somerset, she says—"Since Balaam's beast there has been but little authentic talking done by the four-footed; but there is no reason why the two-wheeled should not speak its mind, and the first utterance I have to chronicle in the softly flowing vocables of my bicycle is to the following purport:—'Behold I do not fail you, I am not a skittish beastie, but a sober well-conducted roadster. I did not ask you to mount or drive, but since you have done so you must now learn the laws of balance. I did not invent these laws, and you must make up your mind speedily to conform to them, or you will find yourself in yonder mud-puddle.'"

Again—"That which caused the many failures I had in learning the bicycle had caused me failures in life; namely, a certain fearful looking for of judgment; a too vivid realization of the uncertainty of everything about me; an underlying doubt, matched and overcome by the determination not to give in to it. In many curious particulars the bicycle is like the world. When it had thrown me painfully once, Gladys had gladsome ways for me no longer, but seemed the embodiment of misfortune and dread. Even so the world has often seemed in hours of darkness and despondency; its iron mechanism, its pitiless grind, its swift, silent, on-rolling gait have oppressed to pathos, if not to melancholy."

"The question now of great interest to girls is in regard to the healthfulness of the wheel. Many are prophesying dire results from this most fascinating of exercise, and fond parents are refusing to allow their daughters to ride because they are girls. It will be a delight to girls to learn that the fact of their sex is, in itself, not a bar to riding a wheel. If a girl is normally constituted and is dressed hygienically, and if she will use judgment and not overtax herself in learning to ride, she is in no more danger from riding a wheel than is the young man. But if she persists in riding in a tight dress, and using no judgment in the amount of exercise she is capable of safely taking, it will be quite possible for her to injure herself, and then it is she and not the wheel, that is to blame."

BICYCLING COSTUMES IN LONDON.

Any morning that is favorable — and this winter has been singularly free from bad weather — it is worth one's while to turn off Piccadilly into Hyde Park at Hyde Park corner. There is always crowd enough to guide the unaccustomed visitor to the scene of interest. The southern stretch of the Ring road, a considerable part of which skirts the so-called Serpentine, is the exercising course of the lady riders of bicycles.

These, if you please, are the "swell" bicyclers of London. There is nothing dowdy or grotesque or startling about them. Your antagonisms are not proved and your æsthetic sensibilities are not set upon the rack.

These ladies do not belong to the class that wear "knickers." Their costumes, without an exception, comprise the short skirt reaching just to the ankle, with jacket or cloak or close fitting bodice, some of them rather expensively made, but all of them "smart" and attractively feminine. The headdress is characteristically in keeping with the rest of the costume, and as the riders glide by (many a young and pretty face and trim figure) the eye communicates a sense of pleasure to the mind, and there is a delightful freedom from vulgarity at one extreme or indelicacy at the other in the habits of these genteel London lady "bikers."

I could but mentally contrast this interesting and refined exhibition in Hyde Park with one I witnessed in the Bois de Boulogne an afternoon in last September. The women rode by, singly or in groups, wearing tight-fitting trousers, of thin material, that stopped at the knee or just below, the stockings being almost invariably tightly drawn silk, so light in some instances as to be transparent, and the loose blouses were often so much open at the throat as to suggest a stage costume. Now and then, to be sure, came a woman in baggy trousers, and more infrequently a woman wearing a skirt and jacket, but the main impression one gets in Paris is that the majority of the female riders of bicycles are cocottes who have lost the art of being seductive and are now trying to keep up their revenues by entrapping yokels.

The English women — I have seen hardly an exception — sit firmly, yet easily erect, and, though they spin along rapidly enough, they pedal without violence, and never leave one to suppose they are agitated by a fear that they will not arrive in time to hear the lunch bell. Nor do you get the idea that these riders along the Ring road of Hyde Park are especially in need of being subjected to a process of civilization.

Freedom and emancipation are fine old words and stand for glorious principles of human economy,

Waverley Bicycles.

Are Built in the Largest and Best Equipped Factory on Earth.

YOU CANNOT SELL BICYCLES

unless you can get them. Dealers realize this after the experience of '95. Our present capacity is nearly thrice that of last year, and our facilities increased in every way. Our raw material was contracted for nearly a year ago, and it is practically all in our warehouse. Waverley Bicycles are built from the ground up in our own factory, hence we do not have to depend upon a lot of makers of miscellaneous parts for supplies as almost all others do. Waverley agents can depend upon getting wheels when they order them.

but when they are employed to justify the parade of a hideous infirmity of judgment or a miracle of bad taste, suffering æstheticism has a right to demand the suppression of gawks in bloomers and cyprians in tights. The immense superiority of the better-class English lady bicyclists to the French dames of the Bois in the mere matter of appearance is so great that you cannot fail to recognize the fact that refinement gives charm and distinction even to a bicycle rider. — Elwyn A. Barron in Chicago Times Herald.

VALVE CAP WANTED.

We are asked how to make a valve cap so that it will keep the air in the tire when the valve leaks.

It would perhaps not be an exaggeration to say that all valves do leak and that air is kept in the average pneumatic tire by the cap entirely. These caps are usually provided with a disk or washer of some flexible material which, being screwed down on to the end of the valve, makes an air-tight joint.

It is very important that this disk be of the proper material. Rawhide lacing leather is the only material which the writer has ever found to be both air-tight and durable.

As we have previously suggested, a very useful little sundry would be a rubber cap which would fit over any valve and which could be bound onto the valve stem with a bit of fine cord. This would always make a tight joint, in the case of loss of cap or packing, and would occupy practically no space in the tool bag.

DON'T SHOOT THE EDITOR.

This is intended as a defence of the L. A. W. BULLETIN editor.

In the nature of things he gets a large amount of correspondence, and by a simple process of reasoning it will be seen that he must have a large number of correspondents.

Each has an idea, and has also a suspicion hat he is right.

In many instances the editor takes the ris either making an enemy, or losing to some extent his hold on a friend, by doing what seems to his limited vision to be exactly the proper thing.

There need be no doubt that in a majority of cases the correspondent could greatly improve upon the present conduct of the journal if —— ah, there's the rub, if; but you see the editor already has the job on his hands t› do, and the correspondent isn't expected to be responsible for ıt. So as long as that condition of things exists there seems to be no remedy except that the editor "plug along" in his own poor fashion and that the correspondent "lay low" for an opportunity to "get even."

She stepped from her carriage, a vision of wealth,
Her gowns were a joy to behold;
A little girl, hungry and broken in health,
Stood shivering there in the cold.

Had she spared just a bit from her big, balloon sleeve
To make the poor creature a dress.

Two tramps were travelling a roadway hard,
Of food they'd forgotten the very taste;
In search of some, one entered a yard,
But soon returned in apparent haste.

His friend looked up with scornful air
As he took his seat on a nearby log;
"Where's the grub yer got in there?"
"Or was ye 'fraid cause of the dog?"

"It is not me that's 'fraid" he said,
He painfully moved on the mossy log
As he slowly shook his frowsy head,
"Me pants are frayed cause of the dog."

She was a truly thoughtful soul, to charity inclined,
In fact, she made philanthrophy the hobby of her mind,
And when she heard there was to be a ball to aid the poor,

She bought a hundred dollar dress, a twenty dollar fan,
And flowers, feathers, laces, gold and jewels, spick and span,
And, by the by, a ticket to this swellest of events,
That netted needy people something over fifty cents.

Lenox.

The makers of the Lenox wheel, Callender, McAuslan & Troup Co., Providence, R. I., have published one of the most notable catalogues of the year, under the novel title of "The Seven Ages." This is a sixteen-page book, printed in two colors and well illustrated with half-tone plates. "The Seven Ages" of Shakespeare is written "up-to-date," and carries, or rather wheels, its hero through the joys and trials of life on a Lenox. The cover is embellished with a wash-drawing, the principal feature of which is a portrait of the gentle bard of the Avon.

Weston.

The Weston-Mott Co., Jamesville, N. Y., issue a little catalogue describing their ball-bearing wire wheels for bicycles, sulkies, etc.

Soudan.

The "Soudan," "Nile" and "Pyramid" bicycles are neatly described in a catalogue issued by Mason & Mason Co., 587 West Madison St., Chicago. The cover design showing the sphinx and pyramids is very appropriately printed in Nile green.

Souvenir.

The Souvenir Wheel Co., Grand Rapids, Mich., has issued a pretty 24-page catalogue. The cover page, in blue and gold on white, is neat and attractive, and the descriptive pages interesting.

Climax.

The Climax Cycle Co., 196 La Salle St., Chicago. sends out a mammoth 40-page catalogue of bicycles and bicycle sundries and novelties. The book is very comprehensive, and is enclosed in a striking two-color cover design.

Norwood.

Schlueter Cycle Mfg. Co., Cincinnati, Ohio, has issued a neat sixteen-page catalogue, one page of which is devoted to "Hints to the novice." The "Norwood" is very fully described.

Punnett.

The Punnett Cycle Mfg. Co., Rochester, N. Y., devotes two pages of its little catalogue to the interests of the L. A. W., and the rest of the book to a description of the "Punnett" wheels.

On the subject of wood bending Mr. Shepard is recognized as an authority, and the catalogue here referred to will be of worth to all interested in the subject.

Collapsible Crate.

Herbert G. Streat, 281 West 128th st., New York, has issued a brief booklet describing his collapsible bicycle crate.

Specialties.

The Adams Mfg, Co., Minneapolis, Minn., has issued a little catalogue and price list of bicycle specialties.

BICYCLING certainly broadens the mind of its devotees. Up to a short time ago the owners of the electric line running to the top of the New Albany Knobs allowed wheels to be taken on the cars under protest, compelling the owners to pay a passenger fare therefor. The president of the company a few months ago became a wheelman, and now things have changed. A number of hooks have been attached to the last car of the train, on which wheels can be safely hung, and the charge for hauling them up has been abolished. —Louisville (Ky.) Courier Journal.

BICYCLES AND SIDEWALKS.

The law of Pennsylvania (as construed by the supreme court) forbidding the riding of a bicycle upon sidewalks in that State, is correctly given in your issue of March 6. But one may, however, derive a valuable lesson from the further consideration of the case, which may be a word of caution to the enthusiastic bicyler courageous in maintaining his rights, and confident of the justice of his cause when confronted with some restriction. Such person is too apt to question a fine which has been wrongly imposed, and appeal fruitlessly to the higher courts, forgetting that the administration of the law is not an absolute science, and that judges are often men advanced in life, with violent prejudices against the wheel which even time will not cure.

I do not agree with your correspondent that it is useless to comment upon the soundness of the decision against Forrest. He was convicted, in my opinion, under a statute passed for another purpose, and contrary to the plain principle of strict construction of penal statutes, namely, that punishment shall not be extended to cases not clearly embraced in the statute itself. And, further, I maintain that there is nothing so sacred about decisions of courts that we should accept them without question, for by such protests alone, erroneous decisions may be cured by the legislature.

Upon the unsoundness of the conviction it is only necessary to state the law and the method of reasoning adopted to secure the conviction. In April, 1889, the legislature passed an act which gives to bicycles all the rights, and subjects them to the same restrictions as "carriages drawn by horses." In May, 1889, the act was passed under which Forrest was convicted. This act provides "that if any person . . . shall wilfully or maliciously ride or drive any horse or other animal upon or into any boardwalk or sidewalk or footway . . . . along the side of any road or highway in any township . . . or shall otherwise wilfully break, injure or destroy the same, the person so offending shall be liable to fine, etc." This act was passed, as appears by the context, to encourage the building of sidewalks in the "townships"; that is, in the entire State, but more especially in the rural districts outside of the limits of the boroughs and cities (which can control these matters by ordinance), and to prevent the destruction of these footways by persons riding or driving horses or other animals thereon. There is no reference in the act to vehicles of any sort or description, but the court held that the use of the word "driving" necessarily meant driving in front of a carriage, and as bicycles had been put by the previous act in the same category with carriages, therefore bicycles were intended to be covered by the act. Now those of us who live in the country and see cows daily "driven" along the roadways, and know the disposition of the beasts to climb up the banks on to the footpaths, cutting them out and generally making a nuisance thereon, will not Ungrammatical But Well Meant.

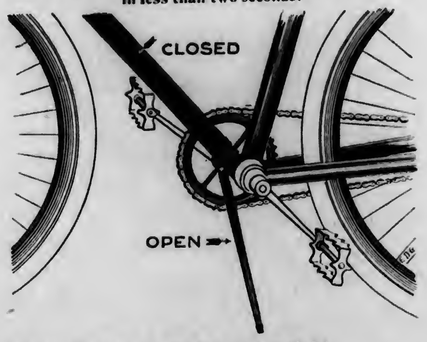
We want extensive county roads,
And we want 'em mighty bad;
So writes an ungrammatic friend,
And yet that's what he's had.

WORDS THAT MEAN SOMETHING.

Isaac B. Potter, chairman of the highway improvement committee, in his address before the last annual convention at Baltimore, Feb. 10, said, among other things:

"Sixteen million dumb and patient horses stand to-day in the farm stables of America, waiting for the drying of the mud which was left as a legacy by the recent February freshet. I have said this much to justify, briefly, the wheelmen's work for better roads. Much more might be said, but it is unnecessary. People are beginning to look upon the wheel from a new, more correct, and more intelligent standpoint. Bicycles have come into common use. They are ridden by men and women of all classes of society, by officials in every grade of governmental employment in all parts of the world; by men engaged in the learned professions, and in all the various occupations in which human industry is directed.

With a hundred years of experience our American farmers are paralyzed by the presence of a simple mixture of dirt and water. Last year our railroads carried 1,000,000,000 tons of freight. Every year the amount increases. Every pound of this freight is carted and carried over our roads and streets before it gets to the railroads; millions of tons are hauled in wagons and sold in the country towns and consumed by the local buyer. Here is the farmers' end of it; hay, 54,000,000 tons—think of it! look at one of these pictures, and think of hauling 54,000,000 loads of hay to market on roads like that; 90,000,000 tons of cereals; 6,000,000 tons of potatoes; 2,000,000 tons of cotton; total, 152,000,000 tons, not counting the mud on the wagon wheels.



The road and the wagon are the twin handmaidens of agriculture that attend the farmer on every journey to market and they are forever at odds with each other. If the man who sold that wagon to the farmer had tried to sell that road to him, homicide would have become a virtue; 152,000,000 tons of produce; $500,000,000 paid for farm implements and machinery to harvest it with; 1,200,000,000 invested in farm horses and mules to drag it to market. Think of it! Think of being director in a corporation with that amount of business on hand, with countless millions of paid-up capital invested, and think of doing business in a mortar bed! Think of waiting for the mud to dry up! Sixteen million horses and mules idle in the stable; $4,000,000 a day for horse feed; $28,000,000 a week. Think of the loss of time and labor, the dwarfed and shrunken values of our farms, of the slack supply and good prices, when the roads are impassable. Think of the procession of farmers that rush to town and glut the market in the first days of dry weather, and think of the paltry prices they get when everybody is trying to sell to an overstocked market."

THE report of Prof. H. J. Waters, dean of the State Agricultural College, on the result of tests made by him to determine the difference in draft of wide and narrow tired wheels, states that "by using the wide tires an average of 53 pounds of draft is saved. A horse is computed to exert a pull of 150 pounds for ten hours per day, traveling at the rate of 2½ miles per hour. On this basis the wide tires save slightly more than one-third of the exertion of the horse."

"No matter what your wheel may be,
It will not stand alone."

We publish in this issue a renewal blank which we hope will be universally used. A blank of this kind is more satisfactory for filing than a notice of renewal written in letter form. If a member has no blank and does not care to mutilate his paper, he will oblige us by sending the renewal on paper the size of the blank and made out after the same form. The same applies when two or more names are sent.

TO REGAIN MEMBERSHIP.

The following provision of the L. A. W. Constitution is self explanatory.

Art. III. Sect. 6. A member may renew his membership at any time within sixty days from the date of its expiration by payment of the annual dues of 75 cents. ($1.00 with BULLETIN and GOOD ROADS.) If he shall postpone the payment of his dues beyond the sixty days he shall pay in addition to the annual dues the sum of 15 cents for every month or fraction of a month he is in arrears, except that he shall pay no more than $1.00 in fines for a full year.

Officials and recruiting agents should call this rule to the attention of those who are out of the fold and invite them to return.

VETERAN BAR.

Any member who has been connected with the L. A. W. for ten consecutive years is entitled to wear the bar. The bar is of gold with the word "Veteran" in enamel. All orders must be sent to the secretary accompanied by the price of bar, $2.50. Bar with gold badge attached, $5.50. Members holding numbers less than 2840 may place orders for the bar with their renewals.

LAPEL BUTTON.

We have on sale the official lapel button of the L. A. W. Mailed to the address of any member on receipt of 25 cents. The same button with catch pin for ladies' use, 25 cents.

CAP PIN.

The official cap pin is now on sale. Price thirty-five cents by mail.

PRIZE OFFER TO THE SMALLER DIVISIONS.

Prize. An Eastman No. 4 Folding Kodak, for rectangular pictures, 4x5 inches. Capacity, 100 exposures without reloading. Value, $60. See Eastman catalogue for further description. Will be given to the member of any division, etc., having less than 200 members, April 1, 1896, who sends to this office the largest number of applications for membership from his own division from Apr. 1 to Sept. 7, inclusive. Those who compete for the prize must make claim for record with every application sent in.

Application for Membership in the L. A. W.*

ABBOT BASSETT, Secretary, L. A. W.
12 Pearl Street, Boston, Mass.

DEAR SIR:—Enclosed find the sum of TWO DOLLARS, one dollar of which is for my initiation fee in the L. A. W., seventy-five cents for one year's dues, and the remaining twenty-five cents I hereby authorize and direct you to pay to the publisher of the L. A. W. BULLETIN AND GOOD ROADS, and request that he enter my name as a subscriber under the provisions of Articles III and VII of the L. A. W. constitution.

I certify that I am eligible to membership in the L. A. W. under the provisions of the constitution, and I refer to two League members (or three other reputable citizens) named below.

RENEWAL BLANK.

ABBOT BASSETT, Secretary L. A. W.,
12 Pearl Street, Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:—I enclose One Dollar for which please renew my membership and subscription to the L. A. W. publication for another year.

Number .....

Date of Expiration .....

Name .....

Street and No. or P. O. Box. .....

City ..... State .....

City and Division in which my home is and to which I should be attached, ...

Bulletin will be stopped at date of expiration. You have 60 days in which to renew.

If you want a waterproof ticket holder, made of the best calf skin, with a receptacle for ticket, where it can easily be exposed to view, and a pocket for personal cards, send 25 cents. If you want your name in gold, stamped on the holder, send 50 cents.

RENEWAL SEASON.

The renewal season is now open and we are ready to receive the annual dues of those members whose membership expires during April.

There may be some delay in issuing the tickets as we are getting up a fine ticket this year and they will not be in hand much before Apr. 1.

BE PATIENT.

We urge patience upon some hundreds of members who have sent us cash for renewals and failed to get tickets. We have failed to receive tickets up to date of writing (March 30), and none have been sent out. We expect to begin mailing tickets on Tuesday (31).

Secretary-treasurers are sending notices of expiration to all members, irrespective of the fact that some have sent in renewals. Those who get the official notice should consider that it does not refer to them if they have already remitted. We have had many letters expressing surprise that we at headquarters should notify them of expiration, when they have already remitted. These notices do not come from headquarters. Be patient, and our tickets will get to you very soon.

ABBOT BASSETT, Sec.

FREE BUTTON TO ALL.

There are several States where the League has no organization, because of a membership too small to qualify as a consulate. To all those who renew for 1896, and to all those who join the League, up to the time that the States in which they respectively live shall qualify as consulates, we will send the official lapel button free of cost. We will send all such the official cap pin for ten cents. The States affected by this offer are Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Louisiana, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, South Carolina, South Dakota.

INDIANA ROAD BOOK.

The road book is nearly complete, a few of the finishing touches yet remain to be put on and the book will then be sent out. It will probably be the 15th, possibly the 20th, of April before it will be out of the hands of the publishers.

As has been noted the map of the State is laid off in five sections in order that riders may the more easily use it for reference. Each map is printed on a good quality of bond paper and is 8¼ inches wide by 22 inches in length, making the size of the map, as a whole, 22½ inches wide by 42½ inches in length. All wagon roads are printed in red, gravelled roads being indicated by solid red lines, and dirt roads by red dashes. All railroads are on the maps, as well as the counties, towns, rivers, creeks and lakes. The hilly portions of the roads are designated by red x marks. Each road is numbered where it leaves one section of the map so that by referring to the same number on the next section that particular road can be instantly located. There is a complete alphabetical index with the maps, by which a town can be found at once. The national and State roads are named. All books will be bound in a specially prepared, cloth binding, not affected by perspiration. From cover to cover the entire book is gotten up in a very artistic manner, the mechanical work being exceptionally good. A very neat and attractive design appears on the front cover. Among other things the reading matter will contain a full list of the officers and committees of the Indiana division, a handy guide for those seeking information on any subject connected with cycling, general touring information, care and repair of the wheel on a trip, Indiana League hotels and local consuls up to date of publication. A cloth-bound copy of this road book goes free to all members, as stated above.

MARO R. THOMPSON, Chief Consul.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., March 26, 1896.

TO ALL NEW YORK STATE MEMBERS.

Many of you have been invited to become members of the "committee of '96," and have received printed circular with full particulars. Applications for committee appointments are coming in apidly. The handsome committee certificates will be ready to be sent out within the next ten days. The "honor badge" is being prepared by the best jewelry specialists in the country, and will be the handsomest ever given in any branch of L. A. W. official work. In years to come you will be very proud of the certificate and "honor badge" of '96. Better fill out the "registry blank," and send it to Secretary-Treasurer W. S. Bull (Vanderbilt Building, New York City) without delay. It is the only sure way of securing a chance for your appointment on this committee.

ISAAC B. POTTER, Chief Consul.

VANDERBILT BUILDING, N. Y. City.

WHEEL STOLEN. 25.00 REWARD.

The above reward will be paid by the New York State Division of the L. A. W. for information leading to the detection and conviction of the thief who recently stole a "Stearns" bicycle belonging to Mr. Earl Vandervoort, a member of the Cohoes Wheelmen, from the basement of the Harmony Hotel, in the city of Cohoes.

THAT BILL AT ALBANY.

TO THE NEW YORK DIVISION: I refer to the Armstrong Bill. Shall it become a law? Let every member do his (or her) full duty and there is not a doubt of successful result. Printed circulars have been sent you by mail within the last week. Read them carefully, and write at once to the senator who represents your district, and urge him by every honorable means to support this bill (known in the senate as "Senate Bill 646.") If you have not already written to your member of assembly do it at once. The vote will be taken in a few days. Watch the newspapers and keep track of the bill as it progresses. The legislature will soon adjourn. Reports from Albany thus far are favorable. Only a final effort is needed. Shall we make it?

ISAAC B. POTTER, Chief Consul.

NEW YORK STATE DIVISION.

Road Book Committee.

The following named members of the division are appointed members of the road book committee: WM. Pierson Judson of Oswego; F. H. Warner of Ithaca.

I. B. POTTER, Chief Consul.

TO WISCONSIN MEMBERS.

We feel that an apology is due the League members of the Wisconsin State division for the slow progress in the issuance of OUR ROAD MAP. We were at fault for over-estimating the local consuls' interest in the work of furnishing the required data to complete the map. For more than a year the work of gathering in the desired information has been going on, and we still have a number of counties to hear from. In the meantime, however, the work is progressing, section by section, by the engraver, and if we can get immediate returns from the remaining counties we will have no difficulty in issuing the map by the first of July. We cannot promise anything, however, until all the facts are in. When it is completed members will be apprised of the fact, and we will have a plan to suggest which will give every member an opportunity to get one without cost. Non-members will not be able to get one at any price.

The map will be printed in sections covering the entire State, and will have the best and most prominent thoroughfares in heavy lines. The condition of the roads will be designated by letters and figures.

The Tour Book.

The tour book which we have been working on for many months is nearing completion, but we still have a number of local consuls to hear from. It will contain about five hundred interesting tours, centreing from over a hundred of the principal towns in the State. We propose to mail a copy of this to every member upon receipt of a two-cent stamp. It is expected the book will be out May 15. File your application for one now.

WISCONSIN LOCAL CONSULS.

The following is a list of the local consuls who have acknowledged an acceptance for the ensuing year:

SAMUEL A. BOYLE, Chief Consul.

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 27, 1896.

PENNSYLVANIA DIVISION.

TO THE PENNSYLVANIA DIVISION:

Mr. Jacob W. Fox, local consul at Pottsville, reports: Two applications last week, eight this week, half a dozen next week, more to follow.

All old members renewed.
Will such a report answer?
Next!

S. A. BOYLE, Chief Consul.

PHILADELPHIA, March 27, 1896.

PENNSYLVANIA DIVISION.

I wish to call the attention of the division to the work just completed by Mr. A. W. Orwig, of York, Pa. Some months ago, Mr. Orwig was run down by a driver in his own city and invoked the assistance of the League to right the wrong done him. I engaged a local attorney to enter suit, but before trial the defendant paid the damages in full—one hundred dollars. Mr. Orwig had promised that prompt action on the part of the League in the matter would boom the division in that locality. The magnificent result of Mr. Orwig's labors show what an energetic wheelman can do for he sends me this morning no less than one hundred and eight new applications and two renewals so far received. If this result can be equalled in other parts of the State, I shall be glad to record it in glowing terms. I have written a personal letter of thanks both for myself and on behalf of the division to Mr. Orwig for his efforts in this direction.

Who will emulate this great work?

SAMUEL A. BOYLE.

PENNSYLVANIA DIVISION.

TO THE PENNSYLVANIA DIVISION:

The following committees have been appointed:

Executive committee: Samuel A. Boyle, 654 City Hall, Philadelphia; T. J. Keenan, Jr., Press newspaper, Pittsburg; P. S. Collins, P. O. box 1177, Philadelphia.

Improvement of highways: H. B. Worrell, chairman, 555 No. 17th st. Philadelphia; A. B. Dunning, Jr., Scranton; Anson P. Dare, Harrisburg.

Racing committee: C. M. Price chairman, Scranton; R. L. Whitesides, Alleghany; Francis X. Quinn, 914 Walnut st., Philadelphia.

Road book committee: W. W. Randall, chairman, 1705 Chestnut st., Philadelphia; Frank Snyder, Pittston; J. F. Johnston, Pittsburg.

Recruiting committee: Frank C. Roeder, chairman, Allentown; Geo. H. Lakes, 418 Saunders ave., Philadelphia; Geo. T. Rush, Bellefonte; J. A. S. Heath, 42 N. 10th st., Philadelphia.

Press committee: C. A. Dimon, South End Wheelmen, Philadelphia; T. J. Keenan, Jr., Press newspaper, Pittsburg.

PHILADELPHIA, March 27, 1896.

CONNECTICUT DIVISION.

The chief consul is very much gratified at the returns from recent circular describing plans for new road book. The maps of the different sections will soon be ready to send out and in the meantime, don't think your letters have not been received. They are too numerous to answer in any other way than this at this time, but shall be, as soon as we are able to use the information. Our renewals and recruiting is now given our whole attention and although we consider the road book as a very important matter, it cannot be too strongly impressed upon you that we must have more members. It costs a great deal to issue such a work as we have in hand, and although we furnish the necessary data without hope of remuneration, the publisher's end of the matter must also be considered. We shall anxiously look for results for the next few weeks in the BULLETIN.

List of consuls is still incomplete, having had no reports from several towns. If you have no consul or think him sleeping, write me; don't hesitate to apply yourself if you can do any better.

PHILIP W. WESTLAKE, Chief Consul.

BRIDGEPORT, March 23, 1896.

IOWA DIVISION.

MEMBERS OF THE IOWA DIVISION:

Again I call your attention to the fact that you must register your wheels with me if you wish to avail yourselves of the offer of the division to pay twenty-five dollars in cash to members when wheel is stolen, and not recovered within sixty days. Don't wait until your wheel is stolen for it will then be too late.

Give information asked for in BULLETIN of March 13, and enclose two-cent stamp.

No other charge.

A. C. MILLER, Sec.-Treas.

NEBRASKA CLUB REPRESENTATIVE.

Omaha League Wheelmen, J. E. Howe, representative.

W. M. MCCALL, Sec. Treas.

COLORADO DIVISION ROAD BOOK.

The official road book of the Colorado Division is now out and copies will be distributed free to members of the division who call upon Harry M. Booth, Secretary-Treasurer, care Daniell & Fisher, Denver.

Copies will be sold to outside members or wheelmen at fifty cents each by addressing or calling upon J. A. Maguire, chairman Colorado Division road book committee, Barclay Block, Denver.

KANSAS "ROLL OF HONOR."

Chief Consul Webb has arranged to have published each week in the Kansas Cycler a list of the towns in that State having ten or more members and giving number of members in each place. It is expected in this way to keep the members informed of the relative progress of the different places and to stimulate local pride.

NORTH CALIFORNIA.

Local consuls have been appointed by Chief Consul Kerrigan as follows: J. J. Worthington, Tehama; N. Morris, Ukiah; G. L. Roberts, Eureka; J. A. Miller, Vacaville; J. A. Bruce, Vallejo; L. Lawrence, Visalia; H. A. Newmeyer, Wheatland; A. E. Bock, Woodland; I. N. Tuttle, Watsonville.

League hotels appointed as follows: Hotel Artesian, Hanford; Hotel Vendome, Dixon; Magnolia Hotel, Calistoga. Members are earnestly requested to show their membership cards when patronizing any of these hotels, thereby getting the benefit of the reduced price.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

Arrangements have been made with the proprietors of the Hotel Haywards, at Haywards, by which all L. A. W. members will be furnished with Sunday lunches, at fifty cents, upon the showing of their cards. This is the big hotel on the hill and the officers consider that with such encouragement, from a hotel which has always stood aloof from making any reductions whatever, that the members should vent their appreciation by always showing their membership cards.

PENNSYLVANIA DIVISION.

We need local consuls in every city, town, borough and hamlet in the State. I call upon at least one reputable member in every such place to write, either suggesting himself or some one suitable for the office. The season is approaching. Write me at once.

S. A. BOYLE, Chief Consul.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to Monday preceding this date, and published in accordance with Article III of the constitution.

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published and to report errors and omissions to the secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at noon on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

THE LIGHT THAT NEVER FAILS

Comes from the Tally-Ho Bicycle Lamp

The Handsomest Lamp made.

Parts are either riveted or screwed. Made of Best Quality Brass. Burns Kerosene.

Made with locking attachment or regular bracket.

Has individual features not found on other lamps.

Plain Nickel or Black Japan and Nickel Finish.

The Widest Light.

The Brightest Light.

Dealers should send in their orders at once.

Send for descriptive Booklet — "EVERYTHING FOR THE BICYCLE."

The Bridgeport Gun Implement Co., 313-315 Broadway New York.

THE Color of Enamel or Racing Records does not add to the durability of a Bicycle, neither does a New Model Name on a '95 pattern make a '96 Wheel.

'96 Remington Bicycles possess many practical and exclusive improvements; they are modest in appearance, simple in construction, but masterpieces of mechanical ingenuity. Catalogue mailed free. . . . . . .

QUERIES AND ANSWERS

W. E. D., Brookline, Mass.:

Your question was answered under the head of "Numerous Inquiries," on page 447, March 13.

No. 15419:

We cannot spare the space to publish routes that will be of interest to only a few. Consult road books or inquire of local consuls.

H. G. S.:

"Hawkshaw" was the "stage name" adopted and used some years ago by a writer whose legal name was and is Frank A. Egan. He is now one of the editors of the Wheel of New York, and lacks very much of being dead.

A Kansas member writes:

I have read instances of wheelmen with one arm making long rides. That may be something of a feat in the rough and rocky East, but in central and western Kansas where we have such fine roads, the suggestion makes us smile. Mr. C. H. Wooley, formerly of McPherson, now of Wichita, Kansas, has one leg amputated above the knee, yet he rides an ordinary wheel as well apparently as anyone does. He has frequently ridden from Salina to McPherson, a distance of forty miles in three and a half hours.

A PROMPT ANSWER.

A witness was asked how he could tell whether a horse was being driven at a greater speed than that allowed by law.

"Easy enough," said he. "I would look at my watch when the horse passed me and then notice what time it was when he got half a mile down the street."

WILSON R. YARD, High Bridge, New York City, writes that on a recent trip he met several hotel men who have been swindled by a man representing himself to be a member of the G. A. R. and L. A. W., who solicits subscriptions and advertisements for a fictitious wheel paper, collecting what money he can. He is a portly, well-dressed man of perhaps fifty years of age. The public is warned to be on the lookout for him. His little game should be punctured.

There's a time for everything, 'tis true.
Now may be when you should renew.

WHAT is your division doing?

Subscriptions to L. A. W. Bulletin expire when L. A. W. membership expires. Look at your ticket.

Chosen by the Government

The War Department proposes to test the bicycle thoroughly for army use, and recently advertised for proposals for furnishing five bicycles for the purpose. Result: Bids from $50 to $85 each for other machines; our bid of $100 each for Columbias, their invariable price. And the Government selected

Columbia

Bicycles

STANDARD OF THE WORLD

The experts who made the choice decided that Columbias were worth every dollar of the $100 asked for them.

If YOU are willing to pay $100 for a bicycle, why be content with anything but a Columbia?

ONE OF MANY.

The above picture shows one of the principal streets in a city of 18,000 inhabitants. It really doesn't look inviting, does it? To tell the name of the city would be a poor advertisement for the town. Poor streets and bad roads are a poor advertisement for any town or neighborhood. Good roads cost less and are worth much more than poor ones.

E. T., Grandville, Mich., says: "If the member from Paterson, N. J., will boil his chain in tallow about twice during the summer, and after riding in mud or much dust, spend about ten seconds wiping it with a kerosened rag, which he should carry in his tool bag, he will have no trouble with his chain unless they have different kinds of dirt there than what we have in Michigan."

CHARLES R. LAWRENCE, Waterbury, Conn., in writing a word of encouragement to those ladies who wear bloomers, says: "Remember you are doing missionary work the same as your sisters did when they had the moral courage to ride the wheel against all opposition; and lastly the quality or cut of a lady's costume does not make the woman. It is character that tells, a lady is a lady everywhere. My wife is one of those "horrid new women," and I am more thankful every day, for the new is so much better and healthier than the old. I am in favor of skirts, bloomers, or any other ladylike costume that will get our jewels out of doors, where God's sunshine and pure air will bring the blush of health to pale cheeks."

JUDGE J. HERBERT POTTS, of Jersey City, who designed the new emblem of the Business Men's Bicycle Club of that place, is spoken of as follows by a brother League member: "The judge, though small in stature, is a large dispenser of justice, and we pity the transgressors of the law who appear before him, but we have no sympathy for the blackguards that face him in the court of justice. I refer to the tough element that throng our boulevards and cycle paths, using profane and obscene language at our lady riders, and men in years who are using the wheel for physical benefit as well as pleasure. The judge is one of our strongest advocates, and a hard worker for good roads."

A SPRINGFIELD, Mass. member, in writing of "road hogs" asks: "Doesn't the term apply as well to the drivers of two-wheel vehicles, as to those of the four-wheel ones?" Drivers will as a rule consider generously the rights of others, to the same extent their rights are considered, and it is far too often that wheelmen set a very bad example in this respect. My observation leads me to believe that of the two classes, wheelmen are the less considerate, not only of the rights of drivers, but also of the rights of other wheelmen. Wheelmen generally are in such an unnecessary haste to 'get there,' they too often neglect due courtesy and the law of the road."

A NEW YORK member who toured in Europe last summer says, "Three dollars a day should be sufficient to cover all contingencies. At one of the principal hotels in Rouen, I paid only $2.20 a day, viz.: breakfast, 30 cents, lunch or whatever name should apply to their mid-day meal, 50 cents; dinner, 70 cents; room, 60 cents; service, 10 cents. The 80 cents required to reach the $3.00 standard would more than suffice to purchase a better grade of wine than is served gratis at the dinner, and such small fees as are customary. Charges in towns and villages were materially less. A record breaker in point of cheapness was a charge of $2.20 for dinner, lodgings (2 rooms), breakfast and transportation to R. R. station, about 2½ miles in a public buss, our two wheels being conveyed in a baggage wagon. The above charge was for two persons."

JAMES K. MILLS, Carbondale, Penn., writes: "Replying to your correspondent in the L. A. W. EMIL DECLYNE, New Durham, N. J., warns riders to look out for some crushed stone and an officer in front of the home of the chief of police in Creskill, N. J. The crushed stone is to drive wheelmen on to the smooth cinder sidewalk, and the officer is there for the purpose of hurrying the offender before the chief. Or so he had reason to believe last summer when he paid a fine for riding twenty feet at the side of the unridable street center.

W. H. PARSONS, Watertown, N. Y., accompanies his application for membership in the L. A. W., with the following: "I lack but a few months of being 60 years of age. Since the 17th day of March, 1895, I have covered 2086 miles, as measured by a Spaulding cyclometer. I have covered 60 miles in part of one day easily, without any discomfort, and am confident I could easily ride the century."

save much car fare by so doing, besides getting the benefit of much healthful exercise. I deem the bell an annoyance to the pedestrian, an annoyance to the wheelmen and of no earthly benefit. The liability of the wheelman for damages in case of accident and the necessity on his part of using due precaution as a matter of self-protection, I fully believe, afford ample protection to the public. My wheel is supplied with a bell, and I sometimes use it. I generally tap it with much emphasis as I spin along whenever I happen to espy one of our worthy city fathers and for his special benefit I keep on tapping it as long as he remains within hearing distance. My experience with the bell is that it startles the pedestrian, he often stands still, not knowing which way to turn, and a collision is imminent, whereas if no bell had been rung, he would have walked right on without stopping, and you could then very readily have regulated yourself accordingly. Another thing I have noticed quite often as I walk along the streets is this: Wheelmen who don't use the bell carefully watch for a chance to pass the street crossing without running into anybody, while those who ring the bell sail right along with apparent heedlessness, as much as saying: "Get out of my way."

H. T. MEAD, Manchester, N. H., wishes the address of some one who will give him the shortest and best route between Nashua, N. H. and Providence, R. I.

A WISCONSIN member writes: "I intend making a trip in a few days, and the excess baggage rate on my wheel to the point I will visit is $3.10. A cabinet maker here will build me a trunk for my wheel for $3, and it is needless to say that the cabinet maker will get the $3 for the trunk, which the railroad company will carry through (with the wheel inside), for $0. Now the question arises, how much is the railroad company ahead on the excess baggage rate?"

No. 86,369 writes that: A good bicycle stand can be made by tilting a chair forward until the edge of the seat and the front of the back touch the ground. Turn the bicycle upside down, hook the handle bar on to the back legs of the chair, allowing the seat to rest on the chair back.

STATE KICKS.

We dislike very much to publish letters which reflect discredit upon the officers of any division, though we are very frequently asked to do so.

We would suggest that those who have reason to complain should write directly to the officers complained of and give them an opportunity to explain or avail themselves of the criticism.

CONCERNING SPACE.

Space exists more extensively than anything else. In fact, the distance between the planets, great as it is, is filled with nothing else.

Space in the L. A. W. BULLETIN, however, is somewhat more limited. The size of the paper and its regular number of pages are familiar to our readers. Owing to the exigencies of practical journalism the expense of adding more pages to the L. A. W. BULLETIN is, in view of its large circulation, considerable, and is only warranted by a material increase in advertising patronage, so that the number of pages which we can devote to reading matter is necessarily limited and this is what we would like to talk with you about right now.

The official department must necessarily contain a list of the officers and a list of all new names. In addition to this, certain notices, reports, etc., are absolutely necessary. The reports of State divisions should also be noted in the official department, but in reference to the length of these reports the reader may well have something to say.

Take the Massachusetts division, for instance. When the board of officers meet, about the first business in order is the reading of the records of the last meeting. Without exception there has not been a meeting held in the last ten years at which some one did not move that the reading of the records be dispensed with and that motion is invariably seconded and carried unanimously.

Now, the supposition is that if forty or fifty officers who are directly responsible for those records and presumably much interested in them do not care to listen to their reading, that our hundred thousand regular readers certainly cannot be interested in reading them, and yet they are printed regularly in the L. A. W. BULLETIN. We might incidentally remark that there is no particular reason why they should be printed except that they always have been and that it puts them into readable form so that the secretary may clip them from the paper and paste in his record book.

Take the case of some division having but a few hundred members. The L. A. W. BULLETIN prints a report of the doings in that State in, this week, thirty-six thousand copies of the paper, which copies go mostly to persons entirely outside that State.

Now, what we are getting at is this. Kindly understand first, however, that the L. A. W. BULLETIN publisher is perfectly willing to print any amount of this matter so far as his personal financial interest is concerned, as it will be obvious to anyone that the expense of setting such matter is no more than the expense of setting the most readable and generally interesting things which we may ever hope to print. It does, however, make a very material difference to the average reader.

What we would suggest is this, that all reports of meetings should still be published as at present, except that such reports should be "boiled down" to the last possible extreme, always having in mind that all States will do the same and thus give to all the benefit of as much reading matter as possible.

Believing that a movement of this kind, like charity, should begin at home, we publish this week in the official department a report of the Massachusetts division as it was written and sent in by the secretary-treasurer and preceding it we publish the same report abridged. This will enable State officers to see just what we mean by the economizing of L. A. W. BULLETIN space.

As we said before, this is a matter which rests entirely with L. A. W. members. We will print whatever official matter we are requested to, but only ask that this one fact be borne in mind, that for every inch of space saved in the official columns we shall publish one inch of something which is liable to be more interesting to the average reader.

Kindly write your views on this subject to the officers of your state.

THE ARMSTRONG BILL.

Present indications point toward the passage of the Armstrong bill in its original form, in spite of the fact that many influences have been at work in the railroad interests. The latter part of that sentence is given in conventional form, although we do not believe for a moment that it is not for the interest of the railroads to carry bicycles as baggage. It is one of those cases, however, which is very much like the force required to induce an ailing child to swallow a dose of something which may, at the time, seem unpleasant. We do not believe there is a railroad man who does not, in his heart, think that bicycles should be carried in place of trunks. As soon as railroads are directed by law to carry wheels, they will all admit what a great many of them admit now, namely, that it actually brings money into the treasury rather than to cause them any additional outlay.

(Since the above was in type we have received the following telegram from our Albany correspondent and we know that all loyal L. A. W. readers will see the propriety of using the cut of the "gentleman hen.")

GENIUS UP-TO-DATE.

There was a time in the long ago
When the winding path to fame
Led up through the fields of toil, but, oh!
To-day it is not the same.
You can get your name and your picture, too,
In the papers, if you try,
By saying some cure-all pulled you through
When "the doctors said you'd die."

But, oh, it is sad to think that we,
Whose health is good as gold,
Our names in print may never see,
Our pictures ne'er behold.
For health is a sorry thing to claim
Since no one dares dispute
It keeps us from climbing up to fame
By the sarsaparilla route.

BICYCLE TAXATION.

Should a bicycle be taxed? Well, that depends. It is probably a matter of common knowledge that taxation of something is necessary and also that the money raised by taxation is really needed to carry on the public business, and that one of the most important branches of the public business is, or should be, the building of roads.

A system of taxation which would divide the expenses of the government fairly among those best able to pay them would be desirable, but unfortunately we do not at present enjoy such a system.

If all vehicles which use the road were taxed to keep the road in repair, we could not object, especially if they were taxed in proportion to the harm they do to the road, but many of the wagons which deserve to be re-tired are entirely exempt from any taxation along with the other "implements" of the farmer. It is now a proper and legal procedure in all States for the assessors to include the bicycle at its proper valuation among the "personal effects" of the taxpayer. This plan is not open to any serious objection unless the assessor does as they do in New Bedford, Mass., and calls them all the same price, no matter how old, but the levying of a special tax on wheels is an injustice that is akin to barbarism.

SIZE OF CHAIN WHEELS.

We are asked the following conundrum: Given 28-inch wheels and a 6½-inch crank, which gear will require the greater power, a combination of 7 rear and 14 front sprocket, giving 56-inch gear, or 8 rear and 16 front, giving also 56-inch gear?

Answer. Theoretically, the larger the sprocket wheels, the less friction there will be on the bearings and teeth of the chain wheels. In the case cited we think the 8 and 16 tooth wheels decidedly the better combination.

SIDE PATHS.

The question of side paths and how to build them is one that we are very frequently asked. We are able, through the courtesy of the Indiana Bureau of Publications, to furnish this information in printed form, and will gladly do so to any L. A. W. members who ask for it. This might be a good place to remark incidentally, that Wallace Sherwood, who has charge of this bureau, is a very enthusiastic and effective worker in the direction of highway improvement, and also to remark that the President had sufficient presence of mind to appoint Mr. Sherwood on the national highway improvement committee.

BE PATIENT.

L. A. W. CANADIAN TOURISTS.

A compact is to be made by which League Members may enter Canada without paying duty on their wheels, providing they return by the same port. Other wheelmen will hereafter be charged duty on the retail price of the wheel which they ride.

AN EXPLANATION.

We have received a number of letters inquiring how it happens that, on our front cover of March 27th, the carriage wheels are so deep in the mud, while the horses seem to be standing on hard ground. We are pleased to receive these inquiries, because it shows that there still are people who know very little about mud.

Assuming that some explanation is really necessary, we beg to state that the reason is that the mud was deeper where the carriage stood than under the horses' feet. We trust our readers will appreciate the great amount of grey matter involved in making this explanatlon.

A LAZY MAN'S DEFINITION.

An Illinois wheelman says, "On a smooth road, a little down hill, and with the wind to my back, I am a wheelman. Under circumstances the reverse of the above I am a laboring man." We would suggest a lower gear.

FREE LUNCH

is a name given to certain bits of food which are used as a bait to catch purchasers for beer and other "liquid damnation," and this "free" lunch so called is only free in the sense that no separate and specific charge is made for it, but its price is included in the charge made for the beer. Now when a wheelman, say, in Massachusetts goes out to ride he may go all over the State without finding special town laws which conflict with each other, but a single uniform State law governs. This uniform State law was obtained by the direct efforts of the L. A. W. Any wheelman in the State may and does benefit by the law without in any way contributing to the support of the organization which brought it about. This is free lunch without any beer. About six thousand wheelmen are glad to pay

Two Cents Per Week

to keep up the work.

This year an amendment was offered which would enable towns of over thirty thousand to make their own rules; it was defeated by the L. A. W. Thousands of riders are getting the benefit of this work who do not pay the

Two Cents Per Week

which it costs to be a League member.

Another bill was submitted to the legislature, which would have placed a special tax of two dollars on all bicycles.

It was defeated by the L. A. W. The wheelman who is paying the necessary to help do these things feels a lot more manly and independent than does the one who is living on free lunch.

Two Cents Per Week

A bill was also offered and vigorously pushed, which would have compelled every wheelman in the State to carry a lighted lamp after sundown. This also was defeated by the League of American Wheelmen.

Six thousand organized riders can exert much influence in any State, but twelve thousand could do three times as much.

Every wheelman in Massachusetts who is just now saved the trouble and expense of a lamp and all the annoyance incident to such a law, might properly ask himself whether he is satisfied to live on free lunch, or whether he would prefer to pay

Two Cents Per Week,

and board with the L. A. W.

Some of the other States are doing much, and the L. A. W. BULLETIN will be glad to tell the story. Some States are doing nothing. All could do something.

Wheelmen will join the League in proportion to the amount it seems able to do for them except those who prefer to live on free lunch.

ADVERSE legislation must be met by organized opposition.

THAT PUP.

BY EARL B. BICBIE.

A "spin in the country," I now plainly see,
Is not, my dear sir, what "it's cracked up to be;"
There's the man with the team and the big load of hay,
There's the woman who tries to get out of the way,
But never succeeds, and so you have found
You must either dismount or be thrown to the ground;
There's the sprig with the gig, who plainly delights
In showing the wheelman that he has no rights;
There's the hill and the rut, the stone in the path,
The "kid" and the "guy" to provoke your wrath,
But of all, and all else, the bitterest cup
Is the shrill-barking, low-squatting, pugnacious pup.

IS IT WORTH TWO CENTS

a week to be a member of an organization which has its official eye open for the well-being of wheelmen? Many think it a good thing to do with two cents.

TWO LITTLE GIRLS IN —— BROOKLYN,

write to inquire why an American institution like the L. A. W. should have adopted royal purple for its official color. This is a very important question, and we are glad that it has been asked. On referring the matter to our venerable secretary we received the following answer: At the organization meeting some one moved "that the official color be royal purple." The motion was seconded, put and carried, and we know of no better reason than this, that no particular thought was given to the matter. A motion would be in order, however, to strike out royal purple and insert red, white and blue, which are the colors suggested by the two little girls in —— Brooklyn.

A CALIFORNIA IDEA.

The North California division has issued a very attractive little folder which is sent out to wheelmen of that State. It contains a small amount of advertising, which probably was made to pay the cost of printing. It contains also some excellent arguments to show wheelmen why they should join the League. The following paragraph is a sample:

"It is a fact that every citizen should take an active part in politics, to the end that good government be established and maintained. No man has a right to abstain from participating in politics. If the doctrine that one man may do so is right, then every other person has a right to do so; and if every one so acted, society would perish. Government is the result of politics. It is selfish that one should reap the benefits of political creation and not saddle himself with any of its duties."

If the L. A. W. BULLETIN doesn't print your communication please don't think we wouldn't like to do so. Also if your article which wasn't used seems to have been much better than others which were used, don't blame the editor for not thinking as you do. He is doing the best he can.

Room 56, Equitable Building,
BOSTON, February 25, 1896.

I desire to notify the trade that I am the owner of Letters Patent of the United States, granted to Pardon W. Tillinghast, of Providence, R. I., No. 486,915 of Nov. 29, 1892, and No. 497,971 of May 23, 1893, for improvements in pneumatic tires, which said Letters Patent cover the manufacture, sale and use of all single-tube or hose-pipe tires in the market.

The following firms and companies have been licensed to make and sell such tires, to wit:

The Pope Manufacturing Co.
The B. F. Goodrich Co.
The Hartford Rubber Works Co.
The Hartford Cycle Co.
The Boston Woven Hose and Rubber Co.
The New York Tire Co.
The Hodgman Rubber Co.
The Newton Rubber Works.

No other manufacturers are authorized to make or sell single-tube or hose-pipe tires, and dealers are warned not to purchase such tires of any other manufacture. Any person selling or using any such tires manufactured by any one not licensed by me will be liable to prosecution for infringement.

THEODORE A. DODGE.

The Bicycle Manufacturer,
The Tire Manufacturer,
The Rider

are all equally interested in having well-made tires. The first to conserve the reputation of his wheel; the second to keep his guaranty intact; the third so that he may ride home, and not walk. Ill-made tires will harm each one of the three.

Every manufacturer of single-tube tires, or of bicycles shod with them, by communicating with the owner of the Tillinghast patents, will learn facts which directly affect his business. By working under the Tillinghast patents there will be permanent profit for all.

There is no disposition to exclude any manufacturer from the same license now enjoyed by the other licensees.

Oh men, men!
Don't you ever again
Like little tin demigods prance:
For we've just now found out
You've been strutting about
In somebody else's pants.

Unless this disposition on the part of women, to find out the truth of things is discouraged and suppressed, it won't be long till man will not have a leg left to stand on.

The wife of a college president in Illinois, who for twenty years has made a careful study of the subject of dress, has determined beyond the peradventure of a doubt that women first invented trousers, and later on men stole their idea.

She sort of clinches her argument by the fact that among the Chinese and other nations of antiquity, the women still wear trousers and the men skirts.

Hence, in her desire to wear the trousers, woman is not seeking to imitate the dress of men, but to recover her natural, original rights which the usurper man has endeavored to deprive her of.

All this is humiliating enough to what has unjustly become known as the trousers-wearing sex, but in the interest of truth-triumphant, bound-to-leak-out truth, it ought to be made known.

But even the meanest of us men won't be bold enough to ever again look a bloomer or knicker-bocker woman in the face and say our soul or our trousers are our own.

LIST PRICE vs. SELLING PRICE

A great many bicycle dealers, especially new ones, seem to think that the bicycle on which they get the greatest discounts are the ones on which they can make the most money. Never was a greater mistake made. Many wheels now are listed far above what their actual worth warrants or what they are expected to sell for, simply for the purpose of quoting a discount that looks enticing. Many bicycles listed at $100 are openly retailed as low as $60, but for more if the buyer is an inexperienced one. In fact, such machines are never capable of commanding list price, and if the dealer can realize sufficient on a sale to come out whole, he may consider himself fortunate.

On the other hand, Waverley Bicycles are listed at $85, which is the very lowest figure at which a strictly high-grade wheel can be placed upon the market. Their quality is such that they readily command list price, regardless of what any other machine is offered for; consequently the agent is never disappointed in the realization of his anticipated profit. What is more, the Waverley Bicycles have the reputation of causing less trouble on account of defects and breakage than any other machines made, and after they are sold to the riders do not have occasion to bother the agent almost to death throughout the season. The multitude of Waverley agents consists principally of dealers who have been in the cycle business for years, and realize the advisability of holding on to a good thing when they get it. The riding season is about here, and it will be to your advantage to get in line at once.

Captains of Cycling Clubs. Attention!!! We will express you one of the Baldwin Chains free on receipt of a list of the addresses of your club members, also state size wanted.

The Baldwin Adjustable Cycle Chain has Three Points of Superiority.

Strength and Durability. The pin is not headed as in other chains, but is a stud which is hardened equally with the block. This reduces the wear to a minimum, and adds to the strength of the chain. A season's hard use will lengthen it scarcely ¼ of an inch.

Ease of Repair. If the Baldwin breaks on the road, any rider can repair it immediately with the tools ordinarily carried in the saddle-bag.

Adjustableness to Wear. Anyone can adjust this chain to perfect pitch by a simple but effective method after it has been lengthened by wear. This can be done with no other chain. By this process both chain and sprocket-wheels are preserved, friction is reduced, the chain will not run off the sprocket, and it will last as long as the wheel.

The studs cannot turn round nor work loose, and the chain does not weigh more than others. It fits any sprocket with the standard one inch pitch.

We have ½ inch and ⅜ inch in stock.

FROM A FRESH FOUNT.

It is well known to all of us who are up in such things that some of the most beautiful passages in the Latin, Greek and French classics lose much of their beauty when translated into English. No flower blooms so sweetly as on its native heath.

The same thing may be said to hold true, in a lesser sense, regarding the joy to be found in reading the original manuscript copy of a poem rather than one printed from expressionless type. In the manuscript one is permitted to read between the lines so much that has a sweet, haunting interest. He sees so much of the picture not found within the frame of a cold, mechanically-made page.

The translation from the manuscript to type is fatal to much of the subtle beauty. This is true in a general way of all manuscripts but it is particularly true of the following lines forwarded to us by a promising young versifier. We have followed the original as closely as is possible in putting it into type.

The Bicycle Rider.

He sits so erect
And he looks so genteel
As he rides down the Road on his Bicycle wheel
No distance disters him
Good roads is the Stuff
He laughes at all horses
Their not fast enough
He Flies like the wind
Or as fresh kindled fire
As he roles ore the road
On his New matick tire
Good Roads we nead
And success to the Cycic
lears Incressed be their

THE SWEET NEW ENGLAND GIRL.

NIXON WATERMAN.

Let poets sing the praises of the lovely ones of France,
Or pretty Spanish maidens in the mazes of the dance;
Or tell of Turkish harems where on silken couches lie
The comeliest Circassians that the sultan's gold can buy.
All these you'll find are lacking in the charms of form or face;
The women of the Occident alone have perfect grace;
His judgment is distorted and at heart he is a churl
Who would not choose of all her kind, the sweet New England girl.

Her voice! If you have listened to the soothing hum of bees,
Or softly rhythmic whisper of the zephyrs through the trees;
If you have heard the music of the chiming vesper bells
Whose faint and fading echoes strangely linger through the dells,
Then perchance you dimly realize the bliss it is to hear
The ripple of her laughter as it falls upon the ear;
Sweet as turtle doves a-cooing or the brooklet's gentle purl,
Is the soft articulation of the sweet New England girl.

O, isn't she entrancing, with her face so fresh and fair;
What worlds of beauty nestle in her dark or sunny hair!
The smile that twinkles in her eye of black or brown or blue
Is quite enough to thrill the heart and pierce it through and through.
Each little hand a subtle wand to wave you weal or woe,
As gaily trip her pretty feet in paths you long to go.
A charm in every feature, rosy cheeks and teeth of pearl;
The artist's and the poet's dream — the sweet New England girl.

A driver swung his team sharply across a street intending to turn into another street when a horse's foot struck the wheel and wrecked it and threw the rider violently. Judge Hurd in charging the jury said: "The right of these parties to the street were equal; one had as good a right to the street as the other, and each was bound to exercise that degree of care and caution that the circumstances invited. A "PNEUMATIC" ORDINANCE.

We are often asked for a form of ordinance which would prevent the throwing upon the highways of articles liable to injure a pneumatic tire. The following has been adopted by a considerable number of towns.

SECTION 1. Any person who shall put or place, or cause to be put or placed, in or upon any street, lane, alley or other public place in a city, any ashes, glass, crockery, scrap iron, nails, tacks or any other articles which would be liable to injure or damage the wheels or tires of bicycles or of any other vehicles which have wheels with rubber or pneumatic tires.

SECT. 2. Any person violating the provisions of the preceding section shall be liable to a fine of not less than two dollars, or more than twenty dollars for each offense.

We would suggest that such an ordinance can be made still more effective and in many cases much easier to pass by making the last of it read as follows:

"Which would be liable to injure the feet of children or animals, or the tires of bicycles or other vehicles.

It is true that the "articles" referred to are just as liable to injure the feet of horses and they are much more liable to injure bare-footed children, than they are to injure the tires of bicycles, consequently it is entirely proper that these reasons should be included.

THERE can be no real harm in asking your friends to join the League.

FINDING THE LEAK.

TIME spent in marketing farm produce is a dead loss.

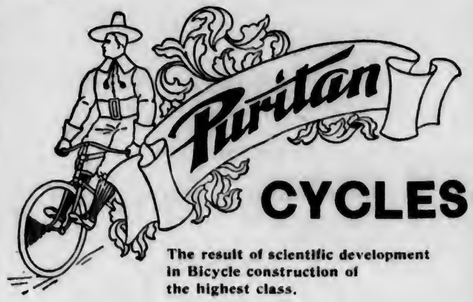
This loss falls on the crop produced by the farmer. The dappled fields of green and golden wheat know it and the corn leaves whisper it to the lazy pumpkins yellowing in autumn sun.

They know that against them will be charged all the time of horses and men and all the wear and tear of vehicles employed in transporting them to market.

They know that if the road to town is very bad and but half a load can be marketed in twice the time required for marketing a full load with a good road, it will all count against them when the year's business is finished and the books are balanced.

They know that production and consumption are the great contending factors of the farm. Horses and men are consuming the crop while they are producing it. The consumption of it does not end until it is exchanged for its cash equivalent. The fewer the number of horses and men, and the less the amount of time employed in producing and marketing it, the more there will be to credit to the worth of the crop.

The mud tax, or stony-road tax, or the steep grade tax is assessed against the product of the fields.



If the farm isn't a paying investment, the "why?" should be looked into.

The farm, itself, may show a profit. The miserable road to market may be the unprofitable part of the business. Roads should be so made that loads can be hauled to market when fields are too wet to work.

Quit charging the fields with the great loss of time, the broken vehicles, the worn-out horses and the many other ills occasioned by poor roads.

NEW HAMPSHIRE will hold a State convention at Concord to consider good roads, on May 13 and 14.

DON'T forget to plant trees along the highways.

WHEELS STOLEN. $25.00 REWARD.

The above reward will be paid by the New York State division of the L. A. W. for information leading to the detection and conviction of the thief who stole from John R. Miller, 311 West 178th street, New York, N. Y., on March 30, the following bicycles: One 1895 ladies' Crescent, No. 107,773; one 1895 ladies' Hartford, No. 4,324; one 1895 ladies' Columbia, No. 666T. This last machine was without a saddle. These wheels were stolen at the same time from the apartment house, 311 West 178th street. A reward of twenty-five ($25.00) will be given by his division for the arrest and conviction of the thief.

Road Book.

I have been informed that some one is working on an unofficial road book and soliciting information from consuls and members of this division. Any one is at liberty to publish a work of this kind; but members furnishing information gratis to them are doing an injury to our own publication.

I hope to have the maps for the official book in the hands of the various ones selected for the undertaking within ten days, with question blanks, and shall hope to see in BULLETIN a large increase in renewals, that we may know "where we are at" financially.

Fraternally,

PHILIP W. WESTLAKE, Chief Consul.

"REGARDING SPACE."

Read the article under this heading in the editorial department of this number and then read the following two reports of the same meeting—if you can spare the time.

MASSACHUSETTS BOARD OF OFFICERS.

Regular quarterly meeting, Young's Hotel, March 11. Chief consul presided. Secretary-treasurer and forty-one other members present. Also ten proxies.

Chief consul's report showed a very satisfactory condition of things. Report accepted.

Committees for 1896 were announced and printed in nearly all the prominent Massachusetts papers next day.

Chief consul tendered his resignation. Resignation not accepted.

Report of secretary-treasurer showed balance on hand Dec. 10, $450.17; receipts, $228.26; total, $1,679.03; total expenses, $1,102.62; balance on hand to-night, $487.41; due from Secretary Bassett to date, $375.42; added to balance on hand shows $832.83. Total membership of the division Dec. 6, '95, 5,927; total membership to last Saturday, 6,168. Division has adopted the card-index system of keeping list of names. Report accepted.

Chairmen of standing committees made reports which were satisfactory and accepted.

Appropriate resolutions were adopted on the recent death of Mr. Fred McDonough, a member of the board.

A vote was taken on a motion to do away with proxies. Proxies are retained by vote of thirty-five to nineteen.

It was voted to extend the hospitality of the Massachusetts Division to all members of the other New England States on May 30. One thousand dollars was appropriated for entertainment on that occasion.

Two hundred dollars was appropriated for prizes to be given for new members.

An amendment to accept League clubs with only seventy-five per cent. League membership was lost.

An amendment to provide for a regular mid-winter meet was carried

A. D. PECK, Sec.-Treas.

MASSACHUSETTS DIVISION.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Massachusetts division L. A. W. was held at Young's Hotel, Boston, Wednesday evening, March 11, 1896.

Chief Consul Sterling Elliott presided, and the following officers were present: A. D. Peck, Chas. L. Barker, W. B. Chipman, Josiah S. Dean, W. S. Dillingham, Warner S. Doane, W. W. Eddy, J. J. Fecitt, A. G. Frothingham, Fred L. Gorton, W. G. Kendall, J. C. Kerrison, Arthr O. Knight, Fred S. McCausland, H. E. Morine, Geo. A. Perkins, Arthur K. Peck, A. W. Swan, J. E. Tippett, Spencer T. Williams, Elmer Renches, A. W. Cutler, G. W. Dorntee, Bertram Harriott, A. M. Lloyd, R. A. Moses, A. W. Norcross, F. M. Miller, C. G. Percival, H. W. Robinson, Ruben S. Swan, N. W. Starbird, J. E. Towne, A. W. Pease, W. C. Toppan, C. P. Jackson, F. H. McKee, J. S. Gray, Geo. E Curtis, A. R. Duryea, W. H. Senter, W. S. McRobert, Geo. A Wilber. Ten other members of the board were represented by proxies.

President Elliott made his report, which was accepted. He told of the bill introduced in the State senate, calling for a tax of $2 on bicycles, also the lantern bill, and stated the efforts which have been and are yet being made to keep the measures from becoming laws. He added that it was his belief that the League of American Wheelmen, as a body of forty thousand persons, should go into politics "with both feet," not "dabble." He believed that its power would be felt, and that great good would result not only to the wheelmen, but to the entire people.

Continuing, he said "Massachusetts had at the close of last year 127 local consuls. So far this month I have appointed 25 new men, and have re-appointed 75. Of those who served last year the number of new names received in Massachusetts for the last two weeks is 125. The total number received last year from January 31 to April 1, was only 62. From January 1 to March 11 the largest number ever received previous to this year was 60, in '94, while the total number received from January 1 to March 11 of last year was 14. During the same length of time this year we have received 275 new members."

He announced the appointments of the different committees for 1896, viz.:

OFFICERS OF THE MASSACHUSETTS DIVISION, L. A. W., FOR THE YEAR 1896.

Chief Consul, Sterling Elliott, Boston; Vice Consul, D. E. Miller, Springfield; Secretary-Treasurer, A. D. Peck, Boston.

Concluding, Chief Consul Elliott tendered his resignation as follows:

MASSACHUSETTS DIVISION BOARD OF OFFICERS OF THE LEAGUE OF AMERICAN WHEELMEN:

"Owing to my election to the presidency of the League, an achievement, by the way, which was largely due to your efforts, I find myself placed in the peculiar position of occupying two offices. It would seem that in justice to the other States, and in order that I may not seem to desire more preferment than should properly belong to one man, I hereby tender my resignation, as chief consul of this division.

"It may be proper for me at this time to express my appreciation of the fact that you have twice unanimously elected me to the office, which I now resign, and I thank you for the kindly assistance and encouragement which you have always given me and which has been extremely helpful in the discharge of my duties.

"STERLING ELLIOTT."

Spencer T. Williams made a motion that Mr. Elliott's resignation be positively declined, which was unanimously carried.

The report of the secretary treasurer was read and accepted as follows:

The following is the secretary treasurer's report:

TO THE CHIEF CONSUL AND BOARD OF OFFICERS MASS. DIVISION L. A. W.

The following is a statement of the financial condition of this division.

Balance on hand, Dec. 10, 1895,	$1,450.17
Receipts,	228.86
Total,	$1,679.03
Total expenses,	$1,102.62
Balance on hand to-night,	487.41
Due from Secretary Bassett to date,	375.42
Which with balance on hand, amounts to	832.83

The accounts have been audited to date by the chairman of the finance committee.

The total membership of this division Dec. 6, 1895, was 5,927 members. The total membership up to last Saturday was 6,168, a gain of 241 members, which, taking into consideration the time of the year, when there is no riding, seems to me to be doing remarkably well. Out of the 241 new members only 3 have failed to subscribe to the "BULLETIN." Since the last meeting two new League clubs have been admitted; viz., Berkshire County Wheelmen of Putsfield, and the Blue Hill Wheelmen of Dorchester, both of whom have elected representatives to this board of officers.

The membership having increased sufficiently to allow another representative at large, Chief Consul Elliott has appointed Mr. Elmer Renches of Fall River to the position. The total number of local consuls Dec. 1 amounted to 127. The chief consul and secretary have already appointed and reappointed 153, and there are about 80 more towns to appoint in. Early in January the secretary sent out letters to all the towns that were not represented, asking the postmaster to suggest the name of some wheelman in their town who is actively engaged in cycling, with whom we might correspond with reference to his appointment as an L. A. W. local consul. In this way we secured a great many names to work upon, and in many instances have induced members to join us where there has not been a single L. A. W. member in the town, and these new members have offered to help the good cause along. During the next month we have over 3,000 members whose membership expires, as all members of this division previous to Mar. 31, 1895, time expires Apr. 1. I earnestly request the delegates present to notify their club secretaries and their club members to renew at once.

This division has adopted the card index system, which enables us to keep a complete list of members for references. The national body have also seen fit to adopt the same.

A meeting of the executive committee was held on Dec. 26 at Young's Hotel to consider matters pertaining to the national assembly and League entertainment, and it was also the sense of the meeting to give $200 in prizes for the ensuing year to members putting in the most new members and renewals, the prizes to be divided as follows: $30, $25, $20, $15, $10; ten at $5 and twenty at $2.50. Two renewals to count as one member. Competition to close Dec. 1, and is open to all members of this division.

As you are all aware the division gave an entertainment on Feb. 29, at the Bijou Opera House, which was free to L. A. W. members. Talent being furnished by the different clubs. The house was crowded and the show far above the expectation of the committee, and was a pronounced success.

A. D. PECK, Sec'y Treas.

Mr. Ruben S. Swan as chairman of the finance committee made a short verbal report that he had examined the books of the secretary-treasurer up to date, and had found them correct.

J. S. Dean as chairman of the rights and privileges committee said he had no report to make.

Perhaps the most interesting report was that of Chairman George A. Perkins of the highway improvement committee, who is also chairman of the State highway commission. Mr. Perkins compared the hearing given on the highway improvement appropriation at the State House yesterday to that given him when, nine years ago, as a State representative, he made the first motion affecting the road improvements in the State legislature. Yesterday, he said, there were between 300 and 400 regularly accredited representatives of towns and cities, all of whom were decidedly in favor of the appropriation of $1,000,000 asked for by the commission. Mr. Perkins said that, if the appropriation were granted, one would be able to ride or drive from Boston to Providence; that the bad portions of the existing roads would be placed in excellent condition, and that there would be 200 miles of State roads at the close of the season. This vote was accepted, and a rising vote of thanks tendered Mr. Perkins.

Spencer T. Williams as chairman of the rules and regulations committee reported progress and stated the division constitution and by-laws would be made to conform with the amendments passed at the national assembly.

Report accepted.

Henry W. Robinson as chairman of the racing committee made a short verbal report calling attention to the delegates to the rules made by the national assembly in doing away with class B and adopting two classes, amateur and professional. Amateurs not to race for any prize over the value of $35. All class B men are now considered as amateurs.

Report accepted.

Arthur K. Peck as chairman of the road book committee reports that it is the intention of that committee to solicit aid and co-operation of L. A. W. members throughout the State, and if any errors in road books to notify him of same, and if any suggestions to make, should be pleased to receive them.

Report accepted.

Owing to the death of Mr. Fred McDonough of the Tiger Roadsters it was voted that the credentials of Mr. Geo. Wilber be accepted as a member of the board.

Carried.

To properly present the matter before the meeting for its decision Mr. Elliott moved that the present system providing for the use of proxies be dispensed with and the use of proxies be discontinued. A proxy vote was taken and the motion was lost by a vote of 35 nays and 19 yeas.

Arthur K. Peck made a motion as follows:

Resolved, That the Massachusetts division L. A. W. extend a cordial invitation to the L. A. W. members of the New England States to accept of their hospitality and join with them in their annual spring meet, May 30, 1896.

After some discussion pro. and con. by Williams, Dorntee, Jackson, Swan, Dean and Knight it was carried unanimously.

Spencer T. Williams moved that a sum not exceeding $1,000 be appropriated for the spring meet on Decoration day.

Carried.

Mr. Ruben S. Swan moved an appropriation of $200 to ratify the sense of the meeting of the ex-committee in offering that amount for prizes for getting new members this year.

Carried.

Fred S. McCausland offered a resolution on the death of Mr. Fred McDonough, a member of the division board of officers, to be spread upon the records, and for the secretary to write the members of his family and send a copy of resolution to them. Resolution as follows:

Whereas, Almighty God has seen fit to remove from our midst Fred McDonough,

Resolved, That this board express its appreciation of Mr. McDonough's worth and faithfulness as a member of this division and of the board of officers, and its sympathy with his bereaved family, and that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the records and sent to the family of the deceased.

Henry W. Robinson brought his amendment before the meeting and moved its adoption, which was to amend Article III, Section 1, and to allow League clubs to qualify with seventy-five per cent. of League members.

After a lengthy discussion by Messrs. Williams, Robinson, Dorntee, Towne, Kerrison, Miller, Frothingham, Jackson and others, the question was put.

Mr. S. T. Williams called for a proxy vote, and amendment was defeated by a vote of 48 no, 5 yes.

Motion was made that the amendment to the by-laws, offered by Albert G. Frothingham. That Article XIII., Section 1, be amended by adding after the word October, "and a midwinter meet in January or February."

Was put and carried.

Mr. Fecitt moved that the meeting adjourn.

Meeting adjourned at 10 P. M.

Immediately after the adjournment Chief Consul Elliott stated that he had received word from Chairman Gideon of the national racing board that J. C. Kerrison and C. G. Percival had been appointed as handicappers for this district.

A. D. PECK, Sec.-Treas.

APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP.

The following is a list of applications for membership received up to Monday preceding this date, and published in accordance with Article III of the constitution.

Tickets will be issued fourteen days after the publication of names.

Members are requested to examine carefully these lists as they are published and to report errors and omissions to the secretary. In order that no objectionable person may unite with the League, members are given the right to protest, but such protest must be received by the secretary within two weeks from the date of publication, and contain specific charges, so far as it is possible to make them. All such communications will be considered confidential.

The application list is closed at noon on the Monday preceding day of publication. All applications received after that hour must go over to the list of the following week.

QUERIES AND ANSWERS

Frank Lane, Detroit:

Don't scorch. Just amble along at an easy pace and look comfortable.

"Century," Buda, Ill.:

A. A. Hanson of Minneapolis, Minn., is credited with having ridden 21,653 miles during 1884, a record that remained unbroken during 1893.

Marvin Graves, Omaha:

W. A. Raby, Louisville, rode 40,000 miles last year, the largest number on record.

No. 72,673:

See L. A. W. BULLETIN of March 27, for directions for shrinking sweater.

James Nesbitt, Chicago:

Most of the long distance track records are held in France, the middle distance ones in England, and the short ones in America.

Cameron Mclean, Chicago:

It is claimed that the first road century ever ridden in the United States in one day was made by two Louisville wheelmen, Henry Schimpeler and Orville Anderson, the course being from Louisville to Frankfort and return.

J. M. P., Rankin, Pa., writes:

I would like to have the advice of some of your experienced wheelmen on the most suitable clothes to be worn for ordinary road runs. I find when taking a run of twenty miles with cotton underwear under ordinary bicycle suit, that one soon gets chilly when resting. What I wish to know is what is best to wear next the skin?

Elmo B. Fox, St. Louis, writes:

As many readers of the L. A. W. BULLETIN have expressed themselves on the "only way" to wash a sweater without shrinking it, can not some of the well informed explain how to stretch a sweater that did shrink. I have a sweater that came back from the "wash" in an envelope, and if some of your readers will state how it may be made serviceable again, they will confer a favor which will be greatly appreciated.

Some people wait for fine weather years,
I pass over to the lee shore and live.
